ARCTIC CONQUEST

"Alaska is a land of tragedy; it is a land of hardship; a land of white silences and long shadows; where the siren sings and her lap is of gold. But the lure of the land gets into the blood. It is a land of courage and a land of titantic forces. A land which calls and beckons and to which we return again and again. There manhood is developed and the character becomes great and strong and sturdy."

Thus Dr. Lincoln Wirt in his most vivid and excellent lecture Monday evening described Alaska. The pictures of the Land of the Midnight Sun were exceedingly well portraited. It was a story of adventures most thrilling, which those who heard will always remember.

During the Christmas recess, Professor Pomeroy and Professor Whitehorne enjoyed the privilege of attending the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the other numerous National Associations for the promotion of Science. This convention was held at Philadelphia during the week beginning Dec. 28, and ending Jan. 2, and was attended by thousands of scientists of the country. The chief business of the meeting consisted in the resignation of the president of the Association, Ex-President Eliot of Harvard, and the election of E. B. Wilson, the retiring president of Columbia University, to that office. Among the prominent speakers were Ex-President Eliot of Harvard, Professor Conklin, head of the department of science at Princeton; Professor G. H. Parker of Harvard, and Professor H. F. Osborne of Columbia University and head of the Museum of Natural History of New York. Of particular interest to many was the lecture delivered by Dr. Alfred Mayer, who was formerly the assistant of Louis Agassiz, now the director of the Fortugas Research Laboratory in Florida.

Among the Bates graduates there noted were Dr. Neil Stevens, '08, now located with the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture; also, Dr. F. A. Smith, '10, and Dr. Geo. H. Robinson, '11, both of whom have obtained degrees at Brown Uuniversity, and are now located at the Milford Co. at Glenolden, Penn.

Dr. Herbert Neal, Bates '90, now professor of Zoology at Tufts College, also took active part in the meeting, and has been acting as Secretary of the Zoology section during the past year.

DAY OF PRAYER FOR COLLEGES— JANUARY 28

January 28 should prove a most helpful day to all Bates Students, for here as in all the Colleges of North America, the last Thursday of the first month of the New Year will be set apart as a Day of Prayer. All class work will be suspended, and the day devoted to attendance upon services appropriate to the occasion.

At 9.40 A.M., Faculty, students, and friends will assemble in the New Chapel to listen to the Rev. Dr. Jesse Hill of the Williston Congregational Church, Portland. Dr. Hill is an attractive speaker, and an inspiring address may be expected. In the evening another service will be held in the Chapel, when the speaker of the morning will again be heard. The services of Rev. F. M. Lamb have been secured as soloist for both these occasions. Mr. Lamb has been for many years a singer of marked sweetness and power. No student should miss the opportunity thus afforded.

Bates is proud to be known as a College that cherishes high ideals. Let us rally our forces, and make the Day of Prayer for Colleges a memorable one.

DR. TUBB'S LECTURE

Friday evening, January 8, the members of the Congress Square Men's Club of Portland had the privilege of hearing one of Bates' ablest representatives, Dr. Tubbs. He lectured before them upon "The European War," a topic which he discussed fully in its general lines.

THE ROUND TABLE

Last Friday evening, the members of the Round Tabe were entertained at the beautiful new home of Dr. and Mrs. Britan on Mountain Avenue. The chief speaker of the evening was Dean Clara L. Buswell, who spoke upon the subject, "Some Steps in Educational Progress." At the conclusion of her talk, Professor Ramsdell, Dr. Britan, and Professor Carroll added brief discussions of the topic. Following this, refreshments were served, and a social time enjoyed.

MISS WALSH ENTERTAINS

The resident girls of the class of 1915 were delightfully entertained by Miss Cecilia Walsh, Thursday evening, at her home on Wood St. The time was spent in a social manner, with games and music. Dainty refreshments consisting of candy, marshmallow frizzle, cocoa, fancy cookies and stuffed dates were served by the hostess. Those present were Miss Adrienne Belleau, Miss Veva Chapman, Miss Ida Currie, Miss Gladys Merrill, Miss Annie Stuart and Miss Sarah Rosenbloom.

Y. W. C. A.

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. after the Christmas recess was held in Fiske Room last Wednesday night with Miss Florence Hooper, '15, as leader. Two musical selections, one a piano solo by Miss Doris Haskell, '18, and the other a vocal solo by Miss Madge Leslie, '17, were greatly enjoyed. The chief speaker of the meeting was Professor Ramsdell, who took as his subjet "Prayer." He divided prayer into three kinds: prayer for preparation, for power, and for performance.

He who would get ahead must use the head he already has.

Y. M. C. A.

The first meeting of the Y. M. C. A. following the Christmas vacation was held Wednesday evening, January 6. The meeting was in charge of Mr. Harding, '15, who spoke on "New Year's Resolutions."

EUKUKLIOS

Eukuklois, the Social Club of the College, was literally on the war path, when its members held a genuine Camp Fire meeting in Rand Hall, Saturday evening, January 9. All the essentials were there: the camp fire, the Indians and their songs and dances. First, Miss Mabel Durgin spoke of the work of the Camp Fire organization: what it stood for, the methods employed, the work accomplished. Next, acting as guardian, she led the girls in a regular ceremonial, thus completing the Indian part of the program. Real civilized games played by civilized people completed the interesting and somewhat unique program.

SPOFFORD CLUB

Thursday evening, January 7, the Spofford Club met at Libbey Forum. After the business session, the members of the club were entertained with a very interesting essay "Red Ink" by Miss H. M. Johnson.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

For the benefit of the young men who are especially interested in German life and German conversation, a Deutscher Verein has been recently organized. The present Verein is in a sense a revival of a former flourishing Verein, organized by Dr. Leonard in 1905. The Verein was discontinued during his recent leave of absence, and had not been revived till the present time. The meetings of this society afford an opportunity for a closer study of certain phases of German than would be practicable in the classroom.

The membership is at present limited to fifteen, ten Seniors and five Juniors. At the end of each Spring semester five Sophomores and five Juniors are elected, to become members the following Fall. The officers elected for the current year are:

President,	Thomas, '15
Vice-President,	Doloff, '15
Secretary,	Richardson, '15
Executive Committee,	Higgins, '15
	Nichols, '16
	Lawrence, '16

At the first regular meeting of the Verein, on December 1, 1914, a paper was read by Nichols, '16, on "German Dining Customs." At the next meeting, on December 15, the members of Verein, lead by Dr. Leonard, discussed and practiced the ordinary greetings of the street, and the small-talk of society. At the last meeting, January 12, 1915, a paper by Keneston, '16, was read, on "The Rise of the Common School in Germany." Then followed a discussion of the same and kindred subjects. It is expected that Mr. Ross, of the German department, will give an address on "German University Life" at the next regular meeting of the Verein.

I. S. S.

The recently formed Chapter of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society completed its organization at the last meeting. The object of the society is an unprejudiced study of Socialism and questions connected with it. The program will principally consist in the study of:

- 1. The Present Conditions.
- 2. Foundations of Marxian Theory.
- 3. Immediate Demands of Socialism.
- 4. The Socialist Commonwealth.
- 5. The History of Socialism.
- 6. The Socialist Party.

The number of members in the society is now about twenty. The officers are:

President, John P. Goba Vice-President, Harold J. Cloutman Secretary, W. W. McCann

EDITORIALS

If you haven't heard the Musical Clubs this year, don't miss the opportunity tonight.

With the advent of the New Year, there comes a new Editorial Board to carry on the work of the Bates Student. We feel strongly our responsibility both to the students and to the alumni, and in taking up our duties, we would make a very earnest appeal for the hearty co-operation of all. The College paper does not belong to a few editors; it is the property of every person connected with Bates College. Are you willing to help make the Student, such a paper as you wish your Alma Mater to have?

We need contributions along literary lines. If you have suggestions to make regarding any college activity, the columns of the Student will be open. We cannot over emphasis the fact that every man and woman as a part of their college loyalty should place their names on the subscription list. If we stand together in this matter, we can easily meet the problems before us. This issue begins a new volume. It is a good time to start. Give the manager your subscription—do it now.

"It isn't distance that counts, its direction," said Dr. Wirt, Monday evening. The substance of college is to give us the direction; the distance will come later. The numerous activities of our life here at Bates serve as guide posts pointing the way. We can easily pass them by without getting the direction, thus failing to gain lasting value for energy expended.

MANAGER'S NOTICE

All subscribers to the "Bates Student" outside the College will make it much easier for the new management if they will kindly remit their subscription dues to the manager at once.

Receipts will be sent promptly on receiving all dues, and any change in address will be gladly made.

No paper will be sent to any subscriber unless one dollar and fifty cents is received from that subscriber within two weeks after this first issue of the year.

EXCHANGES

Worcester Tech offers an annual prize of fifty dollars for the best play written by one of its students. The successful competitor this year was W. R. Davis, '16.

The receipts of the Harvard Athletic Association during the past football season amounted to three hundred thousand dollars.

BATES COLLEGE MUSICAL CLUBS

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs enjoyed a very successful trip during the latter part of the Christmas recess. Two concerts had previously been given in Auburn churches and one at Lisbon, practice and confidence being thus gained for the more trying experiences of a week's tour. A few men left the Lewiston station December 29 and were joined by others at the more important towns until, upon reaching Milton, New Hampshire, the combined clubs consisting of twenty men were assembled. The concert was given in this town under the auspices of the Academy of which Manter, '13, is principal.

The second night the Clubs played in Lake Port; and on New Year's Eve a concert was given in Plymouth. The following evening was spent in Contoocook. This town and Lake Port were visited by the Clubs last year and it is significant to note that large and enthusiastic audiences greeted their efforts a second time. A concert was given Saturday night for the benefit of the Congregational church in Franklin, where Sunday was spent. Several of the men also assisted in the church services. The Musical Clubs left early Monday morning to give their final musicale in the Waterboro, Maine, under the auspices of the Grange. College duties were again entered upon the following day, January 5, after a trip both profitable and enjoyable.

ATHLETICS

TRACK SCHEDULE FOR 1915

Sat. Feb. 6. Maine Intercollegiate Relay Race, Boston.

Wed. Mar. 10. Indoor Meet, City Hall. Sat. May 1. Dual Meet, N. H. State at Durham.

Sat. May 8. Dual Meet, U. of M. at Orono. Sat. May 15. Maine Intercollegiate Meet. Sat. May 22. New Engand Intercollegiate Meet.

The first track event of the year is the B. A. A. relay race to be held in Mechanic Hall, Boston, in which Bates will compete with Bowdoin, Colby and Maine. A new restriction for this race has been placed upon the Maine colleges by the officials who are in charge of the meet. Instead of having the four colleges represented in one heat, as formerly, it has been decided to have two preliminary heats; the winner of each heat is to compete in a final. This will tax the ability of the winning team to a greater extent, for two races instead of one will be necessary. Our opponent for the first race is to be decided by lot, and, as the drawing does not take place until January 14, we do not know against which one of the other three colleges Bates will compete.

Although a fairly large number of men are now trying out for this relay squad, the prospects for a championship team are doubtful. We have only two men left from last year's team—Captain Small, '15, and Syrene, '16. So that there are at least two places which must be filled with unexperienced men. We are also greatly handicapped in that as yet we have no coach. Mr. Morrill was unable to return and resume his work on account of the illness of his mother.

Among the men who are out for the team there are several who are fully as good as those lost by graduation last spring. Boyd, '16, who came within one-fifth of a second from making the team last year, and who played end on the football team this fall, is one of the most promising candidates. Some of the other men who are expected to break the time-trial records are: Butler, '17;

Manager's personal bill, J. L. Hayes, 7 bbls. lime, Repair of fence, Tufts game, New Hampshire game contract Ft. McKinley game contract, Bowdoin game expense, U. of M.'s share and expenses, Keaney, '16, who made the relay team in 1912; Connors and Davis, both of whom are fast relay runners.

Also in the Freshman class there is some good material which after a little seasoning ought to prove of great assistance. The new coach is expected within a few days, and as Bates has always been favored with good coaches, we may be assured that the athletic committee will select a man competent of developing a good team.

FOOTBALL MANAGER'S REPORT FOR SEASON OF 1914

REV. ARTHUR S. PHELPS TO BE DAY OF PRAYER SPEAKER

As indicated in the last issue of the Bates Student, arrangements had been completed for the coming of the Rev. Dr. Hill of Portland as the principal speaker of the Day of Prayer. Dr. Hill, however, was not destined to speak at Bates, for on Friday of last week he became suddenly ill, dying a short time after, while undergoing a surgical operation. In the death of Dr. Hill, the denomination of which he was a member has suffered the loss of one of its ablest exponents. The sympathy of our college community will go out to the family so suddenly and terribly bereaved.

In view of this sudden turn in events, the committee in charge of the Day of Prayer found itself exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure the services of the Rev. Arthur S. Phelps, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist Church of Waterville, Maine.

Dr. Phelps is deserving of more than a passing word. Coming from California to the Pine Tree State in August of last year, he has already made himself a real factor in the religious life of the State. He is a brother of Professor Wm. Lyon Phelps of Yale, and his father was the Rev. S. Lyon Phelps, D. D., a well-known poet and author.

Dr. Phelps holds three degrees from Yale, and Occidental has honored him with a Doctorate of Divinity. Successively a pastor at New Haven, Denver, and Los Angeles, his ministry has proved highly successful, hundreds having been received into the churches whose pulpits he has filled. He recently completed a tour of the world, in the course of which twenty-five countries were visited. Dr. Phelps is first of all a Young Man's Man. His work for young men has been exceptional in all respects. In a word, Dr.

Phelps is "a live wire."

On the morning of the Day of Prayer Dr. Phelps will speak on the subject, "What is Your Life?" In the evening his theme will be, "How Bob Killed the Bear." No student, man or woman, should miss the rare literary treat in store. The Chapel should be filled to capacity both morning and evening. SOCIETY NOTES

The Bates Dramatic Society did Dramatic not hold their regular meeting Society Friday evening. At the next meeting the club intends to begin work on a play to be presented sometime during the College Year.

At the meeting of the Politics Club Politics Jan. 13, W. Webster McCann gave Club a very interesting and instructive talk on "International Contraband." The subject was discussed from all viewpoints at the close of the talk. The Club then discussed briefly the foreign Policy of the present administration.

Jordan

ary 18th, a very interesting paper was read by Higgins, '15, on "Essential Oils" and one by Clifford, '15, on "Fixation of Nitrogen." The camera lucida and mechanical stage were explained by Wight, '15. The question of a banquet for the members of the society was brought up for discussion.

Spofford Club Hast Saturday evening, in Fiske Room, the Spofford Club gave an informal reception to its new members: Miss Geneva Page, '15; Mr. Harold Buker, '16, and Mr. Frederick Smith, '15. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman and Mr. Ross were entertained as guests. After a short program, consisting of a poem by Miss Page and a story by Mr. Smith, refreshments were served.

Seniority The Seniority held its regular meeting, Friday evening, Jan. 15. The program was as follows: piano solo by Miss Helen Hilton, '15; short story by Ellen Harding, '16; criticism by Marion Cole, '15; original story by Harriet Johnson, '16, read by Marjorie Bradbury, '16, and an original poem by Geneva Page, '15.

U. A. C. C. Friday evening, the Junior-Sophomore Literary Society, the U. A. C. C. opened its program by a violin solo by Miss Marguerite Girouard, '16, accompanied by Miss Helen Hilton, '15. Following this, several papers of interest were given, all answering to the title, "Things that we Ought to Know." These included discussions of prominent men of today, important historical characters, also descriptions of noted public buildings, statuary, and the like. A vocal solo by Miss Hazel Kelley, '16, completed the program.

Entre Nous

The Freshman girls held their regular meeting of "Entre Nous" last Friday night, in Libbey Forum.
The subject of the evening was "Current Topics", and the following program was enjoyed: piano duet, Miss Genevieve McCann and Miss Agnes Graham; Panama Canal, Miss Mabel Finland; Economic Conditions in America, Miss Beatrice Burr; Germany's Side of the War, Miss Charlotte Patterson; Vocal Duet, Miss Blanche Ballard and Miss Evelyn Hussey. The meeting closed with the singing of "Alma Mater."

Y. W. C. A. "Go to Silver Bay" was the key-note of the last Y. W. C. A. meeting, held in Fiske Room, Wednesday evening, January 13. The leaders were Miss Hazel Mitchell, '16, and Miss Annie Leathers, '18. Two musical numbers were much enjoyed; a vocal duet by Miss Gladys Mower, '16, and Miss Agnes Thompson, '16; and a piano solo by Miss Laura Mansfield, '18. Then the leaders presented different phases of Silver Bay life. Miss Leathers spoke particularly of the meetings and Miss Mitchell told of Silver Bay friendships. It is hoped that Bates may send a large delegation of girls to Silver Bay next spring.

GREEKS ENTERTAINED

Professor Chase, assisted by several students and faculty members, entertained a large party of Greeks, Wednesday evening in Roger Williams Hall. As the guests arrived, each was adorned with the National colors of Greece and the United States, the blue and white, and the red, white and blue. An informal reception was first held for the purpose of becoming mutually acquainted. Modern Greek does not differ in many important respects from that of the classic age so that Professor Chase was able to make a speech in that tongue which was readily appreciated by the Greeks present. One of the party spoke a few words in reply, thanking him for his efforts in their behalf. Selections were given by members of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, after which refreshments were served. The latter part of the evening was devoted to an informal good time, which consisted in a large measure of music. A number of the Greeks gathered about the piano and sang their national song and other selections. One of the most interesting features of the evening was a native dance given by a group of Cretans. The accompaniment was played on an odd little instrument shaped somewhat like a violin but smaller, having three strings, and played like a bass viol with a bow equipped with bells. The college people then sang a number of favorite old songs and the party closed with America, which was sung by all. A class of Greeks was formed for the purpose of studying English and a few common school subjects. Among these people, as well as with our other immigrants, their is a big oppportunity for those who desire improvement of our civic conditions.

BATES NEEDLE CLUB

Friday, Jan. 15, the Bates Needle Club celebrated its annual gentleman's night by a venison dinner served at six o'clock in Science Hall. The decorations were in keeping with the occasion. Spruce trees stood high about the room, while wild animals looked out from their branches. Guns, cartridge belts and knives hung on the walls, also aided in giving the impression of a hunter's camp. Miniature fir trees and small stuffed animals served as table decorations, and small birch bark cards marked the places of the guests. The menu consisted of roast venison, venison pie, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, squash, cabbage salad, hot rolls, coffee, pumpkin pie, apple pie, cheese and doughnuts. After dinner, toasts were responded to by Dr. Britan, Prof. Pomeroy, Dr. Bickford, Dr. Anthony, Dr. Hartshorn, Mr. Bishop, Prof. Ramsdell and Dr. Purington. Songs were sung before the party

CAMPUS NOTES

Earl Harding, '15, has been sick several days with tonsilitis.

Victor Swicker, '16, was sick several days last week with Chicken Pox.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting Jan. 13 was conducted by Hinton, '17.

Miss Nola Houdlette, Registrar, spent the week-end in Portland.

Miss Amy Ballard, '13, has recently visited here her sister, Miss Blanch Ballard, '18,

Why not have a half-holiday Thursday, February 4, and see Robert Mantell in "Shylock"?

It's a shame that we have to depend on the "Kids" to clear off our newly made skating pond!

Dr. Britan lectured in Portland, Thursday, Jan. 14, on "Education." The course is under state supervision.

Miss Ora Emerson, '16, returned last Saturday from Solon, Maine, where she has been teaching for five weeks.

Miss Marjorie Stevens, '16, is teaching at present in the high school at New Gloucester, Maine.

On Saturady evening, Dean Buswell entertained a group of Freshmen girls at her rooms in Rand Hall. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by those present.

A deputation team consisting of Moulton, '15; Buker, '16; Hinton, '17; Von Tobel, '17; Chayer, '17 and Upham, '17, spent the week end in Litchfield.

Perley W. Lane, '17, of the Varsity debating squad has resigned. The vacancy will be filled by Frank B. Quimby, '18. Mr. Quimby has had experience in High School and should be a valuable man on the squad.

Charlie Gibbs, '16, achieved the greatest success of any student in Prof. Pomeroy's course in Genetics. The first generation of flies were almost perfect, but the second generation all died.

The New Hampshire Club received their new pins last week. They are of a small conventional design in gold and green enamel, and bear the Old English Letters, N. H. C.

Those who are planning to attend the meeting and banquet of the Stanton Club, which is to be held in Portland the following month, will be interested to know that stereoptican slides to be shown on that occasion, are now being prepared by Mr. Morse of the faculty. These slides include both interior and exterior views of all the buildings, and will furnish a new and important feature of the program.

Question—"Don't you think our "Student" is a little to conservative?

Answer—I don't know, I never was interested enough to notice."

How about this for College Spirit?

EDITORIALS

We are pleased to print in our columns a communication from Mr. Greenwood, former Bates graduate, who has recently sent to the library a book entitled "Drift and Mastery." Mr. Greenwood has previously presented the College with several books. We take this opportunity to express our gratitude to him.

To the Editor of the Bates Student:--

A book for minds that are not primitive entitled "Drift and Mastery" has just been placed in the Bates Library. Those who by intention or accident happen to read the book will of course obtain information of the Author and his work. For others whose attention might not be attracted by either the title of the book or the name of its writer I want to say just a word. The author, Walter Lippmann, was born in 1889 and entered Harvard with the class of 1910 but took his A.B. in 1909. After his graduation he was an assistant in philosophy under Professor George Santayana.

This book of his is an Attempt to Diagnose the Current Unrest and is an extremely fascinating as well as instructive bit of up to date literature. I will briefly quote "We inherit a rebel tradition. The dominant forces in our world are not the sacredness of property, nor the intellectual leadership of the priest; they are not the divinity of the constitution, the glory of industrial push, Victorian sentiment, New England respectability, the Republican Party, or John D. Rockerfeller. Our time, of course, believes in change. The adjective "progressive" is what we like, and the word "new", be it the New Nationalism of Roosevelt, the New Freedom of Wilson, or the New Socialism of the syndicalists. The business man has stepped down from his shrine; he is no longer an oracle whose opinion on religion, science, and education is listened to dumbly as the valuable by product of a paying business.

And again in regard to the inability of the buyer to select and his assistance by advertising. "When you contemplate the eastern sky ablaze with chewing gum, the northern with tooth-brushes and underwear, the western with whiskey, and the southern with petti-coats, the whole heavens brilliant with monstrously flirtatious women, when you glance at magazines in which a rivulet of text trickles through meadows of automobiles, baking powders, corsets and kodaks, you begin to accumulate a sense of the disastrous incompetence of the ultimate consumer.'

I hope this brief introduction may be interesting enough to attract a large number of readers to the book. If it proves of sufficient interest I would be pleased to receive from any student a note of criticism or comment.

Mr. Miles Greenwood,

84 Cottage Street, Melrose, Massachusetts.

ATHLETICS

Mike Ryan arrived Monday, Jan. 18, to take charge of the track candidates. Mr. Ryan is a real present day athlete and world's champion. He was at the last Olympic games with Blanchard, '12, Bates most famous track man. The two men journied together thru England, Ireland and Scotland.

Our coach has made five world's records. Three of which are still standing.

Boston Marathon—25 miles in 2 hr, 21 mi, 8 1-5 sec.

Canadian Marathon—26 miles, 176 yds. This is the same distance as the original distance from Marathon to Athens. In 2 hr, 48 min, 48 1-5 sec.

Indoor record, Pittsburg, 1909. 26 miles, 385 yds. Time, 2 hrs, 48 min, 43 2-3 sec.

This uncommonly long schedule, as announced by Manager Perkins and ratified by the Advisory Board, has several new features. For the first time in our baseball history three championship games instead of two will be played with each of the other Maine Colleges. There will be two Massachusetts trips instead of one as in other years. Williams College appears on the schedule for the first time, taking the place of Tufts. The most novel feature is the game on June 3d with the Hawaiian Chinesse students.

THE OUTLOOK

Within a few weeks baseball practice will begin in the cage. The prospects for another championship team are good as the losses caused by graduation promise to be well replaced by material in the Freshman class, and also by some Juniors who were unable to play last year on account of the probation rule.

The most serious loss came to the pitching department in the graduation of Stinson and Lindquist. Both these men could be depended on for good work, and although Stinson, perhaps, did most of the pitching, Lindquist often took his turn and was very effective. However, two new men are to be added to the department this year, who, from their past records, seem to be very promising. The first of these is Davidson, '18, of Gardiner High and a graduate of Westbrook Seminary. He pitched with great success at both places, and also was a successful twirler in the Gardiner Trolley League this past summer. The other is Fowler, '18, who is noted for his good work in the Bates Aroostook High School League. He was successful with the Old Town team last summer and has had the experience of facing many hard hitters. Winslow, '17, a member of last year's pitching staff, will be on hand again. It will be remembered, he did excellent work on the second team last year. "Monte" Moore, '15, may also be one of our pitchers.

"Monte" has had experience and should prove of great assistance if he is not hampered by the injury received in football last fall.

It is hard to say who will be the regular catcher as there are two good men in Lord, '16, and Curtin, '18. Lord caught in 1913, and made good. This year, however, he will be hard pressed for his position, as Curtin is an experienced catcher and a good hitter. In the Freshman-Sophomore game last fall he showed up well.

For the place made vacant by Capt. Coady there are also two good candidates, O'Connell, '16, seems to be the most likely. He is a fast, clean fielder and a heavy hitter. When at Roxbury Latin School he was picked by a large number of Boston sporting men for the All Boston Interscholastic team. Shattuck, '18, former captain of the Franklin High School team will also make a strong bid for the position. Having had three years of preparatory school experience he is well prepared to look after this difficult base.

At short-stop McDonald will probably be seen again. Last year he filled this position well and was especially prominent with the bat. He is a fast fielder and knows the game, but he will be strongly opposed this spring by Marston, '16, who made the team two years ago, but was unable to play last year. Thurston, '18, and Dorr, '18, are other contenders for the position at short. The former has had three years' experience with the M. C. I. team, and the latter is also an experienced player.

Fuller, '15, last year's fast second baseman, will doubtless retain his position, although there are several other candidates for this base. Perhaps the most promising of these is Duncan, '18, who played four years at Gardiner High and one year at Westbrook Seminary. He also has had experience with other fast teams in the state and should prove a valuable man.

Butler, '17, who played centerfield last year, may be seen at first base in place of P. Cobb. He is not new to the position, having played it when in high school. Swift, '15, is also out for the position.

On account of the two good catchers Captain Talbot will resume his old position at centerfield. For the other fielders' positions there are at least ten candidates. On the whole, our baseball outlook has never been brighter.

(From the Framingham, Mass. News, Jan. 11, 1913.)

"A play, "Sitting Bull—Custer", by the Rev. Aaron Beede, (Bates '84) will be produced at Harvard University in the spring. The play was written to show the Indian viewpoint of the battle of Little Big Horn. It was staged for the first time at the North Dakota Agricultural College last commencement time, and created great interest because of its dramatic qualities and the new light upon the Custer massacre.

Dr. Beede, who is an Episcopalian missionary among the Indian tribes of the Northwest, writes with the knowledge gained from more than thirty years among them.

Sitting Bull is pictured as the great Indian patriot under whose leadership the tribes gathered to save from the white man the lands which they saw were being gradually wrested from their grasp. In the play the Indian is shown standing for great principles, endeavoring before the onward march of the white man to retain his hunting grounds and his freedom. In his speech to his braves around the council fire, Sitting Bull pays tribute to the courage of the gallant Custer, and urges his followers to emulate the daring of the leader of the whites.

A touch of sentiment is given to the play in the romance of the Princess Winona and the brave Echonka, who is killed in the battle.

When the play was given at the N. D. Agricultural College under the direction of Prof. Alfred G. Arnold, head of the department of English, and Dr. Beede, the author, authentic costuming was provided by the Smithsonian Institute and museums and historical societies in North and South Dakota and Minnesota.

"Why look before and after and pine for what is not?"

Men are four: He who knows, and knows he knows—He is wise—follow him.

He who knows, and knows not he knows— He is asleep—wake him.

He who knows not and knows not he knows not—He is a fool—shun him.

He who knows not, and knows he knows not—He is a child—teach him.

RED CROSS WORK

The young women of Bates have shown considerable interest this winter in the work of the Red Cross. A day was appointed on which a collection was taken. With the money thus obtained, cloth was bought for bandages. Later there was a Red Cross Teat Rand Hall, where the girls had a pleasant social hour, enjoyed a talk on Clara Barton by Mrs. Whitehorne, and wound 135 bandages.

The boys have helped in this work, too. The Y. M. C. A. gave five dollars, with which the girls bought yarn enough to make fourteen large mufflers for the soldiers.

The girls have also given proof of their interest in other charities at home and abroad. They have been collecting clothing to send to Belgium, and the Y. W. C. A. voted a sum of money to buy material for children's clothing. Several girls are to give an afternoon's sewing. For relief in the city, they gave at Christmas time a large amount of clothes, toys and food. The police matron saw that these were distributed where most needed. Besides this, every child at the Children's Home was given a Christmas present, and Mrs. Whitehorne provided for each one a generous bag of candy.

SOCIETIES and CLUBS

Literary Societies

"Birds' Christmas Carol'' in the gymnasium of Rand Hall. Invitations are to be issued to the Seniority and the Entre Nous, to attend. A very pleasant evening is to be expected.

Jordan
Scientific Society
At the meeting of the Jordan Scientific Society
Monday evening, January 25th, Swicker, '16, gave a paper on "The Periodic Table of Mendeléef", and Manuel '15, presented one on the vitally important and much discussed subject of the "Dämerschlaf". Electrolysis and forms of the Kipp's apparatus were briefly explained by Nichols, '16.

Deutscher Verein

On Tuesday evening, January 26th, the members of the Deutscher Verein listened to a very interesting talk on "German University Life", by Mr. Ross, of the German department. He discussed general customs of German students and professors, comparing them to customs in the United States. Mr. Ross is very well qualified to do this, having spent two years in German Universities, one at Munich and one at Berlin. The address was followed by general questions and discussion by the members of the Verein.

A large number of Bates stu-Eukuklios dents enjoyed A Trip to California on last Saturday evening. The tickets were procured from Eukuklios in the Rand Hall Gymnasium. The trip was made most interesting by a system of progressive seating the observation cars, and by the selling of various refreshments in the aisles. The return was made the same evening-and all the travellers report a most pleasant trip.

A joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. was held Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening, Jan. 20, in Fiske Room. The subject was "Preparation for the Day of Prayer." Miss Harlene Kane, '16, was the leader and Professor Knapp and Professor Purinton were the speakers. A beautiful solo was sung by Miss Mabel Googins, '16. Both the speakers brought inspiring messages to the students and awakened a deeper appreciation of the real meaning of the Day of Prayer.

The last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held January 27, 1915, with Miss Mildred Bassett, '15, as leader. A solo was sung by Miss Grace Berry, '17, Rev. Mr. Woodin of Auburn, the speaker of the evening, gave an interesting and instructive talk on "The Value of Mission Study."

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs Glee Club made their second tour last week. Trip The first concert was given in Portland, Monday evening, January 18th, before a large audience. Tuesday night the men reached Campello, where a supper little short of a banquet was waiting in the Congregational Church, which was later filled with well pleased people. The following concert was given in Haverhill, and Thursday night the Clubs played in Merrimac. Friday evening the men were in Stoneham and the final concert was given in Saco, Saturday night, after which nearly all took the car for Lewiston. In every town large and enthusiastic audiences greeted the efforts of our representatives. Preachers, teachers and business men welcomed those who had come from their old Alma Mater.

The Girls' Musical Clubs Girls' gave the first concert of the Musical Clubs season in Stimpson Memorial Hall in Gray, Friday evening, at eight o'clock. It was well attended and proved highly successful. Mrs. A. F. Hertell and Mrs. F. D. Tubbs acted as chaperons of the party. The following program was present-

The Dramatic Society, Feb. 5, will hold a reception and initiation of new members, followed by a business meeting.

Have you got your schedule for examination all straightened out?

Did you notice the good food we are getting at the Commons lately? Why not boost when it is good, as well as crab when things don't fit?

A large number of the faculty and students attended the concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Portland, last Tuesday night.

The "Holding' concert given in the Pine Street Congregational Church Wed. evening, Jan. 20, was attended by a good representation from the college. The management was very obliging and gave special rates to students.

A son, Arthur Glenn Cushman, Jr., has been born to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cushman. Mr. Cushman was for three years the resident Y. M. C. A. Secretary of Bates. He now occupies a similar position of Boston Institute of Technology.

George R. Dolloff, '15, has returned to college after undergoing a very successful operation for appendicitis.

The College Deputation team was at Mechanics Falls, Sunday, Jan. 24. The team consits of a vocal quartet and two or three speakers. The men try to meet the young people in a social way rather than in an official way. Moulton, '15, Buker, '16, Hinton, '17, Chayer, 17, and Blackinton, '18, made up the team.

We noticed a Freshman at the Holding Concert with a Jersey and Sweater on. Are there no good Samaratins in the Class of 1918?

The Deputation team goes to Lisbon Falls Sunday, Feb. 2.

Robert Mantell will not appear at the Empire. The Company have gone to New York to perform at the opening of a New Theater.

Have you shaken hands with Coach Ryan? He is anxious to get acquainted with every man in the institution.

Watch for the "Stanton" number of the Student.

The banquet of the Stanton Club will be held in Portland, Feb. 5.

Do you know that 183 of our loyal student body are subscribers to the College paper?

Gene Drake, '14, of the Bowdoin Medical school, spent Sunday amid the old surroundings of Parker Hall.

Carl Fuller has had a severe cold the past week. Sunday was his first day out.

The Misses Charlotte Piper, '16, Annie Brewer, '18, Myrtle McIntire, '18, and Camilla Smith, '15, spent the week end at home.

Miss Marjorie Oakes, '18, had dinner with her aunt on January 21, at the DeWitt House.

At the final preliminary, the following were chosen to take part in the Sophomore Girls' Debate; Ethel Bennett, Eleanor Newman, Eleanor Richmond, Ruth Lewis, Aileen Lougee, and Julia McCann. The two alternates are Ruth Capen and Ruth Sturgis.

Students, faculty, alumni, take note: by a decree of the Lewiston City Government, Skinner Street is henceforth to be known as Campus Avenue. We appreciate the change. Now let us all remember to make it a real change in fact as well as in theory.

Baseball practice will soon begin in earnest. Don't see any reason why we can't have another pennant winner!

Vocal solo by Doris Ingersoll was a special feature of the Chapel exercises Thursday, Jan. 21.

ALUMNI OF BATES COLLEGE

The essential feature of any business great or small is the co-operation of all concerned. The Bates Student is no exception. We are facing a serious problem, upon the solution of which rests the future of our college paper. To maintain our present standard it is absolutely necessary that the alumni now taking the Student should promptly resubscribe. The management is very urgent in this matter because it feels that when the situation is understood, there will be a ready response.

Notice a few facts, Bates has over 1500 alumni; of this number 175 are now subscribing for their College paper. The figures are striking in contrast. Do you wonder it is necessary for every subscriber to resubscribe in order to produce an efficient paper? We wish to solve this problem. To do so we must have your co-operation. Specifically, we want every Bates graduate who reads this to send his or her subscription to the manager. When you do so, enclose the names and addresses of several of your classmates. If you see them frequently, tell them what we are trying to do that they may help us. Also enclose any suggestions you would like to make regarding the Student, or perhaps some other college activity.

On our part, we will endeavor to increase the efficiency of the paper along every possible line. If we can raise the alumni subscription list from 175 to 400, we will guarantee a larger paper, special monthly editions presenting the literary phases of our work. Frequent cuts of the athletic teams, various societies, and campus interests, and a larger space devoted to alumni news are in our plans. In other words we would make the Bates Student a "live wire" connecting the present student body with those who have gone before. Will you help?

We are glad to announce that President Chase's old office in Hathorn Hall has become the headquarters of the Bates Student. This has been a long felt need and has been made possible by the material growth of the college. The arrangement also facilitates the weekly board meetings, held every Tuesday afternoon. The room is not yet furnished as we may hope it will be, still we feel the step marks progress.

We received, last week, a correspondence from Geo. W. Flint, '71. His letter offered many suggestions regarding our work, and also a contribution which we are pleased to print in our columns this week. Let us have more such letters!

NOTICE

The annual meeting of the Stanton Club which is the Bates Alumni Association of Maine, will be held in Portland, Friday evening, February 5. Arrangements are being made to emphasize the social side of the banquet this year and so give the alumni and alumnae a good old fashioned social time apart from the usual banquet and afterdinner speeches. Bates graduates from all parts of the State are expected to attend, and a thoroughly interesting and enjoyable program is arranged. Prof. Stanton himself, the beloved professor for whom the Alumni Association was named, will undoubtedly be there and a fine list of speakers are being invited to attend. All communications concerning the banquet should be addressed to the President, Dr. L. L. Powell of Saco, or to the Secretary, The Hon. L. M. Sanborn of Portland.

ATTENTION—GENERAL CATALOG

The committee having the task of compiling a general catalog of Bates call the attention of all graduates to the following request:—

- (1) All graduates are urged to send in their slips properly filled, if they have not done so, as the catalog is about ready for the press.
- (2) All graduates are requested to send in at once, any changes, in their business or residence, since they sent in their slips.
- (3) All class secretaries are requested to report all changes, that come to their attention by class letter or other sources, in order to assist in making the catalog as complete and accurate as possible.

Will all promptly attend to the above requests.

Prof. J. Y. Stanton, Pres., O. B. Clason, Sec., Harold A. Allan, General Catalog Committee.

ITALIA

O Italia, the fairest
Of the lands across the sea,
All nations share the sorrow
Of thy great calamity.
In the ruin of thy cities,
Avezzano's fertile plain,
We see the fall of land-marks
That may never rise again.
And a pall is flung around thee,
Like the sable robe of night,
For thy noble thousands perished

In the earthquake's awful blight. O thou land of fame and glory, Nurse of heroes true as steel, Ev'ry student of thy story Deepest sympathy doth feel For the mother land of Tully, Vergil, Horace,—all the throng Of writers and of poets Who have wreathed thy name in song. From Aeneas, worthy founder, To Augustus' "golden age," Thy deeds shine out resplendent From the record's deathless page. Where'r thy legions traversed, Tribal nations gazed with awe, But received thy benediction, And thy legacy of law. Have courage still, new glory From out thy cross of pain Shall issue forth triumphant, And "Troy shall rise again. New cities shall be builded On the ruins of the old, And the story of thy prowess Again shall be retold. But the glory of thy future No prophet need foretell, For thy Queen is fair Helene, And thy King, Emmanuel.

-George W. Flint, '71.

ATHLETICS

TRACK WORK PROSPERING

Motto: "Everybody get interested."

In the week and a half's time that Coach Ryan has been here track athletics have taken on a wholly new aspect. Not only are the prospects for a fast relay team much brighter than they were two weeks ago, but the task of developing a good track team out of almost no material appears much more probable. In answer to the Coach's call, over sixty men have reported for track work, and in all probability this number will have increased to one hundred by the first of February, as new men are coming out every day.

day, Feb. 18th, by a short talk to the small squad that had been trying out for the relay teams since the holidays. He mentioned the fact that the co-operation of all the students and a general helpful spirit was necessary in order to accomplish the most good. Not every one can be on the teams, but every one can help by taking an interest in its work and standing behind the squad when losing or winning. He also said that team work counts for as much in track as in the football or baseball field. After the talk he showed the fellows the correct way of starting and then had all do a little jogging around the gymnasium floor.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the men were given the first hard work. They were divided into groups of three. Each man ran one lap at full speed, waited until the other two had run one lap apiece, then ran another lap, and so on until each one had gone around five times. Thursday's work was very light.

The first elimination trials of the relay squad were held on Friday. As a result only twelve men instead of thirty are left to fight for a place on the team. The following men are the twelve, arranged according to their time: Boyd, '16, Quinby, '18, Butler, '17, Mansfield, '15, Drew, '16, Connors, '17, Keaney, '16, Snow, '16, Capt. Small, '15, Davis, '17, Knight, '18, and Gray, '16. Out of this limited number the four fastest men will be picked to run against Colby at the B. A. A. games on February 6th.

All the other track men are now in training for the Indoor Meet, which will be held at City Hall, March 10th. Preliminary to this meet a "handicap athletic meet" is to be held at the gymnasium on Saturday, February 13th. The coach is planning this meet especially for those who have never taken part in athletics before. The following will be the events: 40-yd. dash, low hurdles, shot put, high jump, two-mile run, three standing jumps, potato race and class relay races. Coach Ryan hopes, by giving the men plenty of competition, to build up a strong track team before the first of May, when the big meets will be held.

Knowledge is the knowing that we cannot know.

THE ROUND TABLE

The Bates Round Table held its sixth meeting of the season Friday evening, January 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Boothby.

After a short business meeting, Professor F. A. Knapp, presiding officer for the evening, introduced the principal speaker, Professor G. M. Chase. His subject was "The Peloponnesian War"—a Prototype of the Present War. He spoke of Athens, the representative of domocracy and ruler of the seas, as the England of Ancient Greece; also of Sparta as the Prussia of that time. He then made a careful comparison of the causes of the two wars, and concluded with a contrast between ancient and modern methods of warfare. Professor Gould then spoke briefly of the "Thirty Years' War." Dr. Anthony also added a discussion of the evils of war in general, and expressed the great desire that war might at length be done away with.

The next meeting will be postponed until February 12, on account of the Stanton Banquet to be held in Portland, February 5. At this time, the Round Table will be entertained by Rev. A. D. Salley, D. D., and Mrs. Salley at their home on Mountain Avenue.

CHAPEL TALK

Mr. Coleman, of the Ford Hall movement in Boston, spoke in Chapel, Thursday, Jan. 21. The address was full of fire and struck a more responsive chord among the students than any Chapel talk we have had this year.

Mr. Coleman introduced his remarks by saying that if he could have the dearest wish of his heart, it would be to be a College student now—and to live for the next fifty years and see the great problems of the present day become History.

The theme of the address was "Caution vs Faith." Mr. Coleman said that modern people have little faith and proceeded to prove his statement by a psychological experiment.

I have something in my pocket that I have never seen, something that you have never seen, that no one has ever seen. I'll show it to you, then I shall never see it again, you will never see it again, and no one will ever see it again.

"Now I stake my word as a Christian gentleman, that every word I say is absolutely and literally true. How many believe it?"

The speaker than produced a peanut from his pocket, cracked the shell, showed it to everybody, and finished by eating it. Thus proving his own statement in regard to faith. THE WHITE STORE

JONATHAN Y. STANTON

No college can make a beginning without students, and to secure students there must be some magnet of the first order. Such a magnet was Jonathan Y. Stanton. President Cheney had sought to find a nucleus for the earliest classes in small groups of young men that had received college preparation in the Maine State Seminary. To these aspiring boys under the spell of the traditions, the romance, and the tales and legends woven into the life of the well endowed colleges of New England, a successful appeal for allegiance to an unknown institution could be made only by a unique personality. And it was by the promise of such a personality in the faculty to be formed that Mr. Cheney won the hearts of the first students at Bates.

The writer of this sketch was one of thirteen young men in Maine State Seminary prepared to enter college in August, 1864. To Mr. Cheney these young men were the potential members of the second class to enter Bates. But six of the number entered Amherst, and of the seven that signed for Bates two returned to active soldier life. Though they subsequently joined their solicitous classmates, they could not resist the lure of the army, and the class of '68 numbered at graduation only the initial five.

To this class in a recitation room in Parker Hall that is now the western half of the men's parlor, the eagerly anticipated professor gave his first message. He was there from the outset in the completeness of his wonderful personality. And he was found to be what Mr. Cheney had so ardently foretold, a star of the first magnitude. No teacher ever met a more expectant class. Professor Stanton's fame as scholar, teacher, and love of young men had kindled imagination to a blaze. Had not this man sat at the feet, while studying law, of the greatest jurists in New England? Had he not absorbed all that the brilliant theologians of Andover then at the height of its glory could impart? Was he not known far and wide as a brilliant teacher? Above all was he not worshiped by all fortunate enough to come under his instruction? We were breathless as we took our first look at the man that has been the lodestar of so many hundreds of lives at Bates. And we yielded to his charm at once. The half had never been told. How vivid are the memories of that recitation in Livy. The entire bodily appearance and manner of our great teacher were engaging to the last degree. In that first recitation we felt the glow of his enthusiasm. We responded to his appeal. We adopted his high standards. And when he said, with awful seriousness, "Translations are wholly forbidden," we acquiesced heart and soul.

In his general appearance Professor Stanton has changed in fifty years less than any other man within the scope of the writer's acquaintance. Though then but thirty years of age, he seemed to us at least forty-five. His form, indeed, was erect. But his thin gray hair covered but a part of his noble head, and his whiskers, though then short and well trimmed, were also gray. His large blue eyes, always luminous, were by turns kindly and severe. There was that same meditative wrinkling of the brow, that same ominous pause, before he launched into a new discussion or unfolded some fact or principle of solemn import. There was the same nervous movement of arms and limbs, the same kindly comment upon our rendering of the passages assigned us, and the same clear, careful, and thorough correction in his own revision of our "perfect" interpretation.

We feared him and we loved him from that moment, and our feelings never changed. He was to be the shaper of the new college, and under his moulding it was to be a college of the first order. Probably no other class at Bates under the teaching of Professor Stanton ever had prescribed for it tasks so hard. Five hours a week of Latin, five hours of Greek, an equal amount in Physiology and in Mathematics under Tutor Morrill, a long lesson in Latin Grammar and in Greek Grammar daily, one hour a week in Classical Geography, and one in Baird's Classical Manual, and several hours per week in International Law (for Freshmen!!). Such the diet prescribed by the warm-hearted but high-minded professor! Had he attempted for more than a term to hold us to this pace, none would have survived to tell the tale.

somewhat more closely to the work immediately in hand. Yet even then he was delightfully discursive and when posture and brow announced that he was about to soliloquize, we were all eyes and ears. Such discourses as he gave us upon law, theology, evolution (just then closely associated with the teachings of Darwin), politics, literature, education-never since Socrates had so startled and charmed such faithful listeners. Nor did he scorn the common life. One of his favorite themes was matrimony-with effective warnings against the dangers of early engagements. Nor did he hesitate to enforce his teaching by citations of his own observations and experiences. He had taught and disciplined rough boys and young men in country schools and had enforced his authority with a vigor that made cowards of would-be bullies. His experiences as a teacher were practically most helpful to young men who, like all the boys at Bates, in those days, must rely upon brawn not less than brain in the rude schools in which they were to teach that very winter.

Professor Stanton was to us tenderness and generosity incarnated. But he was also force, vitality, and courage. His heart was warm toward every student. But brooked no impudence, no conceit, no falsity. He once brought to book a big soldier boy of nearly twice his own size; and when the youth hestitated a little on being told to leave the room, the professor started to put him out, The movement was unnecessary. Always nervous, he was more sensitive in his early teaching than in his later. His perceptibly increasing vexation over the restlessness of one young man at length exploded in, "If you don't stop that, Mr. shall jump right out of that window." For mere smartness and pretense he had no mercy and his sharp rebukes sometimes aroused resentful anger. But it was "wrath" on which the sun never went down and gave place to an absorbing admiration seldom paralleled.

Outside the recitation room he was the much sought companion and friend. He anticipated a boy's needs before he could utter them and freely proffered money, books, personal aid of every kind—dispelling embarrassment with the swift glance of his kindly eye and the quick assurance of assistance. He was fond of games and an expert in croquet—in vogue in those days among teachers and students. The boys joined him in walks and rides and felt honored and delighted by his engaging company.

More than all others combined Professor Stanton shaped the permanent policies of Bates and imparted its peculiar spirit and ideals. "If I am not here in five minutes after the bell rings, get out of the room, but if you meet me in the building, come back." With this sentence he established the condition for cuts, students quickly imposing it upon all the other teachers. He had much to tell us about his own college life. He warned us against fraternities, quoting freely from his own memories and experiences. He set his face sharply against hazing. wrote for the first Freshmen at Bates the young men's matriculation pledge in substantially its present language. He selected his own associates in the faculty, President Chenev treating him as his oracle, when men or measures were in question. In his first year at Bates he planned and set in operation the Sophomore debates; and to his decisive influence in this respect may be traced the brilliant record of the College in both collegiate and intercollegiate debating contests. He never missed a public exercise and never forgot a kindly word for each speaker. On the base ball field no eye was so alert as his for every movement infield and out. No heart was so exultant as his at the first clang of the victory-heralding bell. He early became the librarian, and his talks about books did more to inspire to the reading of good literature than any other influence of that time. He seemed to his students the repository of all knowledge. He taught them to think and to be broad and liberal in their thinking. To him preeminently Bates owes that freedom from sectarian narrowness that has always been one of her marked characteristics. Never hesitating to dissent, if his judgment and conscience so dictated, from accepted dogmas, his spirit was so reverent that he strengthened rather than disturbed the faith of his students. His utterances were often radical, but like Emerson he maintained his right to substitute to-day's truth for yesterday's. Insisting upon faithful study and genuine scholarship he never was pedantic. If he believed a student to be doing his best, he was all appreciation. When the writer, after teaching a long term in a hard school, went to Professor Stanton to make up his studies, he was asked to read but a single sentence from the particular classic and was then enticed into a fascinating conversation upon themes outside his student life.

When Professor Stanton came to Bates he was unmarried. But his early students will never forget that large room upstairs in the Nash house on College Street at which they reported on returning from their schools. Both there and in the home that he subsequently made, his hospitality was as simple and delightful as his own unmatched personality. It was always, "Do take this chair," with a gesture toward the most comfortable one, and always, "This book may be one that you would like to look at," or "These pictures may interest you;" and then he led in talk about literature, statemanship, art-all the choice subjects of his own catholic tastes. And what a distinction to be a guest at his table and to taste with him and his cultured wife honey brought by them from classic Hymettus!

To every one of the eighteen hundred or more graduates of Bates, there was never one to whom he was not the professor, the cherished friend.

DANIEL A. POLING

Mr. Daniel A: Poling of Columbus, Ohio, is to be at Bates on February 11. Mr. Poling is Superintendent of Temperance and Christian Citizenship and is an associate of President Clark of The United Society of C. E. He was born in Oregon, November 30, 1884, and has devoted his life, body, mind and soul, to the temperance cause, for which he has accomplished splendid things.

Mr. Poling is a man of fine presence, of pleasing personality. He is a real orater, is thoroly in earnest and always delights his audiences.

Mr. Jones' fluent translation of Livy had a decided savor of "pony." Mr. Jones, evidently realizing the fact, began to stammer and hunt for the right word. "Now, now, don't stop," said Professor Stanton. "Trot right along, Mr. Jones! Trot right along!"

Truly to thee did lavish Nature give A royal heritage! Each tremulous note Poured from melodious wild-bird's tiny Findeth thine ear attuned and sensitive.

Marvellous indeed to thee all forms that live.—

The fragile flower; the butterfly afloat On gorgeous wings; the saffron, velvet coat Of honey-bee, restless, inquisitive.

-Jennie Lawrence Pratt, '90

It is a pleasure to present to our readers this week the Stanton Number. We wish to thank those who have so heartily contributed. From those who have long known our dear Professor, we learn to appreciate him more. We are sorry that inexorable time has withdrawn him from active service, yet to know him is one of the greatest privileges we may ever expect to have.

JOHNATHAN Y. STANTON

Even the Latin sings his Praises

In 97 A. D., Pliny the Younger, a cultured and amiable Roman, wrote a tribute in honor of his friend Titus Aristo, an adherent of the Stoic philosophy and an eminent jurist, at that time seriously ill.

If we substitute the name of Jonathan Y. Stanton for that of Titus Aristo, and imagine the tribute to have been written only yesterday, Pliny seems to express in a peculiarly striking way the sentiments of almost every one of the hundreds of Bates men and women that have received instruction and inspiration from the lips of their beloved Professor. The sentiments, moreover, are especially appropriate because of Professor Stanton's life-long devotion to the Latin classics. His friends are happy, indeed, that no illness has fastened upon him, even the the twilight of his life makes them keenly anxious.

Pliny's words were these:

The long and stubborn illness of Titus Aristo, whom I both admire and love in an extraordinary degree, keeps me anxious. For no man is more dignified, more pure, more learned than he, so that not one man but literature itself and all noble arts seem to be approaching extreme danger in the case of this one individual. How learned he is both in private and in public law! What a fund of facts and of precedents he has, what a knowledge of antiquity! There is nothing that you may wish to know, which he can not explain: in my own case, at any rate, whenever I am looking up some abstruse subject, he is a storehouse of information. Moreover, in his conversation what sincerity there is, what weight of authority! How modest and becoming his caution! What is there that he does not know offhand? And yet, as a rule, he hesitates and wavers because of a diversity of reasons, which, with his keen and profound judgment, he traces back to their sources and first causes, discriminates between them, and weighs them. Then, too, how frugal he is in his manner of life, how modest in his style of dress! I usually think of his sleepingroom and couch as a sort of representation old-fashioned simplicity. And their adornment is the greatness of his mind, which refers nothing to ostentation as a motive, but everything to his conscience, and seeks the reward of a good deed not in the applause of the people but in the deed itself. In a word, you will not easily compare this man with any one of those men that display their interest in philosophy by their outward appearance. He does not, to be sure, frequent the gymnasia or the porticoes, neither does he delight his own leisure or that of others with long discussions, but he engages in the business of a citizen, aids many with assistance in court, more with private advice. And yet to no philosopher would he yield first place in point of purity, affection, justice, and even courage.

Horace also had in mind spirits that were kindred to Professor Stanton when, of his friends Plotius, Varius, and Vergil, he said:

. animae, qualis neque candidiores terra tulit, neque quis me sit devinctior alter, lines thus sympathetically translated by Wickham:

Whitest-souled of earth's children, and to whom none owes deeper debts than I.''

Fred A. Knapp, '96

PROF. STANTON:

A Friend and Father

At the beginning of the college year, 1864-5, there came into the Bates Faculty a young man who was destined to have a very prominent part in shaping the policy and character of the college, and in establishing the somewhat unique relations that have existed between the Students and Faculty, and the Alumni and their Alma Mater. He was quiet and modest in manner with an carnest, intellectual face that sometimes veiled but could not wholly conceal the kindly spirit that lay beneath. Professor Stanton without assuming any special authority soon came to be an important factor in the deliberations of the Faculty and in the general management of the college. His influence was felt at once in favor of thorough training and high standards of scholarship.

In the early, struggling years of the institution President Cheney found in him a loyal and earnest supporter and a sympathetic counselor. While he respected the best traditions and customs of the older colleges he believed in progress and was always in sympathy with whatever gave promise of real improvement. He originated the system of student debates, which for nearly fifty years has been so prominent a feature in the Bates training and which enabled our students to make such a remarkable record in Intercollegiate debates. The space allotted to this article does not allow the mention of many other important steps in the growth of the college which originated in his resourceful mind.

In the general relations of the college to sister institutions, to the Alumni and other interested friends his voice and his vote were ever in favor of broad and liberal policies, and many cases might be noted in which his influence secured favorable results. His relations to other members of the Faculty were of the pleasantest nature. While he had positive convictions of his own he was tolerant toward others who held different opinions, and his kindly spirit and unfailing humor easily smoothed out any troubled feeling. To those of the Faculty who came to it from year to year as younger members he was always a helpful counselor and generous friend, and I am sure that my colleagues will gladly unite with me in paying our highest tribute of respect and love to one who has been a friend and father to us all.

ATHLETICS

TRACK

Track athletics have received a new impetus of life as if aroused from a long and profound slumber. Up to and including January 31st one hundred and one men have answered the call for track work. While this is encouraging, it by no means satisfies Coach Ryan and Captain Small, who would like to see this number doubled by the first of March. Every man who goes out for the work will be sure of receiving personal attention, and of being trained for the event for which he is the best adapted.

Starting Feb. 13, a series of interclass games, has been been arranged for each Saturday in February. These will afford an excellent opportunity for competition to all those desiring to test their speed, skill, and strength in the different events. It is thought by our "live-wire" Coach that this is the best method of discovering the athletic talent which lies hidden in a great many of the students. It will also be a good method of developing a first class track team to carry the colors of old Bates against the other colleges in the spring.

It has been commonly thought that Bates would be very weak this year in track athletics, but the prospects now look very cheerful. In fact Coach Ryan thinks that in Capt. Small, '15; Butler, '17, Boyd, '16, Quimby, '18, Booker, '17, Lane, '18, Manuel, '15, and Mansfield, '15, he has several stars in the making, and that a first class track team can be built around them. The motto of the squad is F-I-G-H-T, and any group of men with this spirit will not be beaten very easily.

RELAY NOTES

The semi-final trials for the relay team were held last Friday, Jan. 29. Butler, '17, made the fastest time. Although, the coach did not cut the squad, on account of the very unfavorable weather conditions and because two of the twelve were unable to run, yet, in examining the times of the men, three of them, Butler, Boyd and Quimby, seem to be sure of making the team, while it is apparently a fight between Small, Keaney, and Mansfield for fourth place.

Regardless of who makes the team it is the duty of every loyal Bates man to show the track squad that they will receive the undivided support of the student body. The best way to do this is to accompany the team to the train with the brass band and give them a rousing "send-off." Although it is not known exactly what time the team will leave, it will probably be sometime Friday afternoon. Watch for the announcement and be ready to turn out when the call comes!

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Below is the ratified football schedule for the fall of 1915 as announced by Manager Boothby. This is not only the longest but the best series of games that the football department has arranged for many years. There are four out-of-the-State trips; the longest is to Hartford, Conn. Harvard and Tufts have been dropped in an effort to lighten the schedule, and in their places have been substituted Holy Cross and Trinity. The entirely new feature is the Dartmouth game which will be played at Hanover, N. H., one week after the Maine series closes.

- Sept. 25. Holy Cross at Worcester.
- Oct. 2. Fort McKinley at Lewiston.
- Oct. 9. Trinity at Hartford.
- Oct. 16. N. H. State at Durham.
- Oct. 23. U. of M. at Orono.
- Oct. 30. Bowdoin at Lewiston.
- Nov. 6. Colby at Lewiston.
- Nov. 13. Dartmouth at Hanover.

The Parker Hall Dash-Hound has a lease of life until April 1916. He was licensed under the name of "Schneider" by the Lewiston City Government last Friday.

George Ross has returned from his visit to the south. During his visit he was married to Miss Effie Evelyn Dulany of Alexandria, Virginia. Rev. C. H. Temple will address the Politics Club at its next meeting Wednesday, February 10.

Do you know that, Coach Ryan gave Bates a great "boost" in the New York papers. Pretty good advertising!

John Goba spent the week end with friends in Portland.

You will have an opportunity soon to entertain men from the other Maine Colleges! Let us show them that Bates is a live college.

Several parties have enjoyed the Tobogganing on Pole hill during the past week.

Roger Fiske, '17, has been sick over a week.

The Seniors are busy compiling their data for the 1915 Mirror.

Dr. Britan's book "The Philosophy of Music," has received recognition from Joseph Hoffman, the noted Pianist, who pronounces it one of the three best works on the subject.

Coach Ryan has moved his family to Lewiston, 28 Frye St. It looks as though the coach intended to stay with us.

PRESIDENT CHASE'S TRIP TO MINNEAPOLIS

On January 6th President Chase and Miss Elizabeth Chase began a journey whose final goal was Minneapolis, but which was broken by brief visits in Boston, New York, Chicago, and Fall River, Wis. The immediate incentive to this journey was a meeting of the college presidents of the country, held in Chicago, January 14, 15th, and 16th. This meeting, at which 166 colleges were represented, was undoubtedly the most important gathering of the kind ever held in the United States. The vital questions and serious problems of colleges and particularly of college presidents were discussed in a masterly and inspiring manner by educators representing nearly all parts of our country. An Association of American Colleges was formed and will, it is expected, meet hereafter at least once a year.

When President Chase decided to go to Chicago, he felt that he could not longer defer a visit to his nephew, Mr. Lester J. Hulse, of Fall River, Wis., and his niece, Mrs. Franklin S. Rau, of Minneapolis, Minn. The nephew he had not seen since 1876. His niece had made a short visit to her relatives in Maine in 1897.

Leaving Chicago at the close of the meeting of college presidents, the journey was continued, first to Fall River and then, after two days, to Minneapolis. President Chase was delighted with his opportunity for renewing associations with Bates graduates and immediately set about finding them personally and when this was impracticable, learning their addresses. In this endeavor he had the enthusiastic and efficient support of Mr. E. A. Merrill, Bates '86, now connected with the Minneapolis Steel and Machinery Company. He also had the backing of Mr. Harry L. Merrill, Bates '80, Superintendent of Schools of Hutchinson, Minn., and President of the Minnesota Teachers' Association.

The Bates people at command responded to these efforts with an enthusiasm and loyalty that had suffered no chill by time or by distance from their Alma Mater; and at five o'clock on the afternoon of January 21st there gathered at the Dyckman House in Minneapolis a group of Bates people whose eagerness to hear from home was keenly manifested in their earnest faces and their ardent greetings. Those attending were President George C. Chase and Miss Elizabeth Chase, from Maine; J. F. Keene, Esq.,

'74, G. H. Wyman, Esq., '77, and Mrs. Wyman; B. G. Eaton, '82, Principal of the '77, and Mrs. Hendricks School, St. Paul, and Mrs. Eaton; E. A. Merrill, '86, and Mrs. Merrill; Professor F. H. Bass, of the University of Minnesota, and Mrs. Bass (Lillian Leggett, '02); Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Harms (Aletha Rollins, '13), of the University of Minnesota; and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Rau, nephew and niece of President Chase.

It was a very informal, spontaneous, and wholly charming dinner party. Spring flowers, a spacious and substantial round table, and an appropriate menu, all in a room reserved for the guests, afforded setting and surroundings in harmony with the occasion. Had there been more time for preparation the number present might have been somewhat larger. It was discovered almost at the moment of the gathering of the party that Joel Parsons, '67, President of the Minneapolis Chess Club, and the oldest living graduate of Bates, was in the City. Great effort was made to find him, but without success. It was learned too late, also, that Mrs. Josephine King Bodge, '92, was a resident of Minneapolis. Mrs. J. W. Smith, widow of J. W. Smith, '77, would have been present but for the illness of her daughter. F. H. Stinchfield, Esq., '00, a leader among the younger attorneys of Minneapolis, planned to be present, but could not escape from professional duties. President Chase discovered on his way homeward that E. E. Daicey, '02, and Mrs. Daicey, of South Bend, Ind., had been in Minneapolis attneding a telephone convention. Harry L. Merrill, '80, was kept at home by the critical illness of his wife's mother. It had been found impossible to make seasonable connection with John F. Merrill, Esq., '82, of Red Wing.

No description could do justice to the delight with which Bates people in Minneapolis hailed the opportunity. Mr. Wyman, a leading attorney in Minneapolis, rode all night on a train not provided with sleepers, in order to be present. He had scarcely seen the College during the more than 37 years since he graduated. Keene, who had been away for forty years from his Alma Mater, was perhaps the most alert and animated of the whole company.

It is believed that this meeting will revive the Bates Alumni Association of Minnesota that, after a deep slumber of ten or more years, has awakened in full vigor. As President Chase was obliged to take a train at 7.45 P.M., he left the company in the midst of their social enjoyment. There was no time for speeches but in his brief sketch of the Bates College of to-day, President Chase said that it filled him with joy to greet so many familiar faces, upon no one of which could there be seen a trace of tastes or habits unworthy of the ideals of Bates.

During his visit in the city President Chase and his daughter visited Mr. Eaton's school. He has been principal of this school for 23 years and is loved and honored as are few principals by his teachers and pupils.

While in Minneapolis President Chase lunched with Mr. Stinchfield, and he and his daughter dined with Mr. and Mrs. Eaton on Wednesday, with Mr. and Mrs. Wyman on Thursday.

CAMPUS NOTES

The first Strawberry of the season at Ross's.

The Alumni responded heartily at the Stanton Banquet. The manager received five subscriptions.

Wanted: Someone to write an appeal that will melt the hearts of our graduates to the extent of $1.50.

He that borrows and returns promptly, seldom borrows.

The Dramatic Club received new members at their meeting last Wednesday night.

Watch for Coach Ryan's articles in the Student. We may get some new light on athletics and athletes.

Do you know that we would have beaten Colby anyway.

Coach Ryan intends to have games in the gym each Saturday for men who have never taken part in athletics.

If you want your grades sent to you, leave an addressed and stamped envelope at the registrar's office.

The men who went to the B. A. A. games were introduced to all the big athletes by Coach Ryan. Probably some of those men will think of Bates a little more often now than they have in the past.

Joint deputation from Bowdoin and Bates went to Hebron last Sunday.

Prof. Hertell gave an address at Westbrook Seminary on their Day of Prayer, Feb. 4.

Secreatry Rowe spoke to a large audience in the Portland First Baptist Church, last Sunday.

Victor Swicker is teaching for a week in Wells, Maine.

Walter Oakman is spending a week working in Boston.

"May I print a kiss on your lips," I asked, she nodded her sweet permission, so we went to press, and I rather guess we printed a large edition.

Dr. Tubbs led Chapel one morning during examination week.

"Al" Ireland visited at Bates Sunday, Feb. 7.

At the meeting of the Dramatic Club tomorrow night there will be a discussion of current events in the New York and Boston theaters and also a description of the Neighborhood Theater.

Fred Smith, '15, has been in the Hospital recovering from a cut over the eye.

Nearly every organization in College have had their pictures taken during the last week except the Up and Coming Club!!!

The Jordan Scientific Society held a banquet at the Lake Grove House, Saturday evening.

More spirit shown at the track meet last Saturday than we have noticed for some time.

Student Conference here tomorrow and everybody ought to make room for a visitor for the week end.

Baseball practice will begin next week. Can't we back up Coach Purington as we have Coach Ryan?

Schneider has a new collar.

The Spofford Club will hold its regular meeting on Thursday evening, Feb. 18. The program includes the reading of an original short-story by Hazel Mitchell, '16, an essay by Leslie Carey, '15, and a poem by Harold Buker, '16.

Mr. R. C. Boisoneau, '17, will be obliged to leave college for a while on account of trouble with his eyes.

The Misses Ellinor and Lillian Clough of Nashua, New Hampshire, have been spending a few days with their sister, Miss Florence Clough, '18.

Miss Helen S. Mitchell, '17, has been spending a few days at her home in Turner, Maine.

Miss Arline M. Hunt, formerly of the class of 1917, spent th week end with Miss Lottie P. Gregg, 177 Wood Street.

It was just one year ago that this section of Maine was visited with a terrific blizzard.

Miss Brewer, '18, has been entertaining her brother for several days.

Mr. Allan Mansfield, '15, and Miss Laura Mansfield, '18, have had their father with them for a few days.

Dr. Leonard did not meet his classes on Friday or on Saturday.

Miss Alice M. Fittz spent the week end in Boston.

Miss Amy Hayden, '16, has been visiting in Norway, Maine.

The Misses Russell, Warren, Thompson, Worth, Piper, Robertson and Nelson—all of the class of 1916—have been at home sometime during examination week.

Miss Elinor Newman, '17, is substituting this week in the Cony High School at Augusta, Maine.

Miss Annie Leathers, '18, entertained a group of Freshman Girls at her home on College Street, a week ago Wednesday.

There is a good deal of "kicking" because somebody keeps borrowing the papers from the Parker Hall reading room. Too bad that the Association has to buy papers and then only one or two men get a chance to read them. When not borrowed, they are used for paper bats to torment Schneider so what's the difference.

Read what Coach Ryan has to say about athletics. He has a great many things to tell us in future editions.

We are glad to welcome on our campus men from the other Maine Colleges and also from the Preparatory Schools. Here is an opportunity for Bates men to show their hospitality. Have a good word for everybody. A hearty "hello" means a great deal to a stranger.

Now we have some real spirit in our track work, let everybody take hold and help. The Coach asks that we turn out next Saturday and watch the men work. Why not practice a few cheers while we wait! Let's have a mass meeting out by the gymnasium.

Speaking about cheers, we need a few songs. How many students now in Bates have seen the college song book? There is one, but it has only about six songs. We could easily compile a book with at least two hundred songs. Tufts has recently produced one with four hundred.

This is a real live topic and the time to act is now. The Student will give a column for this purpose in the issue of March 4. Let every man and woman in Bates suggest a song that ought to go into that book. And what is better let all the poets compose. Leave your suggestions or composition in the Student box at the Librarian's desk. We want to publish a column of suggestions March 4. Everybody help.

Fellowship, real, true, lasting fellowship should be found in college life." Not that fellowship which results when we spend an evening at the theater together; not that which is found in the everyday experiences in the class-room, or other associations—such is, indeed, good; but that fellowship which comes when man meets man, when together they share the deeper experiences of life and face the problems that must needs enter every mind, this is the fellowship which will be remembered when college days are over; this is what counts in the game of life.

STANTON CLUB BANQUET

The fifteenth annual banquet of the Stanton Club was held at the Congress Square Hotel in Portland, Friday evening, Feb. 15. Eighty-four graduates were present.

At the business meeting the following officers were elected: Pres. J. F. Fanning, '93; Vice-Pres., J. R. Dunton, '87; Secretary-Treasurer, L. M. Sanborn, '92. It was voted to hold the banquet in Lewiston next year. Pres. Chase spoke on "The Greatest Need of Bates," the Spirit of J. Y. Stanton.

Other speakers were: W. F. Garcelon, '90, "Growth of Bates and Physical Training at Bates''; Mrs. Ella Nutter Chase, '00, "Bates Women''; L. M. Sanborn, '92, "The Stanton Club."

Lantern slides were presented by Prof. F. E. Pomeroy, and the College Quartet gave selections. The only gloom of the evening was that Prof. Stanton was unable to be present.

BATES B. A. A. TEAM

The result of the relay race bewteen Colby, Maine, Bowdoin and Bates for the championship of Maine held in conjunction with the annual indoor games of the Boston Athletic Association at Mechanics Pavilion, Boston, Mass., on Feb. 6, proved quite a surprise to the Athletic sharps. The consensus of opinion was that Colby would easily defeat Bates, and that Maine would defeat Bowdoin in the trial heats then fight it out between themselves for the final. Colby was conceded a slight favorite over Maine.

Bates drew Colby for the first trial heat and Captain Small was first man up for Bates. He easily gained the lead and was running very strong and steady entering the stretch for the second lap when Royal the first man up for Colby sprinted up and committed a rank foul. He passed Small on the inside and threw him away up on the corner and shook him up considerably, when Small regained his stride he caught up to Royal again but the latter insisted on using his elbows and every other means at his disposal to keep Small from going into the lead again. Small had to be content to run far below his best speed and he gave Mansfield the second man for Bates an even start with his opponent. Mansfield got away good and was fouled on the first turn by the Colby man. The Colby team was then disqualified by Referee Sill and the race was awarded to Bates. The Bates team was a great deal stronger than was generally thought and would have undoubtedly beaten Colby on their merits had the latter run a fair race as Butler and Boyd, the third and fourth men for Bates, more than held their own against the Colby runners in the last two relays. The Bates men ran strong and even throughout and used good judgment.

In the second heat Bowdoin beat Maine, who also persisted in using foul tactics but were not disqualified as Bowdoin's team was easily the fastest and won despite the foul.

In the final heat Bates met Bowdoin and both teams ran a very fast, clean race.

Bowdoin beat Bates by ten yards in 3.13 2-5 the fastest time ever made by a Maine team at the B. A. A. games. The Bowdoin team was better seasoned than the Bates team, which had only been in training for two weeks, and consequently was better able to stand the strain of an extra heat.

The first of a series of weekly handicap games were held at the Gymnasium and board track last Saturday and proved quiet a success both from a competitive standpoint and the amount of interest that they aroused. One hundred and fifty-eight entries were received for the eight events contested and the competition was very keen. The feature of the meet was the running of Butler, '17, who won his heat in 5.4-5 seconds then came back and won the final in the same time which is only 2-5 of a second slower than the world's record for the distance.

It is proposed to conduct a similar meet every Saturday afternoon throughout the winter and the staunchest support of the faculty and student body is solicited.

The Summary:

COLLEGE ATHLETICS

Their benefits to the student and the institutions.

The advantages derived from athletics by a college and its students are a hundred fold and they should be indulged in to the fullest extent by the student body and encouraged to the very limit by the institution.

The college that has the best athletic teams will invariably get the most recognition by the newspapers which find their way into every family circle and after a time the name of the said college becomes very familiar, obtaining an advantage over others to recruit young men who are about to enter college. Every youth is more or less interested in athletics and the national pastimes and naturally has a strong desire to affilliate himself with an institution which can produce the best teams and afford the best facilities and advantages for athletic as well as mental development. The world loves a winner and it is one of the greatest desires of human nature to excell or to be associated with the There are thousands of youths graduated from the different preparatory schools throughout the country every year, who wish to continue their studies in college and who are at a loss to determine which college to attend. Eighty per cent of these boys finally decide on some college that offers great athletic advantages because they are either actively interested in athletics or because they love athletics and want to become a part of an institution that excells in athletic activities.

College athletics are now recognized as a very important part of the life of the college man. Around the sport of the college cluster many of its most cherished traditions and it is in some ways the very life and soul of the college spirit so much talked about.

The life of the college student is sedentary in character and on that very account the heads of our colleges and universities are right in encouraging sport and athletics along all lines because of the great good and many benefits that the students derive from them. Athletics bring the student out into the open and give him a good healthy means of diversion and relaxation from the long tedious grind of the class and study rooms. It develops in him a strong pair of lungs, a stout heart, and a powerful physique. What is more to be desired than a strong mind in a sound body? The competition develops alertness, keenness of vision, and quickness of thought. To be successful in athletics a man must have courage, and competition develops a sticktoitiveness and a never-saydie spirit which is one of the greatest attributes to possess.

Every college man should get into some form of athletics. He may not make the teams, but he will be building up his body and mind, and making himself a more valuable member of society. There are thousands of students in our colleges who do not come out for athletics because they feel they cannot make the team. Many of them would do very well in some sport and they should have confidence in themeslyes. They should keep on trying even though they do not make the team for they are surely building up their physical powers.

Athletics teach a man how to care for his body properly. Dissipation and the practice of the common vices of smoking and drinking are not consistent with successful athletics. The athlete learns how to develop the highest physical, mental, and nervous co-ordination.

Athletics afford the student opportunity to travel and opportunities of acquaintance, which produce opportunities in business in after life. They also offer an extra incentive to study for he must keep up in his work to be allowed to make the team. (The desire to make the team or the disgrace of being kept from the team for lack of study very frequently makes the college athlete keep up in his work.) Had he no such incentive, he would waste his time in other ways and make no effort to do well in his studies.

Last but not least, athletics produce in a man an undying love for his alma-mater for when he makes the team he feels his duty to his college and will fight to the very last ditch to uphold the honor and glory of the colors that he is wearing and nothing is as lasting or as greatly cherished as that which is hard fought for.

IMPORTANT

"Opportunity to Work Your Way Through College"

I desire a Freshman to travel for me during the month of September and to represent me in the district in which your college is located. The reason I want a Freshman is: the experience he would gain the first year would make him twice as efficient the two remaining years he would be in college. If you are going to take a post-graduate course, all the better, as an agreement can be made for a term of years.

I want a good, bright hustler so that it would pay him as well as myself. A college man whom I had for five years and is now graduated, always made, clear, $100.00 to $125.00 in September.

Write at once, giving me your age, home address, references and whether you would be home for your Easter vacation, that I may plan to see you on my spring trip and make arrangements to settle the matter and start you early in the fall.

H. EARLE WELT, 149 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

The State Y. M. C. A. convention, held here last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, was a success in every way. Our two hundred visitors were entertained among the citizens of Auburn and Lewiston and in the dormitories of the college.

On Friday evening all the delegations marched down to the Pine Street Congregational Church behind a band composed of boys of the Main Street Church.

The convention was officially opened there with a banquet. Among the speakers were President Chase and Principal Stanley R. Oldham of M. C. I. The main address was given by Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt of Portland, whose topic was, "In Line With Destiny." Saturday was taken up by conferences, a business meeting, and another address by Rev. Mr. Leavitt. E. L. Saxton, '15, was elected President of the conference, and he conducted the remaining sessions.

Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt probably did the most of any of the speakers toward making the conference the success that it was. Rev. George R. Stair, also of Portland, gave a fine address Sunday afternoon, and in the evening the delegates and friends listened to Dean M. W. Jacobus and President Hersey of the Maine State Senate. The conference adjourned Sunday night after a parting talk by Frances P. Miller of New York.

STUDENT COUNCIL INVESTIGATION

Early in the fall the Politics Club of Bates College voted that a comparative study be made of our Student Council and those of other colleges. This motion was made in order to learn whether the criticism that has been directed towards our council is warranted.

A committee, largely made up of members of the Student Council, was appointed with full power to make a close study of the various organizations of student government in other colleges. The committee corresponded with eleven of the colleges of the East, among which were Princeton, Brown, Amherst, Tufts, and Bowdoin.

At a recent meeting the Club voted that the findings of the committee be presented to the students for their consideration.

I. The Student Council of any college is as powerful as the public opinion of the students wish it to be; when a political body of any kind shows itself to be capable of self-government this right can readily be obtained.

II. That a strong public opinion must be created which will demand and support a strong executive power in the hands of the Student Council.

III. That the president of the Council should be elected by a vote of the Council itself; the efficiency of this body depends largely upon the initiative of its leader; and he should be elected because of his ability, not on the basis of popularity.

IV. That a committee of the Faculty and a committee of the Council form a joint committee to definately define the sphere of the Council's action; that the Council's decision upon all matters in this sphere be final and not subject to review by the Faculty.

V. That evidence collected by the Council in any case shall not be required by the Faculty for use in any investigation which it may decide to make.

Respectfully submitted by Student Council Committee of the Politics Club.

Those well acquainted with Carnegie Science Hall have observed with pleasure the new magazine cabinet recently placed there. It is the gift of a kind friend of the college, Mrs. Ira L. Bickford, and now furnishes a valuable addition to the equipment of the Carnegie Hall Library.

CAMPUS NOTES

The argumentation section of the Seniority will have charge of the next regular meeting of the society, Friday, Feb. 26. The program will consist largely of extemporaneous speaking.

Entre Nous will present the program already arranged for the last meeting.

The W. A. C. C. will give an evening of Maine Musicians. The program will consist of a piano selection from Kotzschmar, by Miss Thompson, '16, sketch of Nordica's life by Miss MacDonald, '17, sketch of Kate Vannah by Miss Capen, '17, a vocal selection by Miss Smith, '17, sketch of Emma Eames by Miss Hutchins, '16, talk about the Portland Municipal Organ with an appreciation of Hermann Kotzschmar by Miss Sales, '17, and a piano selection from Kotzschmar by Miss Nelson, '16.

Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19, Dean Buswell and Miss Fitz entertained the Bates Needle Club at Rand Hall. The seniors were invited guests. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed.

The past week Rand Hall has been invaded by the painters, with the result that the corridors are now fresh and clean with their new coat.

Miss Margie Bradbury, '16, spent the week end at her home.

Miss Flora Warren, '16, has been entertaining her cousin, Miss Florence Hayes, at Rand Hall.

Washington's birthday found many of our girls away from the campus. Among those who were at Poland Springs were Miss Hazel Seavey, '17, Miss Dorothy Barton, '18, Miss Hazel Campbell, '17, Miss Gladys Hutchinson, '18, Miss Agnes Bryant, '16, Miss Ruth Beane, '15, and Miss Ethel Haggett, '18.

Four group pictures were taken Thursday moon of the girls' gymnastic classes and of the gymnasium. These are to be shown at the New England Women's Athletic Conference to be held at Wellesley this spring.

C. B. Holt, '13, head of the science department of Rust College, writes from Mississippi that robins and bluebirds are on their way north.

Miss Amy Hayden, '16, spent the week-end in Norway.

Miss Florence Clough, '18, visited Miss Doris Ingersoll, '18, in Portland over Monday.

Miss Esther Wadsworth, '15, went home over the holiday.

Miss Hildred Robertson, '16, entertained her sister at Rand Hall this week.

Miss Florence M. Hooper, '15, is convalescing at her home in Gorham.

Miss Ruth Chapman, '18, has been entertaining her mother over the week-end.

Miss Agnes Thompson, '16, has been visiting Miss Marion Everett, formerly of the class of 1916.

Miss Edith Rideout, '15, spent the weekend at her home in Norway.

Miss Barbara Morrill, '15, and Miss Winifred Jewell, '15, spent the holiday in Poland.

Miss Ruth L. Sturgis, '17, spent the weekend in Portland.

Miss Ethel Bennett, '17, has been called to her home in Sanford on account of the illness of her mother.

Eukuklios is already preparing for the big reception of the year, to be held March 13.

The girls' athletics have been little advertised of late. However, the good work now being done in class drill and the enthusiasm now shown in basketball, promise some fine exhibitions not far distant.

We celebrated Washington's birthday by raising the flag on Hathorn Hall.

The only criticism that we heard of Bates, from the convention delegates, was that the men attended chapel in their sweaters, looking like a bunch of "Hecks." We wonder if that isn't a pretty good suggestion.

They say that about twenty of our number failed to survive the examinations.

Harlon Fossett, '15, spent the week-end with his roommates in Parker Hall.

Earl Harding has had his tonsils removed. He is convalescing on Wood street.

John Goba, '16, is taking a vacation in Portland.

Read the resolutions of the Politics Club in this issue of the Student.

Do you know that Anna Eva Fay predicted that Bates would win the baseball championship this spring?

The Bates Band could not lead the procession of delegates, so the boys from the Free Baptist Church had to supply the music.

The Handicap Meet Saturday afternoon was won by 1916. The ten man relay being the feature event of the day.

The last meet of the season will be held next Saturday. This is your last chance before the annual indoor class meet in City Hall in March. New features will be introduced, including a medley race.

Arnold Thomas, '15, spent the holiday at his home in Winthrop.

Bates will be represented at the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco. Our delegation has already started on its journey across the continent.

The arrangements are nearly complete for the City Hall Meet, March 10.

Fables in slang. The hard courses shall be made easy.

Between fifty and sixty men were entertained on the Campus during the convention.

Coach Purinton and a few men enjoyed the holiday at Tripp lake on a fishing trip.

The boys said that the food at our commons was a good deal better than at their school dining rooms.

The Faculty have been in almost constant session for several days. There must be a filibustery.

Dr. Tubbs has appointed a conference hour at 10 o'clock Thursday of each week. Men are invited to come and talk over any problem at that time.

Coach Ryan's mass meetings are rivaling in popularity Billy Sunday's. He hasn't attempted to take up a collection as yet.

The debating teams are debating twice each week in preparation for the contests with Tufts and Clark in March.

J. S. S. BANQUET

Saturday evening, February 13th, the members of the Jordan Scientific Society held their Fifth Annual Banquet, at the Lake Grove House in Auburn. An excellent shore dinner was enjoyed, after which President Higgins introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Professor Pomeroy, under whose direction the post prandials were carried out. Nichols, '16, gave an outline of the purpose and scope of the society. Mr. W. N. Watson, the first president of the society, spoke on "Finding Yourself." Prof. W. R. Whitehorne summarized "Recent Discoveries in Physics;" Prof. Ramsdell pointed out the importance of "Perseverance;" Mr. W. H. Saw-yer, Jr., gave a description of "The Sewage System of Brockton, Mass.;" Dr. Tyman G. Jordan, in whose honor the Society was named, showed that the present time is "The Scientific Age;" and Clifford, '15, gave a speech of appreciation of "The Faculty."

The banquet was pronounced a success by all present, and Dr. Jordan, Mr. Watson, and Mr. Sawyer, all of whom are well qualified to know, said it was the best banquet the Society had ever had.

A HORACE—NOT A HORSE

A member of the Freshman Latin Classes walked into the bookstore one day last week and asked: "Have you a Hor'ce?"

The reply came quickly: "Most certainly not. We do not sell them!"
"But," was the astonished question,

"But," was the astonished question, "couldn't—couldn't you send for one? Why, we have got to have it for Latin next semester."

"Well, you'd better not have any such thing. No, we could not send for one either."

"You couldn't send for one? Why, I don't understand. We've all got to have Hor'ces; and the Professor said—"

Wonderingly the poor little Freshman walked out, unenlightened.

The report of the committee which has been investigating the Student Council work in several colleges is worthy of serious consideration. The Student Council is a body of men elected from the various classes, whose purpose is to act in behalf of the student interests thruout the college. It is supposedly composed of the leading men in college life; men whose opinions and decisions should have weight with college authorities as well as with the students themselves.

Such a council should fulfill various obligations; it should have a definite field in which to work, and in that field its authority must be unmolested by any superior body, if it in any way accomplishes its purpose. There are many problems in everyday college life that could be satisfactorily solved, and many things pertaining to the students in their intimate relationships that could be adjusted by the Student Council. We even believe that it is reasonably proper for the council to be connected with the scholarship standing of the men in the college. In this we would advise that the faculty use the council as a medium thru which it might deal with necessary problems, both the students themselves and the college activities.

As suggested in the report, public opinion is a main factor in determining the power of the council. We feel that the aggressiveness of the council itself is also no small factor in arousing public opinion. Bates needs public opinion, and every student from the freshman to the senior should feel that each has a duty to perform in creating this opinion.

If our Student Council is to be a potential body, we must give them support. We must regard their actions as taken for the welfare of the college interests; we must lend aid in carrying out all decrees; we must, then, place the council in a position of dignity and of trust. In turn we can justly demand that it render unbiased service, that it hold itself worthy of respect, and that it always maintain as its purpose the betterment of existing conditions.

If our council has not fulfilled its rightful position in the past, let us now move forward. The "has beens" of life often hide the "can bes." We hope that soon the Student may present the report of the Faculty and Student Council committee.

ATHLETICS

SECOND HANDICAP MEET

The result of the second weekly handicap games held on the board track and in the gymnasium last Saturday proved a great success from every standpoint. The competition was keen and exciting, and the audience of about three hundred spectators was highly enthusiastic and found the games very enter-taining. The features of the meet were the running of Capt. Small and Butler '17 in the dash, the finish of Mansfield and Syrene in the 1000-yard run, and the spectacular finish of the interclass relay race.

Butler '17 was credited with winning his heat in the 60-yard dash from scratch in six and two-fifths seconds, which is only one-fifth of a second behind the world's record for the distance. If this time is correct (and there were three timers) it stamps Butler as one of the best sprinters in the country and one who will have nothing to fear in the State Meet in the spring.

Captain Small seems to have come into his own again. In the 60-yard dash he performed wonderfully Saturday. From the one yard mark he won his trial heat in six and four-fifths seconds. Unfortunately in this dash he found a weak spot in one of the boards on the track and went through, giving his ankle and instep a severe wrenching. This, however, did not deter him from coming out for his semi-final heat which he won with a wonderful display of courage and grit. Again in the final heat he proved his metal by winning in the very fast time of six and threefifths seconds from his mark of one yard.

The thousand yard event proved a very pretty and spectacular race. Mansfield '15 allowed handicaps up to sixty-five yards and won by inches from Syrene '16 (who started from the fifteen yard mark) in the very creditable time of two minutes and thirty-eight seconds. Mansfield and Syrene give promise of developing into first class middle-distance

By far the most interesting event of the afternoon was the interclass relay races. There were ten men on each team, each man covered two hundred and forty-two yards, making the entire distance two thousand four hundred and twenty yards for each team. In the first preliminary 1915 met 1916. The race was a 'ding dong" affair from start to finish, 1916 finally winning out by about six yards. After a hard race 1917 outdistanced 1918 in the second preliminary. The final race between the two winners, 1916 and 1917, proved to be the fastest and most exciting ever seen here. First 1916 led, then 1917 took the lead from them, and it see-sawed back and forth, first one leading then the other throughout the race until it came to the last relay. Boyd was the anchor man for 1916 and Butler for 1917. Receiving almost an even start they sped around the corners on the wings of the wind and dashed down the straights like two frightened hares. The spectators were on their toes every moment in the frenzy of excitement. Turning the last corner and entering the stretch for the last desperate drive for the tape, Boyd, by a superhuman effort, managed to hurl his body across the finish line scarcely two inches ahead of Butler. The time of the race, five minutes and ten seconds, · was exceedingly fast for such a difficult track.

COACH RYAN'S COMMENTS

The results obtained from the Saturday meets are very satisfactory, as some of the athletes are beginning to show rare ability and the chances of developing a very strong team for the spring meets are very favorable. Bates is by no means weak in athletic talent, as is generally supposed. All that is required to prove this is for the men to come out for practice and to take part in the weekly games to test their ability. For instance, take the case of Butler. Here is a diamond in the rough, who first started to take track work a month ago. Now he can approach the world's record. There is no telling what he will do when he has a year's experience.

Let every man in the college come out and test his ability. In all probability we can find some more rough diamonds among them. If so, we will do all in our power to polish off the roughness and make champions of them.

It is discouraging to know that there are a number of men out for track work who are either disinterested or are quitters. Nearly twelve men who were signed up for the various events last Saturday failed to answer the call of the Clerk of Course and toe their marks. Men of this stamp never excel at anything. Come out and take your beating if you are not good enough to win, and if you are, fight for your victory. There is glory in honorable defeat, and a victory gained after a hard fight is most gratifying.

The Indoor Meet is coming on March 10th. Paste the date in your hat and tell your friends and relations to come to see you and your classmates win. Be on your toes boosting all the time. Let us all get our shoulders to the wheel and make this meet the greatest financial, social, and athletic success that Bates has ever known.

Our Freshman Relay Team will run a race against the Bowdoin Freshmen at the Indoor Meet, March 10th; and on March 19th they will go to Brunswick to run them again at the Bowdoin Indoor games. The manager has arranged several other outside relay races for the meet at City Hall, including one between Portland High and Westbrook Seminary, one between Edward Little and Lewiston High. and one between Frye and Webster Grammar schools.

The games at the board track and gymnasium next Saturday afternoon will be the last prior to the Indoor Meet. Therefore everybody should get out this week and begin to train faithfully. There are one hundred and thirty-two candidates on the track squad now.

At this last Handicap Meet next Saturday the pole vault, high jump, shot put and standing broad jump will be elimination trials to determine who will be eligible to compete in these events at the indoor games. As these events are long-drawn out affairs, it is not deemed advisable to bore the spectators and spoil their evening by too much of this kind of work. Therefore, only the first five men in each of these events will be allowed to com-

INDOOR MEET

On the evening of March 10th all roads will lead to City Hall, where the annual indoor interclass games and interscholastic meet will be held. The meet this year promises to be the most interesting and greatest ever held by the Bates College Athletic Association, because of the large and varied program of events and the large number of interscholastic and interclass relay races that have been arranged. The new features that have never been witnessed here before will be a three-legged race and a medley relay race. These events should prove immensely interesting as they call for unusual athletic ability and are so odd that anyone has a chance to win.

A larger number of men have entered for this meet than ever before, and they are all in good shape and familiar with the events in which they are to take part, owing to their participation in the weekly handicap games that have been held every Saturday afternoon. For this reason it is expected that several records will be broken and that the competition will be keen and exciting throughout. The records that may go are: the pole vault (Drew, '16, has beaten the college record in practice several times), the standing broad jump, with Stinson and Blanchard fighting for the honors, and the mile run, with Lane, Doe, Webber and DeWolfe toeing the scratch. This quartet of distance runners is thought by many to be the best that ever represented Bates.

The interclass relay races are bound to be the most interesting and bitterly contested events of the evening. The teams are all evenly matched and the rivalry is intense. Capt. Small, Boyd '16, Butler '17 and Quimby '18 will run as anchor men on their respective teams.

Those who saw the Bowdoin Interscholastic Meet reported that Lewiston High and Edward Little High produced the closest and most exciting race of the meet. These two teams have been booked by the management to re-run their great dual at City Hall, March 10th, and prove beyond a doubt which is the better team. The other teams that have been matched are: Portland High School against Westbrook Seminary, Bates '18 vs. Bowdoin '18, and Frye G. S. vs. Webster G. S. Mayor Wiseman of Lewiston, who is a great lover of athletics and clean, manly sport, has consented to act as referee at the meet.

Now it is up to us to show the right spirit. If everyone will get together and do his part, we can make this meet the greatest ever held in the State. Boost—boost—boost all the time from now until the night of the meet. Talk about it to everyone you meet and whereever you go. Invite all your friends and acquaintances, and we will pack the biggest crowd that City Hall ever held.

M. I. C. A. A.

At the annual meeting of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic Association last Saturday at Brunswick, it was decided that the State meet must be held at Waterville, May 15th, rather than at Brunswick as had been proposed. This decision came when it was found that it would be strictly unconstitutional to have the meet anywhere else except at Colby. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, L. E. Philbrook, U. of M.; vicepresident, R. E. Merrill, Bates; treasurer, A. R. Willard, Colby; and secretary, W. E. Chase, Bowdoin.

THIRD HANDICAP MEET

The last interclass handicap track meet before the big meet in City Hall, was held last Saturday afternoon on the board track and in the gymnasium. Like the other two, it went off with a snap and was full of interest from start to finish. Although a strong wind was blowing, very good times were made in all the sprints and relay races.

The three-legged race, which was won by Davis '17 and Connors '17, was one of the most unique and interesting features of the meet. Among the other freak events was a two-mile team race, which was won by Lane '18 and Stettbacker '17. There were four teams in this race with two men on each team. First one man would run a lap, then his partner would take it up; and so on until each team had covered twenty-nine laps. By giving the long-distance men this kind of work, Coach Ryan hopes to develop speed in them as well as endurance.

Another big feature was the relay race between 1916 and 1917, although it was simply a repetition of the fight put up by these two teams in the meets on the two preceding Saturdays. The junior team, having won a five-yard gain at the first of the race, was able to squeeze out another victory by the small margin of one yard.

Quimby '18 made a fine showing in the low hurdles. He won both his trial and final heats. Since this is his first attempt to hurdle, the coach thinks that he has in him the making of a first-class hurdler. He has both the stride and the speed and all that he needs is the form, which he can easily get by practice.

The four floor events, which were held in the gymnasium, were elimination trials for the Indoor Meet. The first five men will be the only contestants allowed to compete in these events at City Hall. Those who qualified in the shot put are: Lord '16, Boyd '16, Pedbereznak '17, Witham '15. and Stillman '16. In the standing broad jump, Stinson '15, Keaney '16, Boyd '16. Lawrence '18, Fowler '18, and Blanchard '15. In the high jump: Gibbs '16, Pinkham '16, Drew '16, Keaney '16, and Stinson '15. In the pole vault: Tucker '16, Cummings '16, and Drew '16.

Deutscher Verein On Monday evening, at the regular meeting of the Verein, McCann, '16, read a very interesting paper on Gerhart Hanptmann. Following this, general practice in conversational German was participated in by all the members. A German game, not unlike our English game of authors, was played, which proved not only a fertile source of conversation, but an interesting and enjoyable game as well.

CAMPUS NOTES

Miss Charlotte Piper '16 has recently returned from her home in Biddeford.

Miss Alma Smiley '15, who has been ill for some time, has also returned to college.

An unusually interesting meeting of the Nowaday Club was held Tuesday evening, Feb. 23, in the history room at Hathorn Hall, when Professor Gould spoke to the members and several invited guests on current events of the day.

The girl's mission study classes have begun the semester's work. Rumor has it that enthusiasm is lacking. Girls, why not wake up and make them a great success?

Saturday evening, Feb. 27, the Senior girls' hockey team enjoyed a banquet in the gymnasium,—one more delight added to that of winning the championship in the games of last fall!

Wednesday evening, March 3, the Y. W. C. A. will hold its election of officers. All come, for every vote counts.

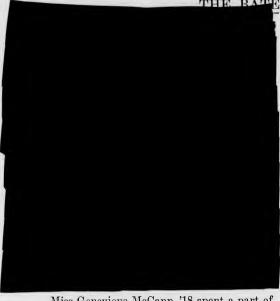

Thursday, March 4, the meeting of the Spofford Club will be in charge of Miss Marion Cole '15. Miss Frances Bryant '15, and Miss Mabel Durgan.

Saturday evening, Feb. 27, Dean Buswell entertained the girls of the Junior class at her rooms in Rand Hall. The occasion took the form of a sort of private "needle club." as the hostess aptly phrased it; and was delightfully informal and pleasing in every detail.

At Sunday Evening Vespers at Rand Hall this week, Professor J. M. Carroll gave a most practical talk on "Social Service."

The New Hampshire Club will entertain all the New Hampshire men on Saturday evening, March 6.

Aren't we all interested in having the opportunity of attending soon the minstrel show to be given by the Sophomore girls?

Miss Genevieve McCann '18 spent a part of last week at her home in Portland.

LOVE AND WINE

Beneath the silent depths of love,
A maiden phantom reared her stately form;
My heart was her refreshing grove,—
My soul a shelter for the crashing storm.
I loved her with my bosom's power;
I thought of her in wakefulness and dream,
But thought alone is like a flower
That blooms unseen beside the woodland stream.

I built my castles high and fair, Far from the world of pain and dismal grief; With her alone my love to share, In her alone to find my soul's relief. Softly the moments flew away. Gently the nights passed from moon to moon; Like whispers in the flowery May My love-songs stirred the silence of the noon.

One day I took her hand in mine To place a ring my love with hers to bind. She laughed, and said, asking for more wine: "Cut your kidding, Bill, I'm not that kind."

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

College men who earn a large part or all of their college expenses will doubtless be greatly interested again this year in the free scholarships offered under the direction of their Fund to self-supporting students. For the past six years over 1200 students have won free cash scholarships worth $100 to $1000 apiece.

President Wilson, together with five prominent college presidents, has endorsed this plan of awarding free scholarships to ambitious students. A certificate of such endorsement is placed in the hands of every student whose application for enrollment as a candidate is accepted.

These scholarships are not competitive in any sense of the word but are available to any student of good character. Each student is apportioned an exclusive radius. The scholarship is won, not for class room efficiency, but for practical work during the summer months or in spare time through the college year.

College employment bureaus from Maine to California recommend this plan as a sure means of meeting college expenses for self-supporting students. The work possesses a dignity and distinction which invariably appeals to the college men. It is always congenial and eminently satisfactory financially. Over 150 scholarships were awarded students the past summer. Mr. Arthur Henkel. of Valparaiso University, winning a $1000 scholarship by 10 weeks' work.

Any self-supporting student can secure full particulars without obligation by dropping a postal card at once for "The Adventures of Chet Clark, a student here in the Class of 1911, passed two days in the reading room of Parker Hall last week, representing A. Shuman of Boston, clothes for college men.

Eleven Freshman girls braved the cold winds from the north last Saturday, and attended the track meet. It would be a fine thing for Bates if a few men took as much interest.

Edwin Peterson of Gardiner visited over Sunday at Bates. "Pete" is having a very successful season with his basket ball team.

They say that not a single Freshman from John Bertram Hall has dropped out because of his examinations. That seems to be a record, that the class of 1918 should be proud of.

There has been more excitement during the past week than at any time since the Sophomore probation last year. "Somebody" very proficient in starting rumors. The innocent victims have no comeback at all because they do not know who their accusers are. Such people ought to be forced to go before a board of alienists and be examined as regards their sanity. Everybody feels that a frank apology should be made by the person starting the rumor.

The hardest lesson some people have to learn is to mind their own business.

The question for the Sophomore Debate, men's division, this year is: Resolved, That the United States government should own and operate the railroads within its borders. following speakers have been chosen: Affirmative, Dyer, Stettbacker, Wilson; alternative, Thompson. It does no good to criticise the use of papers in our reading rooms.

The indoor track meet Wednesday evening, March 10, in City Hall, will be the event of the winter season at Bates. Interest has been falling off during the last few years in this event. The sentiment seems to be to make this year a big success. How? Men-women -Faculty-Citizens attend. Boost-Rootand come away satisfied.

Capt. Talbot has posted a schedule for practice hours and expects every man to conform. We prophesy that George will lead a winner. Memory harks back to at least two different Bowdoin games when our present Captain and his big stick have come to the rescue. Everybody boost the J. Franklin Baker of Bates.

22ND ANNUAL INDOOR MEET Juniors Easy Winners

The 22nd Annual Indoor Track Meet held Wednesday, March 10, was the most successful mid-winter meet ever held in connection with Bates. All the reserve seats were sold two days before the meet, and when the men were called for the first event, all the seats on the floor were occupied, and most of the first two rows of the balcony.

Coach Ryan

The first event on the program was the 25-yard dash. There were 45 entries in this event, and the rapidity with which the men were disposed of is a testimonial to Coach Ryan, Clerk Harold Allen, and the entire management of the meet. The event was won by Boothby (dark horse), and 1916 got all the other places except fourth to 1915.

The meet was well under way now, and everybody settled down to witness the high hurdles, shot put and high jump. Gibbs '16 and Quimby '18 had to divide the honors on the high jump with the bar at 5 ft. 3 in.

Event No. 4, the three-legged race, was one of the most amusing, if not the most scientific of the evening. One team broke their bounds and finished running strong but not together. Another team was tripped at the start and failed to finish. When it came to the finals, there were four teams, and so everyone was a winner, even the Freshman team that crossed the line about five minutes after everybody thought the event was all over.

The low hurdles was the prettiest race of its kind ever seen in City Hall, won by Cummings '16, with Quimby '18 a close second.

There were four heats before the final in the potato race, each heat being in better time than the record of last year.

"Buck" DeWeaver '17 won the final heat. This was somewhat of a surprise since "Buck" weighs considerably over 200 pounds and never ran in a potato race in his life, whereas Pidgeon '15 has won every potato race since he has been in college. The time in this event was also a record, being 2 1-5 sec. faster than the time of last year.

The patrons were entertained during intermission by a fencing drill and music by the band of the Main Street Free Baptist church. The fencers demonstrated the work done in gymnasium classes during the winter. The drill was under the direction of Buker '16, who has charge of the regular squad taking fencing.

The relay race between Bowdoin and Bates Freshmen was one of the many feature races of the meet. The Bowdoin men got the lead and the first three men handed their anchor quite a lead, but he was no match for Quimby, who all but beat his man to the tape.

An entirely new feature of this meet was the medley relay races, the first man running one lap and the last man four. 1916 and 1918 were the winners of the trial heats,

22ND ANNUAL INDOOR MEET Juniors Easy Winners

The 22nd Annual Indoor Track Meet held Wednesday, March 10, was the most successful mid-winter meet ever held in connection with Bates. All the reserve seats were sold two days before the meet, and when the men were called for the first event, all the seats on the floor were occupied, and most of the first two rows of the balcony.

Coach Ryan

The first event on the program was the 25-yard dash. There were 45 entries in this event, and the rapidity with which the men were disposed of is a testimonial to Coach Ryan, Clerk Harold Allen, and the entire management of the meet. The event was won by Boothby (dark horse), and 1916 got all the other places except fourth to 1915.

The meet was well under way now, and everybody settled down to witness the high hurdles, shot put and high jump. Gibbs '16 and Quimby '18 had to divide the honors on the high jump with the bar at 5 ft. 3 in.

Event No. 4, the three-legged race, was one of the most amusing, if not the most scientific of the evening. One team broke their bounds and finished running strong but not together. Another team was tripped at the start and failed to finish. When it came to the finals, there were four teams, and so everyone was a winner, even the Freshman team that crossed the line about five minutes after everybody thought the event was all over.

The low hurdles was the prettiest race of its kind ever seen in City Hall, won by Cummings '16, with Quimby '18 a close second.

There were four heats before the final in the potato race, each heat being in better time than the record of last year.

"Buck" DeWeaver '17 won the final heat. This was somewhat of a surprise since "Buck" weighs considerably over 200 pounds and never ran in a potato race in his life, whereas Pidgeon '15 has won every potato race since he has been in college. The time in this event was also a record, being 2 1-5 sec, faster than the time of last year.

The patrons were entertained during intermission by a fencing drill and music by the band of the Main Street Free Baptist church. The fencers demonstrated the work done in gymnasium classes during the winter. The drill was under the direction of Buker '16, who has charge of the regular squad taking fencing.

The relay race between Bowdoin and Bates Freshmen was one of the many feature races of the meet. The Bowdoin men got the lead and the first three men handed their anchor quite a lead, but he was no match for Quimby, who all but beat his man to the tape.

An entirely new feature of this meet was the medley relay races, the first man running one lap and the last man four. 1916 and 1918 were the winners of the trial heats, and when this event was run off 1916 won with comparative ease.

The most exciting event of the evening was the one mile run. This event soon narrowed itself down to a battle between Doe '16, the veteran, and Adams '16, a novice. Doe had lapped every man in the race except Adams, and try as he would, even to the extent of running an extra lap, he could not get by "Ad." Lane '17 ran himself out at the start in trying to get the lead, but Adams held to his position with the same determination that the old martyrs showed toward their religion.

The relay races of the visiting schools were fast and exciting, Westbrook Seminary winning from P. H. S., L. H. S. winning from E. L. H. S., Frye Grammar winning from Webster Grammar.

Manager merrill

Drew '16 won the pole vault, but failed in his attempt to break the record because the bar was raised a foot in one jump.

The interclass relays were a repetition of the races in the preliminary meets. Boyd and Butler ran their usual spectacular race, and Boyd won by virtue of the fact that he was handed a slight lead. As near as can be judged these men have run exactly even in every race this spring. The honors of the evening undoubtedly fall to 1916, who won one less point than the other three classes put together.

Quimby was the star of the Freshman team, and Capt. Small of the seniors. The Sophomores were most ably represented by Davis and Conners, who will be remembered as Judge Green's pony team.

There were 128 men entered in the meet and nearly all of them contested.

It is a noticeable fact that in nearly every event the time was faster than the meet last year. Who shall be blamed for the improvement? Mike Ryan of course. Watch 'em when they get out on the ground next to nature. We may not be last in that meet yet.

Once again the Annual Indoor Meet has become history. The records have been made; the book closed. Day after day a man trains to get his physical self into the very best condition. It costs energy and time. In the short evening such as we spent March 10, it is the result of these strenuous hours of training that we see. And the man who failed to receive any honors has worked as faithfully as the other. To him must come the consolation of a fight well fought, a victory lost only to one better than himself in competitive ability.

CAMPUS NOTES

"Lest we forget," we would say that Duffett, '18, certainly did an original stunt on his declamation.

Miss Alma Gregory, '16, recently spent the night at South Paris, where she gave several readings at an entertainment.

Miss Ruth Parker, '16, entertained Miss Bertha Cram of North Windham over the last week-end.

The women's division of the Sophomore class will hold its public debate in Hathorn Hall, March 13, at 8 P.M. The question for discussion is: Resolved, That the women of Maine be given equal rights with the men.

The New Hampshire Club held its annual guest night on Saturday evening in the Rand Hall gymnasium. There were about thirty-five present. New Hampshire banners and pillows formed the decorations. All the games, forfeits and speeches had especial reference to the honored state. Miss Ethel Cutts chaperoned the party. Punch and sandwiches were served at the conclusion of this most pleasant affair.

Miss Camilla Smith, '15, and Miss Ruth L. Sturgis, '17, spent the week-end in Portland.

Miss A. L. Leathers, '18, is substituting this week at East Wilton.

President George C. Chase and his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Chase, spent a few days in Boston recently.

Bates was visited last week by Miss Harriet A. Sleeper and Miss Mary P. Merrill of Haverhill, Mass. They are both prominent educators, and came to acquaint themselves with this institution. While here, Miss Merrill gave a talk at the Girls' Conference Hour on "Some Vocations for Women," a talk equally interesting for its instructive value and for the pleasing personal touches given it by the speaker. Also, on Friday evening at Rand Hall, Miss Sleeper gave a pleasing account of a trip taken through the West. We have enjoyed their stay with us, and appreciate their kindness in addressing us on these occasions.

Championship basketball games before long! Girls, get a good lot of cheers and songs ready, and back your team up to the last inch, winning or losing. It helps!

last inch, winning or losing. It helps!
Miss Ida Kimball, '15, and Miss Doris Ingersoll, '18, spent a few days at home recently.

Wanted:—Among the students of Bates College sufficient college spirit to prevent monopoly of the campus telephone service.

The regular meetings of the Girls' Literary Societies are all postponed, because of the many other college happenings of the week.

At the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on last Wednesday evening, Professor Purinton spoke on Christian Fundamentals. Miss Mary Roberts, '15, gave a vocal solo, and there was prayer response by Miss Gertrude Merrill, '15.

Friday evening, March 12, the Girls' Musical Clubs will give a concert in the High Street Congregational church, Auburn. Come out and support the girls' music as well as the boys' athletics!

Don't forget the one important social event of the whole year, the Eukuklios reception, Saturday evening, March 20, 1915.

On Monday evening, March 15th, there will be a meeting of the Verein. Papers will be presented by Lawrence and Spaulding, W. Webster McCann, '16, and Richard Boothby, '16, are planning to attend the National Convention of the Intercollegiate Civic League held in Washington, April 8-10.

Judge Harry L. Webber addressed the Politics Club on "Behind the Scenes in City Politics" at the last meeting.

H. J. Cloutman, '16, is coaching the Westbrook Seminary debating team, which is a member of the Bates Debating League.

Earl Harding '15 spent a few days last week at M. C. I. coaching the debating team, which is to meet Bangor High, March 19.

Charles Marsden and Halliberton Crandlemire, both of 1914, visited at Bates Saturday and Sunday.

Blynn Davis, '13, was a recent visitor about the campus.

Professor Ramsdell's home was threatened by fire one day last week.

The Sophomore programs appeared Saturday morning in chapel. The programs were pronounced the best that have appeared during the experience of the present student body.

The Freshman Prize Speaking went off satisfactorily Saturday afternoon. The ancient custom of attempting to break up the program was omitted this year. This is a "custom more honored in the breach than in the observance."

To whom it may concern—There was no Student issues February 4. So do not worry if you did not receive one.

Francis D. Murray, '17, and John J. Butler, '17, were seen walking with co-eds Saturday afternoon.

Congratulations are due Miss Blanch Wright and Mr. Clarence Gould—winners of the Freshman Prize Speaking Contest. The other speakers were: Misses Ingersoll, Mansfield, Ballard, White, Drake and Messrs. Quimby, Coleman, Hobbs, Quakenbush, True.

Did you see the list of great players that are coming to the Empire?

Little question for this week: Who feeds Schneider?

ROUND TABLE

Friday evening, March 5, the Bates Round Table was entertained by Professor and Mrs. F. A. Knapp in Carnegie Science Hall, Professor Pomeroy was the speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Bermuda Islands with Especial Reference to their Biology." Following his talk on this subject, stereoptican views of the island were shown, and inspection of the biological specimens collected there, was enjoyed. Both views and specimens are unusually fine, and added much to the pleasure and interest of the program.

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

On Monday evening, March 8th, the members of the Jordan Scientific Society enjoyed the same treat as the Round Table had on the preceding Friday evening,—that of hearing Professor Pomeroy give an address on "Bermuda." While he was in Bermuda nearly two years ago, the Professor made a very careful and extensive study of the islands, considering the time at his disposal, and the result is that he gathered a great deal of instructive data, as well as a large number of specimens that are extremely interesting from the biological point of view. The members considered it one of the most valuable privileges of the society to hear this lecture and examine the specimens.

POLYMNIAN MILITARY SCIENCE CLUB

The new Military Science Club, which is to take the place of the old Polymnian Society, is now making rapid strides toward organization, and serious work. It has been decided to depart from the custom of evening meetings, and to meet regularly at 4.30 in the afternoon of each Wednesday, for the present, at least.

The work of the society is to be largely under the direction of Dr. Tubbs. On Mar. 3rd he outlined the study for the first few weeks. It will involve extended and careful study of maps, history, and official records, confined to specific wars and battles. Reports will be made from time to time by those who have been assigned special topics. It is purposed to make a detailed study of the first battle of Bull Run, in our Civil war, for the next few weeks, as well as keeping an eye on the present European war.

Several of the Bates graduates now resident in Massachusetts had a pleasant social gathering in Dorchester, Mass., on February 13. The committee in charge was Freeman P. Clason, '11, Dr. Maurice V. Brown, '09, and Mrs. Brown (Shirley Smalley, formerly of 1913). Among those present were: Dr. Brown, Harry Goodwin, Bob Sargent, Fritz Merrill, '09; Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, and Miss Alice Hall, '10; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCusick, the Misses Annie Marston and Wyman, Louise Moulton, Hazel Leard, Genevieve Dwinal, Edith Pemberton, Lillian Randlett, Agnes Dwyer, Messrs. Freeman Clason, Larry Damon, '11; Miss ALUMNI NOT 1893-Arthur P. Irving, principal of the Rockingham Grammar School, Springfield, Mass., was a recent visitor at the college, and gave a very interesting talk to the students at chapel, March 4. The school of which he is principal, has nearly 900 pupils, and a teaching force about the size of the Bates faculty.

During Mr. Irving's visit, several of his classmates gathered for a supper at Grant's. In the party with Mr. Irving were Prof. and Mrs. G. M. Chase, Dr. and Mrs. John Sturgis, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Pennell, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moulton, Mrs. W. H. Hartshorn, A. E. Yetten, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Murch. Mr. Murch was a classmate of Mr. Irving at high school.

1896—Oliver Cutts has been appointed physical director at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. Mr. Cutts will be remembered as one of the best football players who ever represented Bates, and as one of the stars of the Harvard team while attending the Law School there.

1897—Hon. Carl Milliken was the toastmaster at the banquet of the Boys' Conference in Portland, last Friday night.

1909—Last week a son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Barr (Edith Davis). The child has been named John Davis Barr.

1911—Alton Ross Hodgkins, Bates 1911, and Mrs. June Atkinson Hodgkins, 1912, have received appointments as teachers in the Indian service on a reservation in the northwestern part of New Mexico and northeastern Arizona, and left Washington, D. C., February 23. Since graduation, Mr. Hodgkins has been working in Washington as a clerk in the Department of State. Mrs. Hodgkins has been a temporary clerk in the Agricultural Department.

1912—The 1912 class letter is out.

1913—Mary Smith is teaching in Ashland, Vermont.

Marguerite Lougee has a position as teacher in Thomaston.

1914—Charles Marsden was a visitor at the college last Saturday.

AN EXPLANATION

The fact that no Freshmen were sent home after examinations from John Bertram Hall while there were several from Parker, cannot be called a coincidence. Upper classmen have adjusted themselves to their studies so that they can have more time free than do the Freshmen to whom both studies and surroundings are new. When upper classmen and Freshmen are living together there is a tendency for them to try to live alike, which has evidently resulted disastrously for the Freshmen.

RED INK

Red Ink is a great institution, one of the best known and most wide spread factors in the college world. I do not know that this beneficent fluid has been celebrated in enduring brass or lasting stone, and I shall do my best to pay it tribute with the humble tools at my command.

Do you ask what great man first prepared this wonderful ink? What was the cause of its invention? How long has its power been known? Alas! I do not know. Only conjecture can reach back so far. Perhaps it was invented by some mighty man of "ages inconceivably remote;" some dark Egyptian, or some cunning man of Ninevah or Tyre. History testifies against the theory of Ninevah (we have no record of cuneiform writing in red ink), and inclines us to the theory of Tyre. Tyrian purple, we are told, was really scarlet. And since the modern product is often made of dyes, why might not the ancients have made theirs similarly? Perhaps some passionate lover of the olden days wished to typify the intensity of his ardor by letters of seeming blood. What a thrilling effect the first glowing document must have had! But these hypotheses are vain! Even Webster does not, cannot disclose the dark secret of the ages.

For us, however, the interest lies in the modern application of the subject. Though made of carmine, or potassium eosin, or a decoction of Brazil wood mixed with stannous chloride and gum arabic, if administered in judicious doses, Red Ink has wonderful medicinal properties. On the other hand, too little of it is liable to be dangerous, and many an overdose has proved fatal. Then, too, it has artistic and patriotic elements, which must not be overlooked.

In the treatment of the disease known as "enlargement of the cranium" (capitis inflatio), Red Ink is a particularly efficacious remedy. It is applied several times weekly, usually at least three times a week to Freshmen and once or twice to Sophomores.

Upper classmen do not need it so often, but have to take a little occasionally, unless the Powers-That-Be prefer to use the milder Blue Pencil, which has the same effect, though in a lesser degree. Many a Freshman, seriously affected by the disease as a result of high school or preparatory school praise, has had his head reduced to normal size by the faithful application of this sovereign remedy.

This beneficient effect, as I have indicated. comes from the judicious use of Red Ink. If the quantities administered are too small. there results not infrequently an aggravation of the disease, and oftentimes an acute attack. Equally bad for the patient is an overdose, which brings on the various degrees of humiliation, self-abasement, and despondency, and, on rare occasions, a serious, sometimes fatal attack of despair. In some cases students have given up trying for success when their most sanguine hopes have been dashed to pieces on the rocks by a sanguinary C.

Only those who are favored with generous quantities can appreciate fully the artistic effect of a border of red on a theme, or on a page of Latin Composition. The talents of the professors and instructors who apply it with such careless ease vary delightfully. One confines his handiwork to the margin, creating a vertical red and white frieze. Another leaves the margin clear, and scatters his vivid interpolations like maple buds upon the last spring snow.

When the writer has used black ink, the red decorations are very pleasing, but the best results come from the use of blue ink. Then the combination cannot but appeal strongly to true American patriotism, and it is often with the utmost difficulty that the joyous recipient can be restrained from shouting "Hurrah for the Red, White, and Blue!" Only the quieting presence of the teacher in the classroom prevents the expression of this patriotic fervor.

Besides its medicinal, artistic, and patriotic qualities, Red Ink is invaluable as an aid to the memory, as one or two examples will show. In Latin Composition, for instance, a young lady wrote "corpore" for the accusative "corpus." When the notebook was returned, she found the offending word surrounded by a red ink fence, surmounted by the glowing and appropriate epitaph, "Bury it." Do you think she will ever use the wrong form again? No! She will remember to write "corpus," and as for "corpore"—Requiescat in pace!

On another occasion a theme was returned with a scarlet sign to the effect that the material was bloodcurdling, even to the calloused reader of the penny dreadful. The implication astounded the student. Before that time he had looked up to the professor as widely and wisely read. But to have before him in words of fire the man's own confession that he, the critic, was "the calloused reader of the penny dreadful," was to stamp the sad fact indelibly on the student's mind. And so it is with all red ink remarks,—they burn themselves into one's brain, and cannot be forgotten.

From these few characteristics that have been mentioned, persons of more philosophic bent might draw us many a wise conclusion. It is not my purpose to moralize about the wisdom necessary in its use. My task has been simply to enumerate and explain the most prominent and praiseworthy qualities of Red Ink. Undoubtedly some individual of keener analytic mind will one day turn his greater powers upon the subject, winning for it and for himself immortal fame. To that unknown, whoever he may be, good

MAJESTY

God of the Elements! t'is here On seas tumultuous Thou art near. Not thus spired temple's burnished dome Proclaims Thee as does ocean storm.

There "Prince of Peace" they Thee define; Here, "Warrior", mighty, fierce, sublime. The attributes They sum in Love; WE, Fear, when thy dread forces move.

'Tis meet who at church altar kneel Thy presence calm, reposeful feel; But throned upon the untamed wind, O'erwhelming Riot men Thee find. We trembling hark thy gale-borne word As pygmies survey giant's sword. A blast of thy consuming breath Blight radiant life to withered death.

When skies threat-pregnant darkly lower, And tumbling billows speak thy power, They who in calm a God gainsay In peril humbly kneel and pray.

Grant, God, that on this raging sea Some Christly Spirit walking be To stay death-laden heave and roll, And peace assure the timid soul.

As down the nether searching prow Descends the seething depths, do Thou Uplift again its engulfed form, To safe outride sea, gale and storm.

Sustain the strained and laboring keel; Give durance to hull, shaft and wheel; Strengthen the rocking, yielding spar, And pilot craft to haven far.

That, tossed on tempest-driven deep, Unshaken faith in Thee we keep: And, calm or gale, fair or foul sky, Firm on the Father's care rely.

—John William Daniels, '76.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATING LEAGUE

On March 19, the Bates Interscholastic Debating League will hold its preliminary debates. The "triple triangular" method of conducting the debates will be used. Nine schools are members of the league and are arranged in the following groups, Gardiner High, Maine Central Institute and Bangor High, (2) Morse High, Rockland High and Camden High; (3) Westbrook Seminary, Deering High, and Rumford High. Each school has both an affirmative and negative team, and the debates in every case are on the subject, Resolved, That the women of Maine should be granted the suffrage on equal terms with men.

Gardiner High debates Maine Central at Pittsfield, Maine Central debates Bangor High at Bangor, and Bangor High debates Gardiner High at Gardiner. In the second triangle, Camden High debates Morse High at Bath, Morse High debates Rockland High at Rockland, and Rockland High debates Camden at Camden. In the third triangle, Deering debates Westbrook Seminary at Portland, Westbrook Seminary debates Rumford High at Rumford, and Rumford High debates Deering High at Portland. The winner in each triangle will enter the new triangle, which will debate on the third Friday in April for the championship of the League. A cup will be presented to the winning team, medals to the three victorious debators, and, in addition, honorable mention will be given to that debator of the League who, in the opinion of the judges, has done the best individual debating.

The girls of the Sophomore class at Bates held the first public debate ever held by the women of the college at Hathorn Hall, Saturday evening. The question for debate was: "Resolved, That the Women of Maine Should be Granted Suffrage on Equal Terms with Men."

The members of the affirmative team were Miss Ruth Lewis, Miss Julia P. McCann and Miss Elinor Newman, with Miss Ruth Capen as alternate. Those of the negative were Miss Aileen Lougee, Miss Eleanor Richmond and Miss Ruth Sturgis, with Miss Ruth Rollins as alternate.

Throughout the debate the speeches were interesting and well presented, reflecting credit both upon the teams themselves and Miss Frances Bryant, '15 and Miss Gwendolyn Green, '15, who coached them.

Mandolin music was furnished by Misses Marion Cole, '15, Florence Nelson, '16, Grace Berry, '17, and Annie Leathers, '18, with Mando Mumby, '16 as pignist Maude Murphy, '16, as pianist.

Mrs. F. D. Tubbs, Professor William F.
Cullen and Franklin Fisher served as judges, awarding the prize of fifteen dollars to the negative side, and the prize of ten dollars to Miss Ruth L. Sturgis for presenting the best debate.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The nomination for the officers of the Women's Athletic Association are now posted. They are as follows: President, Alice King; vice-president, Aileen Lougee, Grace

Perry; treasurer, Florence Nelson; assistant treasurer, Ruth Sturgis, Julia Farnsworth; secretary, Ruth Dresser, Evelyn Hussey; managers, hockey, Alice King, Flora Warren; basket ball, Alma Gregory, Grace Berry; volley ball, Harriet Johnson, Maude Murphy; base ball, Alice Russell, Ruth Skinner; track, Agnes Burnett, Evelyn Manchester; tennis, Agnes Bryant, Hildred Roberston; walking, Annie Leathers.

The annual gymnastic exhibition will be given by the young women in Rand Hall gymnasium, Monday evening, March 22.

DR. WALKER AT BATES

Dr. Gertrude F. Walker of the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania was a guest of the college last week. She spoke at conference hour upon the subject, "Medicine as a Vocation for Women." She showed the great need, to-day of women entering the profession, as it is not an overcrowded one. Dr. Walker is now travelling about from college to college, awakening an enthusiasm among girls in this direction.

She announced to the women student body, that the faculty of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania had awarded to Bates College an annual free scholarship. This is in recognition of the excellent work being done there at present by two former Bates women, and the scholarship may be used by any Bates graduate either of former years or of the present or future years.

Dr. Walker brought with her a unique moving picture machine, by the means of which pictures of the various activities of the Woman's College were shown in Fiske Room on Thursday evening.

Deutscher Verein Monday evening the Deutscher Verein held its regular meeting in the library. A paper was presented on "Hermann Sudermann, the Novelist," by Lawrence, '16, and one on "Hermann Sudermann, the Dramatist," by Spaulding, '16. This was followed by an informal discussion of the characteristics of Sudermann's works, by Doctor Leonard. After the discussion, a German game was played, in which Higgins lost his Bett but won the game.

The faculty have given their consent for an application to be made to the National Council of Delta Sigma Rho for the establishment of a Chapter here at Bates. This Council convenes next month in New York.

Delta Sigma Rho was founded in 1906 among some of the middle western colleges. After four years of growth it had attained a position of National importance, and had issued twenty-five charters to institutions of the highest standing. Chapters have been established in Amherst, Williams, Colgate, Brown, Dartmouth, Columbia, Princeton, Harvard, and Yale. Delta Sigma Rho is primarily an honor and not a social Society. It is in no wise similar to the secret societies of colleges, but rather is essentially like Phi Beta Kappa.

The purpose of the society is to "encourage effective and sincere public speaking." The development of general public and student interest in forensics and participation in forensic contests are policies of the society. Any one who has taken active part in an intercollegiate debate or represented the college in an oratorical contest would be eligible to membership, including present students and graduates.

Bates splendid record in debating should stand well in her favor when the matter of a charter is being considered. We have contested in thirty-five debates, winning twenty-eight of these. Bates men have also made good showings in various oratorical contests. We sincerely hope a charter will be granted. Membership in Delta Sigma Rho would constitute the highest society honor that a man could attain in Bates, at the present time, and as such it would be an incentive for men to become members of debating teams, or representatives in oratorical contests.

ATHLETICS

TRACK WORK CONTINUES

Coach Ryan has established a precedent in requiring the track candidates to continue training for the remaining two weeks between the Indoor Meet and the spring vacation. He believes that the value of the winter's work will be lost if the men are allowed to break training now, and that the two weeks after the vacation before the first meet is altogether too short a time in which to build up a track team.

At a meeting of all the track men in Hathorn Hall last Monday the Coach gave expression to the spirit by which he has won such renowned fame in the athletic world, and which he hopes to instill into his squad. That spirit is FIGHT. He said that he had never been on a losing team and that he didn't intend to now. The value of fight he put in rather a unique way by saying that in running, fight counted 60%, using your head 25%, and muscles 15%. In order to obtain the best results and in order that he might be able to work with each individual he divided the squad roughly into two groups, the regulars, who have showed some promise, and the inexperienced men. These two groups, which are to report on alternate days, are subdivided into smaller groups, that have specified hours in which to work.

Two more handicap track meets have been arranged in order to give the men some hard work and stiff competition before vacation, so that the rest of the vacation will do them good. These meets will be held Saturday, March 20th and Wednesday, March 24th. If the weather permits they will be held on the side walk in front of Roger Williams Hall. The usual events, 100-yard dash, hurdles, the quarter and half mile, two-mile, shot put, hammer throw, and discus throw, will be run off.

The Freshman relay team has been working faithfully in preparation for the relay race against the Bowdoin Freshmen at Brunswick, Friday night, March 19th. The race will be 330 yards to the man, and will be run on a dirt track. This will give our team a great advantage, and if the race at City Hall on March 10th can be trusted as a criterion Bates '18 team will give the Bowdoin team a hard race. Quimby is used to the Bowdoin track, having competed in several interscholastic meets, and can be relied upon to make very fast time.

The track manager is now in communication with the Bowdoin management for a dual meet to be held at Brunswick, April 24th. If such a meet can be arranged the track schedule is as nearly perfect as possible. This would make three dual meets before the Maine Intercollegiate Meet at Waterville, and should give the men the competition they need in order to put them in fine condition for the big meet in which Coach Ryan says Bates has an even chance to win.

CAMPUS NOTES

Miss Mona Hodnett, '16, returned last Sunday from New York City, where she has been attending meetings of student delegates from the Y. W. C. A's. of the Northeastern Colleges, held by the National Student Board.

Miss Hodnett represented the three Maine Colleges, Maine, Colby and Bates.

Miss Mildred Bassett, '15, was called to her home in Rochester, New Hampshire, on last Saturday, because of the sudden death of her brother.

Miss Florence G. Clough, '18, spent the week end at Saco with Miss Ruth A. Severance, a former member of 1918.

The regular Mission Study Classes met this week, with a good attendance.

Miss Marion Everett of South Paris has been a recent visitor at the college.

Miss Amy Hayden, '16, spent Sunday at Norway.

A pageant of the beatitudes was given at the weekly meeting of Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening in Fiske Hall. The subject was, "If the Beatitudes Should Walk about the Campus." Miss Marguerite Girouard assisted upon the violin, and the Freshmen Girls gave various chants.

The Library is being invaded by bands of Sophomores. Subjects for history essays have been assigned.

Senior parts and class meetings are occupying a good deal of the Seniors' time lately. The nominating committee for Class Day speakers and the committee for Commencement have already been decided upon.

Thursday afternoon, March 11, the Bates Needle Club was entertained by Mrs. George M. Chase and Miss Mabel Marr at the home of Mrs. Chase on Frye Street.

Miss Ruth Parker, '16, entertained her father, Dr. Charles Parker and brother last Saturday afternoon.

Miss Camilla Smith, '15, Miss Mabel Googins, '16, and Miss Doris Ingersoll, '18, spent the week end in Portland.

Why can't we have some college songs for the girls? Other colleges have them, why not we? And, too, why can't we revive the old Bates songs, so that students from other colleges won't ask us if we "have only one song?"

Enkuklios has issued an invitation to the trustees, faculty, student, and friends of Bates to be present at its annual reception, to be held on Saturday evening, March 20, from eight until ten.

Last Saturday evening, following the debate, the Sophomore girls were pleasantly entertained by Dean Buswell at her rooms in Rand Hall.

Mike Ryan won the 25 mi. Boston Marathon in 2 hr. 21 mi. 8 1-5 sec.; Edward Amherst Ott (no relation to Bob) spoke continously for 2 hr. 21 mi. 8 1-5 sec., thereby breaking all City Hall Marathon records for long distance talking.

Some of the Freshmen are wandering about the Campus with a vacant look in their eyes. They know not what to do with themselves since the living models at the Great Department Store have left town.

Mr. Coleman's son, Rolland, passed a few unpleasant days in the Maine Central Hospital having his adenoids and tonsils removed.

A Y. M. C. A. deputation team consisting of Moulton, '15, Meader, '15, Clifford, '16, Sherman, '17, and Chayer, '17, spent the week end in Monmouth. The men spoke in different parts of the town during Sunday and at a joint meeting in the evening held in the Methodist Church.

Joseph Blaisdell, '16, has been observed out sniffing the spring air every morning. Some of Joe's friends express the fear that he may have difficulty in containing his emotions until the spring recess.

Refreshments were served at the Junior Chemistry period Friday. Somebody suggested that stimulants would become necessary to the survival of the would-bechemists unless there was a let-up in the work. Well! people have been driven to drink for a lesser reason.

Bradbury Swift, '15, has increased his family by the acquisition of a full blooded English Setter, "Peter-the-Great." The prize came thru Mr. Oldham, whose father-in-law owns Kennells in Pennsylvania.

The Girls' Glee Club concert was very poorly attended. It seems to be a precedent among the men not to support any activity of the women—NOT RIGHT.

The Student will have some interesting articles next week on the Collegiate Baseball situation in Maine by Coach Purrington and Capt. Talbot.

It is hoped that it may be possible to awaken interest enough so that the tennis courts will be lonsesome during the championship games next spring.

The Men's division of the Sophomore Class hold their championship debate tonight. Resolved, That the government of the United State should own and operate the Railroads within its borders. This may be a question that some of us can learn something about. At any rate we should attend because it is a college activity.

The following make up the teams:

Affirmative	Negative
Dyer	Purinton
Wilson	Allen
Stettbacher	Ballard
Alternate	Alternate
Thompson	Von Tobel

Prof. J. M. Carroll will preside.

The Sophomores feel pretty proud of the fact that they were able to distribute their programs in spite of the best efforts of Supt. Andrews. Now that the excitement is all over they would like to have their property restored to them. There weren't enough left after the raid to go around and some failed to get one. That page of the Memory Book is still vacant.

At last a Bates man has so far disregarded the ideals of which this institution was founded, as to become the sole owner and operator of a motor car. Of course many good things could be said about owning motor cars. Prestige, healthful exercise, etc., but the experiment in this case receives our heartiest condemnation, because of the fact that the rest of us can't have one. The offender is "Adin Sharon Turner" with Metz Model G, 1888.

M. Winthrop O'Connell, '16, entertained his parents from Roxbury, Mass., on his 21st birthday, Thursday, March 11.

A fool is not really a fool unless he gets fooled the same way twice.

There is going to be a campaign for revival (or creation) of college spirit after the Easter vacation. It would be inconvenient to get Billy Sunday up here, so a few of the men that have convictions, have volunteered to lay them before the students. The plan is to use the vacant period Thursdays for this purpose.

If you have an idea formulate it and you will be given an opportunity to express yourself.

Everybody prepare for a "bloodless revolution" right here in Bates.

The girls basket-ball games (championship) will begin soon. Reserved seats on sale four weeks in advance. Apply to Hopkins, John Bertram Hall.

They say that—The indoor meet netted about four times as much this year as last. Coach Ryan got City Hall free; Manager Merrill worked like a dog; Treasurer Gould knew where the money was spent—A real example of big business in Bates.

1916 BANQUET

The Junior men held a real regular time last Tuesday evening in celebration of all their past doings. Mitchell provided the banquet. There was plenty doing all the time, songs between courses, presentation of various features by several men, and a splendid social time before the toast master Cloutman called for speeches. Coach Ryan, guest of the evening, gave a toast on Athletics that the men will never forget. This was voted the greatest time the class have ever enjoyed together. Toasts were given by the following:

No. 10

TRACK MEET ON SIDE WALK

On Saturday afternoon, March 20th, the first outdoor handicap meet was run off very successfully.

Drew, '16, broke the college record in the pole vault, clearing the bar at ten feet and seven inches. As this equals the height cleared by Capt. McKenney at the Bowdoin interclass meet, it looks as though Bates will be well represented in this event in the meets this spring. Drew has been steadily improving since he entered college. Before the season is over Coach Ryan expects to have him going twelve feet.

The two-mile race was another big feature of the meet. It was won by Lane, '18, from scratch. He allowed Doe, '16, seventy-five yards handicap and then led him about one hundred yards at the finish. The Coach is very confident that he will give Preti of Maine a hard fight.

The mile walk, which is entirely a new event on our track schedule, proved very amusing. Until the last ten yards of the race Baker, '18, and Stimpson, '18, were neck to neck, and it was only by a final spurt that Stimpson won out. Mansfield, '15, easily won the half mile from scratch, but there was a hot fight for second place between De-Wolfe, '18, and Knight, '18.

The results:

100-yard Dash: House (8yds) 1st; Butler (scr) 2nd; Fiske (8yds) 3d.

220-yard Dash: House (10yds) 1st; Butler (ser) 2nd; Hobbs (8yds) 3d.

High Hurdles: Quimby 1st; Boyd 2nd; Benvie 3d.

Low Hurdles: Quimby 1st; Boyd 2nd; Benvie 3d.

440-yard Dash: Neville (20 yds) 1st; Boothby (15 yds) 2nd; Boober (10 yds) 3d.

880-yard Run: Mansfield (scr) 1st; DeWolfe (15 yds) 2nd; Knight (20 yds) 3d.

Two-mile Run: Lane (ser) 1st; Doe (75 yds) 2nd; Holmes (150 yds) 3d.

One-mile Walk: Stimpson 1st; Baker 2nd; Shattuck 3d.

Pole Vault: Drew 1st; Cummings 2nd; Tucker 3d.

Broad Jump: Keaney 1st; Fowler 2nd; Stinson 3d.

High Jump: Tie, Gibbs and Pinkham 1st; Stinson 2nd.

Shot Put: Witham 1st; Stillman 2nd; Pedbereznak 3d.

Discus Throw: Quimby 1st; Keaney 2nd.

Another one of these meets will be held this afternoon at 4 P. M. The same events as last Saturday will be run off, except for the addition of the 600-yard and the 1000-yard Run for the middle-distance men. Everyone is urged to come out to witness the performances and encourage the competitors by your presence. Show your Bates spirit.

WOMEN'S TRACK MEET

Folk dancing by the Freshmen, aesthetic dancing by the Juniors and Seniors, and excellent apparatus work by all four classes marked the Women's Annual Gymnastic meet, which was held in Rand Hall Gymnasium, Monday evening, March 22. The program was as follows:

1.	Folk Dances,	Freshmen
	Swedish Ring
	Shoemakers
2.	Day's Order,	Sophomores
3.	Sylphette Polka,	Sophomores
4.	Day's Order,	Freshmen
5.	American Beauty,	Juniors
6.	Day 'Order,	Seniors
7.	Folk Dances,	Freshmen
	Hungarian Blackbird Vineyard
8.	Day's Order,	Juniors
9.	Apparatus,	Sophomores
v.	ripparatus,	Juniors
	•	Seniors

10. La Tzegane, Seniors (In Hungarian Costume)

Freshmen

11. Reap the Flax,

Freshmen

12. Interclass Relay

Particularly noticeable was the costuming of the different classes. The Seniors and Juniors appeared in pretty Hungarian costumes of various colors, the Sophomores in their American Beauty rose costumes, and the Freshmen in their simple but effective white dutch caps and aprons.

Toward the close of the meet, class cheers and yells increased in enthusiasm until the climax in effectiveness was reached when the Freshmen in the eleventh number formed the large letter B on the gymnasium floor, and all joined in the singing of the Alma Mater.

Stripes were awarded to Misses Beane, Bryant, Merrill, Mills, Wadsworth of 1915; Misses Bryant, Johnson, King, Knowles, Marston, Mower, Nelson, Russell, Thompson, Warren of 1916; Misses Jameson, Campbell, Smith, Moody, Sturgis, Lougee, Wells of 1917; Misses Burr, Drake, Emerson, Graham, Ingersoll, Patterson of 1918.

The meet was won agan this year for the second time by the Class of 1916.

BASEBALL

For the past three weeks the Freshman baseball candidates have been working quietly and earnestly in the cage in the basement of Parker Hall. The first cut in the squad came last Monday. Many of those retained have showed up well, and Captain Talbot is very well pleased with the prospects of developing a champion baseball team.

The squad has been divided into several groups. The battery men have had special hours for work and have been given particular attention in the limbering up of their muscles. The infielders and outfielders have also been grouped separately. The work has not been strenuous, but has consisted chiefly in folding ground and bentities.

in fielding grounders and bunting.

The call for the regulars has also been issued, and from now on the entire team will be working out daily. Until it is a little warmer the practice will continue in the cage. It is the plan now to have the men remain a few days, if the weather is suitable, during the Easter vacation instead of being required to return early. This would allow the men to be home over Easter Sunday and would be more satisfactory generally.

BATES '18 VS. BOWDOIN '18

The Freshman relay team, composed of Quimby, Knight, Lawrence and DeWolfe, was again defeated by the Bowdoin Freshman relay team last Friday night at the Bowdoin interclass meet. The race was almost a repetition of the dual between the same teams in City Hall on March 10th. DeWolfe lost five vards on the start and continued to lose throughout the race. Knight not only held his own but gained some of the lost ground. Lawrence lost several yards, and by the time Quimby took up the race the Bates team was at least twenty five yards behind. However, Quimby, with remarkable speed and endurance, gained on his opponent until it seemed that he would win out, despite the great odds against which he was fighting. The race ended by the Bowdoin team winning by less than one yard.

ENKUKLIOS

Saturday evening, March 20, Enkuklios, the woman's social club, entertained about four hundred of the faculty, friends and students at a reception held in Rand Hall from eight until ten o'clock. The halls were decorated with evergreen trees and daffodils, and Fiske room was unusually attractive with its decorations of evergreen, palms and cut flowers. In the receiving line were Miss Ruth Beane, '15; Miss Harlene Kane, '16; Miss Mary Roberts, '15; Miss Genevieve Dunlap, '17; President Chase, Dean Buswell, Miss Florence Malone, '15; Miss Florence Hooper, '15; Miss Grace Berry, '17; Miss Sybil Jewers, '16 and Miss Alma Gregory, '16

During the evening the guests went to the dining-room and were served with refreshments of ice cream and fancy crackers.

Here, too, the decorative effect was pleasing with the many cut flowers and ferns. Music was furnished throughout the evening by the college orchestra, adding much toward making it a completely enjoyable affair.

DINNER TO PRESIDENT CHASE

One of the most delightful events ever taking place in Rand Hall occurred last Thursday evening, when a birthday dinner was given in honor of President Chase. After the dinner was over the girls rose and sang a song composed for the occasion by Miss Geneva Page, '16. As the last stanza was being sung the birthday cake was brought in and presented. Toasts were then given by the following girls: Misses Cecilia Walsh, '15; Alice King, '16; Mabel Googins, '16; Annie Leathers, '18; Ruth Capen, '17, and Esther Wadsworth, '15. Miss Alice Lawry, '17, and Miss Mary Cleaves, 17, read poems composed in honor of President Chase. All the speakers expressed their deep and sincere appreciation of the work that President Chase has done here at Bates, and the gathering broke up with the singing of the Bates "Alma Mater."

BATES DEBATING LEAGUE

In the preliminary debates of the Bates Interscholastic Debating League, held on Friday evening, Maine Central Institute, Morse High (Bath), and Stephens High (Rumford) were the winners. The nine schools composing the League, Deering High, Westbrook Seminary, Stephens High (Rumford), Morse High (Bath), Maine Central Institute, Bangor High, Camden High, Rockland High and Gardiner High were grouped in three triangles. Each school was composed of an affirmative and a negative team. The question discussed by the schools was, Resolved, That the women of Maine should receive the franchise on equal terms with men.

The three victorious schools will form a new triangle and debate on the third Friday evening in April, at Pittsfield, Bath and Rumford for the championship of the League. The same question will be used and the same teams, two from each institution, will debate. The winners will receive the Bates trophy cup and medals.

A number of Bates men, including Harold B. Cloutman, George Gustin, Earl Harding and Henry Johnson, coached the different teams.

J. S. S.

Monday evening, March 22nd, the Jordan Scientific Society held its regular meeting in Carnegie Hall. A paper was presented by Dolloff, '15, on 'Match Manufacturing,' after which Jordan, '15, gave an explanation and demonstration of the Soxhlet apparatus for the extraction of fats. The next meeting of the society will be on April 12th.

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY TRIP

On Thursday, March 18, the members of the Jordan Scientific Society, with Mr. Watson and Mr. Sawyer, took a trip to Portland and neighboring towns, for the purpose of visiting several of the factories situated there. In the forenoon the Casco Tanning Company and the Portland Rendering Company were visited. The afternoon was taken up by a study of the dyeing processes used in the Dana Warp Mill, the processes of spinning, dyeing and weaving in the Haskell Silk Mill, and the manufacture of wood-pulp paper as it is carried on in the Cumberland Mills. In all cases the members of the society were very courteously received, and the explanations given by the guides were very careful and complete. At the Haskell Silk Mill the party was conducted thru the factory by Mr. Haskell himself. The trip was considered by all to be a highly instructive and interesting one, and all wish to express their sincere thanks to Professor Jordan for his generous help in defraying the travelling expenses. It is such things as these that make one appreciate the value as well as the honor of being a member of the Society.

THE BATES ROUND TABLE

Friday evening, March 19, the Bates Round Table was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Fiske. Mr. W. H. Coleman was the presiding officer, and introduced the speaker for the evening, Dr. W. Risby Whitehorne. His topic was "What Is Electricity?" the discussion of which proved of great interest to those present. Following the formal part of the program, refreshments were served and an unusual pleasant social time followed.

SENIOR EXHIBITION

The Senior exhibition is to be held in Hathorn Hall, Thursday evening, March 25, at eight P. M. The following members of the Senior class have been chosen as speakers: Miss Frances V. Bryant, Miss Mabel C. Durgan, Miss M. Gwendoline Greene, Miss Gertrude H. Merrill, Miss Geneva A. Page, Miss Helen M. Hilton, Mr. E. Leroy Saxton, Mr. Leslie R. Carey, Mr. Harold C. Abbott, Mr. Earle A. Harding, Mr. Joseph L. Moulton, Mr. Frederick Smith.

The Young Women's Christian Association of the world have entered a great contest which is to take place at the Panama-Pacific Exposition under the auspices of the National Board.

The following are two of the poems sent from the Bates Association.

Tune St. Clement

Oh Lord, the God of Heaven's glory, The light of earth's imperfect day, Look down on us in rev'rence bowing, As for thy strength'ning grace we pray.

If from the ways of truth and wisdom Our restless feet have turned aside, Restore us with unerring guidance That we beneath thy wings may bide. We ask not for a thorn-freed pathway, That we unscarred may view the strife. But for unyielding strength to battle, Tho viet'ry's cost may spell our life.

Grant us that breath of faith and vision,
That seeing naught, still reaches on
The dreams of weakness to make perfect
When cloud-dimmed night shall melt in dawn.

MISSIONARY HYMN

Tune, St. Catherine

Father above, we hear thy voice, Calling thy faithful ones to thee; We hear thee say in accents mild, Take up thy cross and follow me, Go tell the nations of my name, The gospel tidings loud proclaim.

Father of love, before thy throne We pray for strength to do thy will; Helpless we look to thee for power Thy glorious mission to fulfil. Teach us some wayward foot to stay And guide along the Christian way.

Father of light, accept we pray Our life, our all, in service free. Help us spread thy joyous news To all the nations o'er the sea. Thy kingdom come, be this our plea, The world for Christ, our watchword be.

WASHINGTON CONVENTION

The Annual Convention of the Inter-Collegiate Civic League of which the Bates Politics Club is a member, will be held on April 8th and 9th in New York and Washington. Bates is to have a large delegation as usual. Arrangements have been made for the luncheon and afternoon session at Columbia, and a dinner in the evening at the University Club of New York City.

The Bates Delegation plans to spend several days in New York on a sight-seeing tour. In Washington the President, the Chief Justice, the Speaker, the President of the Senate and the Librarian of Congress will be called upon. Last year the League head-quarters was made at the Hotel Shoreham, and from there trips were made to the many places of interest in and about the Capitol.

CAMPUS NOTES

Thursday, March 18, Mr. George V. Turgeon spoke to the girls of the college at the usual conference hour on the subject "The Jewelry Business as a Profession." At the close of his talk, he showed several specimens of fine diamonds.

Wednesday evening, March 17, at the supper given at the Free Baptist Church, entertainment was furnished by the Bates Girls' Mandolin Quartet. Miss Mabel Durgan read several selections.

The old Chapel custom of waiting for the upper classes to pass out first seems to be almost disregarded by the Freshman and Sophomore Classes. And the unusual part of it is the young women are the most heedless.

President Chase addressed the students at Chapel Services Monday morning on, "The Ideals of Bates."

Dr. Tubbs delivered his War Lecture at Conway, N. H., last Monday night.

The men's division of the Sophomore class held their annual debate in Hathorn Hall, Thursday evening, March 18. The question, Resolved: That the Government of the United States should Own and Operate the Railroads within its borders, was won by the affirmative. The prize for the best individual debator was awarded to Arthur L. Purington of Lewiston.

The class of 1916 held its meeting to nominate Ivy Day Speakers, Monday noon. The meeting was marked by the good feeling manifest by everybody toward everybody. The only thought was to have the best possible Ivy Day Programme.

Miss Evelyn Bailey of Westbrook, was a recent guest of Miss Florence M. Hooper's, '15, at Rand Hall.

Mrs. Harriet Whitten of Farmington spent Sunday with her niece, Miss Frances Hazel True, '17, at Milliken House.

Miss Mary A. Martin, formerly of the class of 1917, is now teaching in the Essex County Training School at Lawrence, Massachusetts. Miss Ruth Sturgis, '17, entertained her mother at Bates recently.

Saturday last, Miss Alna White, '17, entertained her brother, D. Walter White, here.

Last Monday afternoon; the Sophomore girls visited the Turner Centre Creamery, for an inspection of the establishment. P. S. It stood the test.

How would you like to see an "Athletic Number" of the Student? Watch for first issue after Easter. It will contain articles by Coach Purington and Capt. Talbot, and other Bates men famous in the field of athletics.

Vacation tomorrow—

"The cares that infest these days, Shall fold their tents like the Arabs, And as silently steal away."

Those readers of the "Student" who are wont to criticise because some news appears in the papers before it does in the Student, should remember that the Student is published only once a week.

We are doing our best to get the latest news in the Student but it is about the most thankless job that was ever given to a college man.

Saturday noon, the new cabinet of the Young Women's Christian Association, held a joint meeting with the old. At the meeting, a Bates Seal ring was presented to Miss Esther Wadsworth, ex-president of the Association, by the following girls: Gladys Tilton, '15; Marion Cole, '15; Edith Rideout, '15; Winifred Jewell, '15; Mona Hodnett, '16; Alice King, '16; Margie Bradbury, '16, and Celia Smith, 17. The members of the new cabinet are: Mona Hodnett, '16; Alice King, '16; Harlene Kane, '16; Mabel Googins, '16; Ruth Lewis, '17; Eleanor Richmond, '17; Annie Leathers, '18; Florence Clough, '18, and Margie Bradbury, '16.

A unique meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Wednesday evening, March 17, when a pageant of the beatitudes was presented.

The Freshmen who indulge in the ancient custom of smoking after meals, should select some place other than the grand stand, and thereby avoid the danger to college property by fire. The latest hinderance to conscientious training on the part of our track men is the absence of hot water in the showers during the afternoon. The men won't believe that they should wait until after supper, to take their bath.

Y. W. C. A.

The subject for the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A., Wednesday, March 24, was "The Parable of the Torch-Bearer." Miss Esther Wadsworth, '15, president of the association, led the meeting. Miss Doris Ingersoll, '18, gave a vocal solo, and Miss Marguerite Girouard played a violin solo. At this meeting, the last before vacation, the old officers gave up their duties to those elected at the recent business meeting. The new committees will begin their active work after Easter.

INTERESTING ITEMS

The Harvard Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa is now devising methods to assist students who are having difficulties with certain courses, somewhat similar to the assistance our Y. M. C. A. has been rendering in Freshmen mathematics.

The Arnold Biological Laboratory, a recent gift to Brown, will be opened for regular use after the Easter recess.

Much difficulty is being met with by the directors of the Northfield Summer School in receiving speakers from out of the county.

Miss Jane Adams of Hall House, recently spoke upon, "Social work as opposed to War," before a crowded audience of Radcliffe students.

Wellesley has already succeeded in raising $1.250,000 of the $2,000,000 required to make good the ravages of the fire.

Harvard is planning this year to make the Summer School more profitable than ever before. Courses in architecture and Biological Science will be offered for the first time.

INTERESTING WORK OF BATES MAN

F. P. Jecuseo of 1912 is doing some very interesting work in his position as chemist for the Ansonia O. and C. Company, Ansonia, Connecticut. His chief business has to do with the chemistry of textiles, the bleaching, finish, etc. In a very interesting letter to Dr. Jordan, Mr. Jecusco told of several gratifying experiments.

For example, a Rhode Island firm was getting the trade in webbing away from the company in Ansonia, which had a really superior grade of goods, but not so good a finish. The other firm kept their process of mercerization a secret. After a study of starches, finishes and laundering, Mr. Jecusco succeeded in securing a finish even more satisfactory than that of the R. I. concern, so that his company has regained the lost trade and more, and has been saved thousands of dollars loss.

Mr. Jecuseo is working for his A. M. degree. Another problem in which he is actively interested is the synthetic production of rubber.

At the New Haven section of the American Chemists' Society, at Yale, Mr. Jecusco has met many other chemists, all specialists. Speaking of the industrial chemists, he says he believes their course is no better than that here. "I believe the spirit of chemistry lives at Bates," he says, "and we do so much with so little apparatus that we appreciate more the facilities we have here, and are disposed to scoff at nothing. I am convinced that, in spite of our handicap at Bates, we give more chemistry per ounce of humanity and more thoroughly than they do at Yale."

Naturally such progress as Mr. Jecusco is making is very pleasing to Dr. Jordan, and indeed to all Bates people, for practically all the chemistry he has had was obtained at Bates.

SUGGESTED SOLUTION

The Sophomores always have published these programmes and probably always will. Now instead of making it necessary to steal into the Chapel, like a thief in the night, why couldn't men stand at the doors and distribute them as the people came out? There is absolutely no harm in a mock program! Why can't they be recognized? Let the knockers and the knocked laugh and enjoy them together! A man should be able to stand a joke even if it is on him. Sometimes the law makes criminals rather than protecting society from them.

BASEBALL REMINISCENCES

BASEBALL is the oldest sport at Bates, in fact for many years it was the only one, the first track meet being held in 1880, tennis dating from 1883, and football not being firmly established until about 1892, though a single game was played as early as 1878.

In the earliest days of baseball at Bates games were mostly limited to contests with local town teams. I have recollections of seeing a game played, in which the late Hon. Frank L. Noble '74 pitched for Bates, on the campus in front of Parker hall, in the midst of the small trees which had but just been set out there. This must have been prior to 1874.

The earliest game of which I have distinct remembrance of witnessing was played May 26, 1875, with the Androscoggins of Lewiston, and my sole recollection of that is the dispute in which it ended. In Bates half of the ninth, with the Androscoggins two runs in the lead, none out and men on second and third, a fly was hit to right field. My recollection is that Hon. T. F. Callahan, recently state auditor of Maine, was playing that field for the town team.

He made a great try for it, but in my opinion at the time, and in that of all the Bates men, he picked it up instead of catching it. At any rate he threw to first in an attempt to catch the runner, instead of to second or third to double up the runners, who had gone home. The umpire delayed his decision until the runners had crossed the plate with the runs which tied the score, and then called the batter out on fly caught. The ball was immediately thrown to third and second, resulting in a triple play and giving the Androscoggins the game. Bates made a vigorous protest but it availed nothing.

I am unable to tell when the first game was played with Bowdoin. The first of which I have personal recollection, and the first that I can find recorded in the files of The Student, was the famous 3-0 game won by Bates on May 20, 1876. The Bates pitcher that day was Henry W. Oakes of Auburn, a better pitcher never faced a batter in Maine, and O. B. Clason, whom every Bates man knows, was at first base. I believe that a return game was played at Brunswick on July 3, resulting in a victory for Bowdoin, 4-3.

I remember also seeing that famous Bates team, with Oakes and Record as battery, defeat the Androscoggins, then a professional team which included in its ranks Tim Keefe, afterward for many years a star pitcher for the old New York Giants, and Mutrie, who afterward managed the New Yorks. This was on July 4, 1876.

That 4-3 victory of Bowdoin's on July 3, 1816, was the last one Bowdoin won from us prior to the spring of 1880. Indeed in the spring of 1877 they refused to play at all, saying it was useless in face of certain defeat. In the fall of '77, after Oakes, Clason and their mates had graduated, Bowdoin plucked up courage enough for a game, and were beaten 8-2, Given '79, now principal of Newark, N. J. Academy, doing the pitching. Given and Parsons '81, were able to follow up the work of Oakes with sufficient effect to win all games played up to 1880.

When Bowdoin did win again, however, they did it well. In 1880 a series of four games was arranged with Bowdoin, and they resulted in a tie; Bowdoin winning the first at Bruswick 16-3, Bates the second at Lewiston, 16-6, Bowdoin the third at Lewiston, 7-4, Bates the fourth, a ten inning game at Brunswick 6-5. The tie was played off at Portland and Bates won easily, 10-2.

Up to this time neither Colby or Maine, then the State College, was considered of much account. An occasional game was played with them, but the only real rivalry was with Bowdoin. From 1880 to 1886 the game was at a low ebb here, chiefly owing to lack of battery material. The latter year, however, was one of those years that all Maine collegians hold in memory.

All four teams were strong, and the fight was warm throughout. Two of the players in later years rose to fame not only in this state but in the nation. The Colby pitcher was Forrest Goodwin, who but a few years ago represented the 3rd Maine district in Congress, and the Bates catcher was Frank W. Sandford, the famous leader of the Holy Ghost and Us colony at Shiloh in Durham. The schedule called for nine games, and when Bates came to the ninth game, with Colby, the two colleges were tied with five victories and three defeats each. Unfortunately Mr. Godwin was too good, and Colby captured the final game.

The next team which stands out in the memories of "old graduates" is "Ike" Cox's famous team of 1889. Cox, now a prominent newspaper man at Manchester, N. H., was manager, and at the close of the season stole the team and took it to New Brunswick for a series of games, without the knowledge or consent of the college authorities. Among the players were W. F. Garcelon '90, whose career later as a hurdler and later still as graduate manager at Harvard. and whose deep interest in everything pertaining to Bates is well known. Bates lost the first game to Colby 19-8, and the second to Bowdoin, 21-5, and then turned to and won six straight and the championship.

Since then Bates has had its fair measure of success. At first limited to games with local teams, the sport has been developed until Bates has had teams able to defeat Columbia and Harvard, and they are now recognized as worthy opponents by all colleges of New England. Best of all Bates men have never had cause to blush for their teams, whether they win or lose, for they are modest in victory, and sportsmanlike in defeat, and are gentlemen always.

-John L. Reade '83.

TWENTIETH CENTURY BASEBALL

Baseball, the most popular and sane athletic sport, may be presented to us this year with some new aspects if, by removing the coach from the bench during games, the responsibility of directing play is centered in the captain. Last year our students in assembly voted to oust the coach from the bench when competing with a college team operating on the above plan. It is understood that the other Maine colleges have approved this plan, which allows a team to win or lose under the sole leadership of its captain.

Years ago the track coach was forbidden to make suggestions to or direct in any way his pupils during actual competition. The status of the football coach during games has been changed from time to time in order to prevent his charges from becoming mere puppets, until he now with the other subs modestly decorates the side line seats, while the quarterback and captain assume responsibility and direct the play of their team. Is this not a fitting time for college men to again assert their birth-right, and invite the baseball coach also to become a spectator in the grandstand during the actual progress of the game?

A few calamity howlers and professional coaches decry the plan and argue that the dear public is sure to be disgruntled by the lowering of present playing standards and that essential receipts with support of influential alumni will be lost.

To obtain more consideration for the player and less for the spectator; to make the spectator an incident of the game rather than its sole subject and its practice something of a pastime rather than a commercial venture; to hold the standards of the game within the reach of more men by discouraging training and playing under forced conditions; to add more pleasure to the drudgery of 'varsity men are ideas worthy of careful consideration at this stage of development of college athletics.

That college men are responsible and capable of leadership has been proved too often in the past to doubt their ability to meet the demands of this situation. Every boy of force craves to express the stuff that is in him. Boy nature craves achievement and action that brings responsibility and honor. Boys are shut out from the achievements of the day. Modern achievements are intellectual and professional and are beyond the reach of most college men. In student body activities, especially athletics and debating, however, youth finds its own peculiar field and under proper supervision should be allowed, when possible, definite leadership.

There are several problems which will have to be worked out anew if this plan is to be a real success. The team must select their leaders with more care. Friendship and fraternalism must be subverted for the good of the cause. Co-operation, self-subordination, and loyalty to the college must prevail. The coach must be alive to the situation and while he may be as useful as before in teaching the game, he must actively prepare and train the captain for proper team leadership. If these conditions are met fairly and squarely the present playing standard of the game should not be lowered to any great extent.

Along with this important change in the status of the baseball coach come other things to consider which do not diminish the virility of the game or lessen individual skill, team work, or strategy. Vocal baseball or "yapping" with its limited and often senseless vocabulary is on the wane and will either be eihminated by faculty regulation or, what is better still, by mutual agreement of contestants as it was during the last Harvard-Yale baseball series.

High ideals in sport will never decrease the efficiency of a man or a team. Bates men should be alert to eatch the trend of modern athletics. It is interesting to remember that competitors in the early Grecian Olympic Festivals swore before the temple of Zeus to use no unfair means to secure victory.

The following recommendations by the National Collegiate Athletic Association of America, with an enrollment of more than one hundred and twenty-five colleges, of which Bates and Bowdoin of the Maine colleges are members, sets the pace in ideals for all thinking college men:

First. The catcher shall not, during actual play, speak at all to the batsman, except where occasion requires a bona fide word of caution, and in speaking to the pitcher he shall not use words reflecting or calculating to reflect upon the batsman or any member of the opposing team.

Second. No member of either team shall call or shout during the game to any member of the opposing team, except to caution him against some danger, nor behave in any indecorous or unseemly manner.

Third. There shall be no oral coaching from the bench.

Fourth. The so-called "encouragement of the pitcher" from the outfield shall be stopped, or at least minimized, since we believe that the shouting of remarks in endless iteration is not only disagreeable to the spectator, but is disconcerting rather than helpful to the pitcher. In general, it amounts merely to senseless noise and is quite unworthy of college-bred men. Whatever "encouragement" or "support" the pitcher may need can be quietly given from the infield.

Fifth. The umpire shall warn any player violating any of these rules, and, on second offence, shall exclude him from the game.

Sixth. That in general the attention of the students be called to the importance of courtesy, which will forbid such cheering, singing, or chatter as is designed at critical moments to "rattle" the visiting team.

A baseball game is a splendid contest of skill between two opposing nines before an academic throng of spectators; it is not a contest between a visiting team and a local team assisted by a disorderly rabble. It is fine when, as often happens, a good play by the visiting team is as heartily applauded as a similar play by the home team.

-Royce D. Purinton.

TRIAL MEET

The seventh interclass track and field meet since Coach Ryan has had charge of the team was held last Saturday on the sidewalk and field in front of Roger Williams Hall. No handicaps were given and all the men were started from scratch in order to get a line on the team which will compete in the Bowdoin dual on the 24th of this month.

Quimby, '18, was the star of the meet, capturing first place in both hurdle races and in the discus and hammer throw. Pinkham, '16, showed unusual form in the high jump, clearing the bar at five feet and six inches. Butler won both dashes in very fast time.

The summary:

High hurdles—won by Quimby, '18; Boyd, '16, 2nd; Benvie, '16, 3rd. Time, 17 1-5 see. Low Hurdles—won by Quimby, '18; Boyd, '16, 2nd; Benvie, '16, 3rd. Time 26 3-5 sec.

If we have pleasant thoughts, even when alone, we have good company.

Don't forget to talk about the debates coming April 23.

The social problem at Bates still faces us. How can it be solved? We have been looking for the presentation of some plan, either from the faculty or the students themselves. We have looked in vain. If conditions exist as they are now it means that a great many of the Bates men and women will go through their entire course with acquaintanceships confined to their class alone. Bates is a small college and the whole student body should be acquainted. When we get out into the world situated in various places we will appreciate this fact more. The world is so small that many of us will meet again.

How sad not to have been acquainted in college! The more we enjoy common experiences today, greater will be the pleasures of friendship in the future. Bates needs more social life.

But we need the right kind. We have plenty of social organizations among the men and also among the women. Our problem is to create a situation in which the men and women of Bates may come together in an informal and friendly way for the cultivation of friendships such as should exist between members of our Alma Mater.

With this purpose in view there might be arranged an informal social each month of the college year. This could be done and, we believe, made very successful, nor would it be necessary to rely on "spinning the platter" or "who's got the button" to furnish entertainment for the evening. We have faith in the ability of Bates students to keep something real appropriate doing all the time.

There are a variety of ways that this problem may be faced. We suggest two. First, the matter could be turned over to the four classes. Let each class provide two socials during the year, a committee from the class or the class itself taking charge of the arrangements. These socials are to be for the entire student body. The class which provides the best informal, getting-acquainted social should receive suitable recognition.

Under this plan the problem is not a difficult one, when the co-operation of all the classes is assured.

The second plan we suggest is that there be appointed a definite social committee made up of members from the various classes. This committee should then proceed to arrange the socials. Membership of the committee should be considered an honor and a decided responsibility.

We feel that this matter should be carefully considered. Comments on the plans suggested, or any solution of the problem will be heartily welcomed.

HINTS FROM THE CAPTAIN

The college baseball season has begun now in this state and the interest of all our students should be with the team to the end of the season. Bates was represented last year by a championship team and prospects this year are fully as good, if not better than then. Good weather conditions and the cooperation of the men have helped make fast progress. Now we want the support of every Bates student; we want to feel that there is something behind us, and that we truly represent our college and its student body. That brings out the "fight" and makes the everyday grind enjoyable.

We would much rather hear knocks than have no interest at all, but "boasting" never hurt anyone, and it surely does help in the work of a baseball team. A crowd brings out the best there is in a man, but there is a question about the attitude of those who come out just to "kid" another fellow, who is really trying to do something. There is much to be done on the field at all times and everyone could help a little. We like to have the crowd there for it shows interest and is an encouragement, an inducement to work. Everyone connected with Bates should feel that it is their team and try to help at least a little, and not leave all the work to a few.

-Geo. K. Talbot.

INTROSPECTION

The ball team starts a schedule Monday that is longer and much harder than Bates has had in the past. This means that the team must be of the highest order if it is to have a successful season. Fortunately weather conditions have been such that the team is in much better shape at this early period than usual.

Thru graduation two pitchers, and two infielders have been lost from the champion-ship team. The strength of the team this year will depend chiefly on how well these positions are filled.

Moore '15 is the only veteran among the pitchers and will probably do most of the pitching Davidson '18 and Fawler '18 will pitching. Davidson '18 and Fowler '18 will be the other members of the staff and should show up well as both have a lot of stuff, lacking only experience.

The fight for first base is an even one between Swift '15 and Witham '15. For the third base vacancy there are several promising candidates including Keaney '16, Marston '16, O'Connell '16, Shattuck '18 and Thurston '18.

Fuller '15 and MacDonald '17 will play second base and short stop, and should be even better than last year when they were selected for these positions on the "All-Maine" team.

Capt. Talbot '15 and Butler '17 will be two of the outfield while the third will probably be Swicker '16 or one of the many candidates who are fighting it out for third base. This outfield will be better in all respects than the majority of college outfields.

Lord '16 will be the mainstay behind the bat.

Everything considered, the team this year should be the equal of past teams in fielding and should exceed them in batting.

MRS. LIVINGSTON'S ADDRESS

Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston, superintendent of the department of franchise in the National W. C. T. U., addressed the students at the chapel exercises last Friday on the subject of Woman Suffrage. She said that three factors have led up to the desire of women for the ballot: fundamental religious training, educational training, and the opportunity offered to woman in the industrial world. Continuing, she said: "The great problems of the day are felt by the women equally with the men, but the women are handicapped because all organization is surrounded by politics or government. There is no argument for the ballot in the hands of men that does not hold good for women. Men have injected the material development in helping to solve great problems, but it is necessary to inject moral development. This the women will do by their own training if given the ballot. We believe that women should have the ballot because it is just and right. We do not want the men to lead us. We do not want them to be behind. We want to strike hands with them in the solving of the problems for the betterment of humanity. The strongest argument for woman's suffrage is the Constitution of the United States.

Y. W. C. A.—CONVENTION

Activities in general were suspended among the girls over this last week end, when over fifty attended the Maine Girls' Conference in Portland. Beginning Friday evening, meetings were held and other entertainment furnished almost continuously until late Sunday evening. Throughout, the conference proved very interesting and inspiring. The speakers were unusually good, the organ recital by Will Macfarland enjoyable, and the hospitality proffered by the Portland homes much appreciated. Then, there were the girls, one thousand of them and over, who themselves helped in providing the amusement for Saturday evening, and in making the whole conference one great success.

The weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. will be held on Thursday evening of this week, instead of on Wednesday evening, as usual. At this meeting Miss A. Lilian Leathers will be the leader and Miss Elizabeth Conklin of New York City, the chief speaker. There will be special music, a piano solo by Miss Evelyn Hussey and a vocal solo by Miss Mabel Googins. Miss Conklin is one of the traveling secretaries of the Student Volunteer Movement and is to be in college Thursday and Friday of this week. The will meet the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, the Student Volunteer Band and the special committees on mission work, for the purpose of LOCALS arousing more interest in missions among the Arrangements are now being made for the May Festival, to be held out-of-doors on the side of Mount David, about the first of May. Votes have been deposited for the May Queen, who will be chosen from the Senior Class, and also for the Maid of Honor, who will be chosen from the Junior Class. The women of the various classes will march and dance as in past years. Miss Bertha M. Bell is in charge of arrangements, assisted by committees from the various classes, Miss Agnes Bryant, '16, spent the Easter recess in Washington.

Miss Laura Mansfield, '18, visited Miss Doris Ingersoll, '18, at her home in Portland during the vacation.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra Club, consisting of twelve members, will give a concert in the chapel, Thursday evening.

The Girls' Literary Societies are to be postponed this week.

Thursday, April 8, at Conference Hour, Dean Buswell spoke interestingly to the girls concerning her visit to Mrs. "Jack" Gardner's Italian palace. She especially emphasized the art treasures seen there and the splendid color effects. She also made frequent mention of the efficient guide who assisted her party.

Miss Elsie Leach, '17, is unable to return to college this spring because of illness.

At the Wednesday morning chapel exercises last week, President Chase paid a tribute to the memory of Hon. Hiram Knowlton of Portland, who was deceased April 6. Mr. Knowlton was a member of the Board of Trustees of the College. He had contributed generously to the funds of the college at different times and has endowed several scholarships.

Dean Clara L. Buswell, Miss Bertha M. Bell, and Miss Ethel B. Cutts attended the Maine Girls' Conference in Portland on Saturday.

Vespers on Sunday evening proved very interesting, taking the form of readings from "Everybody's Birthright."

Mrs. Margie Bradbury, '16, was detained last week at her home in Biddeford.

This is the girls' basket-ball week! With the cheers, yells, and songs of the different classes, the teams finished off the preliminary games Wednesday afternoon. There now remain the finals to be played Saturday evening,-one more good opportunity to show all the enthusiasm and class loyalty possible!

Officers of Girls' A. A., 1915-16: President, Alice King; treasurer, Miss Bell; vice president. Aileen Lougee; secretary, Ruth Dresser; basket-ball, Alma Gregory; track, Agnes Burnett; volley-ball, Maude Murphy; base ball, Ruth Skinner; hockey, Flora Warren; walking, A. Lilian Leathers.

This is the Base Ball Number. Thanks is due those men who have the interests of base ball at Bates at heart for making this issue possible.

Can you remember of seeing a better base ball schedule than the present one? Twentyone games with nine at home.

The tennis courts are ready for action. That is a compliment to Manager Parker and his assistants. This is surely a period of reconstruction at Bates and the tennis department is not behind the others in the policy of more "pep."

Have you visited the renovated, aerated, pastuerized, Ross's?

Prof. Robinson recently attended a meeting of the teachers of public speaking held in New York.

The thing that most needs criticising just now is the presence of large numbers of fruit skins on our campus. We all have a very bad habit of throwing waste out of the window. This is just the time for a good resolution.

The busiest day of the spring term was last Saturday. There was something doing! People moving about the campus! It certainly looked good! Both sports were well patronized, and I guess that nobody felt that their time was wasted.

Did you know that our old friend, Chef Voyer, was in town?

Coach Ryan held another of his enthusiastic mass meetings last Thursday. Coach spoke with the same old fire, and everybody went away feeling that they "could beat anybody that was human," the way he said Jim Thorpe did at the Olympic Games.

Haven't heard any of those calamity howlers about pitchers since the game Saturday. No need to worry about that end if the showing of last Saturday was a fair criterion.

The dramatic club is working on a farce to be presented some time this term.

Josh Moulton, '14, came over from Mechanic Falls to see "A Modern Eve." Don't blame him.

Don't let Edmund Breese go away without seeing him. It only costs a dime, and is much more interesting than Molly. Waddy and that cute little rascal Tony.

Indoor sports have been abandoned entirely since vacation.

Championship? Remember Anna Eva Fay!

BATES LOSES TWO FRIENDS

Bates has recently lost by death two of her most devoted Trustees,—Rev. William H. Bowen, D.D., of Providence, R. I., and Hon. Hiram Knowlton, of Portland. Dr. Bowen died at his home in Providence, February 15th, and Mr. Knowlton, at his home in Portland, April 6th.

Dr. Bowen had long been a member of the Board of Fellows and his interest in the College had been almost coeval with its history. As pastor for many years of the Main Street Free Baptist Church in Lewiston, he had taken warm interest in Bates and her students. Not a few of her older graduates remember with keen interest his sermons and his lectures, especially courses of Sunday evening lectures upon topics that appealed to young people.

On his resignation of his pastorate, more than thirty years ago, he was elected Professor of Sacred Rhetoric in Cobb Divinity School, then a department of Bates College. This chair, however, he never occupied, although he gave courses of lectures at various times before students both of the Divinity School and of the College.

After leaving Lewiston he was engaged in his profession until responsibilities to near relatives led him to make his residence in Providence. A graduate of Brown University, he never failed in loyalty to his Alma Mater. Yet his interest in Bates was, perhaps, even more vital and intense than in his own college; and his frequent visits to Lewiston always brought him into close relations with the Bates faculty and students. His chapel talks were wonderfully impressive and inspiring, and his services on the Board of Fellows were numerous and important. For many years he was chairman for the Trustees of the committee on degrees. No man could have been more conscientious in the performance of his duties.

Hon. Hiram Knowlton had been for nearly a quarter of a century a member of the Bates Board of Overseers. To him his responsibility as a member of the Corporation of Bates College was sacred in the highest degree. Never in vigorous health and carrying the heavy burden of a large and important law practice, with possibly a single exception, he was present at every meeting of the Trustees. No man had more weight with his associates.

His utterances reflected not only a powerful and discerning mind but an uncompromising conscience. To Bates he gave both wise counsel and substantial aid. He was proud of her and in his association with men of influence lost no opportunity to acquaint them with her worth. He took great interest in her intercollegiate debates and sincerely believed her debaters to be eminently worthy of the laurels that they seldom failed to win.

In his home, in his conduct of cases as a lawyer, in his clear, impartial, and convincing pleadings before juries and before judges, in the distinguished offices that he filled, both judicial and legislative, and in his daily life as a man and a citizen, he was honored and trusted by all who met him as a steadfast and consistent Christian.

Mr. Knowlton was 91 years of age on the 17th of August, 1914. He was actively engaged in his professional duties till a few months before he died, his mental powers still in full vigor. His devoted wife, who passed her 90th birthday in February last, died but a day before her husband. Never did married life afford a better example of constant harmony and mutual sympathy and aid. "Lovely and pleasant" in their cherished home life, in "death they were not divided."

Mr. Knowlton's remarkable conscientiousness may be illustrated by a single instance. A short time ago he wrote the President of Bates tendering his unconditional resignation from the Board of Overseers, and asking to have it take effect at once. The President, fearing that in some way Mr. Knowlton might have felt dissatisfied with the conduct of the College, hastened to learn the cause of his resignation. Mr. Knowlton replied, "I love the College too much to permit it to suffer through any mistake incident to the decline of my judgment in my old age." Never would careful observers have regarded him as in more complete command of his faculties than when he was forecasting their probable failure.

-President Chase

AN INDIAN TONE POEM

(After Frank Holding's interpretation of Dvorak's Sonatina.)

An old squaw trudges slowly over the desert singing a sad song of her fallen nation; the sun begins to set and her hopes are stirred, but they fade with the fading colors; the old song again; a burst of passion; again the old song, and the squaw trudges on.

Yellow sands,
Desert drear—
Gleaming sands,
Shadows sere—
Shifting sands,
Bringing fear—
Trembling sands,
Far and near.

With stolid pace— With sullen face, Of dying race A squaw doth trace:—

"Gone the glories of my nation—
Gone the pride of Manitou—
Gone that free and mighty station—
Gone our hopes and visions too."

"Came the paleface with his powers, Came the priest with teachings new; Came an end to what was ours— Came an end to what was true."

"But see now where yonder sunset turns the distant sky to gold!

Thus, ah, thus our nation's splendor in the far-off days of old.

Wondrous great our warrior-chieftains, wondrous fine their deeds of skill;

And by night or e'en by noonday there was naught they feared to kill."

"Now the gleaming clouds grow brighter, pile on pile in countless fold

Like the deeds of Wa-wa-nee-wah,—far too many to be told.

And as the sun from in the heavens gives each cloud a golden thrill

So the glory of our nation spread like flame from hill to hill!"

"But the western sky grows dimmer—soon its colors fade and pall—

Thus the nation that we loved so—that for which we gave our all.

Manitou, thou mighty Ruler, bring again those days of old

When the chieftain ruled the prairie, when the brave was strong and bold!"

"Dead, the glories of the sunlight;
Dead, the hope that ruled our breast;
Dead, the dream that made the world bright—
Dead; before the hated guest!"

"Oh, my sons, arise and smite him!
Oh, my children, show your strength!
Ye who played with coals as pebbles—
Passed the roebuck in the race—
Have your hearts grown fat with feasting?
Have your limbs grown slow with ease?
Purge your country from the paleface—
Save your nation from its fate!"

"Cease, my burdened heart, from wailing— Cease, my fading eyes from dreams— Cease, my ears, with powers failing— Cease; like life my nation seems."

"Gone the days when hope might flourish, Gone the joys in sorrows veiling; Gone the visions one might nourish; Gone—in dust and anguish trailing."

> The squaw doth trace With sullen face Of dying race, Her stolid pace.

Trembling sands,
Far and near—
Shifting sands,
Bringing fear—
Gleaming sands,
Shadows sere—
Yellow sands,
Desert drear.

SPOFFORD CLUB

The Spofford Club met last Friday evening at Professor Ramsdell's residence on Mountain Avenue. J. Frank Hill, '14, former president of the club, presided over the meeting and gave an interesting address on "The Isle of Pines." The following new members were voted into the club: Miss Mona Hodnett, '16; Harold Clifford, '16; Laurence Nutting, '16; Miss Mary Cleaves, '17; Miss Alice Lawry, '17; Miss Ruth Capen, '17.

BATES—CLARK DEBATE

Simultaneously with the Tufts debate, Bates will uphold the negative side of the same question against Clark College at Worcester, with the following team: F. B. Quimby, '18; R. D. Stillman, '16; H. P. Johnson, '16.

It will be recalled that Bates has won five out of the seven debates with Clark, and that she won from Tufts last year in the first debate ever held with that college. The idea of a triangular debate is a new departure at Bates.

INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATING LEAGUE

Stephens High School, of Rumford, by defeating Morse High School and Maine Central Institute in the final debates on April 16, won the championship of the Bates Interscholastic Debating League. Rumford in each case received a unanimous decision. The affirmative team, debating at home against Morse High, was composed of Burton Byron, Arthur Curran, Chester Nelson; on the Morse High School team were Ernest Coffin, Howard Deering and Robert Wagner. On the Stephens High negative team at Pittsfield were Nahum Moore, Milton LaCourse, and Russell Taylor. The Maine Central Institute debators were Helen Robinson, Horace Maxim and Allen Hackett.

On the same evening the Maine Central Institute negative team, Irvin Ames, Morrill Burse and John Goodwin at Bath defeated the Morse High team, Herbert Cavanaugh, Lincoln Farrar, and Myron Sprague. The question for all debates was, Resolved, That the women of Maine should receive the suffrage on equal terms with men. Nahum Moore, of Stephens High, was awarded first place by each judge and is declared the best individual debater in the league. The winning school received the Bates Trophy Cup.

In the preliminary debates the nine schools in the league were arranged in three triangles. Each school had both an affirmative and a negative team. In Triangle A, Rumford High, Deering High, and Westbrook Seminary, Rumford won both debates. In Triangle B, Maine Central Institute, Bangor High and Gardiner High, Maine Central Institute defeated both the other schools. In Triangle C, Morse High, Rockland High, and Camden High, Morse High was the winner.

MILITARY TRAINING AT BATES

Switzerland has a system by which she has an efficient army ten times as large as that of the United States, and which is maintained at one-tenth the cost. The training is given in a series of relatively short terms of service that do not materially interfere with the industries, but all the men are completely equipped, and can be called to the colors at a moment's notice. Were such a system fully organized in the United States, we would be justified in feeling perfectly safe, and free from the possibility of being overtaken by a terrible disaster in the next few years.

But such is not the case. Were we suddenly confronted by a war, the trained men at our government's disposal would be but a mere handful before such armies as are fighting in Europe today. It is doubtless true that we should quickly have an abundance of volunteers that could be turned into fairly efficient soldiers in the few months that would be required to equip them,—if we had officers to command them. But we have officers for only a few hundred thousand men. Moreover, several years' training are required to make efficient officers, and they must be men of first-class intelligence.

West Point, though a splendid institution, can turn out only a few officers yearly. Accordingly, colleges and universities all over the country are striving to provide the training necessary for this thing. Our best statesmen and educators believe this to be the only possible solution for the problem. The question we should consider, then, is "Should not Bates, the college of service, share in this great work?"

EDITORIAL

Our debating team deserves the support of every loyal Bates man and woman tomorrow night. Do your part!

We often fail to appreciate that one of the things in which Bates excels is carried on quietly, with an immense amount of work on the part of a very few men. Yet because of the faithfulness of these few we can proudly present to the world a debating record unsurpassed by any college.

It has been with a great deal of interest that we have watched the development of our track team this year, and likewise the baseball work. But how many have given one thought to the hours of study and preparation which have been expended this season that Bates may continue the debating record of the past? These men deserve more than a passing thought. No matter what the outcome, let us tell them that we appreciate their work.

We can do this by being present at City Hall when we meet Tufts tomorrow night to support the team remaining at home. The team at Worcester must feel that, though materially separated, Bates spirit is with them. Clark is an old rival and they intend to do their best. But we have faith in our men that they will again bring home the laurel.

Bates and Tufts met for the first time last year, favorable to Bates. Tufts comes to Lewiston tomorrow with the determination to even matters up. It will be a fight from beginning to end. Our debaters have trained well and will show us that Bates still maintains high standards of forensic as well as athletic contests.

Bates has many things of which she may be proud—athletic records, scholarship and debating distinction, etc., and beside these she has a campus. When we returned to college last year, one of the very notable features was the appearance of our campus. The lawns were in splendid condition and they presented a pleasing sight. We were all glad to do our best to keep them in the same shape.

During the winter months it has been easy to forget some of the cares we formerly had. Habits formed still linger, and we notice that a number of the students disregard the walks. Why not help make this campus the prettiest place in Lewiston? A little cooperation with those doing the work and our campus will be what we wish. Perhaps it may mean a few seconds more to get where you want to go, but it will be worth the trouble. It has become an established custom for all Bates men to take off their hats when the college song is being played and sung. Why not establish a custom of keeping off the lawns, putting fruit skins in their proper place, and not using the windows as convenient waste baskets or garbage cans?

NOTICE

On request we call attention in the Student, to the error in print in the poem, "To the Memory of an Undying Love," printed in the March Bulletin in the fifth line. The correct reading is:

"Far fallen from its white Himalayan throne The Jumna winds through Agra's evergreen To find the sacred Ganges and the sea; But waits with sobbing lave against the shore To mirror deep within its breast, that shrine Of marble walls and slender minarets,

And pearl white dome;—that almost priceless shrine

Of deathless love,—the only Taj Mahal; Of all the beautiful, the beautiful."

M. R. SHAW ON PROHIBITION

Mr. M. R. Shaw, a secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition League conducted the chapel exercises last Saturday and addressed the students. In brief, he said:

"A prohibition law on the statute books will not get up in the middle of the night and go out and enforce itself. Prohibition does not prohibit. It is men and officials that prohibit. A great responsibility is resting upon Maine to show that prohibition can be enforced.

"If the Prohibition League at Bates is thought to be a joke it is because you are not giving it support. Seven million a day is the cost of the liquor traffic and the problem will never be solved until we get public sentiment behind it to arouse and enforce it. Responsibility rests on every man. You can't shift this responsibility. We have an enemy just as great in this country as Germany or Austria is to England. It is for every man to resolve that he will not rest until Old Glory shall float over a saloonless nation."

BATES—TUFTS DEBATE

The second annual debate between Tufts and Bates will be held tomorrow night at eight o'clock in Lewiston City Hall. The question is: Resolved, That the Federal Government should own and operate the Telegraph and Telephone lines within the United States. The Bates team has the affirmative and consists of:

Bates, L. R. Carey, '15; C. C. Chayer, '17; E. L. Saxton, '15; H. W. Buker, '16, alternate.

Tufts, John N. Mark, '16; B. A. Ward, '15; S. H. Weiner, '18; E. W. Whippen, '17, alternate.

Mayor Brann will preside and the judges will be U. S. Senator C. F. Johnson, Hon. D. W. Snow of Portland, and A. W. King, associate justice, Supreme Court of Maine.

USE OF LIBBEY FORUM

By vote of the faculty, the use of Libbey Forum on Tuesdays and alternate Fridays, both day and evening, is reserved for the young women of the college; on Wednesdays and remaining Fridays, both day and evening, for the young men. Groups of young men wishing the use of the building on other than their assigned days are asked to register their request with the Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings; young women with the Dean of Women.

The annual meeting of the Bates Olumni Association of Providence was held April 9th at the Narragansett Hotel. President Chase was present and brought "News from Bates." E. H. Emery, '84, was elected resident of the association. Those in attendance were President George C. Chase, '68; E. H. Emery, '84; Rev. H. J. Piper, '90, and Mrs. Piper; Dr. W. B. Cutts, '91, and Mrs. Cutts; Professor H. E. Walter, '92; Principal C. C. Spratt, '93, and Mrs. Spratt; Frank P. Ayer, Esq., '00; Dr. D. L. Richardson, '00; Elizabeth D. Chase, '02; Dr. Carl B. Sawyer, '03, and Mrs. Sawyer; Jane M. Given, '04; Harry H. Lowry, '12; C. R. Thompson, '13.

SPORTING NOTES

BATES 12, LEWISTON NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE 7

Bates opened her baseball season last Monday, April 19th, with a decided victory over the renowned Lewiston New England League team which had defeated Bowdoin in the forenoon by the score of 10 to 3 and had overwhelmed Colby 17 to 5 last Saturday. The game was played on the excellent field in the Lewiston Athletic Park and under perfect weather conditions. The large attendance bespoke of the keen interest which the citizens take in their local teams.

It was clearly demonstrated in this initial game that Bates has no cause to worry about the ability of her pitching staff. The critics who had predicted that the Garnet has no chance in the fight for the State championship this year on account of the loss of Linquist and Stinson, have since changed their minds and now believe, as every Bates man believes, that we have the best team in Maine. Davidson, the left-handed Freshman twirler who pitched on the Gardiner Trolley League last summer, held Manager Irwin's heavy batters to five scattered hits in six innings and allowed only two men to pass on balls. Moore, '15, pitched the seventh and eighth innings, and although he was a little wild, passing four men and hitting three, he did not allow a single hit. Fowler, '18, who gained a great reputation in the Aroostook High School League last year, finished out the game, and did it quickly, only one man reaching first base.

Among the many conspicuous features of the game were the numerous errors of the Lewiston team, the faultless manner in which the Bates team fielded the ball and their ability to hit when it was necessary to score a run. Duncan, the little Freshman second baseman, came very near to batting for a thousand, getting three hits and one base on balls. Fuller, '15, always full of "pep" and life, played just as well on third base as he ever did in his old position at second base.

JUNIORS WIN TRACK MEET

The last interclass track meet for this spring was won by the class of 1916 Saturday, April 17th. The meet was held on the regular track which was in very good shape for this time of the year, although it was very loose. This condition of the track together with the high wind that prevailed, prevented the competitors from making as fast time as they would under more favorable circumstances.

Keaney, '16, was the star of the meet, breaking the college record in the broad jump by five and one-half inches. Lane, '18, also showed great form and ability in the distance-runs by winning the mile in four minutes and forty-four seconds and then "coming back" and winning the two-mile. In all, the Freshmen, who were the nearest rivals to the Juniors, won seven first places.

From the men who competed in this meet Coach Ryan will pick about thirty-five to take to Brunswick next Saturday to fight for Bates against our old rival, Bowdoin. This team will represent the best that this college can produce in the line of track athletics, and it is the duty of every man in this institution to follow it to Brunswick and help the men bring back the victory. The cost of the trip, which would not be more than eightyfive cents, ought not to stand in the way of anyone's supporting this team.

Those winning the greatest number of points for their teams were Miss Gregory, '16, with 59, and Miss Beane, '15, with 56.

The three games were noticeable for their fine playing; also for the enthusiastic support given by each of the four classes alike. Particularly spectacular was the final game between the two strongest teams, which ended with a slightly larger score determining the game for 1916. Next in importance was the Junior-Freshman game, noted for the remarkable playing of the Freshman team so lately organized, also for the practical absence of fouls called on either side. In short, the true game spirit predominated both in the team work and in all the rest, thus finishing the girls' basket ball season in a most fitting and sportsmanlike manner.

How much better our campus walks are looking! Spring cleaning certainly does wonders.

Always something new this year. At present it is spring football practice. This is the first time in the history of Bates that such a thing has happened. Everybody should appreciate the efforts of Coach Green, who is giving his services, this spring, and try and make the team next fall champions.

The Judge says that in order for his work to be a success this spring he should have about a dozen pairs of football shoes. It seems strange that he can't get them. They won't cost any more now than next fall. Why not spend part of that big haul from Patriot's Day?

The people of Maine should have this baseball situation pretty well defined now. Lewiston won from Colby 12-5, Lewiston won from Bowdoin 10-3, but Bates won from Lewiston 12-7. It was a bitter pill for the Leaguers; they were willing to pay all kinds of money to play the game over again. Well! We hope they will have an opportunity before the season closes. Just at present we claim our residence in Missouri.

How did that ball club look to you Monday? Like a pretty smooth working proposition? Certainly! However, there are several other men in the squad that the student body would like to see under fire. We can't be quite satisfied that the present is the best possible combination. However, our business is not to pick the team, but to boost it. "Bates expects every man to do his duty."

"Monte" Moore, alias Spit-ball-artist, certainly had the N. E. L. nervous. Why not? Most of them had never faced a German bombardment.

The paths are all lined up now. Wouldn't it be "an act of neutrality" if the patrons of the campus would refrain from walking on the grass?

Noticed Monday, April 19: One pair of white flannel trousers. Mentioned simply that you may add it to your list of signs of spring.

Who will be the first co-ed to wear a pair of side-laced boots. Keep your eyes open, and report anything that looks suspicious.

The peace orations were delivered last Thursday in Hathorn Hall. The winners were Lane and Dyer, first and second respectively. Both men are members of the Sophomore class.

There is a new contest on for Prohibition Orations. A private individual has donated $25 to be used for two prizes in defense of prohibition. The contest is open to women.

Mr. Shaw, promoter of intercollegiate peace societies, spoke in chapel Saturday morning.

Guest Night of the Bates Round Table has been postponed until one week from Friday. At that meeting Prof. Robinson will read Browning's "Saul."

Rabbi Wise will be at Bates next Friday. He will address the teachers of Oxford and Androscoggin counties, in convention assembled.

The Greek play presented by the graduating class has not been selected yet. Stinson is in charge of the work.

The Dramatic Club attended the Empire Friday evening and saw Edmund Breeze in "The Master Mind."

Debate tomorrow night. It is bound to be some fight.

The girls of 1916 have again captured the girls basketball championship. They are about as regular at winning pennants as the Athletics.

Dual meet with Bowdoinham Saturday. This meet will be watched with interest, because here is the first real opportunity to see the results of Mike's work.

FRANK LEONARD BUKER, '79

The death of Mr. Frank Leonard Buker, '79, the fifth member of his class to die since its graduation, occurred at his home in Wells Depot, Me., March 29, 1915. He had been diabetic for some years; but so bravely did he conceal his condition that it was known only to a few. Though in a weakened state, he worked up till the Thursday night preceding his death on Monday.

Mr. Buker was born in Litchfield, Me., on Aug. 30, 1851, the son of William II. and Octavia (Berry) Buker. He fitted for college at Nichols Latin School, graduating in the summer of 1875 and entering Bates that fall. It is a somewhat singular fact that of the six men who entered Bates that year from the Latin School five have since died; and, of the five men deceased from '79, four came from the Latin School contingent.

Mr. Buker's course in college was marked by faithful application to his work and specially by a strict adherence to what he deemed right. He had a high ideal of what his connection with the college demanded in the line of conduct and, from the line he marked out, nothing could swerve him. His loyalty to college rule arose out of no lack of force but from its presence in his character. He was interested in the college sports and was a member of the base ball team which won the state college championship in '77 and '78.

Leaving college, he taught for some years in Wells Depot, North Berwick and Springvale. He began teaching at Wells Depot on March 29, 1878, the anniversary of his death there, thirty-seven years later. He was married on March 31, 1880, to Miss Lydia J. Hatch. In 1888 he became the station agent of the B. & M. R. R. at Wells Depot and continued in that position twenty-seven years, till his death.

Though the community in which he chose to make his home was small, his influence was widely and deeply felt. He took an active part in the affairs of his town; was for some years on the school board and for thirty years secretary of the local lodge of Free Masons.

His high ideals of right, his unshakable loyalty to them, profoundly impressed the people of his community. He became the example for all to follow; whatever Mr. Buker did set the standard of conduct for the people of his community, so great was the confidence in him. While not a member of the church, he showed forth Christ to his neighbors through his life.

At his funeral the village chapel which had been recently erected largely through his efforts, was crowded with young and old from all the surrounding country. His pastor and friend of many years said to the writer that during his ministry he had never seen such heartfelt grief shown by a whole people as in this case. Mr. Buker's life had so impressed itself upon all by its kindness and true worth that each one felt he had lost a friend and all that the man of highest moral influence in the community had been taken away. Such a life is a witness to the truth that character counts more than wealth or station and that no true life can fail to be of the highest worth and influence.

Mr. Buker ever had a lively interest in his Alma Mater and his class. He was present last Commencement at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of the college and at the eighth reunion of his class which then celebrated its thirty-fifth anniversary. He was planning to be present at Commencement this year. His death removes from his class a prized member and from Bates a true son.

The interment was at Kennebunk. His wife and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Ola H. Leavitt, survive him.

-R. F. J., '79.

EDITORIAL

The result of the first year's work in the triangular debating league is a tie. It is interesting to note that the affirmative team was the winner in each case. We can look forward to a very interesting contest next vear.

Among those interested in the debating work, there is no one to whom more credit should be given for the formation of the league than to Prof. Baird. For the last month or so his time has been largely spent in arranging matters so that the league might be a success. We congratulate him.

The work of our debaters in City Hall last Friday evening will never be forgotten by those present. Regarded from the standpoint of delivery and of argument all the speeches deserve high commendation. It was an example of splendid team work, characterized by clearness and force.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we hear of the work of our negative team in Worcester. Although receiving an adverse decision the team maintained the high standards of debating that Bates has always stood for. Quoting from a letter received, one who has heard many of Bates' best debaters, says of one of the men that his work was "the best combination of debating and speaking which I ever heard a Bates debater give." We are proud of our team and the manner in which they represented Bates.

Why not a few mass meetings these fine days? Just at the time the Maine Series is coming on, when our track team has a big schedule, when base ball work is booming, we ought to stir the Bates Spirit. She is ready to move when there is an impetus. That comes in the mass meetings. should be much more getting together for yells and songs. We ought to have the drum out more. Where are the men upon whom this responsibility rests?

EIGHT WEEK CLUBS

Classes in preparation for the Eight Week Clubs are now holding weekly meetings. These clubs aim to get together the girls in a community, to do some organized study, and to do some one permanent thing for the community during the summer. The club is primarily to take some of the good things we get at college to girls who do not have our privileges. Let us be loyal to our college in this way, spreading her ideals and principles in every possible way. Every girl is invited to the meetings whether she wishes to start a club this summer or not. Come and learn more about them! You can help your college, your community, and yourself by entering this work.

SPOFFORD CLUB

The Spofford Club held its usual meeting in Libbey Forum last Thursday evening. The program consisted of an original poem by Miss Geneva Page, '15, and a story by Miss Harriet Johnson, '16. There was also a discussion on various subjects, one of which was simplified spelling.

BATES 3 HARVARD 2

Bates won a clean cut victory over Harvard last Tuesday, with a score 3-2. The hero is Monte, but his loyal supporters made the victory a sure thing. One lone hit was all the Crimson could take from Monte. The men fought hard and earned every move.

BATES—BOWDOIN DUAL MEET

The first annual dual track meet between Bates and Bowdoin was held last Saturday at Brunswick, and, although Bates was defeated by the score of 82 to 44, our team gives promise of developing into one of the best teams that ever represented this institution.

Captain Small and Butler, '17, ran splendidly in the dashes. Both did 10 2-5 seconds for the hundred, Small in his trial heat and Butler in the finals. In the 220-yard dash they were not pressed and Small won, with Butler a close second, in 23 2-5 seconds.

Mansfield, '15, won the 880-yard run in the very creditable time of 2 minutes 5 1-5 seconds. He was running fifth until the last lap, when, with a wonderful burst of speed, he forged his way into first place and finished five yards ahead of Seyward of Bowdoin. W. Neville, who played guard on last year's football team, just missed getting third in this event after a hard fight.

The broad jump was won by Keaney, '16, with the excellent jump of 21 feet and 434 inches. Drew, '16, who was picked to win the pole vault, had an "off day," and only got third place. De Weaver, '17, was second in the shot put, with 38 feet 334 inches, which is his best performance. "Buck" has been improving steadily and without doubt will put it 40 feet this year.

Lane, '18, showed that he is the best miler Bates has had in years, by winning the mile in 4 minutes and 40 4-5 seconds. This breaks the long standing Bates record of 4 minutes and 42 4-5 seconds made by Foss, '98. In the two-mile race, Lane was troubled with a pain which almost forced him to drop out. He was "game," however, and sprinted all of the last lap in a desperate effort to overtake Irving, who had a lead of over one hundred yards. The finish of this race was the most spectacular of the whole meet, as there was scarcely five yards between the two men when Irving broke the tape. If there had been twenty yards more to run, Lane would surely have won the race. As it was, he broke the old record held by Bosworth, '08, by 3 4-5 seconds.

Quimby's performance in the hurdles was not up to his usual standard, but no one criticised him for it. He had debated at Worcester Friday night, and had traveled all night in order to reach Brunswick. He deserves the utmost credit for going as well as he did. Many believe, if he is in good condition at the State Meet, he will win his events.

Although Connors, '17, only got third in the 440-yard dash, he did remarkably well considering the fact that he got "boxed" at the start and came up from the eighth man in the last fifty yards. Syrene, '16, showed some of his old form in this race, running side by side with the leader (Crosby of Bowdoin) up to the last ten yards. The summary:

Pole Vault—Won by McKenney, Bowdoin, and Sampson, Bowdoin, tie at 10 ft. 3 in;

Drew, Bates, 3rd, 9 ft, 9 in.

Discus Throw—Won by J. B. Moulton, Bowdoin, 126 ft. 1 ¾in.; Leadbetter, Bowdoin, 2nd, 119 ft.; Quimby, Bates, 3rd, 109 ft. 9¾ in.

The meet with Bowdoin last Saturday proved that Bates has some very good track material, but as yet it is only in the minor stages of development, and by the end of the season we can expect better results.

Bowdoin had a handicap of 27 points in the three weight events, which had to be overcome as she has four very good weight men, and we have none and every one conceded them all the places in these events. But Deweaver, '17, and Quimby, '18, were not to be licked without a struggle and consequently won second place in the shot put and third in the discus, respectively. You can't keep good men down.

Bowdoin had all of the breaks in her favor. This is not an alibi, but is an actual fact. Drew, who has been going good in the pole vault all the season and clearing 10.9 consistently fell down for some unaccountable reason and could not do more than 9.9, and had to be content with third place.

Quimby, usually the team's most versatile man and largest point scorer, was in no condition to do justice to himself. He traveled from Lewiston to Worcester the day before the meet and debated half the night before, then he had to jump a train and get to Brunswick as best he could. He got in just in time for the meet after riding and trying to make connections all night and half the next day. He had no sleep and very little to eat on his journey.

Fowler did not get in one good jump. He could not get the take off thereby losing second place.

Lane's race in the two-mile was the finest piece of boneheaded running I ever saw. After completely outclassing the field and playing with them for six laps, he let Mr. Irving of Bowdoin come up on him, then pass him and take a lead of 200 yards, for what reason, nobody, even Lane himself, knows. When Mr. Lane woke up to what was taking place, he opened up the finest 400-yard sprint I ever saw on the last lap and just missed nipping Irving on the tape. The race bears out my contention that when an athlete tries to perform on muscular power alone, he is never very successful. Brains were made to think with and the night is the time to sleep. Outside of this Lane is a fine distance runner, and his work in the mile was very pretty. He won as he pleased in 4.40 2-5, which is over two seconds faster than a Bates man ever covered the distance before. Better things are in store for him.

The running of Butler and Small in both the dashes was a treat to witness. Their 10½ in the century was a really fine performance against such a wind as they had to face and on such a cold day. With (harlie Rice of Maine out for the rest of the season with a sprained ankle, both Small and Butler have a fine chance for the State title.

Did anyone hear the Bowdoin cheering squad cheer the Bates men who won their events? They made themselves very conspicuous by their silence.

Mansfield's running in the half was a pretty piece of work, and stamps him as a performer of rare ability. Sayward, the Bowdoin half-miler whom Mansfield beat easily, offered as an alibi for his defeat, a story that he did not hear Mansfield coming up. I assured him that the next time they should meet I will have Mansfield telegraph him

Bates will have to support another B man. Keaney's winning jump cost the college a letter Moulton's fling of 126 ft. 13/4 in. was a fine performance with the discus and is 13/4 in. better than the State record which was held by Gove of Bates.

Every Bates man walked off the track after his event as if it was all in the day's work. The Bowdoin men were more spectacular. Nearly every one of them picked out a soft spot on the track to fall on, then several loyal (?) friends would run over and pick them up and parade the dying gladiators up and down in front of the grand stand. Probably this appeals to a Bowdoin audience, but in my opinion a man who is in good condition does not have to go through such a performance, which is absolutely unnecessary and hurts athletics.

McWilliams of Bowdoin turned in a fine performance in the quarter-mile; 54 seconds on such a day is nice running. Outside of winning the hammer throw and the shot put and taking second place in the discus throw, Leadbetter of Bowdoin had nothing to do.

It took our three jumpers to win third place in the high jump Saturday. I guess we would have to hire the German army if Bowdoin had any real jumpers.

All in all, the meet was good and was of great value to both teams.

BATES, '16-FORT McKINLEY

On Wednesday afternoon the base ball team took a trip across Portland harbor and literally walked away with the Fort McKinley game. In the first inning, they began by getting six runs and succeeded in scoring every inning except the sixth and eighth. The soldiers evidently had an off day in fielding, for they were not able to handle our hard hitters and made a total of five errors.

MacDonald, Duncan, Talbot and Butler all starred for the college. Duncan played an especially strong game in the field. Both Monte Moore and Fowler pitched well.

Umpire, Sweeney. Time, 1.50.

THE SECOND TEAM

The second team looks very strong this year, having won their first two games with comparative ease. The first game was won from Leavitt Institute, April 17, by the score of 10 to 5.

The second game was with Bliss College, last Wednesday afternoon, and was won 10 to 2. Only four and a half innings were played as the Bliss didn't show up until late. The game was almost a burlesque, for at no time was our team called upon to play hard, and the two runs that Bliss got resulted from loose playing.

BATES 0—PORTLAND N. E. LEAGUE 5

The base ball team suffered the first defeat of the season at the hands of the Portland New England Leaguers last Saturday at Portland. Bates played errorless ball, but was unable to get a single hit from any one of the three pitchers used by Portland. Moore, '15, and Davidson, '18, both acquitted themselves with honor in the box.

LOCALS

The Sophomore Mission Study Class on "South American Problems" has finished a very interesting course under the leadership of Miss Mabel Durgan, '15. The last meeting was an especially enjoyable one and at its close tea, cookies, almonds and chocolates were served.

The girls are going out well for volley ball and base ball. They also say that the new tennis courts are fine.

Do you know what the Eight Weeks Club is? If not, come and find out. It's lots of fun. At the first meeting last Friday night, Mrs. Hartshorn spoke on "Organization." Tuesday night Miss Buswell gave an interesting talk. Not too late to join now, however.

The second team of the Junior and Freshman classes played off for the second team basket ball championship last Saturday afternoon. The game was a fast one and showed good work on both sides. The score was 28-27, the Juniors winning by only one point. This is a new feature of the athletic work here, and it is hoped that all the classes will have second teams out next year.

The usual vesper service for the girls was held last Sunday evening at Science Hall. Miss Bell gave a most interesting account of life at Buenos Ayres, and this was illustrated by stereopticon views. This address was the second of a series which Miss Bell is giving the girls on South American life.

Last Saturday, eighteen girls visited the college to see about admission here next September.

Once again, the girls have the privilege of obtaining season tickets to the base ball games—surely a thing to be appreciated both ways.

Girls, consult the list of nominees for Eukuklios, which has been posted. The election will be held Saturday evening, May

Thursday at the usual conference hour, Miss Elsey Clemens, who is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Whitehorne, here, kindly spoke to the girls of the college. Her subject, one in which so many of us are now interested, was "The Red Cross and Its Work in the Present European War."

Miss Margaret Flenniken, college field secretary of the northeastern district of Y. W. C. A. work, is to be at Bates from Monday until Thursday of next week. While here, she will meet especially all the members of the different Y. W. C. A. committees, and will have charge of the usual meeting on Wednesday evening.

Y. W. C. A.

"Three Roads" was the topic of the last Y. W. C. A. meeting, held April 28. Miss Mildred Bassett, '15, and Miss Flora Warren, '16, were the leaders. A quartette of girls led in the singing, and there was also a piano solo by Miss Mary Hall, '18.

J. S. S.

At the meeting of the Jordan Scientific Society, Monday night, a paper was presented by Blanchard, '15, on 'The Discovery of Elements.' Also Harding, '15, presented a paper on 'A New Theory for the Discovery of Elements,' followed by a demonstration of the experiments upon which the theory is based. This was of especial interest since the theory is less than a year old, at least in so far as actual experimentation goes.

The executive committee was instructed to make plans for a visit in the near future to some of the manufacturing plants in Lewiston and Auburn.

No. 14

ORATORICAL CONTEST OF THE INTERCOLLEGIATE PEACE ASSOCIATION

The Peace Oratorical Contest of the North Atlantic Group of States, including Connecticut, New York, Maine, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania, was held at Clark College, Worcester, on April 30. Each of the five contestants had already won first place, both in a local contest at his own college and in a State Intercollegiate contest.

The State of Maine was represented by Perley W. Lane of Bates, and although the winner was a man from Boston College, winning by only two-fifths of a point, Mr. Lane was given first place by one of the judges.

Mr. Lane won the local contest here on April 15, then went to Orono on April 26, where he won the State contest, which carried a prize of seventy-five dollars, and entitled him to participate in the higher contest of the North Atlantic Group of States.

To represent Bates and the State of Maine in a contest of this kind is no small honor, accorded only to one having ability of a high order, both as to composition and oratory. Mr. Lane's subject was "War or Peace." Based on fundamental truths, reasonable and safe in its application, it offered the only solution for the abolition of war and a permanent guarantee of peace. Couple with this the pleasing and masterly way in which the author delivered his oration at Worcester, and you come to see why Bates and the State of Maine may be justly proud of their representative.

William F. Slade, Bates '13, and J. Roy Packard, Bates '14, both won the State contest in their senior year.

DEBATING-RETROSPECTION

This year Bates won her second victory over Tufts. It was the first time a Tufts team had ever visited Lewiston. Debating at that college is of recent origin, inaugurated first last year. With this handicap they could not expect immediate success, yet in the result of the first triangular contest they have taken a position with Bates and Clark, veterans in the work.

This year completes eight debates we have contested with Clark. Of these Bates claims five and Clark three victories. The Clark teams have been in Lewiston several times. Clark won the decision over our team this year. Next spring the Clark team will be in Lewiston, while our visiting team will go to Medford.

As a result of the work this season, five men were made eligible for membership in Sigma Delta Rho if Bates secures the chapter. Carey '15, Johnson '16, Stillman '16, Chayer '17, and Quimby '18 were the men taking part for the first time in intercollegiate debates. Saxton '15 completed his third and final year on the 'varsity teams. He has been a member of two winning and one losing team.

CAMPUS NOTES

Friday afternoon, April 30, a tea was given to the members of the teachers convention which was held here on that date. Senior girls assisted in serving and in making the affair as pleasant and informal as possible.

Miss Florence Hooper, '15, spent Sunday at her home in Gorham.

Miss Florence Clough, '17, spent the weekend with Miss Severance at her home in Saco.

Last Saturday the various girls' basket ball teams had their pictures taken.

Saturday, May 8, the girls will celebrate their annual May Day. Following the afternoon's program, ice cream and home-made candies will be for sale.

Miss Durgin '15, Miss G. Merrill '16, Miss Farris '16, and Miss Richmond '17 and Miss Johnson '16 spent Sunday at home. Monday, May 3, Miss Florence I. Pollister, head of the English Department of Portland High School, visited the college.

Have you heard those sighs of relief? History essays are done.

The Spofford Club held its usual meeting last Thursday night at Libbey Forum. The program consisted of two stories, one of which was by Miss Mabel Durgan, '15.

Eukuklios gave a delightful informal evening to the girls of the college last Saturday. Musical and other games were enjoyed by those present.

The Eight Weeks Club will hold its third meeting Thursday evening in Fiske Room. "First Aid to the Injured" will be the topic discussed and Dr. Young will be the speaker.

Dr. Jordan was the speaker at Vespers last Sunday evening. His mention of his son's work in China was of particular interest. The girls of the college sincerely appreciate the effort which different professors have made to address them, and it is hoped that all of the professors will find it possible to use this opportunity.

Probation scare Monday. Wouldn't it be great if five or six of the ball team could arrange to get put on probation again this year. A mild but firm protest would be our only recourse.

Dramatic Club have made arrangement to attend a rehearsal at the Empire.

William Warren, '14, has sent literature concerning the Isle of Pines to several members of the graduating class.

That was some game with Boston College. They have a fine playing field. We have fine players. Which is the better portion?

Bill Morton and lady friend posed for a Music Hall artist recently. Actual reproduction from the field of conflict!

Is it worth while to print box scores in the Student? Space is valuable to us!

Post season engagement of the Knights of indoor sports.

Good time now to get on the right side of Pat Lane. He has just returned from an excursion netting him $75. What is it Mutt calls them?

George Ross, '04, has returned from Virginia, bringing his wife.

Dr. Hartshorn did not meet his class the first of this week.

Dr. Tubbs lectured near Bar Harbor last Friday.

Mr. Coleman has been unable to meet his class on account of sickness.

Bates was an easy victor over N. H. State at Durham last Saturday. Five new men were added to the athletic honor role: Lane '18, ('onners '17, Mansfield '15, Deweaver '17, Quimby '18.

Last Thursday night was Bates Night at the Empire. The players gave the guests a royal reception, and the guests certainly showed appreciation for Clara Joel and the Empire players. They gave us all they had and it was fine.

Teachers Convention here at Bates last Friday and Saturday. Elaborate preparations were made to dine the educators at the College Commons. Ten of them appeared to have the inner man appeared. It's no use, you can't depend on a schoolmarm.

The postponed game with Colby will probably be played on the Maine Central date, May 14. All other games in the league were postponed so that the standing is not effected.

Letters here for Sheldon Keneston from the "Fairview Nurseries."

Crawford '15 and Thomas '15 visited on their way to the White Mountains for the summer.

Raymond Stillman '16 is the new president of the Y. M. C. A. The organization will have to prosper now. It can't help it.

William Manuel, '15, has been elected cheer leader for the baseball season.

What Bob Dunbar says: "They had an old time celebration down in Bates Tuesday night when they learned the results of the Bates-Harvard game. To avoid tea parties and see a regular celebration where they are not afraid to make noise when the occasion requires, you have to go to the Maine Colleges."

Only 30 men in order to have a special train to Waterville for the State meet, Saturday. Car fare, $1.50; admission, $1.00; dinner, 50e; total, $3.00.

The annual meeting of the New England Modern Language Association is to be held at Boston University Friday and Saturday of this week. Dr. Leonard expects to be present to represent Bates at that important gathering.

At chapel last Friday Mr. Renwick sang a solo-and the choir gave a special number.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

On Monday evening, May 3rd, the Deutscher Verein and Deutsche Gesellschaft held a joint meeting at the home of Miss Hilton's aunt, Mrs. Judkins. After introductory speeches by Dolloff and Miss Merrill, Dr. Leonard gave a very interesting talk. Following that, three or four German games were played, after which veryappetizing refreshments were served by the girls. A number of German songs were sung, concluding a very enjoyable evening, and one that all wished might be repeated.

THE BOOSTER

Boost, and the world boosts with you, Knock and you are on the shelf. For the world gets sick of one who'll kick, And wishes he'd kick himself.

Boost when the sun is shining, Boost when it starts to rain.

If you happen to fall, don't lie there and bawl, But get up and boost again.

Boost for your own advancement, Boost for the things sublime,

For the chap that's found on the topmost round

Is the booster every time.

—Roseburg Commercial Club Bulletin. The Rewards of Life are for Service, and the Penalties of Life are for Selfishness.— Elbert Hubbard.

GIRLS' LITERARY SOCIETIES

The regular meetings of the Girls' Literary Societies will be held Friday evening. May 7. The Seniority will enjoy an "Evening with Kipling." The program of the W. A. C. C. will be as follows: The Life of Laura E. Richards, by Miss Mower. '16; Life of Kate Douglas Wiggin, by Miss Cleaves, '17; Life of Holman Day, by Miss Hayden, '16; Life of Sarah Jewett, by Miss Knowles. '16.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY

The Maine Section of the American Chemical Society met Saturday in Auburn. Saturday afternoon was devoted to industrial topics and at the evening meeting papers were delivered on the following subjects: Testing and Sampling of Coal, by Perry Barker of Boston; City Milk Supply, by H. Rider of Auburn; and The Preparation of Monochloracetic Acid, by Henry Higgins of Bates College; Silicate of Sodium in the Paper Mill, by A. Stephenson of University of Maine; Recent Progress in Synthetic Dyestuffs, by W. N. Watson.

Mr. Watson first gave a resume of the past work in this field and then discussed the preparation, structure and stability of "vat dyes," of the indigoid anthraquinoid and indophenal families. Showing their practical uses and samples that had been treated with all destructive agents, yet remained intact.

Mr. Higgins gave a short discussion on the history and use of monochloracetic acid and then discussed briefly the work done at the Bates laboratory on the preparation of this compound. He also compared the work carried on at Harvard with that done at Bates, both having obtained similar results. In closing he stated that further research on this compound would be carried out this spring at Bates.

THALATTA

"What is this cry of thine, O Sea? This loud

Hoarse cry that fills the world? In east and west

We hear thee in thy wrinkled, vast unrest, A liquid thunderous mass, thick-robed in cloud.

Eternal mourner, in thine earthquakeplowed

And rocky shores, 'mid storms that to thy breast

Return, as eagles screaming to their nest, Thou rollest unconsoled. Control thy proud, Long waves a little time; thou anguishtossed

And blind, be still! O Titan-father, lost Is that great age thou mournest, and the race Of Gods is lost! The ghost-moon on thy Shines bright. The stars that once were loud with glee

Are hushed. Why shouldst thou not be still, O Sea!"

A thousand years scarce serve to form a state;

An hour may lay it in the dust.

—Byron.

EDITORIAL

The Student wishes to announce that the article printed in the last issue commenting on the dual meet with Bowdoin is not the expression of the sentiments of the student body. It is an individual opinion sparing in its criticism neither Bates nor Bowdoin. It commends the work of certain members of both teams; other members of both teams are criticised. The writer maintains the position of the critic throughout, expressing his own personal views upon certain points.

Our relationships with Bowdoin have been those of friendly rivalry. The competition between both colleges has been keen and especially interesting, to citizens as well as to the members of the separate colleges. It is the sincere desire of Bates students that this same attitude be maintained. We were outclassed at the dual meet in many events by the Bowdoin men, sufficient for them to win a decided victory. Last Tuesday, although ourselves suffering defeat, we enjoyed the sportsmanship of the Bowdoin players, and the splendid exhibition of base ball which they gave us.

Indeed, we now look forward with greater interest to the approaching contests. And in so doing we desire nothing but the most cordial relationships, combined with that animated spirit of rivalry which is the spice of all true competition.

ATHLETICS

BATES—N. H. STATE DUAL TRACK MEET

Winning ten first places out of thirteen, Bates track team defeated New Hampshire State College track team last Saturday at Durham by the score of 67½ to 49½. A wet, heavy track and a high wind made fast time impossible.

Captain Small started the meet right by winning the 100-yard dash. He also captured first place in the 220. Lane '18 and Doe '16 won first and second places respectively in both the mile and two-mile races. Mansfield '15 was there as usual and not only won first place in the 880, but also second in the 440. Quimby '18 was the highest point winner. He won both hurdles races and took third place in the hammer throw. As a result of the meet three more men won their track B's—Quimby, Connors (winner of the 440) and Deweaver (winner of the shot put.

The summary:

100-Yard Dash—Won by Small, Bates; 2nd, Ward, N. H.; 3d, Ross, N. H. Time 10 3-5 sec.

220-Yard Dash—Won by Small, Bates; 2nd, Ward, N. H.; 3d, Ross, N. H. Time 23 1-5 sec.

BOWDOIN 6—BATES 2

The result of the first championship base ball game was a big disappointment for Bates and a triumph for Bowdoin. The heavy hitting which characterized the last game was missing, and it seems as if our heavy hitters were in a batting slump. The team as a whole fielded well, and except for the first two disastrous innings, played a good game of steady ball. Still there are certain weak places and a few changes might be a benefit. The hard position of first base which has been very well taken care of in the preceeding games, seemed to be the most noticeable weakness. Davidson was also very unlucky in the first two innings, but during the rest of the game played remarkably well, both in field and at bat. With two out in the seventh inning, he saved the team from being whitewashed with a clean line drive over second base. George Lord also played a fine game, making two good hits and showing up well as a catcher.

Bowdoin actually earned just one run during the whole game, and so with a little more pep than was shown in tossing the ball around there is no reason why the team shouldn't make a cleanup in the games to come.

BATES 14—BOSTON COLLEGE 6

The next day following the splendid Harvard victory our base ball team went over to Chestnut Hill and helped dedicate a new athletic field for Boston College. If Boston College wanted to win the first game played on her new field, she picked out the wrong team, for we easily batted out a victory, scoring runs in every inning but the third, sixth and ninth. The weather was unfavorable for playing base ball, it being cold and damp, but that didn't seem to affect the batting eye of our heavy hitters, who piled up 14 good hits for the same number of runs.

Boston College started off well by getting four runs in the first inning, being lucky enough to score a home run with two men on base. She scored two more runs in the fourth inning. Fowler and Davidson both pitched well, Fowler allowing five hits during the six innings he was in the box, and Dave holding them to two in the last three innings.

ANOTHER SECOND TEAM VICTORY

On account of a misunderstanding on Gardiner's part, our second team game was played with Gardiner High last Wednesday, instead of the Saturday before as scheduled. The game was fast and interesting, our team winning 6 to 3. Spratt pitched a fine game and held the Gardiner batters in check, except in the fifth inning, when Gardiner made its only rally and scored three runs. Davis, Murray, and Witham appeared pretty fast on the bases, scoring eight stolen bases among ALUMNI NO. them. For Gardiner our Capt. Talbot's

W. P. FOSTER, '81

News has been received of the recent death of W. P. Foster, Bates '81. Mr. Foster was a poet of no little merit. While attending college a poem of his in the "Student" was copied by Harper's or Century, one of the leading magazines of the day. A classmate sends the poem, suggesting that it be reprinted, in memory of its author.

THE MORNING SKY

In summer sunshine and liquid blue
The fleecy clouds hang high,
All tinted with pink in tend'rest hue,—
This, this is the morning sky!

Each harp that's hidden in birdling throats
Euterpe touches anew;

And through the heaven, in silvery notes There floats a joy chime true.

MILITARY TRAINING

—H.

A short time ago the president of Cornell University made the statement that if it were an absolute certainty that there never would be another war in the history of the world, he should still strongly advocate military training in colleges and universities from the standpoint of physical development alone.

DELTA SIGMA RHO

Mr. E. L. Saxton, of the group of Bates debaters that have represented the College so admirably in the last three years, received on the 7th, a telegram from the Secretary of the National Delta Sigma Rho Organization, announcing that Bates had been admitted to the Delta Sigma Rho in recognition of the distinction that the College had won in her intercollegiate debates. This is an honor reserved for colleges that have made their mark in intercollegiate debating contests, and is an honor that all Bates people will

The Delta Sigma Rho, although it has a Greek letter designation, is not what is understood to be a Greek letter fraternity. It is not a secret organization. It has no social functions and its members are those who have won distinction in debate. It is an organization that the non-fraternity colleges recognize and welcome,—such colleges as Princeton, where no fraternities have existed for more than a hundred years. It is, therefore, in no sense a departure from the traditional policy of Bates in limiting her societies to organizations having intellectual or literary work to do. It is rather a confirmation of her policy in this respect. The membership will always be of necessity small and the meetings held infrequently. This new organization at Bates is established by the express vote and approval of the President and Faculty of the petition sent by our student debaters to the National Council of the Delta Sigma Rho. Henceforth there will be an additional incentive to thorough preparation for debate among the students of Bates College, although it can hardly be expected that the institution can improve upon a record not surpassed and scarcely even equaled in our country.

This organization, Delta Sigma Rho, is like Phi Beta Kappa, an honor organization, and it might be added here that Bates has already been endorsed as a college thoroughly worthy of a Phi Beta Kappa chapter, not only by Bowdoin and Colby of our own State, but by Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Princeton, University of Colorado, and other colleges and universities of the highest standing. Under the arrangements for meetings of the National Council of the Phi Beta Kappa which are held only at intervals of three years, Bates cannot become an actual member until about one year from the present time.

CAMPUS NOTES

Roland Coleman is at present suffering with the mumps.

The Eight Weeks Club was addressed by Mrs. Tubbs at its last meeting. Mrs. Tubbs gave a very interesting talk on "Home Economics."

Are you writing an essay for the Prohibition contest? There's a chance to make some money? Don't miss it!

Miss Mary Roberts, '15, and Miss Helen Hilton, '15, were in Westbrook last Monday to attend the funeral services of Dr. Thomas P. Smith, the father of Miss Camilla Smith, '15.

Miss Frances Bryant, '15, spent Sunday at her home in Portland.

Thursday, May 6, the Bates Needle Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Harry Rowe, on Nichols Street. Mrs. Harry Rowe and Mrs. Blanche Roberts were hostesses.

The usual Y. W. C. A. meeting was held last Wednesday night, with the subject, "Choose Ye." Miss Charlotte Patterson, '18, was the leader. There was a duet by Misses Doris Ingersoll, '18, and Ruth Dresser, '18. Short talks were then given by five girls: Misses Esther Wadsworth, '15, Mildred Bassett, '15, Alice King, '16, Ruth Sturgis, '17, and Doris Ingersoll, '18.

Miss Ruth N. Bearce, 15, spent Friday at her home in Norway.

Miss Ida Kimball, '15, spent the week end at her home in Bath.

Miss Doris F. Ingersoll, '18, went to Portland for over Sunday.

Miss Mabel Durgan, '15, entertained her sister, Miss Addie Durgan, at Rand Hall over Sunday.

Vesper Services in the Chapel on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock were conducted by the Reverend Fritz W. Baldwin of Brookline, Massachusetts, who spoke upon, "The Burning Heart."

The Halls are full of actors just at present, about 50 students are appearing in the different choruses in "Bud the College Duke", appearing at the Empire the first three days of this week.

The Hats for the Musical Clubs have come bearing the letters M. B. A. The songsters look like regular Rah-Rah Boys.

Gov. Curtis has issued a proclamation for a Clean Up Week. It's a good idea for everybody to join in and make the proceedings universal.

Bates and Maine went 50—50 on the athletic honors last Saturday. Maine winning the track meet easily and Bates winning the ball game just as easily.

Colby won from Bowdoin, Monday. Now all we have to do is to get Colby. Of course everybody has forgotten that 61-0 football game last fall, but just the same perhaps we would mildly enjoy administering a good trimming to the boys from "the sand plains of the Kennebee."

Pretty hard for Colby to stand much show with only one pitcher.

By the way we have some pitcher in our little football hero "Monte". Harvard 1 hit, Maine 3 hits, and the N. E. league couldn't touch it. Too bad "Monte" is such a modest hero.

Ralph Dickey, '16, has been operated upon for appendicitis. His condition is not serious.

Stanley Spratt, '18, suffered several days from similar attacks but escaped without an operation.

We have some second team. Uncle Walt. says, He would like to see them go against the Varsity. Shouldn't wonder if it would be some game from the way they showed against Westbrook Seminary, Saturday.

Herbert Jewett, '15, has resumed work at "The Tavern", after a vacation of a week caused by illness.

If you want to forget your troubles see Donald Meek in "Charley's Aunt."

We have a real Greek letter fraternity in our midst.

Received too late for publication last week. The Cunarder Lusitania was sunk off the Irish coast by a German submarine.

Roosevelt testified in Syracuse that our course was perfectly clear.

Too bad we are not all as clear sighted!

Startling news!

Two new subscribers for the student. It's getting up close to 90 alumni that take the student now.

We can't find out what they are digging up the Campus around Rand Hall for. As soon as the secret is made public, we will print a special edition.

The most current remark of the week, "Campus looks swell, doesn't it?"

"Joe" European plan, has added pies to his menu. One hot dog, one piece of lemon pie, the lazy man's breakfast. Poor feed for a hang-over.

The most sensible request of the season is to keep off the top of the Halls. If you want to see the ball game go pay your money like a man. Don't be a piker.

Y. W. C. A.

The Bates girls were particularly happy to receive a visit last week from their traveling secretary, Miss Margaret Flenniken. She remained here two days, and during that time held conference with the Y. W. C. A. cabinet and the different committees. At the Y. W. C. A. meeting, Wednesday night, Miss Flenniken addressed the girls on "Purposes." After the meeting an informal reception was held in her honor. At the regular conference hour Thursday morning, Miss Flenniken again addressed the girls. She particularly urged the necessity of giving one's best, not one's second-best. Miss Flenniken had planned to go to India next fall, but she has been obliged to change her plans; and Bates girls will be glad to see her here again next year.

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

On Monday night the Scientific Society held the last meeting of the year at which papers by the members will be presented. Each member has now given a paper and the result has been very satisfactory. The first paper Monday night was by Townsend, '16, on "The Inductive Motor"; the second by Fuller, '15, on "The History of Mathematics"; the third was by Fossett, '15 on "The Modern Telephone."

The next meeting will be on May 24th, at which Mr. Watson will address the Society on the interesting and practical subject of, "The Corrosion of Iron."

ENKUKLIOS

The annual business meeting of Enkuklios will be held on Saturday evening, May 15, in Fiske Room, Rand Hall. The election of officers will take place at this meeting.

Saturday evening, May 8, at Rand Hall gymnasium, an exhibition of athletic work was given by the classes which have been directed by Misses Durgin, Tilton, Beane and Mills of the Senior class. The program was most pleasing, and consisted of various folk dances, marches, and days' orders.

The Student Volunteers went to Brunswick last Wednesday evening, presenting a program there.

THE ROUND TABLE

The annual guest night of the Round Table was held in Fiske Room, Rand Hall, Friday evening, May 7. Dr. Hartshorne presiding, and Professor Robinson was the speaker of the evening. He first gave an interesting explanation of his subject, following it with the reading of Browning's "Saul". At the conclusion of the program, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

The hall was prettily decorated with potted plants, palms, ferns, and pinks of garnet and white. Adding much to the enjoyment of the evening, also, was the kind assistance of the Girls' Mandolin Quartet and of the Boys' College Quartet, who furnished the music for the evening.

DO YOU KNOW- THAT-

Last week 26 athletic events were staged at Harvard.

Beginning next year, Yale will have two Sunday Services at Chapel.

The twelfth annual meeting of the New England Modern Language Association was held at Boston University, May 8.

The new wireless installed in the electrical laboratory at Harvard, recently picked up a message direct from Berlin.

Oberlin recently presented Euripides', "Trojan Women."

New Hampshire College has increased more than 25 per cent in enrollment. Her students now number 518.

Extensive preparations are being made for the summer session at the University of Chicago. More than 500 courses will be offered by 270 faculty members.

LYNNE DURRELL IN PUERTO RICO

Lynne Durrell of Kingfield, Bates 1913, is principal of the High School at Comerio, Puerto Rico, about 20 miles from San Juan. Mr. Durrell went to Puerto Rico last fall to teach in the grades but has recently been promoted to the principalship of the High School with seventeen teachers under him. The school building is a stone structure recently built at a cost of $50,000, and here they teach domestic science, manual training and other branches usually taught in the States. Mr. Durrell is the only American teacher in the town of 1800 inhabitants. Nathan Butler, a former principal of the Kingfield High School accompanied Mr. Durrell to Puerto Rico and is now teaching at Naranjeto. Mr. Durrell is studying Spanish in connection with his other school work.

A DESIRABLE GREEK LETTER FRATERNITY FOR BATES

To the Editor of the Student:

In offering the following suggestion for what appeals to me as a highly desirable fraternity for our college, it is the farthest from my desire to reopen the mooted question of the social Greek letter fraternity. For some years now I have had opportunity for first-hand observation of the effects of these latter societies in a small college like Bates, and the result of such observation has been to change a feeling of mild welcome toward them into a positive conviction, that the divisive and other baleful influences of secret societies in a small democratic college far outweigh their admittedly good qualities.

But I have also had opportunity for firsthand observation of another Greek letter fraternity; I mean the Phi Beta Kappa society, whose terms of membership, as is well known, are solely scholarship and character and whose members are chosen from the best scholars of the senior class. The aim of this fraternity-the encouragement and recognition of merit-is in harmony with the soundest democracy; the element of secrecy is not an essential or obligatory feature of it. Indeed, it is surprising to me that such a society. embodying as it does the very spirit and purpose of Bates ideals, has not long ago found welcome and adoption in our college. I take pride in the jealous concern that Bates has ever displayed in opposing everything that militates against the life of simple living and high thinking, and in equal measure I regret the absence of this positive ally in realizing such a life.

In the college with which I am now connected one of the most unique and impressive mid-year events is the public initiation into Phi Beta Kappa of a number of seniorsusually three men and three women-who have led their class in scholarship. The program of the exercises consists of the admission of the new members by the use of a simple, dignified ritual and an address by a distinguished representative of the academic world. The past winter the speaker was Professor Talcott Williams of Columbia, who spoke in a live and illuminating way on "The Old Learning and the New." Practically the entire student body was present, as well as some alumni and townspeople. This public act of the college in honoring intellectual ability made a manifestly deep impression on the undergraduates, as has been the case each year since the custom was inaugurated three years ago. The usual gathering of the society is still one of the events of commencement week. Probably the inauguration of this public meeting was due primarily to the desired effect on the undergraduate body as an incentive to scholarship.

It goes without saying that the athlete is held in high esteem by students and faculty, not to mention the general public. How fitting and urgent—in the face of general criticism of the colleges nowadays for allowing the athletic and social sides of college life to be magnified at the expense of the scholarly—to have such an organization and such a public event, to bear witness to the college's concern for the primary object of a student's presence in college.

Moreover, the intercollegiate fellowship into which Phi Beta Kappa would introduce Bates graduates after they leave the campus, would be a source of recurring satisfaction to them and reflect honor upon the college in the world outside. I have been told repeatedly by Phi Beta Kappa men of other colleges, who have long since graduated and possess matured views of life, that athletic honors and prizes won in college pale into insignificance in comparison with the pleasure which they feel in meeting and mingling with other wearers of the Phi Beta Kappa key, a perpetual reminder of membership—to recall Ex-president Eliot's phrase—"in the fellowship of educated men."

And so, with a lively sense of how much such a fraternity would mean to Bates and to Bates men and women, I want to assure you, Mr. Editor, of the gratification I should feel in seeing Alma Mater fostering such a society; I believe a host of other graduates would be equally gratified. I would urge the undergraduates themselves to take the initiative in securing this fraternity, as the most appropriate quarter from which it should get its impulse—as well as the typical Bates method. The inspiration that Phi Beta Kappa infuses into the truest aims of the college is something that is bound to permeate the whole atmosphere of college life. It helps make their college course mean more to the students who do not make Phi Beta Kappa; it is an occasion for honest pride and solid satisfaction, long after they have left college walls, to those students who win this honor.

Sincerely yours.

Everett Skillings, '97.

ATHLETICS

BATES-MAINE DUAL TRACK MEET

Last Saturday afternoon thirty Bates athletes invaded the little town of Orono, Me., and successfully upheld their reputation as hard fighters in defeat as well as in victory against the University of Maine.

In the first part of the afternoon Maine had everything her own way when her veteran track team defeated the newly developed Bates track team by the score of 87 to 39. Later, however, in the baseball game Bates reversed the tables and humbled the University team by a 6 to 1 victory.

Although the day was perfect for a field day the track was in terrible condition on account of the recent heavy rains. Consequently not only were the times slow but also the meet could not be called a fair criteron of the result of the State Meet next Saturday at Waterville.

Captain Small's performances were of the usual calibre. He won both the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes and was incidently the only Bates man to take a first place. Quimby, '18, ran splendidly in the hurdle races and was defeated only by inches. Although Drew, '16, took only third place in the pole vault he broke the Bates college record by clearing 11 feet. Syrene, '16, ran the quarter mile in his oldtime form, taking second place and defeating Boyd, '16, and Connors, '17. Pinkham, '16, won his track letter by tieing with Palmer of Maine for first place in the high jump.

Bailey of Maine equalled the All-America College record in the hammer throw by a heave of 173 feet, 6 inches, and bettered his own mark by twelve feet. French of Maine broke the M. I. C. A. A. record in the broad jump by nearly one foot.

The Summary:

100-yard dash; won by Small, Bates; 2nd Lawry, Maine; 3d Butler, Bates. Time 10 3-5 sec.

220-yard dash; won by Small, Bates; 2nd Leecock, Maine; 3d Butler, Bates. Time, 24 2-5 sec.

440-yard dash; won by King, Maine; 2nd Syrene, Bates; 3d Boyd, Bates. Time 55 1-5 sec.

880-yard run; won by Dempsey, Maine; 2nd Mansfield, Bates; 3d Kerr, Maine. Time, 2 min. 9 1-5 sec.

High Hurdles; won by French, Maine; 2nd Quimby, Bates; 3d Head, Maine. Time, 17 2-5 sec.

Low Hurdles; won by French, Maine; 2nd Quimby, Bates; 3d Boyd, Bates. Time 28 4-5 sec.

One Mile Run; won by Wunderlick, Maine; 2nd Bell, Maine; 3d Lane, Bates. Time 4 min 43 sec.

Two Mile Run; won by Preti, Maine; 2nd

Herrick, Maine; 3d Doe, Bates. Time 10 min. 40 sec.

Shot Put; won by Allen, Maine; 2nd Bailey, Maine; 3d DeWeaver, Bates. Distance 43 ft. 8 inches.

Discus Throw; won by Bailey, Maine; 2nd Pinkham, Bates; 3d Hutchins, Maine. Distance 125 ft. 7 inches.

Hammer Throw; won by Bailey, Maine; 2nd Gulliver, Maine; 3d Quimby, Bates. Distance 173 ft. 6 inches.

High Jump; Pinkham, Bates, and Palmer, Maine, tied for first; 3d Head, Maine. Height 5 ft. 4 inches.

Broad Jump; won by French, Maine; 2nd Rowe, Maine; 3d Keaney, Bates. Distance 23 ft. 2 inches.

Pole Vault; won by Williams, Maine; 2nd Hutton, Maine; 3d Drew, Bates. Height 11 ft. 5 inches.

BATES 6, U. OF M. 1

The baseball game last Saturday with the University of Maine at Orono was certainly a marked contrast to the Bowdoin game on May 4th. The listlessness of that first championship game was missing and in its place was lots of life and 'pep', with Captain Talbot on first base a better collegiate infield can not be found.

Monte Moore had the game thoroughly in hand at all times and allowed only four scattered hits. Driscoll was removed from the box at the end of the fourth inning after five runs had been scored on him.

WESTBROOK 6, BATES 2nd 4

The second team lost its first game of the season Saturday to Westbrook Seminary. The game was played on the field next to Roger Williams and the trees hindered the fielders from capturing any long flies. Wight pitched his first game in two years and did good work, besides being supported well. Carter, Westbrook's pitcher, played a great game, striking out thirteen men and driving out two two-baggers and two singles.

Double plays, Swift, O'Connell, Swift, Jones, Dow. Hit by pitched ball, Phelan. Struck out by Carter 13, by Wight 5. Hit by pitched ball Phelan, Witham. Two base hit Carter 2, O'Connell. Three base hits Sargent.

MAINE 4, BATES 3

The third championship base ball game of the season was won by Maine yesterday. Bates greatly outclassed the visitors at the bat but failed to bunch their hits. Maine actually earned one run the other three runs being obtained by errors. It was a hard game to lose. For the most part Moore pitched an excellent game and except for a few misplays the team fielded perfectly. The score:

THE GIRLS' MAY DAY

With old Mount David as a background, the usual Girls' May Day Festivities were held out of doors on the afternoon of Friday, May 14, at 3.30 P.M.

The exercises began, when, to the accompaniment of the piano and the marching song, the girls of the four classes, all in costume, marched up College Street and over Mountain Avenue to the level place at the foot of the mountain. In the rear of this procession, came the regal train of the Queen of the May. Seated in a gayly decorated pony cart, and attended by the little herald, Russel Carrol, the crown bearer, Frances Purington, and her two flower girls, the queen, Miss Jessie Leighton, and her maid of honor, Miss Marguerite Benjamin, rode majestically into the space. Then, dismounting, the queen ascended to her high throne on the mountain side, where she was crowned by Dean Buswell.

At the close of this ceremony, fancy dances by each of the four classes were given. Particularly pleasing was the wreath dance by the Seniors, whose attractive costumes of yellow butterfly dresses added much to the beauty of it all. Then followed the winding of the various colored Maypoles by the girls of the three lower classes.

Competitive marching by the four classes and won by the Juniors, completed the program, noticeable throughout, both for the good work done and for the effective costuming.

Following the program, the girls marched to Frye Street. There they stopped before the home of Mrs. L. G. Jordan, who, though unable to attend the exercises, could well enjoy the sight of so many girls, also a part of the wreath dance, which the Seniors repeated for her.

SENIOR CLASS PARTY

"Our very best class party!" "A great Time!" Such have been some of the expressive exclamations concerning the class party of the Seniors, given at the home of President Chase, Thursday evening, May 13. The conversational game especially aroused much comment, and was won by Miss Edith Rideout and Mr. Ernest Moore. Much laughter and fun were also afforded by the stunts given by the four groups into which the class was divided: The Sunflowers, The Ben Greet Players, The Australian Loafers, and The Indian Reds. Of these, the Ben Greet Players were awarded first place, though honorable mention was given to the Indian Reds.

In both instances, President Chase presented prizes to the winners with appropriate presentation speeches.

For refreshments, ice cream, macaroons, punch and candy were served. Mrs. George Chase and Mrs. Swift assisted the Misses Chase in serving.

Before departing, the Bates Alma Mater and the class yell were given by the guests.

ENKUKLIOS

At the annual business meeting of Enkuklios, held last Saturday evening at 7.30 in Fiske Room, the following officers were elected:

President, Harlene M. Kane, '16; vice president, Ruth L. Sturgis, '17; secrtary, Laura Mansfield, '18; treasurer, Berniece M. Hood, '16; chairman of executive committee, Mabel Googins, '16; executive committee, Alma Gregory, '16, Ruth Lewis, '17, Aileen Lougee, '17, Blanche Ballard, '18.

ORATORICAL CONTEST OF THE INTERCOLLEGIATE PROHIBITION ASSOCIATION

The local oratorical contest of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association will be held tonight. The contest is open to all Bates students and the oration may present any phase of the liquor problem in not over fifteen hundred words. The winners of this contest get prizes of fifteen and ten dollars and may compete in the State contest for prizes of thirty and twenty dollars. The latter contest will be held in Lewiston June 4.

THE STARS OF NIGHT

"I like to think that just as night reveals the glories of the universe, so may that night of death reveal to us mysteries now unfathomed."

-Dr. Tubbs.

Oh, what if the daylight is fading, And the darkness is falling apace, And the dusk of the gathering shadows Spreads a gloom that we shudder to face,

Or, what if the last dazzling sunbeams
Have vanished awhile from our sight?
Shall we long for the dawn of a morrow
And say there's no beauty in night?

Shall we say there's no light save the sunlight,

And naught in the darkness that's new? ('an we mourn for the day that is over, When night brings the stars into view?

Oh, the night with its star-sprinkled heavens Brings visions of wonders afar, We catch glimpses of Infinite power In the radiance that gleams from each star.

By daylight our vision is blinded, We see with a narrow earth sight, But the stars show the wealth of the heavens, And the stars shine only at night.

Then what if life's daylight be fading
And evening seems darksome and drear,
There surely is light in the darkness
And nothing to dread or to fear.

When life's twilight pathway be ended And shadows have darkened the blue. We may fathom the Creator's secrets, For night brings the stars into view.

-Marion R. Cole, '15.

The campus has been graced the past week by several graduates, John McDaniels, '13; Roy Stinson, '14; Richard Linquist. '14; Walter Deering, '13; Carlton Dennis, '13; Enoch Adams, '13. The Commencement play will be Hippolytus by Euripide. The cast has not been announced. It will include nearly every member of the graduation class.

Prof. Knapp conducted chapel exercises last week and did not read from Romans.

This is the week when we are to be kind to all dumb animals. It would be too bad if we should limit that kind of conduct to this one week.

The boys are still amusing themselves by throwing water out of the windows. They are imitating Peter Pan or "The Boy who wouldn't grow up."

We are ready to explain the actions about Rand Hall. The space near the mountain is to be occupied by two tennis courts. The large space in front is to be a hockey field. Why that big hole in the middle? Well, there was pure clay deposited under there and the sale of the clay will help to defray the expenses of construction.

Walter Oakman, '16, spent Sunday with friends in Boston, presumably female friends.

Forrest S. Nash, '15, made a business trip to Cambridge over Sunday. He says it was grim business and nothing more.

Objection has been raised to the item in last week's Student, stating that we had a real Greek letter fraternity at Bates. It is a real fraternity only in name. We intended the statement to be interpreted thus.

The "Quality Shop" on College street promises to be a good place to trade. The proprietor has furnished several treats up to date.

The Sophomores have the best class in oratory that have ever come under the instruction of Prof. Robinson in fifty to seventy-five years. That is his personal testimony.

We sang that beautiful hymn again with the sentiment, "Gone are the engines of war and destruction," the same morning that the Lusitania was torpedoed.

Ralph Dicky, '16, has recovered from his operation. He will go home over Sunday.

What's the trouble, we don't appear in our straw hats and low shoes. The outfit will only cost about eight dollars.

Very disastrous accident on the river bank last Sunday afternoon. As we go to press the outlook is favorable for recovery of the unfortunate parties, The Spofford Club had a "new member" night last Thursday. The program consisted of a poem by Miss Hodnett, a play by Mr. Nutting, and an essay by Mr. Clifford.

The Girls' Literary Societies will meet in Libbey Forum, Friday evening, May 21.

The Y. M. C. A. recently devoted one meeting to the discussion of Northfield and the work of the Northfield Conference. The question is a timely one for the year is nearly over and Bates wishes to continue sending as representative a delegation as any college.

The purpose of the Conference held this year from June 25 to July 4, is to gather from all parts of the country college men who are interested in the great problems of life. Harvard and Yale usually have delegations of more than a hundred men, while the smaller colleges are represented by a proportional number. The Northfield buildings cannot furnish the necessary accommodations and a large number of the men have tents. The Bates delegation has had from two to four tents each year.

The forenoon is spent in regular confer-

n. nıted at the conference. The men of the separate colleges usually costume and march into the hall. After an address by one of the most noted speakers, a roll call is held, each college responding with its yell or performing some stunt. The meeting then adjourns to the campus where a massive bonfire is lighted. It is impossible to appreciate the spirit shown at this time without firsthand knowledge.

ence groups and meetings. In the evening there are mass meetings in the auditorium and life-work meetings conducted by various noted men. Among the speakers this year will be Sherwood Eddy, Nolan Rice Best,

Bishop Francis J. McConnell and John R.

Men who have attended the Northfield Conference put it down as a red letter period in their life. It calls out the best there is in a man when he comes in contact with those who have the highest and broadest outlook on life. The days are spent in a wholehearted fellowship with men of varying experiences, yet with ideals and purposes like our own. Bates men should think this proposition over carefully.

ATHLETICS

M. I. C. A. A. TRACK MEET

At the Maine Intercollegiate Track Meet, held last Saturday at Waterville, Bates had to be contented with fourth place. The University of Maine won easily with 60½ points, while Bowdoin took second place with 32, Colby third with 27, and Bates last with 51/2 points.

In the trials, which were held in the forenoon, Bates and Maine each qualified twelve men, Bowdoin fifteen and Colby ten. Lawrence '18 and Connors '17 both won their trial heats in the 440. In the finals Lawrence led the race up to within twenty yards of the finish, but three men passed him before he could reach the tape. Captain Small scored three points for Bates by winning second in the 220-yard dash. Coleman '18 took third place in the high hurdles when Royal of Colby was disqualified for knocking down too many hurdles. Keaney '16 was beaten out for second place in the broad jump by one-half an inch. Drew '16 succeeded in winning his letter for the first time by tieing with Williams of Maine for third place in the pole vault.

Three M. I. C. A. A. records were bettered in the meet. Bailey of Maine broke his own mark in the hammer throw with a heave of 162 feet and 21/4 inches, and also broke the discus throw record, established by Guy Gove of Bates, 126 feet, with a hurl of 127 feet and 71/2 inches. The third new mark was made by Guy Palmer of Maine in the high jump, when he broke the record held by W. R. Kempton of Bates, 5 feet 81/4 inches, with a leap of 5 feet and 10 inches.

When one takes in consideration the material from which the Bates track team has been developed and the fast company against which it was pitted last Saturday, it is miraculous that Bates was able to qualify more than one man, to say nothing of scoring points.

Coach Ryan deserves much credit, for he has worked untiringly, night and day, for the good of the team. The summary of meet: 100-Yard Dash—First trial heat. Won by Lawry of Maine, C. Wyman of Bowdoin second. Time 10 4-5 seconds. Standing of Maine College Teams.

The following table shows the number of games won by each Maine college from each of the others, with the present percentage of wins:

C. 11	Colby	Maine	Bates	Bowdoin	W	\mathbf{L}	\mathbf{T}	P. C.
Colby	0	0	0	2	2	0	1	1.000
Maine	0		1	2	3	1	0	.750
BATES	0	1		0	1	2	1	.333
Bowdoin	0	0	1		1	4	0	.2:00

Bates and Colby fought an 11 inning battle yesterday, and left the field with a score 5 to 5. The game was called on account of darkness. Both teams played hard. Simpson of Colby being the individual star. He has to his credit a home run and a splendid throw from left field, which cut off Talbot's run at the plate, holding the game to a tie. The game called for more enthusiasm than any one this year. The 11th inning found the crowd as enthusiastic for Bates as the 7th.

SILVER BAY

The Silver Bay conference is under the auspices of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. of the United States and is held each year at Silver Bay, Lake George, New York. This year, for ten days from June 18 to June 28, about six hundred students from the collegs, universities, and normal schools of New England, New Jersey and Eastern New York will meet there together for the consideration of all kinds of Y. W. C. A. work.

There, the morning hours of every day are devoted to Bible and Mission study classes led by competent leaders. Technical councils for advice in Association methods are also a feature. In the evenings the students gather in the auditorium for helpful and inspiring addresses by different great men and women from all over the country.

Every afternoon is given over to sports. Basket ball and tennis are enjoyed as well as aquatic sports. There are many delightful tramps and drives in the vicinity of Silver Bay and good opportunities for mountain climbing. Many quiet nooks also invite one to reading and rest. Then too, stunts by the various colleges form another interesting part of the good times.

Surely it will pay any girl to spend ten days of her vacation at such a conference as this. The spirit and inspiration of the conference cannot be pictured in words. To really appreciate the full meaning of Silver Bay, each girl must go there herself. We want our college well represented at Silver Bay this year. Will not every Bates girl think this matter over carefully and decide to go if possible?

Y. W. C. A.

An especially interesting meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held last Sunday evening on the side of Mt. David. Appropriate, also, was this setting for a real live meeting devoted to the subject of Silver Bay. Miss Alma Gregory, '16, was the leader. She ealled upon the following girls to speak: Misses Hazel Mitchell, '16, Winfred Jewell, '15, A. Lilian Leathers, '18, Ellen Harding, '16, and Esther Wadsworth, '15. These girls had either been to Silver Bay or expect to go this year, and gave short enthusiastic talks about the life there. The Girls' Mandolin Quartet furnished the music.

Misses Mona Hodnet, '16, Esther Wadsworth, '15, and Florence Clough, '18 attended the annual Silver Bay Banquet held at Farmington Normal School, as delegates from the Bates Association.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

The Spofford Club held its usual meeting last Thursday evening. The program was given by the new Sophomore members: Miss Cleaves, Capen and Lawry. A business meeting was also held in which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mr. Buker: Vice-President, Miss Mitchell; Secretary, Miss Johnson.

The Now-a-days Club held an open meeting last Tuesday evening. The program consisted of discussion of various current topics by Misses Durgan, Emerson, and Green.

"On to Sabattus" was the happy call of about thirty of the Bates boys and girls who boarded the Waterville car last Saturday afternoon under the leadership of "Uncle Johnnie" Stanton. A pleasant afternoon was passed by Lake Sabattus, and a picnic supper was eaten under the trees and "never did things taste so good." The way home was made merry with the singing of college songs and it was indeed a jolly crowd who ended a happy day with a rousing cheer for "Uncle Johnnie."

Miss Nola M. Houdlette spent the week end at her home in Dresden, Maine.

A Mandolin Quartet, consisting of Misses King, '16, Cole, '15, Chapman, '18, and Leathers, '18, accompanied by Miss Newman, '17, assisted at the 6th Street Congregational Church in Auburn, on last Thursday evening.

Miss Celia l. Smith, '17, entertained her mother, from Hallowell, on last Wednesday.

The Colby game was the best exhibition of Baseball seen in Lewiston this year. The people of Lewiston are satisfied that there is one good ball club in town even if they do get disappointed by their N. E. League team.

There were many phenomenal plays in the game Monday. But the one which excited the most comment was to see Monte score on a caught fly. Some men are gifted with speed.

Another satisfaction at the game was to see the Umpire command the field.

One of our most earnest seekers after scientific truth is William F. Manuel, '15. He has recently made a most important discovery.

Dr. Tubbs has lectured at several teachers' conventions during the past few weeks on, "Field Work in Maine."

The Massachusetts trip was a series of testing and practical games. But now we are due to win games.

The men have suggested that a criticism on the use of the telephone be voiced. There are a hundred men in Parker Hall and about a dozen monopolize the telephone. We believe in monopolies, but—Fix it up and then give somebody else a chance. Remember that the other fellow may be suffering from the same afflictions during these spring days that you are. He has a moral right to the same opportunities. Three minutes is all that should be necessary to take a straw vote.

Interscholastic teams tournament here today. Teams from Lewiston, Edward Little, Westbrook Seminary, Cony, Portland, will compete for a championship cup given by the Bates Athlete Association.

Our teams were defeated at tennis at Bowdoin last Saturday. Purington, '17, and Capt. Richardson, went as far as the Semifinals. They were beaten by Leadbetter and Eaton both of Bowdoin. The teams of doubles were beaten in the trials.

They've got the stuff. They are bound to win out, and we must allow them to make an error, even to lose a game, without throwing them down. We should know enough Baseball to know, that the world's Champions lose games, and that even Ty Cobb doesn't make a hit every time up. Now what do you say—Do we boost or knock?

The scrub league teams are playing most every day. At present Merrill's Team looks good to win the Championship.

Have you talked with Secretary Rowe about Northfield? If you want to know some interesting things, do so.

TRACK SUMMARY

Although the track team was overwhelmed by the teams from the other three Maine Colleges last Saturday, May 15, in the Maine Intercollegiate Championships held at Waterville, I must say that the boys did very well and that the track season was a very successful one, when you take into consideration the conditions under which we had to work.

When track work started last January there were only four B track men in college. In answer to the first call Capt. Small was the only veteran to report. With him came eleven novices and new men. As time wore on we succeeded in getting new men to come out every day, until the time of the first meet on April 24, when we had 146 men taking regular track work. For the most part, they were men who never had any athletic training or experience. From these men we had to pick our team.

In February, when the Maine Intercollegiate Relay Championships was contested at the B. A. A. games in Boston, our team which only had two and one-half weeks of training, succeeded in winning second place to Bowdoin in the fastest Maine Relay Race ever contested at the Boston games. Bowdoin, Colby and University of Maine are represented by track teams, the members of which are mostly all veteran and seasoned performers, and they have had several years' work together, while the Bates track team is an entirely new and inexperienced team, the only veterans being Capt. Small and Syrene '16, Doe and Lane having won their letters at cross country.

Instead of the four letter men that we started off with this winter, we now have 14. Ten men, viz.: Butler '17, Connors '17, Mansfield '15, Boyd '16, Quimby '18, Coleman '18, Drew '16, Pinkham '16, Keaney '16, De-Wever '17, brought honor to the college and to themselves on the field of competition against other institutions, by winning their respective events or by scoring points in the championships.

Three of the men succeeded in making four new college records during the spring,

Keaney in the broad jump, succeeded in clearing 21 ft. 103/4 in., displacing Holden's record of 21 ft. 51/4 in.

Drew changed the pole vault record of 10 ft. 6 in. held by Johnstone. On three different occasions he cleared 10.7, 10.9 and his best mark of 11 ft.

Lane, the Freshman long distance runner, easily proved that he is the best long distance runner that ever represented the institution. On several occasions he has displaced the old figures of 4.42 4-5 for the mile, held by Foss '98, and in the championship on May 15, he succeeded in covering the distance in 4.29 4-5.

He also created a new college record for the two miles, doing 10.15 against Bowdoin on April 24, displacing the old figures, 10.18 4-5 by Bosworth '08.

We won our dual meet against New Hampshire, and made a very creditable showing against Bowdoin and Maine in the duals with those institutions.

Of course we expected to score far more points in the championships than we did. But it is unreasonable to expect too much from novices and inexperienced men. It was the first big meet that most of them had ever been in and the competition and the performances were far faster this year than ever before. Our men did very well considering their experience. Pinkham jumped 5.7 in the high jump, but Palmer overshadowed this performance by hanging up a new record of 5 ft. 10 in.

Lane ran 4.29 4-5, fast enough to win on any other excepting the year that the record was made, but Bell of Maine was forced to do 4.26 to win.

Lawrence won his heat in the quarter in 53, fast enough to win any year, but he is not quite seasoned enough, having only trained two months, consequently he was not good enough against the veterans in the finals, although he was very close up. This was the case all through the competition.

The prospects for a good track team for next year are very bright, as the only point winners that will be lost by graduation this year, are Capt. Small, Mansfield and Stinson. All the men who took part this year will be experienced, and will improve a great deal, and some good material ought to be found in the incoming class. The following is a list of the point scorers in the various meets against other institutions during the year, and the number of points they scored:

Capt. Small, '15, 3034; Quimby, '18, 22; Lane, '18, 19; Mansfield, '15, 1634; Keaney, '16, 12; DeWever, '17, 11; Butler, '17, 1034; Boyd, '16, 934; Pinkham, '16, 71/3; Doe, '16, 7; Connors, '17, 6; Drew, '16, 51/2; Syrene, '16, 3; Lawrence, '18, 1; Coleman, '18, 1; Stinson, '15, 5-6; Gibbs, '16, 1/3.

-Coach Ryan.

The following items are taken from some of the old Bates Students issued in 1881. They are interesting to us because they show the conditions existing at Bates then, and give us a more vivid appreciation of the development of our College.

A word to the wise: Freshmen, don't try to go out from chapel exercises ahead of the Sophomores.

The Juniors have petitioned the Trustees to have a day set apart for Field Day and Ivy Day.

At last the privileges of the water works have been extended to the inmates of Parker Hall. The water pipe has been laid into the cellar, and a faucet placed there, the only available place to have it during cold weather. The assiduous use of the faucet indicates sufficiently the favor in which the improvement is held. No inhabitant of Parker Hall has now any excuse for drinking anything but clear cold water.

On the morning of June 12, chapel exercises were conducted by Professor Stanton, for the first time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, but it is the sincere hope of the students that it is not the last time.

The college conumdrum: Why have we not a Glee Club?

The female element no longer looks lonesome at chapel exercises. The time has now come when two settees are required for its accommodation; for, owing either to a fondness for the stove, or to a praiseworthy desire to abolish class distinction, the girls of the college sit together at prayers during the winter months.

BATES NIGHT

Friday evening there will be held in Hathorn Hall a regular Bates Night. The occasion is one that brings out the real Bates Spirit, and no one can afford to be absent. A most excellent program has been arranged, refreshments will appear at the proper time. Some of the speakers and their subjects are: William Garcelon, '90, "Some Bates Victories;" Carl Milliken, '97, "Bates Spirit;" Coach Ryan, "Track Athletics"; Carroll Beedy, '03, "Delta Sigma Rho"; O. B. Clason, '77, "Baseball Championship."

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Four "S" sweaters are annually awarded to students of Smith for best self control and allround development in physical training. The undergraduate students at Oxford number only 900 this spring but the roll of honor, bearing the names of those fallen in battle, is growing fast.

Tufts has just broadened its admission requirements, thus offering much better opportunities to many high school students.

Secretary Bryan's latest step in the furtherance of world peace is the advocation of a Pan-American University at Panama.

ATHLETICS

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Friday afternoon at 3.30, the Freshmen girls first walked proudly away with a victory over the Juniors, and then met the Sophomores in a hard fought contest in the Girls' Championship Volley Ball games. In the Sophomores, however, the Freshmen soon found more than their equals, and soon yielded up the series with scores of 18-21, 21-20, 11-21.

This was the first of a series of events now being played by the girls in their annual spring championship games.

May 24—Tennis Preliminaries (singles.)

May 25—Track Preliminaries.

May 26—Tennis Preliminaries (doubles.)

May 28—Base Ball Preliminaries.

June 5—Field Day.

WILLIAMS BASEBALL TRIP

The Bates Baseball team left Thursday morning on a trip which covered nearly 600 miles. The men taken on this trp were Capt. Talbot, Duncan, McDonald, Fuller, Butler, Davis, Marsdon, Lord, Moore, Davidson, Fowles, Manager Perkins, and Coach Purington.

The first game was played at Durham, N. H., with New Hampshire State. Two errors, one hit and a walk gave the home team a lead of 3 runs in the third inning but the visitors tied this score in the first half of the fourth, when Capt. Talbot drove a home run into left field followed by Fuller with a three base hit and an error by the first baseman, N. H. added 2 more runs in the 4th followed by one in the 6th and 7 innings. Two more runs were added by the Bates team in the 7th, when Talbot singled, Fowler reached first on an error by the pitcher and McDonald doubled to centerfield scoring both men. The features of the game were the hitting of Talbot and McDonald, Talbot netting 2 hits for a total of 5 bases and McDonald the same number of hits for a total of four. Score: N. H. State 7, Bates 5.

Fowler who pitched the entire game had the misfortune of straining a ligament in his knee and returned home Friday from Worcester for medical treatment.

The game with Holy Cross was canceled because of wet grounds, and Friday the team left Worcester for Williamstown. This trip was full of excitment for when 12 miles from the Hoosac tunnel a wreck was encountered. which caused a delay of 2 hours, and the team barely reached Williamstown in time for the game. The Williams team is a very strong team having won from Yale, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania and other large colleges during the season. Davidson started the game but was replaced by Moore in the 5th inning. Bates outhit their opponents but the inability to bunch their hits lost the game. The feature of this game was the hitting of Duncan and McDonald. Score: Williams 8, Bates 4.

The team returned home Sunday ready for the Colby game Monday, full of fight and fully determined that they have fooled long

M. C. I. 12, BATES SECOND 4

Fresh from a victory at Kents' Hill the speedy M. C. I. team kept on with its winning streak by defeating our second team 12 to 4, last Friday afternoon. Our team showed some ragged fielding and many of the runs resulted from errors. Both pitchers were hard hit although Maxwell was steady in the pinches and was given better support than Dyer. Maxwell also showed up well with the bat, getting two singles and a three bagger. For Bates Swicker, O'Connell, and Shattuck played a good game and Capt. Witham got the longest hit made on the field this season, slaming the ball in deep right field for a home run. 5 1 0 3 2 1 0 0 0—12 M. C. I. Bates 2nd 0 1 0 0 2 0 0 1 0-4

Two base hits, Swicker; three base hits, Maxwell, Dyer; home runs, Witham; stolen bases, Curtin, Maxwell, A. Glidden, Thurston, Phelan, O'Connell; base on balls, Maxwell 2, Dyer 3; struck out Maxwell 7, Dyer 5; double plays, Swicker to Shattuck, Harvey to Whitten; hit by pitched ball, Murray; umpire, Pidgeon; time 2 hrs.

BATES 11, COLBY 2

Bates easily defeated Colby last Monday afternoon on Garcelon Field, 11 to 2. Although it was the first defeat in the series for Colby, the Bates team had everything its own way. The two Colby pitchers were hit hard and often. Wright displaced Mathews in the fifth inning after two runs had been scored and no one out. Except for the sixth inning when Colby scored her two runs the Bates defense was impregnable.

Monte Moore pitched the entire game. He passed three men one of whom got as far as third. He allowed four singles, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth. In five of the nine innings Colby went down in order. Moore also contributed two singles and one run.

The entire Bates team met the ball fairly and squarely, and in the early innings worked the bunting game with great success. Capt. Talbot excelled his team mates with the bat, getting two singles and a double in the first three times up. Lord smashed out a fine three bagger, Thurston hit for two bases and Duncan came through with two singles.

In the first inning Bates scored two runs. Duncan was safe on Duffy's error and stole second. MacDonald was hit. Fuller bunted safely and, on LaFleur's error, Duncan scored. Talbot bunted and also got a hit, as first base was uncovered. Mathews threw at the base and MacDonald scored. Talbot stole second and Lord walked, filling the bases. Butler flied out, Davis fanned and Thurston went out on a ground hit.

Two more runs were added in the second inning. After Moore had been thrown out by LaFleur, Duncan hit safely to left field. MacDonald singled to right field, and Duncan took third. On the second attempt Fuller and Duncan worked the squeeze play. Talbot then singled, scoring MacDonald, but was put out stealing second.

In the fifth inning the entire Bates team came to bat and five more runs were scored. Fuller was hit and took third on a bad throw to catch him off first base. Talbot doubled and Fuller scored. Lord walked. Butler scored Talbot with a single. At this stage Mathews was displaced by Wright. Davis was safe on Campbell's error. Thurston hit to Duffy and Butler was run down on third base line. The moment Butler was tagged Davis stepped on third and Thurston on second. Moore single to left, bringing in the two runs. The scoring stopped when Duncan sacrificed and MacDonald was thrown out at first.

Two more runs were added in the seventh. Thurston walked and stole second. Moore brought him in with a single to center. Duncan singled to left. MacDonald walked, filling the bases. Fuller's sacrifice fly scored Moore. Talbot flied out. Thus the game ended.

ALUMNI NOTES

1886-Louis H. Wentworth, Bates, '86, died Apr. 24th, at his home in Somerville, Mass., from pneumonia. For the past twenty years he had been in the awning and tent business, and was manager of the American Awning and Tent Co., Boston. "Unassuming, refined, manly, with a pleasant voice, a rare smile, and a keen but kindly eye wherein ever lurked a twinkle. Louis Wentworth instantly impressed one as a true gentleman. It was in his home, however, that he expressed his finest self. Here, one felt his spirit of sincere hospitality, and sympathetic helpfulness, his loyalty to all things noble and true. Here, one appreciated his rare sense of humor and his keen delight in a wholesome joke. His domestic relations were ideal. To outsiders, Mr. Wentworth was a kind neighbor, an untiring worker, an efficient and successful business man, a dependable citizen, actuated in whatever he did by an unswerving allegiance to duty, right and honor. Remarkably cheerful and heroic under his physical sufferings of the past few years, quite forgetful of self in his service for others, living daily an outward life consistent with his inner one—a soul development of deep-rooted faith, of love, of purity, of holy desires, and of patient waiting—Louis Wentworth never failed to exert over those with whom he came in contact a quiet, but effective power for good."

1896—Prof. F. A. Knapp was the guest of the Hartford Alumni Association at their meeting on May 15th.

Oliver Cutts, newly appointed physical director at Purdue University, will take up his work there August 1.

1899—Allen C. Hutchinson is teacher of sciences in Utica Free Academy. His address is 1535 Kemble St., Utica, N. Y.

Since 1903, Oscar Adelmer Stevens has been in business at Ludlow, Maine, and is postmaster there.

After preaching several years in the West, Rev. Charles S. Calhoun is now living in Dexter, Michigan.

1903—Lillian A. Norton has been elected to an excellent position in the English department of the Hartford, Conn., High School.

1909—Rev. H. I. Holt is the pastor of the High Street Methodist Church at Auburn, Maine.

1912—Alice H. Richards is teacher of English, German, and Geometry in the high school at Conway, N. H.

Carl T. Rhoades teaches science in the Weston, Mass., High School.

Helen E. Magraw has a position in the eighth grade at Lucerne, N. Y.

Fredrika Hodgdon teaches mathematics and science in the high school at Plymouth, N. H.

Annabel M. Jones is at her home in South China, Maine.

E. Earle Bachelder, formerly of 1912, is practising dentistry in Northfield, Vt.

1913—Guy H. Gove is the principal of the new high school at Mapleton, Maine. In the 1913 class letter, Mr. Gove announced his engagement to Miss Doris Middlemist, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Clifton B. Holt is teacher of science at Rust College, Holly Springs, Mississippi. Rust is a co-educational colored school under the auspices of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Gordon Cave is professor of chemistry in Hillsdale College, Michigan.

Constantine Eliopoulos is the pastor of the Congregational Church at North Waterford, Maine.

Louise F. Sawyer teaches in the high school at Sherman Mills, Maine.

Wm. R. Kempton is sub-master of the Brewer, Maine, High School.

Rachel Thing teaches in the South Portland High School.

Joseph Vaughn is principal of the Rangeley High School, Rangeley, Maine. Beatrice Joues, also of 1913, is one of his assistants.

1914—Leon E. Davis is teaching in the Danforth School at Framingham, Mass. He is to be an instructor in Camp Wildwood, for boys, at Kineo, Maine, this summer. If anyone knows of parents who might like to send their sons to a camp of this kind, "Dave" would like to get into communication with them. It's a matter of dollars and cents with him.

AN ALUMNI COMMENT

"I was very glad to see the respect shown recently, when as a part of the May Day exercises at the college, 'Alma Mater,' the Bates song was sung. Boys who had been lounging on the grass rose at once and took off their caps. It made the heart of an old alumna jump with pride. It did seem a little too bad that two professors standing near did not sense the situation, but remained with head covered throughout the singing.' —1901

YOUNG WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN ASSO-CIATION

At the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting Wednesday night, the different mission study classes united to give a missionary pageant. The Junior Class, who have been studying "The Challenge of the City," showed that disassociated charity does not bring effective results. One of the Freshmen classes told that much missionary work had been done for foreign countries, but that little had been done for the Indian. The customs of the Mexicans were presented by the other Freshman class. "South American Problems" was the subject of the part which the Sophomores had in the pageant. "The Spirit of Y. W. C. A." formed a very appropriate ending for the program of the evening. This was given by the Seniors. Miss Mildred Junkins, '18, was the leader of the meeting and a piano solo was given by Miss Eleanor Richmond, '17.

The courses in Education which are to be added to our curriculum next year will be a splendid addition. The field of educational work is becoming larger each year, and there is a demand that teachers be prepared for their work by special courses. This demand has become so great that it was necessary for Bates to add more courses before the graduates would be granted first class certificates for teaching from the State Superintendent.

Next year for the first semester there will be two courses available. "History and Philosophy of Education" is elective for Juniors and Seniors. "Principles and Problems of Secondary Education" is elective for the Seniors. Year after next and continuing, the first course will be open to Juniors only, and so it is advised that all Juniors expecting to become teachers should elect this course this year.

For the second Semester next year there will be three possible courses. "Principles and Problems of Modern Education" is an introductory course and is elective for Juniors. "Educational Psychology" and "Methods of Teaching and Classroom Management" will be elective for Seniors.

We are glad to welcome to our faculty Prof. J. L. Manahan who is to have charge of the courses in education. Prof. Manahan was professor of education in the summer school of the University of Ohio, and for three years has been connected with the education department of Harvard.

The addition of the new Professorship in Education meets a very urgent need of the college. Bates graduates have felt this need and in correspondence with President Chase have urged that some measures be adopted to meet the increasing demand. The courses offered are of great cultural value and should be seriously considered by those not anticipating educational work. They present the evolutionary development of thought and work in the educational world, and thus are vitally related to nearly every phase of life.

Perhaps the most interesting event of the baseball season will be witnessed today when Bates faces the Chinese team of the University of Hawaii. The success of this team has been phenomenal. They have played with nearly every University in the United States and have been beaten only four times. The men are known in the places where they have been as a "gentlemanly bunch."

Extracts from some of our American newspapers concerning these men are most interesting.

"They are a typical crowd—not of China or other Oriental lands, but typical of any American College town from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and in this case beyond."

"It might have been a crowd of students from any college that was running the gamut of songs from the semi-classical to the latest popular rag."

"Do they speak English? Better than the average American."

The Chinese University of Hawaii is a co-educational school with six hundred students. Admission is restricted to Chinese or part Chinese students. Athletics hold a high place in the student life of Honolulu, the competition being among the four principle schools—Oahu College, St. Louis College, a Catholic Institution, Kamehameha High School, an Hawaiian School, and the Chinese University. Football, track and swimming are of chief importance. The Y. M. C. A. of the city facilitates indoor games.

We are glad to have these men with us and to engage with them in competition. The world is hourly becoming more cosmopolitan, and after all the fundamental differences in men are small.

EXTRACT FROM ONE OF THE UNIVERSITY SONGS

Be strong and ala'n, O, sons of Hawaii, And nobly stand together, hand in hand;

All dangers defy, O, sons of Hawaii,

And nobly serve your own, your native land.

CHORUS

Ring, ring, Hawaii, ring— Swell the chorus of our song. Ray, ray, ray, rah, Oh, dear sweet Hawaii, bills and valleys loud our song pr

Let hills and valleys loud our song prolong.

The Standard Commercial School Exhibit has established a unique system of registering and filing the names of graduates and undergraduates of any college who may be visiting the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Those who register are listed in the public filing cabinets and one can see at a glance whether any of his college mates are in town visiting the Exposition. The Standard Commercial School Exhibit is located at the Main East Entrance at the Court of Palms. All Bates people attending the Exposition are invited to register. There is no fee attached.

LOCALS

Spofford Club held its regular meeting last Thursday evening in Libbey Forum. The program consisted of a business meeting and the reading and discussion of a story by Miss Hazel Mitchell, '16. Saturday night, the dormitory girls enjoyed a picnic dinner up by the riverside.

Monday morning, twenty-two students accompanied "Uncle Johnny" to Crowley's Junction on another of his splendid bird walks Together with a camp fire, roast frankfurters, potatoes, marshmallows and hot coffee, the girls of 1916 well enjoyed their supper on the river bank last Friday night. This supper was given as a prize by the Athletic Association for prompt payment of dues—hence doubly appreciated. After the supper, the girls gave answers to the question: "Why I joined the Athletic Association." Failure to reply according to regulation necessitated the payment of forfeits, many of which were laughable in the extreme.

Miss Ruth Parker, '16, was visited by her parents and brother and sisters last Monday afternoon.

Last Sunday and Monday Miss Gertrude Merrill's sister visited her at the college.

Mr. Jos. P. Clough of Nashua, N. H., and his small daughter Marjorie, have been visiting Bates a part of the week. He is the brother of Miss Florence Clough, '18.

Miss Grace Berry, '17, has been entertaining her sister here from Barnstead.

Miss Harlene Kane, '16, entertained her sister, Miss Christine Kane of Simmonds, over Memorial Day.

Dean Buswell's mother is now visiting at Rand Hall.

President Chase and daughters entertained the Junior Class very delightfully at his home on Frye Street the evening of May 26th. The members of the class were divided into groups to compete for prizes. The "rough and readys," led by Mr. Buker, won the competition and were presented with a beautiful yellow tulip by President Chase as an emblem of their efficiency in providing impromptu entertainment. Much amusement was occasioned during the evening by the speeches of Dr. Hartshorn and Dr. Leonard, who acted as judges and awarded the prizes. Other members of the faculty present were Mrs. Gould, Mrs. Hartshorne, Prof. and Mrs. Chase.

The class agree that the best times that they have ever had while in college have been the times when President Chase has opened up his house for their entertainment.

Friday afternoon a meeting was held in Libbey Forum for the purpose of organizing a Press Club. The students are convinced that Bates does not receive proper press notice, and have voluntarily formed this organization. Each member will report for one or more papers. W. Webster McCann, '16, was elected president.

The Roger Williams Hall Association have elected the following officers: Pres., M. W. O'Connell, '16; Vice-Pres., C. C. Chayer, '17; Sec., M. T. Townsend, '18; Treas., R. R. N. Gould; Executive Committee, A. B. Harvey, '16, T. E. Bacon, '17, J. D. Coleman, '18.

A quartet composed of Hinton, '17, 1st tenor; Benvie, '16, 2d tenor; Upham, '17, 1st bass; and Meader, '15, 2d bass; sang at the Memorial Services at Greene, Monday. This same quartet will furnish the music, at the graduating exercises of Litchfield Academy, Thursday Evening, June 3.

There will be a meeting of the Deutscher Verein on June 7th for the election of officers and new members for the coming year.

Instructor W. N. Watson, of the Chemistry department, recently sailed the sloop Doris from Boston to Harpswell, Maine, making the run from Cape Ann to Cape Elizabeth in 12¾ hours. The average for the entire run was about five knots per hour. A feature of the trip was a large school of dolphins. They were about five feet long and were leaping out of the water surely six feet. Mr. Watson has had many interesting experiences cruising along the New England coast.

BATES NIGHT

The annual "Bates Night" was observed Friday, May 28th. It was one of the most successful rallies ever held in Hathorn hall. President Earnest Moore, of the Student Council, introduced Dr. Hartshorne as the toastmaster of the evening and from that moment there was joy unlimited. On the platform with the President and Dr. Hartshorne sat President Chase, Dr. Powell, '00, of Saco, Hon. O. B. Clason, '77, of Gardiner, Harry Rowe, '12, secretary of Y. M. C. A., and Coach Ryan of the Bates Track Team. Each one of the speakers was very enthusiastic for the present and future of Bates. Even the band surpassed their usual standard of excellence, and add to that the punch and "dainties" and you have all that is necessary for a successful Bates Night. Two announcements of importance were made: President Chase stated that a chair of education had been endowed and the Professor will begin work with the opening of college in September. Second, the admittance of Bates to the National Debating Fraternity of Delta Sigma Rho was formally announced.

JUNIOR EXHIBITION SPEAKERS

The speakers for the Junior Exhibition have been chosen as follows:

Messrs. Buker, Harriman, McCann, Oakman, O'Connell, Swett, and the Misses Bryant, Kane, Kelley, King, Mitchell and Stevens.

Junior Exhibition will be held June 9 in the new Chapel. There will be two prizes, one of seventy-five dollars, the other of twenty dollars.

SENIOR HONORS

Senior honors were announced at the close of Chapel Exercises last Thursday, as follows:

ATHLETICS

BATES 18, BOWDOIN 9

The annual Memorial-day game between Bates and Bowdoin was featured by a great number of hits and scores made by both teams. Bates found all three of Bowdoin's pitchers alike and pounded out nineteen hits for a total of twenty-nine bases. With nine hits off Moore, Bowdoin scored her nine runs in the first three and one-half innings.

Davidson replaced Moore in the fourth and proved very effective, shutting out Bowdoin completely for the rest of the game and getting three hits for a total of seven bases out of three times at bat.

Nearly all the runs, especially in the first part of the game, were made with two men down. Bowdoin scored three in the first inning and so did Bates. In the next two innings Bowdoin got four runs and Bates tied it up. In the fourth the visitors got two more and Bates kept up the good work by tying them again. For the rest of the game Bowdoin did not score again, while Bates tallied nine more runs, scoring in every inning except the last, when, with three men on bases, McElwee brought things to a close by pulling down a hot liner.

Every man on the Bates team succeeded in getting one or more hits. Talbot got a single and two doubles. Fuller connected for a triple and two singles, and Marston got two hits out of two times at bat, Stanley was hit three times in the first inning, Fraser nine times in the next four innings, and Pendleton seven times in the last four innings.

The game was replete with casualties. In the second inning Duncan was hit on the chin by a grounder and was obliged to leave the field to have the wound sewed up. In the same inning MacDonald was hurt by collision with Donnell. In the fifth inning McElwee was knocked out by collision with Fraser, and Talbot hurt his ankle sliding second so that he was unable to crawl back to the bag which he had overslid. In the sixth inning Umpire McInnis was struck on the knee by a liner.

Bates has one more game to play with each of the other colleges. There is still a chance to tie Colby if we win these last three and Colby is defeated twice out of her four remaining games.

COLBY 5, BATES 1

In a game that was marked by brilliant plays and sensational hits Colby advanced another round in her climb for the baseball championship by defeating Bates, 5 to 1, last Saturday afternoon on Alumni Field at Waterville. Bad errors and failure to connect with James' underhanded shoots on Bates' part; timely hits and air-tight fielding on Colby's part, tell the story.

In the second inning with one man out Allen was given a base on balls. On an attempt to catch him stealing second the ball went to center field and Allen took third. Lord missed a wide curve and the first run was scored. James went out on a bunt in front of home plate. Smith reached first safely on Duncan's error. Duffy then came to the bat and drove a short fly over the infield into right field, what should have been only a single proved to be a home run, as Thurston let the ball roll between his legs and did not recover it until Smith and Duffy had crossed the plate. Colby also scored in the seventh and eighth innings.

Bates lone score-came in the lucky seventh when Moore drove the ball over left field fence into the river. The fielder did not attempt to recover the ball and Monte took his time rounding the bases. Simpson's onehand catch, Talbot's drive in the sixth inning robbed Bates of two scores.

LANE, '18, A WINNER

Lane, '18, was the first college man to finish in the Lewiston Journal ten mile road race last Monday, May 31. Horne of Boston won the race easily in 59 minutes and 40 seconds. The real fight was between Wenz of Colby, Cutler of Bowdoin and Lane of Bates. Cutler, who was running fifth, was forced to drop out on account of cramps, after covering seven miles. Wenz was in second place for over eight miles, but Lane had more fight and passed him on the "home stretch", finishing nearly a minute ahead. Lane's time was 1 hour and 37 seconds. De-Wolfe, '18, came in sixth and won first prize for the novices.

SOCIETIES and CLUBS

The Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. held a union meeting at Libbey Forum on Wednesday evening of this week. Mr. Raymond Stillman, '16, was leader. Miss Mary Roberts, '15, gave a vocal solo. The speaker of the evening was Rev. H. I. Holt of the High Street Methodist Church, Auburn. Mr. Holt spoke very earnestly on the subject, 'Growth'', basing his remarks on the first Pealm

Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. united in giving a farewell social for the Seniors Saturday evening in Roger Williams Hall. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed in games and a general good time. Remarks were made by Mr. Roy L. Saxton, '15, ex-president, Y. M. C. A.; Miss Esther Wadsworth, '15, expresident of Y. W. C. A.; Mr. Raymond Stillman, '16, president of Y. M. C. A.; Miss Mona Hodnett, '16, president of Y. W. C. A.; and Mr. Harry Rowe, secretary Y. M. C. A. Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served.

Seniority Friday evening, June 4, the Seniority held its last meeting of the year in Libbey Forum.

As a result of the election, the following officers were chosen: President, Miss Johnson, '16; Vice President, Miss Newman, '17; Secretary, Miss Hutchines, '16; head of the debating department, Miss Bryant, '16; of the dramatic department, Miss Gregory, '16; of the literary or original work, Miss Harding, '16.

Following the announcement of the election, the new president, Miss Johnson, stepped forward, and from the old flaming candle, lighted the new, the symbol of light for the coming year. The former president, Miss Tilton, then presented Miss Johnson with a vase of garnet and white pinks, with the kindly hope the they might add "color, character and sweetness to the next year." The singing of the Alma Mater concluded the program.

Of especial interest to many was the report of the president, which amply showed the good work of the Society for the past year. During that time twelve regular and two open meetings have been held. The Seniority song and poem have been written and adopted. Perhaps greatest of all, a basrelief of Apollo has been purchased and presented to the College, and has been placed in Fiske room where it now stands.

U. A. C. C. At a short business meeting of the U. A. C. C. held last Friday night, a nominating committee for officers for the year was elected as follows: Misses Hutchins, Cleaves and Dunlap. About twenty-five new members were then elected to the society. This organization has also done good work the past year. Owing to its late formation, its meetings have been fewer in number than the older society, but interesting and instructive, nevertheless. Particularly worthy of note, and occupying much of the attention of the members was the reproduction of "The Birds' Christmas Carol", which was given soon after mid-year.

Entre Nous

The last meeting of Entre Nous was given up to a discussion of Parliamentary Law. Miss Leathers played a mandolin solo, and Miss Agnes Graham gave an interesting reading. No action was taken as to the continuance of the Society the following year.

Spofford Club The last meeting of the year was "Senior Night" at Spofford Club.
The program was furnished by Mr. Greenan, Misses Durgan, Page, and Cole, all of the Senior class.

Now-a-days Club the following girls were elected to Membership: Misses Cleaves, '17, Bradbury, '16, Leathers, '18, Smith, '18, Johnson, '16, Murphy, '16, and Newman, '17. Miss Alma Gregory, '16, has recently been elected Secretary for the ensuing year.

PERSONALS

Miss Ruth L. Severance of Saco, Maine, visited at Rand Hall for several days last week.

Mrs. Charles D. Capen of East Boothbay, Maine, visited her daughter, Miss Ruth Capen, '17, last week.

Tune: "Fair Harvard"

-Hazel Alma Mitchell

Under skies that are gleaming with promise and hope

Of the sunshine and life of the spring,

Over grasses grown green on the campus we love, Alma Mater, our tribute we bring.

And here by the halls we hold so dear, Each enriched by memory's store, We tenderly plant our ivy to-day

As a symbol of love strong and pure,

Guard well, Mother dear, the gift that we bring Hidden safe in this frail opening vine.

Take all of our love and our loyalty,

Our hearts and our strength—they are thine. And now as we stand, thy children all,

We pledge each to each lovingly

That the years as they onward roll swift in their course

Ne'er shall make us unmindful of thee.

CLASS ODE

"The Temple of Friendship"

-Aura B. Emerson

Tune: "Love's Own Sweet Song"

Once more beside these campus walks revered, Where master-minds their monuments have reared, More hallowed by their lives of faith serene; Another structure, beautiful, unseen, Unchanging as the souls itself have willed, Today we Friendship's stately temple build.

REFRAIN

All the vict'ries glorious, all we dare aspire, Sixteen's fame we pledge them, as a mounting fire, Truth, the goddess, favors, writes in quiv'ring shade, Willing on the altar our hearts are laid, Our hearts now are laid.

Hov'ring it now the Joy of life we bring, Hope fairer than the fleeting songster's wing, Faith which we've learned on yonder mountain's

Love which we've found in firmest friendship's soul, Thus we adorn the home of hopes and fears, By toil made sacred thru the passing years.

REFRAIN

IVY DAY POEM

The willow blossoms, tender green, Bedeck the smooth low shore, And silhouette in youthful tint Against the somber darker hue Of pines upon the gentle slope That rises from the Lake of Dreams. Just there, beside a boulder gray That time has lichened o'er with green, The shore is cleft, and far beyond As in a distant land of charm The misty mountains lie enwrapped In cloaks of blue and purple haze.

With eager steps we hasten on, With hearts alert to understand The mystic message that may come When we have passed the riven shore And gained the purpled heights beyond. But lo, the mist doth disappear, And, fresh and green, the hills now seem With friendly smiles to welcome us And speak the message we have sought. "A double guard your college keeps"-Began the great harmonic tone, The mountain's potent, mist-freed voice-"Two loyal, faith-firm counsellors Have watched long years, inspired zest, Have given the hopless hope, made strong The weak, and even brought to pass The vision thought impossible.

"A dear old white-haired reverend saint As guardian stands with face benign And hands beneficent to bless Your striving toward the just and true. Ah, white with years his faithful head, And bowed with weight of others' cares! 'The Freshman's Friend'-his gentle heart Is comfort's self to strange and lone; But who has found that stately man The less a friend in after years? And whom has he not taught indeed, Of all the youthful lives he guides, Beyond the scope of book or pen To read the deeper meaning, writ In letters of eternal might Within the book before all spread-Which petty minds may scan in vain, But his great soul interpreting Makes you to read more perfectly-The open volume of the world?

The granite mountain-sentinel
Hath long maintained his steadfast watch.
The tow'ring, once Himalayan peak,
Unfriendly, fearsome, frowning height,
Impregnable to all ascent,
Is softened by the ages long
Of rain and wind and ice and snow.
The lofty summit, lowered now
With blast of centuries untold,
No longer frowns, but friendly guards
You all, who love his time-scarred face.

Another guard you bring to-day—
The sturdy ivy's youthful vine—
To grasp and grow, to spread and climb,
Protect the walls beneath its shade
From ravages of sun and storm.
For years and peoples yet to come

You plant your friendship's honored sign." The voice is still, the message giv'n. The silv'ry mists again descend And hide the smiling verdant slope. Beneath our feet the way is soft With tender grass and stars of moss, And bright with fair Rhodora's flame. With flower-balm the air is sweet. Delight and pleasure linger here, The checkered sunlight sifting down Thru pale, translucent, living green, The voice of birds, the vibrant calm, (Enticements all of Nature's art) Invite, and bid the way worn rest. But with its silent mystery Still more alluringly there calls To us that upward-winding trail Half hid in haze and half-revealed, Which leads us on-we know not where-The journey's end is veiled in mist.

-Harriet M. Johnson, 1916.

BATES COLLEGE ATHLETIC FINANCES

Several months ago the Politics Club undertook to make a comparative survey of the athletic associations of the eastern colleges in order to learn whether our own system could be bettered. A circular letter was sent to twelve colleges, of which seven supplied the desired information. The following questions were put to the different colleges:

I What is the amount of your athletic association fee?

II Do you have a blanket tax? If so what is the fee, and what activities does it cover?

III Do you have a budget system? If so kindly explain your system.

IV Do you have any other sources of income than gate receipts and student fees?

V Do you have an advisory board and graduate treasurer?

VI Kindly give us any other information which you think may aid us in making a general survey of college athletics association finances.

It would be impossible to give here the wealth of information which the answers brot. But the most striking fact disclosed was the great economy and efficiency which our association has practiced in past years, for whereas our fee has been only three dollars, the average in other colleges has been ten dollars. A great deal of credit is due those who have had in charge the administration of our finances.

All of the colleges heard from are working under a budget system of some kind, and seem to think it very advantageous.

Only one of the colleges has a blanket tax and in this instance it has not worked well because the tax was not made compulsory upon every student; it was impossible to estimate ahead just what the income would be.

As a result of the replies received from Lehigh University, New Hampshire State College, University of Maine, Colby College, Williams College, Amherst College, and the University of Vermont the investigating committee came to the following conclusions:

I In order for our athletic teams to have what equipment is absolutely necessary the athletic association fee should be increased to six dollars per year for all of the men, and four dollars per year for all of the women. Payment of this fee should admit students to all athletic exhibitions held on the college field.

II The installation of a complete budget system is desirable.

III A blanket tax covering athletics, the college weekly etc. would only be advisable if it were made compulsory upon all students.

IV Our present system of faculty supervision thru an advisory board is highly desirable in order to insure strict economy in expenditures.

V The Athletic Association might well consider the proposition of some time buying the College Book Store, whose profits should go to the association, as is the custom at the University of Maine.

BATES 14, HAWAII 6

Bates easily defeated the fast Chinese team of the University of Hawaii last Thursday, June 3rd, on Garcelon Field by the score of 14 to 6. Although the Orientals smashed the ball savagely when they started hitting Fowler and ran the bases well, they showed signs of fatigue from their hard game with Dartmouth the day before and their long ride from Hanover.

By fielding the ball perfectly, hitting safely nineteen times, and running the bases like fiends the Bates team clearly deserved the game. Captain Talbot was the individual star, getting four hits out of five times at bat. Fowler worked well in the box, and although the visitors got thirteen hits, they were more or less scattered throughout the game.

BATES 7, BOWDOIN 3

The precedent, which has been running for the last five years, of Bates losing the Bowdoin Ivy day game was broken last Friday morning. Monte Moore was the hero of the game, holding the Bowdoin team in subjection from the box and clearing the bases of two runners in the second inning with a home run smash that laid the foundation of the victory.

Bates played a remarkably brilliant defensive game. In the third and fourth innings Moore, Fuller and Talbot figured in two speedy double plays when it seemed certain that Bowdoin would score. At bat the Garnet boys pounded the ball hard when hits were needed.

In the opening inning the first three Bates batsmen went down in order. In the last half of the inning Bowdoin's cheering section went wild with joy when Phillips drew a pass, was advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt, stole third and scored on Duncan's wild throw home.

In the second inning Bates scored four runs, enough to win the game. Talbot was safe on Chapman's error, stole second and scored on Lord's two-base hit to center field. Butler and Davis were out on infield plays. Thurston was given a walk. Monte then drove a beautiful fly far over right field fence and trotted around the bases for a home run, scoring Lord and Thurston. In the last half of this inning Bowdoin did the rest of her scoring. Shumway and Good-skey led off with clean hits. Woodman's grounder to Fuller was fumbled and Shumway scored. Fraser was retired at first. Phillips hit to McDonald who retired the batter on a pretty throw to first, which, however, gave Goodskey an opportunity to score. The next better went out at first.

Bates scored twice in the fourth and once in the sixth inning. In the fourth Butler and Davis both hit safely. Thurston again drew a pass, filling the bases. On a wild pitch Butler scored. Monte fanned. Duncan sacrificed and Davis came home. In the sixth inning Davis tripled to right field and Duncan again brought him in with a pretty sacrifice, after Thurston had been given his third walk and Monte had flied out. This ended the scoring.

After the game the team went to New Meadows Inn and enjoyed a fine banquet, in accordance with the old custom.

THE WHITE LIE

Where the Social Circle centers, There the white lie often enters, For the tongue Is a member oft unruly, Prone to utter words untruly When among Rumor's devotees invited, Who, with consciences benighted, Hail with joy Anything to make a scandal, Which the knowing ones can handle, Toss and toy. In the business world the fetter Of the white lie is no better, For the truth Always gives a greater pleasure, By which any one can measure Age or youth. Oh, be honest with your brother, Don't deceive the one the other, But be fair. Bold in truth, afraid of evil, Be with angel, man or devil On the square.

CLASS ODE

(Tune: Who is Sylvia?)

Four years past, four happy years, And ended days at college;

Looking forward with hopes and fears To Life's embroadened knowledge, Our joyous mem'ries o'er we tell As flow'rlets in a woodsy dell.

The Life's way be long and steep, And far the friendly hand, Bright and fair the mem'ry keep, Brought from the cherished student-land, To be a jewel in Life's bright crown, Sparkling till the sun goes down.

Raising now one last glad song
In Friendship's fond communion,
Pledging our faith tho the years be long,
We join in perfect union;
With loving hearts we're gathered here
To bid farewell to Batesina dear.

—Geneva A. Page.

A baseball game between the 'Varsity and the Alumni will take place on Garcelon Field next Tuesday forenoon. This ought to be an interesting game, as many of our old stars will be back again and show some of their former prowess on the diamond.

SENIOR PLAY

On Tuesday evening, June 22, of Commencement Week, the Seniors will present "Hippolytus," the love tragedy by Euripides, upon the steps of Coram Library. This offers a very appropriate classical background and great care will be taken with the costumes and stage properties that all may combine to reproduce as perfectly as possible the spirit of the ancient play.

The plot in brief is as follows:

The play opens with the complaint by Aphrodite, the goddess of love, that Hippolytus, son of Prince Theseus and the Amazon Hippolyte, spurns her spell and seeks no woman's love, yet praises, rather, Artemis, Apollo's sister, the maiden divinity, never conquered by love.

Aphrodite vows that she will smite Hippolytus. By the working of her will, she causes Phaedra, the Queen, wife to Theseus, to fall in love with Hippolytus. The Queen strives in secret to overcome her love, and does not fail in the struggle, but wastes slowly away in shame and secret, until she is betrayed by her crafty nurse to Hippolytus himself.

Upon her betrayal by the nurse, Phaedra kills herself. When found by Theseus, she holds a note in her hand, which falsely condemns Hippolytus. Theseus is quick to believe what it contains and angrily orders that Hippolytus be exiled.

Shortly after the henchmen bring in before Theseus, the exiled Hippolytus, who has been mortally wounded a short distance away, by his steeds.

As Hippolytus is dying, Artemis, his favored goddess, appears in a cloud, and makes known to Theseus the wicked plan which had sprung from the vexed Aphrodite.

Theseus, when he understands the plot against the innocent Hippolytus, bends down full of woe and embraces him passionately.

The action of the play closes as the body of Hippolytus is carried into the castle. The play itself is ended with a tableau of all the characters and a Greek dance by the women in the chorus.

The cast of characters will be:

COMMENCEMENT DINNER

The Commencement Dinner will be held, as last year, on the Campus in a tent secured from Boston for that purpose, and will follow the conclusion of the Commencement Exercises in the Chapel. The students will move in procession in the order of classes. The dinner will be provided by Grant, caterer.

Some of the speakers are: Mr. W. E. Lougee of Candia, N. H., formerly of New York City; Mr. W. E. Pulsifer of New York City, President of the D. C. Heath Publishing Co.; Mr. W. L. Parsons, Bates '95, of Boston; Hon. Scott Wilson, Bates '92, of Portland; and Hon. F. A. Morey of Lewiston. There will be other speakers whose names cannot be announced at present.

The Commencement Dinner was originally held in the College Gymnasium; it was served there for nearly thirty years. The gymnasium was outgrown, and since then the dinner has been held in City Hall. Last year, for the first time, it was served on the Campus and proved so satisfactory that it probably will continue, a tent being used for this purpose, which, it is hoped, may sometime be superseded by a large room in some building yet to be erected. In earlier days, when the number of alumni could almost be counted on the fingers, in order to give the occasion dignity, a large number of guests were invited. The attendance thus grew so large that last year it became necessary to restrict the number to trustees, faculty, alumni, and special guests of the college. These limitations will have to be followed in the future to avoid excessive numbers, and furthermore, it is desired to have returning alumni feel that the occasion is especially theirs.

According to last year's rule, each trustee is entitled to one ticket, and he may buy an additional one. The same is true of members of the faculty. Each alumnus may buy one for himself and one other. Each member of the graduating class is entitled to one, and may buy additional tickets to a limited number for his especial guests at Commencement. Invited guests of the college will also, of course, receive their tickets. It is doubtful whether there will be any seats left after the tickets have been distributed according to this plan. Dinner will be served for six hundred.

The speakers named above are men of reputation for wit and eloquence, and the occasion promises to be one of great interest. Endeavor will be made to have the entire Commencement program on the same high plane as that of last year. Among the speakers yet to be named there will be at least one woman graduate of Bates.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

On Monday evening, June 7th, the Deutscher Verein held the final meeting of the year for the purpose of election of officers and new members. The following officers were elected: Nichols, Pres.; Spaulding, V. Pres.; Lawrence, Sec.; McCann, chairman of Executive Committee. The members elected from 1916 were Harvey, Marston, Oakman, Snow and Swett. Those from 1917 were Bacon, Bush, Hopkins, A. Purinton, and Thompson.

In closing, a summary of the year's work was given by Dr. Leonard, who also presented a picture of the Verein for hanging in the meeting place of the society.

The Student extends its welcome to all the graduates returning to their Alma Mater for the Commencement season. To all the friends of Bates who may be among us, we present our greetings.

Another year has passed, and as we look back, we see failures as well as successes. Each year brings with it many of the old problems of college life—new to us—but confronting again and again the changing student bodies. The number of college activities is increasing yearly. The organization of societies is reaching the superabundant stage; the demand for the athlete was never so great. Additions to the curriculum are increasing the opportunities of the student. Perhaps the most serious problem undergraduates face is to rightly determine where they shall devote their time and energies that they may be the best equipped to live in a world that is thrillingly alive.

A matter which is surely worthy of serious consideration was called to the attention of the Editor recently by one of the prominent Bates graduates. For many years, perhaps always, it has been the custom to hold Bates Night before some important game. The fundamental purpose of the gathering is to create a fund of spirit for the coming event—which is in itself a very commendable and desirable feature. The question has been presented, however, as to whether Bates Night before the event is not harmful to the success of the team.

The substance of the argument is this. Members of the team attend the gathering, and the hour of breaking up is usually late in the evening. As a climax refreshments are served and the members of the team do their share of participation. As a result of the late hour and the late "feed," they are unable to get a good night's rest, and on the morrow pay the penalty by not being at their best in competition.

Bates Night should be made an occasion when students and alumni cooperate in creating a fund of Bates spirit. To accomplish this it is most desirable that the alumni have a committee to work with the student committee in planning for the evening. A large number of the graduates should be in attendance. In fact Bates Night should and could be made such a "big thing" that it would be the event of the college year which students and alumni could anticipate. Arrangements for the night should be started soon after college begins in the fall, and the best speakers among the alumni procured. Announcements should be sent to all the Bates Alumni Associations, with the end in view that as many of these as possible be represented.

A few extracts from the report of Secretary Rowe show some of the activities of the Y. M. C. A. during the past year.

We have made the beginning of a small library of well selected list of books that have to do with the student work. A telephone has been installed. During the Easter vacation the room which was in use as a recitation room before the coming of a General Secretary, was remodeled somewhat so as to be more useful for office purposes. The electric lighting has been improved, new chairs added, and several pictures of interest purchased.

The Bates Association acted as host for the Seventh Annual Student Conference held on the campus in February. One hundred and ninety-two delegates were here representing the colleges, academies and high schools of the State.

The work of the Religious Education Department has been largely along the line of the regular and special meetings of the association. While many colleges have given up a regular, weekly meeting, Bates still has it and finds it valuable.

We have followed the suggestion of the International Committee in our voluntary study work, in that we have placed the emphasis on Bible Study in the first semester and Mission and Social Study in the second.

Our Social Service work is divided into two sections, Campus and Community Service. A summary of the activities of the Campus Service Department is: 650 high grade handbooks were distributed to students and faculty at a cost of $166.25, covered by appropriations and advertisements. Letters were written to men of the incoming class, trains were met, and assistance given in getting adjusted to the new life. The Second Hand Book Agency handled books to the value of $68.65.

At Thanksgiving time a banquet was given to all of the students and members of the faculty staying in town. The newly organized Tutoring Bureau has directed tutoring in eight subjects, using for the service eleven men who in eighty hours reached an aggregate of 124 students.

The Y. M. C. A. office has been used as a clearing house for the Student Employment Bureau, and the General Secretary has acted as Secretary for this Bureau. The association has distributed cards advertising the work of the Bureau, and has advertised in the local papers. One hundred and twenty-five men have had dealings one or more times with this department.

Community Service has claimed the attention of several of our students. Deputations have visited Litchfield Plains, Litchfield Corners, Mechanic Falls, Lisbon Falls, Monmouth, institutions in Lewiston and Auburn. Some of our men have worked for a week end at Hebron and Maine Central Institute.

BASEBALL SUMMARY

Although Bates did not win the championship of Maine this spring, the season can be considered a very successful one. Out of the nineteen games played, Bates won ten of them, tied one and lost eight. Considering the psychological fact that every team, as well as every man, has its ups and downs, this is truly a remarkably fine record.

The sterling character of the Bates team can be judged from the games that were won. The most singular victory was the memorable 3-2 Harvard game, in which Monte allowed only one hit. Among the other notable victories are the 12-8 defeat of Boston College, the 11-2 win over Colby, and the two "walk away" games with Bowdoin. Of these the one that causes Bates the most satisfaction is, perhaps, the 7-3 Bowdoin Ivy Day game, as Bates has lost this particular contest four years in succession. Besides these Bates also won from the Lewiston N. E. League, Fort McKinley, N. H. State, University of Hawaii and the University of Maine.

The following men have played in the required number of games, and have been awarded the baseball "B": Lord, Moore, Capt. Talbot, Duncan, McDonald, Fuller, Davis, Butler, Thurston, Fowler and Davidson. By graduation, the team will lose three valuable players: Capt. Talbot, Fuller and Moore. In Captain Talbot the team has had an admirable leader and his loss will be keenly felt not only as a crack first baseman and heavy hitter, but also as a hard fighter. Since the coach has been relegated from the bench, the captain has been obliged to shoulder the entire responsibility of directing the team, and who could have fulfilled this important position better than Captain George K. Talbot?

SENIORS VS FACULTY

One of the most exciting baseball games of the season was played last Thursday forenoon, when the faculty continued to hold sway over the Seniors by the score of 9 to 8. Mr. Ross pitched a good game, and at times was well supported by sensational fielding. The game was full of suspense and was not decided until after two were out in the last inning, when Mr. Ross ran from second base to home while Dr. Britan was running to first, the catcher having missed his third strike.

Batteries, Ross and Purinton, Pidgeon, Moulton and Stinson. Score: Faculty 9;

Seniors 8.

COLBY 8, BATES 7

Bates lost the last game of the season to Colby in an exhibition game played at Gardiner. Hard hitting characterized the game, but the fielding, because of the roughness of the ground, was ragged. The score went back and forth, first one side ahead and then the other. Monte was credited with four safeties including a double in four times up, Talbot got three in five, and Butler connected for two triples and a single. Although Bates outbatted her opponents, Colby bunched her hits better and squeezed out a victory.

TRACK CAPTAIN

William Boyd '16 has been elected captain of the track team for the coming year. Boyd made his letter in the B. A. A. relay races in which Bates won second place for the championship of Maine. He has been a member of the track team for three years. His special distance is the 440, although he is a first-class performer in all the events from the 100 yard dash to the shot put. He is also a member of the foot ball team.

Fourteen men were awarded track "B's" this year, thirteen of them for the first time:

Capt. Small, Butler, Boyd, Mansfield, Lane, Doe, Keaney, Quimby, Connors, DeWeaver, Pinkham, Drew, Coleman and Mgr. Merrill. From this number only two, Small and Mansfield will be lost by graduation. With eleven men as a nucleus and M. J. Ryan as coach, the prospects for a winning track team for the coming year are very bright.

PERSONALS

With the usual enthusiasm, the girls' mandolin club has organized for the year under the leadership of Miss Alice King '16. Two rehearsals have already been held.

The Seniority will hold its first meeting Friday evening in Libbey Forum.

A. Lilian Leathers, '18, spent Sunday at Reed's Mills.

Bates is welcoming to her campus this fall Miss Hettie Craighead, and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McDonald. Miss Craighead holds the office of dietician for the girls. Mr. McDonald is professor of Education.

Miss Dorothy Taylor, '19, has been forced to go home on account of an operation. It is hoped that she will be able to return to Bates later in the fall.

Wednesday night, Sept. 22, the Freshman girls and the Cabinet members of the Y. W. C. A. were most cordially entertained at the home of Miss A. Lilian Leathers '18.

The members of the Girls' Glee Club have been selected, and rehearsals will soon begin. The members are: first soprano, Misses Berry '17, Sturgis '17, Hussey '15, Ingersoll '18, Skelton '19, Googins '16; second soprano, Misses Hutchins '16, Harding '16, Chapman '18, Lougee '17, Gould '19, Harvey '18, Stevens '19; first alto, Misses Clough '17, Mower '16, Kane '16, Ballard '18, Graham '18, Smith '17, Farnsworth '17; second alto, Misses Mansfield '18, Wright '18, Haskell '18, Leathers '18, Thompson '18, Shapleigh '19.

Have you taken a good look at the girls' new hockey field and tennis courts? "Quite a change from the dirt banks of last spring" is the general opinion. Now let us not forget to express our appreciation to those who first planned them and to those who have made them so great a success through their care.

Do not jump at conclusions. Not every unfamiliar face on the campus is that of a freshman. This year Bates has many who enter the upper classes to complete courses here. Among these are: Mr. Morgridge and Mr. White now members of '16; Miss Aikins, Miss Chandler, Miss Clark, Miss Moreau, Miss Sawyer, Mr. Greene, Mr. Grover and Mr. Kennedy, now of '17; and Miss Currier, Miss Martin, Miss Shebbles, Mr. Currier, Mr. Knowles, Mr. Lamson, Mr. Currier, Mr. Knowles, Mr. Lamson, Mr. McKeen, Mr. Malouf, Mr. Norton, Mr. Stinson, Mr. Sullivan, and Mr. Taylor, all of '18.

As a result of a petition presented to the faculty by the members of 1916, the girls of the senior class are to have regular gymnastic classes this year just as in the three previous years. Doubtless, this will help the class to maintain the high standards of athletic work which it has always had.

At Vespers, last Sunday evening, Miss Harriet Haggard, secretary of the student volunteer movement, addressed those interested in the work.

Saturday afternoon the girls of the college will have a camp supper up by the river. They will leave Rand Hall at 2.30 P.M. Every girl is invited.

Y. W. C. A NOTES

The annual reception of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. was held in Fiske Room, Friday evening, September 24. An unusually large number were present, and a cordial reception was given both to the new faculty members and to the new students. After the formal reception, a program was given. It consisted of addresses of welcome given by President Geo. C. Chase, Mr. Harry Rowe, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; by Miss Mona Hodnett, president of the Y. W. C. A., and by Mr. R. Stillman, president of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Hinton '17 also gave a vocal solo, and Miss Harding '16, a reading. In conclusion, the girls' mandolin club furnished music for the singing of the Bates Alma Mater. Following the program, refreshments of ice cream and fancy crackers were served.

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held on Sept. 29, aimed primarily to tell the incoming class what the Y. W. C. A. stands for, what its committees work for, and what a big work it all really is. A splendid attendance was had, which little exceeded that of last Wednesday night at the Silver Bay meeting. Then, Misses Hood, Mitchell, Harding, Googins, Leathers, Smith, and Hodnett, all girls who have attended the conference there, told of its life, and of its significance to the college girl.

Pleasing in its informality and cordiality was the reception on the mountain given by the Y. W. C. A. to the class of 1919, on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 23. It was the first meeting of the year for all the girls of the college, and they responded heartily to the speeches, short talks, to the spirit of the whole affair. The principal speakers were Miss Mona Hodnett '16, Dean Buswell, and Mrs. Geo. Chase. There were also interesting talks by Miss Doris Ingersoll '18 on "Freshman Good Times", Miss Alice King '16 on "Athletics," Miss Harlene Kane on "Social Life," and Miss Ellen Harding '16 on "Silver Bay."

The Senior Class enjoyed a corn roast Friday evening. Prof. and Mrs. McDonald, and Prof. Baird accompanied the party.

Where are the Freshman hats? It would be a splendid idea if somebody would produce a plan whereby the freshmen might get their hats during the first few days. It would make getting acquainted easier.

The Football team has been shaken up considerably since the game Saturday, due to injuries of backfield men. Drew, Harvey, Capt. Dewever—One of last year's star ends, Bill Boyd, was kept out of the game because of injuries.

W. Webster McCann, a prominent man of the Bates campus, is the proud possessor of a brand new bicycle. The estimable gentleman declares that the machine is to facilitate the process of taking exercise. It has been observed by some of his friends, however, that the bicycle carries a light, while exercise should always be taken in the daytime.

One classmate inquires—if he has H. P. enough to make Court Street hill on high.

JUNIOR PARTY

One of the earliest and most enjoyable events of the school year, for the Junior class was the corn-roast held on the bank of the river, Tuesday evening of last week.

There was an excellent attendance on the part of the class, which was accompanied by the popular chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Harms, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rowe.

In addition to a good supply of corn for roasting, there was a plentiful store of sandwiches, marshmallows, coffee, and fancy crackers.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Alumni association was held at Hathorn Hall immediately after the Class day exercises. Hon. H. W. Oakes of Auburn presided and the following officers were elected: Pres., F. E. Pomeroy, '99; 1st vice-pres., Elwin Jordan; 2nd vice-pres., Harold A. Allen, '06; 3rd vice-pres., Charles Clason, '11; sec.-treas., John L. Reade, '83; ex. com., Harry W. Rowe, '12; Miles Greenwood, '92 and Jeannie Graham, '13.

Scott Wilson, '92, of Portland, and Rev. Dr. F. E. Emrich, '76, of Boston, were nominated for members of the board of overseers of the college. W. E. C. Rich, '70; John L. Reade, '83; Reuel Robinson, '81; John R. Dunton, '87 and L. B. Costello, '98; were nominated as candidates from which two will be chosen for the board of overseers next year.

It was voted to appropriate $150 for the library. The association voted to assume the expense of fitting up a suite of rooms in Roger Williams Hall for the use of graduates visiting the college during the college year.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Lewiston, Maine

MERRILL & WEBBER CO., AUBURN, ME.

We are glad to announce that with few exceptions every member of the entering class has been enrolled on the Student subscription list. We appreciate their support and wish them to feel that they have already become shares in the work and are vitally connected with the success of our college weekly.

Breech of training is something that should be seriously considered by every student whether under training rules or not. When a man puts on a mit and comes to the field, he takes upon himself a moral responsibility to adhere to all regulations of the coach. He is responsible to himself and to all his team-mates, and in a large degree to the entire membership of the college he represents. If a man is unable to appreciate this fact, his place is not on the athletic field. The whole contest of the athlete is not confined to the physical, it is determined largely by his ability to become a master of self, to submit daily to the strictest disipline, and to obey the demands of the duty he has placed upon himself unflinchingly and with no compromise.

To disregard training regulations should place men in the class of moral quitters.

College Spirit is a splendid thing, but that spirit which tolerates men who are trying for positions on a varsity team and who fail to make the sacrifice of their own pleasures for the benefit of all, is a destructive element in a college. The duty of elimination comes to freshmen as well as seniors.

Those individuals who are granted the honor and the privilege of wearing a college color upon the gridiron or the diamond, have by so doing given a pledge to the coach and to the College that they will keep themselves in the best physical condition and that they will give their best in every way for the success of the team, whether defeated or victorious.

The men who face this proposition squarely and see it through to the end are the men who deserve to wear their College letter.

The attitude taken by the student majority in this matter will largely determine its character.

SOPHOMORES 5, FRESHMEN 3

The annual sophomore-freshman baseball game was played Monday, September 27, under very unfavorable weather conditions, as the temperature was nearly down to the freezing point and a high wind swept the field. Despite the cold, however, "coeds" marched on the field before the opening of the game singing "Alma Mater", and braved it out there the seven inning game.

A new pitcher was revealed in Purvere, who fanned twelve in six innings and allowed only one man to walk. He should strengthen the pitching squad of the varsity very materially. Purvere is a graduate of East Providence High School and had as his coach, Griffin '13, the old Bates captain.

The sophomores had by far the better fielding team, altho Swan, Harvey and Maxim for 1919 showed excellent baseball ability. Five catchers were tried out during the game by the freshmen in an attempt to find someone who could hold Purvere's speedy curves.

HOLY CROSS 7, BATES 0

Bates opened the football season of 1915 Saturday, September 25, at Worcester, by holding the heavy Holy Cross team to the score of 7 to 0. The game should have been a tie had not Donnellan intercepted a forward pass and run forty-seven yards for a touch down in the first five minutes of play. After that score Holy Cross never once threatened the Bates' goal. Neither team were able to gain through the line and the only play that worked to advantage was the forward pass, which was used frequently by the Bates team.

The team came home quite free from injuries. This will give the coaches a big advantage in rounding the team into condition over previous years, when the men have come back from the opening game with Harvard considerably smashed up, some of them out of the game for the season. The lineup:

DEWEVER, CAPTAIN

"Buck" Dewever, '17, has been elected Captain of the football team for this season in the place of John Butler, who was to be captain but did not return to Bates. "Buck" has played two years at fullback on the varsity. He is a deadly tackler and a fierce line plunger. If his injuries with which he is now suffering do not keep him out of the State games he should easily make All-Maine full back.

BATES 6, FORT McKINLEY 0

Under very unfavorable conditions, the first football game of the season on Garcelon field was played last Saturday. The game was with Fort McKinley and was won by Bates 6 to 0. On account of the very poor weather conditions it was practically impossible for either team to play its strongest game. The soldiers were represented by the strongest team that they have had in several years. The star of the team was Adams who, although he is now a Bates man, has been playing with the soldiers all the season.

With the absence of Capt. Dewever and a few other regulars Bates played an encouraging game. Drew who filled in for Buck played well and gets credit for scoring the only touchdown of the game. The work of Kennedy was especially good for time and time again he went around the ends or found holes in the lines which he dodged through for good gains. The work of the new men on the team was good and with a little more experience they should be developed into valuable players.

Fumbles were frequent on account of the wet, on one occasion the ball changed hands three times on successive plays. Penalties were also frequent and the officials were kept busy. Bates was especially unfortunate in having the penalty come at just the wrong time as we had a chance to score about the end of the second period.

The only score of the game came near the end of the game when Bates recovered a blocked punt and after a double pass Drew went over the line for a touchdown.

STUDENT NOTES

Another autumn festivity took place October 7, when the members of the Sophomore class joined in a corn roast by the river. The crowd was accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Hertell and Professor and Mrs. Coleman, and all passed a happy evening around the big camp-fire.

Miss Margaret Flenniken, student Y. W. C. A. secretary for the New England Colleges, recently spent Sunday at Bates.

Miss Sara Reed has been confined to the dormitory for the past week, owing to a fall.

Dean Clara L. Buswell left Saturday for Vassar College, where she will be a guest at the installation of Vassar's new president.

At Vespers Sunday night in Rand Hall, Mrs. George M. Chase spoke to the girls.

Members of the classes of both 1917 and 1918 will be sorry to hear that Miss Mary Martin has recently been operated on for appendicitis at the Central Maine General Hospital. At the present writing Miss Martin is doing as well as can be expected.

Miss Ernestine Wright recently spent the week-end at her home in West Gardiner, Maine.

"Geology walks have begun," so the juniors say. October 1, a large crowd visited the Quarry. On the following Monday, Mount David was explored, where new and unexpected attractions were found!

Many of the students have attended the "Birth of a Nation" during the past week.

Since Monday morning, October 11, the girls Student Government Association has been the ruling force in the girls' dormitory life here at Bates. The formation of this association, though long considered desirable by both faculty and students has been only recently completed. During the past two weeks only, in fact, the matter has been definitely brought before the girls as a whole, the constitution adopted, and the officers for the association voted upon.

Those elected to office are as follows:

Committee of three, Mona Hodnett, '16 Harlene Kane, '16, Alice King, '16 Elinor Newman, '17

Secretary-Treasurer, Ruth Skinner

Other members of Executive Board, Hazel Mitchell, '16 Agnes Burnett, '17

Agnes Burnett, '17 Mildred Junkins, '18 Ida Millay, '19

House Presidents,

Rand Hall, Flora Warren, '16 Cheney House, Ida Payne, '17 Milliken House, Blanche Ballard, '18 Whittier House, Marion Donnells, '19

Miss Evangeline Lawson has recently been confined to the dormitory for several days because of illness.

Miss Eleanor Richmond formerly of the class of 1917, is at present carrying on her studies at Mount Holyoke. During the past summer, Miss Richmond has attended summer school at Cornell University.

"Senority" and "Entre Nous" held their first meetings last Friday evening. The program of Senority was in charge of the debating branch of the society, and consisted of short talks on various current events.

At "Entre Nous," Miss Carolyn Tarbell was appointed chairman for the evening, and the constitution of last year was adopted by the girls of 1919. Dean Buswell addressed the girls, and a committee for the nomination of officers was chosen, consisting of Misses Evelyn Varney, Hazel Hutchins and Dora Graves.

Among those who spent the past week-end at home were Miss Celia Smith, '17, Miss Naney Farris, '16, Miss Harriet Johnson, '16, Miss Ruth Sturgis, '17, Miss Ida Millay, '19.

Invitations are being sent out to all the members of the faculty and student body to a party to be given by the class of 1916, in Rand Hall, Friday evening, October 15, at 7.30.

Mrs. Annie O'Connell and Miss Nellie Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilman of South Portland were guests of Miss Gladys Logan, '19, and Miss Annie Smith, '16, last Sunday.

Saturday evening the New Hampshire Club entertained its nine new members of the incoming class.

Wednesday, October 13, the first joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. was held in Fiske Room, Rand Hall.

Miss Florence Nelson recently entertained at Rand Hall Miss Gladys Mae Waterhouse, teacher of English and elocution in Bath.

Miss Ruth Parker, '16, entertained Miss Sybil Jewers last Sunday at her home in North Windham.

Who has read the Rules and Regulations for Coram Library posted on the bulletin board? Rather of vital interest to us all, are they not? I wonder if anyone could have forgotten them.

ATHLETICS

TRACK

The fall track season will begin next week with the Outdoor Interclass Meet taking place on Wednesday and Thursday. This neet is always very interesting in that it brings forth any valuable men who are in the freshman class. Already the track managers are working so that the track and jumping pits will be in good shape and there will be the best possible performances. The events will be divided for two days as usual.

A triangular meet is now being arranged for between Bates 1919 and Lewiston High and Edward Little High School. This meet will be held within two or three weeks and will take place on Garcelon Field.

TRINITY 42, BATES 14

Bates' light and game football team scored two touchdowns against Trinity last Saturday at Hartford. Trinity is credited with having, this year, one of the strongest football teams that ever represented that institution. Neither Norwich nor Brown was able to put the ball across the Trinity goal line on the preceding Saturdays. By a series of successful forward passing, onside kicking and line plunging, Bates scored the first touchdown of the game in the first five minutes of play. In the third period Davis intercepted a long forward pass and by a wonderful feat of side stepping and stiff arming ran eighty yards for a touchdown.

The Trinity warriors were very heavy and fast. Not only did they have this great advantage but also they had one play, namely, a cross buck with a delayed pass, which completely baffled the Bates defense, especially during the first half of the game. On several occasions Trinity succeeded in blocking Davis' punts. Forward passing was also used very successfully at times. These things together with the wonderful ability of George Brickley aided Trinity in running up such a large score—four touchdowns in the first half and two in the second half.

Altho the odds were greatly against the Bates team, greater speed and a considerable more aggressiveness must be developed, especially in the line, if the Garnet supporters are to be given hopes of a State Champion team.

The Summary:

The Jordan Scientific Society held its first regular meeting of the year Monday evening, October 11th, in Carnegie Science Hall. Nine new members were admitted, and names were presented from which three more members will later be elected.

A paper on "Electric and Light-Producing Tissues" was presented by F. Il. Swett, '16. Following this, refreshments were served by the old members of the Society.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

On Monday evening, October 18th, the Verein will hold its first regular meeting, and new members will be admitted. A program will be carried out with especial attention to the entertainment of the new members.

Harold Clifford, '16, last week took the Rhodes Scholarship Examinations which were given at Augusta. Clifford was the only man to represent Bates in the examinations this year.

The Dramatic Club will hold a meeting this evening for election of officers. Plans for the year's work will be discussed and several plays considered.

Those parties who continually persist in appropriating signs and posters placed on the bulletin boards of the college show conclusive evidence of certain manias deserving serious rebuke.

At the meeting of the Athletic Association tonight the question of increasing the semester dues from a dollar and a half to three dollars will be decided. With the increase goes the understanding that an association ticket will admit to all games played on Garcelon Field. Dues of three dollars per semester are not high. Our Association needs the increase to properly carry on its work. Every man should support the idea.

The first lecture of the year will be given October 20 in Assembly Room, Hathorn Hall, by Mr. Oldis. Mr. Oldis has previously lectured at Bates. His subject is "Birds and Bird Lore." The lecturer is an authority upon the subject of bird lore and ornithology, and it will be a treat to hear Mr. Oldis. The lecture will be scientific and instructive.

Dr. Tubbs lectured in Milton, N. H., recently. He also attended a meeting of the State Committee to organize the Maine League for National Defense held in Augusta.

Professor Purinton represented the College at the Maine Free Baptist State Association Meeting at Waterville last week.

MERRILL & WEBBER CO., AUBURN, ME.

The following is the report of W. C. Jordan, Bates '06, concerning the New West Peking Branch of the Y. M. C. A., China, of which he had charge. The report was chosen by the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. to be published in the Foreign Mail. It is of special interest to note that Mr. Mott, general secretary of both home and foreign work, in a special letter commended Mr. Jordan for the work indicated in the report.

Five hundred students a month attending educational lectures, 600 a month helping in social service work, fifty men in an English night school, 200 students in Bible study classes,—this is a rapid survey of the work of the Peking West City branch.

The twenty-five schools in the West City have a decided lack of school spirit, owing partly to the scattered location of the lodging houses. We made a survey of lodging-house conditions, sharing the results with a representative of the Church of England Mission who is preparing to open a hostel. To help stimulate school spirit we have held our educational lectures for one school at a time, thereby getting a fine response and helping different sets of men in the same school to get acquainted with each other.

At New Year's time the Social Service Club prepared a large calendar, giving the old and new systems of dates in parallel columns, with some common-sense suggestions printed on them about morality and hygiene. The West City students responded with great enthusiasm to a request to help distribute these in the homes of Peking. The map was divided up and the men of each school looked after their section of the city. As a result, 40,000 calendars went out in the West City on New Year's Day. The same men, a month later, put 75,000 circulars in advertisement of the famine-relief bazaar and later took out inquiry sheets for the investigation of 'rickshaw coolies and of institutions for the poor.

When the question was put to the West City Committee of Management whether or not to open an English night school, there was no doubt at all of their approval of the project. We opened four classes and now have fifty students, mostly men employed in the government offices. They are keen to learn and are moving on fast. Besides the game-room, reading-room and library, which have had a good patronage, there is great interest in volley ball and indoor baseball.

The Bible classes have been expanding. Fourteen schools are represented. The different schools have been taking their turn in preparing a program for a social. In a class which I led, made up of men from the best normal college in China, the best long-distance runner in the school and the winner of the shot-put in the national meet were two of the members. The latter man applied for Church membership. In a discussion club that we arranged for one of the schools, the president, a princely young fellow, was strong for Confucianism in the discussions of last fall. After the address at the last meeting, in opening the discussion, he said: "Gentlemen, I would like to ask two questions. Who is the person from whom Western countries have derived most in their progress, and who is the man who has done the most to keep China from changing?" There was a pause and no one answered. Then he gave his own answers: for the first, "Jesus." and for the second, "Confucius." It was hard for him to say it, but it came out without any uncertain sound. The meeting was hushed to a close.

No. 23

AN ABUNDANT LIFE

Hattie Knowlton Jordan, wife of the beloved Professor of Chemistry at Bates, Lyman G. Jordan, entered upon the larger life Wednesday morning, October fourteen. It seemed especially appropriate that she should leave us in the autumn time-the season of mellow sunshine and harvest, when the hills are "all afire with God" and mother-earth with lavish hand offers her fruits. For Mrs. Jordan's life was like the autumn in its beauty, its mellow sunshine warming all within her circle, in its color and variety but most of all in its bounteous giving with no thought of a return. Like mother-earth she gave bounteously of her store of sunshine, of comradeship, of spiritual quickening, and of courage and hope to a very wide circle of friends. And in this circle were included not only the friends tried and true of her own age but to a very large extent she took into her heart the College students, both men and women, so that today a large number of Bates men and women will feel a keen personal loss in the death of Mrs. Jordan.

Mrs. Jordan's life was a deep life—there was no froth, no ambition to shine socially, no striving for effect. She was first of all a Christian, then a wife and mother, and then a friend. In the exercise of these offices, every faculty of her nature came to beautiful fruition. Whatever she loved and believed in she shared with all who knew her. Her children, the children of the neighborhood. and the wider circle outside shared with her the love of the wild flowers and the bird music and all the varying phases of God's out of doors. Mt. David was particularly dear to her and her own little "Sky parlor" was her retreat from the cares of a busy life. She knew and loved it all from the delicate mosses and the shy spring flowers to the stately pine trees and the granite rocks. Surely the scarlet tanager will miss her greeting in the spring, the friendly robin her welcome interest in nest building, and the grev squirrel her careful watchfulness. But there are hundreds who will look with interest on the trees and flowers and see a loving Heavenly Father in the beautiful world of birds and bees and running brooks because Mrs. Jordan loved and knew them. For it was a part of her charm that her interests became yours when you entered into sympathetic relations with her.

So in her Christian life—it permeated all the avenues of her being so of necessity her friends came to a clearer knowledge of the real thing. She did not talk religionshe lived it and to many a one the love of God, the friendship of Jesus, the peace of God that passeth understanding, came to have new and precious meaning because we saw them in a life. "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done" was no formula with her. She counted it all joy if she could help bring in that kingdom by giving her own son to China. Religion was life to her—not a set of forms. It made her life joyous and full of cheer. Her own loss and suffering never quenched the deep inner joy in life. When sickness or trouble or extra press of work or care came upon her friends she always found time and thought to minister in her own particular way. She had a mind that seemed to know intuitively what to do to be helpful and out of the good treasure of her heart she said the right word or did the right thing. Many a College girl recalls with loving appreciation how Mrs. Jordan remembered to do the little thing that mother would have liked to do. Her notes of cheer and comfort and friendship went far and near for her circle of friends girdled the globe and just so long as she could hold the pen, even up to the last weeks of her siekness, these letters were sent forth on her errands

It is not possible in this brief appreciation to even touch upon the large interests of Mrs. Jordan in the work of the world-her devotion the cause of missions, of temperance, of the best intellectual development, and her interest in all benevolent institutions and in her church. But her friends cherish in their hearts the personality no longer here in bodily presence and not only Bates College and Lewiston but the world at large is fuller and richer and sweeter because of her abundant life.

Hattie Knowlton Jordan was born August 14, 1847 in Montville, Maine. Her father the Rev. Ebenezer Knowlton was one of the founders of Bates College. She was married in 1871 to Lyman G. Jordan and they came at once to Lewiston to live. Here the five children were born, three of whom graduated from Bates College. Mabel True in the class of '99, Elwyn K. in '01 and Wayne C. in '06. A son Ralph died in infancy and a daughter Beulah just as she was entering young womanhood. Mrs. Jordan lived in the lives of her children and the death of her daughter Mabel, the wife of Rev. Whitman S. Bassett, Bates '99, in June 1908, was a severe blow from which she never recovered.

Mrs. Jordan graduated from Maine State Seminary, which later became Bates College, in the class of 1867. The girls of the class have kept up thru all the years a class letter and one of Mrs. Jordan's last letters went to the class and it was full of the glory of the autumn coloring on Mt. David.

While Mrs. Jordan was not an alumna of Bates College she was distinctively a Bates woman—a daughter of one of its founders, knowing intimately the hardships and sacrifices of the early days, a graduate of the school out of which Bates College grew and for many years the wife of a Bates Professor and intimately associated with its growth and progress. Many sons and daughters of Bates will rise up and call her blessed and her life multiplied in countless lives whom she has touched will continue to enrich the College so dear to her.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Owing to a mistake in the last issue, in the report of the joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., mention was not made of the exceedingly interesting talk given that evening by Miss Helen N. Bates. Her subject was "A Trip Through the Holy Land." This was also amply illustrated by lantern slides.

The last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. furnished full proof that our Bates organization is not only said to be progressive and enthusiastic, but is really alive in the best sense of the word. For at that meeting, over fifty new members were registered, representing ifty more girls who desire to coöperate to further the great work of this assection further the great work of this assection.

Girls of 1919, remember that "Entre Nous" holds its election of officers this Friday evening.

On Monday evening, Oct. 18, the Deutscher Verein held its meeting in Libbey Forum. There were present nine of the new members, and they were given an important share in the program, giving speeches, poems, dialogs and songs in German, besides performing many laughable "stunts."

After the new members had been formally admitted to the Verein, a delightful German supper was served by Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Harms.

On Nov 1, Mr. Harms will speak on "The Deutscher Verein in Minnesota."

The following letter was recently received from Frank C. Adams, Bates '13, who is teaching at Noda, Yamaguchi, Yamaguchi—ken, Japan. The letter is most interesting and gives us a sketch of the Japanese educational system which is much different than our own.

To the Editor of THE BATES STUDENT,

Thinking it may be of interest to some of your readers, I am writing a little concerning the life of a teacher in the Government Schools in the land of the Rising Sun. It may have more to do with the foreign teacher than the native teacher; between the two there is a big difference. The foreign teacher has a carefree life beside that of the native teacher, all the while his salary may be four or five times that of the native. It only goes to show what a price Japan is willing to pay for Occidental ideas, poor though she is. There never seems to be any ill-will shown because you draw so much salary, but here is the country of concealed feelings and you never know what people are thinking. A thing to be remembered is that all things reckoned on a money basis are on a lower plane than in America.

For more than a year, I have been located in the southern most ken or state in the island of Honehu. The city I am in is the capital and to quote the words of a student it is, "the center of this ken in administration, education and religion." My work is in the ken Middle School, which is of about the same grade as our high schools, and the Imperial Government Commercial College. In the two schools, I have more than seven hundred students, but only six different lessons a week, for each class is divided into from three to six divisions.

Having so many students, it might be thought to be difficult, but such is not the case as the work is nearly all conversation. In the Middle School, the students have had from one to five years of English; a native teacher, always, accompanies me, partly to act as an interpreter should it be necessary, which is not often; partly, to maintain order and leave me entirely free to teach; partly, and this a big part, to increase his own knowledge of English. The conversation is based upon material already translated by the native teachers or upon stories or incidents which involve only words which are familiar to the students. In the Commercial College, the students are studying English for the sixth, seventh or eighth year and the conversation becomes quite free. My work also involves a little dictation and composition, but with so many students it can not be very extensive.

On entering the class-room a head-boy calls out, "Attention", and teacher and boys both come to "attention"; he then calls "Salute", and teacher and boys both bow, not a little Occidental bow, but a real Oriental bow that brings in the body as well as the head. All schools above the primary grade are military schools with the teachers and boys in uniform, though the foreign teacher is excused. The boys are instructed in military tactics and I am of the opinion that the ordinary Middle School boy knows more about that subject than any member of our own state guard, not excepting some of the officers either.

The foreign teacher teaches from fourteen to twenty-four hours a week, but that is all of his work. The native teacher besides his eighteen hours of teaching, has a great deal of extra work. More red-tape abounds around a Japanese school than around any other place in the world and it causes a great deal of work. The foreign teacher is free to leave as soon as his teaching is over, but the native must stay whether he has a class or not until the middle of the afternoon.

The method by which new material is taught is different from the American way and shows the plan of the whole school system. The boys make no preparation before class; the translation is made by the teacher to the boys. This is the way the whole system goes; the teacher driving it into their heads by incessant hammering. Fancy having your originals in Geometry worked on the board for you and you simply copying them in your note book. However, at examination time there is a fearful reckoning for the boys are held responsible for it all. Under this system it is not be wondered that frequent "flunks" are the rule. Depressed by his failure, the student often commits suicide; meditation caused by the study of philosophy is another thing that claims a great many victims. The two places most popular for their chosen end are Kegon-notaki, a beautiful waterfall, at Nikko, which has a straight drop of two hundred and fifty feet and is extremely beautiful, and the crater of Aso-san, an active volcano in the island of Kyushu. They hurl themselves into these places, preferring to snuf out their life than to go on with their troubles. It is much more prevalent at some times than others. In fact, it seems to sweep over the land in waves and at times special police are sent to guard these places to prevent students from carrying out their desires.

In most schools, the foreign teacher receives excellent treatment. He may have a longer vacation than the others and everything is done to make his stay pleasant; many times their well meant intentions cause more discomfort than comfort, but the spirit is right. Frequent holidays are the rule and never are you worked hard. If a young man has, as he should, a desire to see some of the world, he can well afford to spend a couple of years here, which he will never regret.

Sincerely yours,

Frank C. Adams, '13

Observant Citizen

Don't miss the Big Mass Meeting tonight. It will be the biggest affair of the season. Enthusiasm will reign supreme. It is impossible to give details at present. Here is a list of the probable speakers: Coach Greene, City Marshal McCarron, Dr. Call, Coach Purinton.

The principal speakers from the Student Body will be John Goba and Winthrop O'Connell. The band will be there. The Alumni of Lewiston and Vicinity will be there. The Faculty will be there. If you are not there NOBODY'S the blame. Remember "7" Tonight.

Who is going to Maine Saturday? That is the question of the hour. The answer is brief—Everybody. Some will go in the special train. Some will go in the freight. Some will doubtless walk. But everybody is going one way or another. The Seniors want to go because it is their last chance. The Juniors want to go because next year Maine plays here. The Sophomores want to go because it is their first chance. The Freshmen want to go because they are the new Bates men and want to learn how Bates men act when they visit a rival College. We all want to go in order to share in the victory. No man has a right to the wine of Victory who "mans the walls at Home."-Don't expect to find anybody around Saturday. These halls will be more silent than that famous "painted ship upon a painted ocean." Would you like to witness the humiliation of the State University? Would you like to see 1000 men leave the field "creeping like snail?" It is all yours simply for a trip to Orono! The Train leaves sometime around seven o'clock. Set your alarm clock. Remember to get your ticket from manager Boothby. Don't Forget your "Pepper." Bring all the Comedy Stuff in your repertoire—We can use it. "Some things are good to remember and some things are good to forget, But don't forget to remember, to remember not to forget to go to Maine Saturday. See you at the Station.

The Senior girls may stay out until 8 o'clock, under the new system. Where do you suppose certain familiar faces are sojourning until about that hour, these beautiful evenings?

We always have one good speaker in Chapel every year—this is early so we may hope for more this year.

Lest ye fall into devious ways The Student warns you that every time you cut a class 1-5 of an hour is deducted from your total semester credit. Don't get caught with 5 or 6 hours to make up sometime next May.

Every man (except 5) who does not work for his Board is eating at the Commons.

This is the first issue in which the "Observant Citizen" has been awarded space. The department is open to suggestion and criticism. If you want to boost here's your chance. If you want to crab here's the same chance. We can fill this department with live stuff—Are you interested.

BATES 2ND 26; LISBON FALLS 0

Saturday afternoon the second team easily outplayed the Lisbon Falls town team 26 to 0. The game was slow and lacked special interest. The Lisbon Falls team was heavier, but lacked the football experience and coaching. The men that represented Bates were as follows: Tucker and C. S. Rankin, l.e.; Wiggin and Sanderson, ct.; Quackenbush, l.g.: Lord, c.; Parker and Clifford, r.g.; Sherman, r.t.; Maxin, r.e.; Talbot, q.b.; Stettbacher, l.h.b.; Boyeson and C. C. Rankin, r.h.b.

TRACK

The season for the long distance runners opens next week with the Interclass Cross Country Run. About twenty-five fellows are out for the team and have been working hard every day for the last month. Both Lane and Doe are running stronger than they did at this time last year and Gregory, a new man in the freshman class, is running stronger than either.

N. H. STATE 6, BATES 0

Bates played a 'hard luck' game last Saturday at Durham and was defeated by N. H. State College by the score of 6 to 0. Excepting the last five minutes of play Bates clearly outclassed their opponents in nearly every department of the game. The ball was within New Hampshire's territory nearly all the game. Bates came within a few inches of making a touchdown in the first period and was within striking distance of the goal several times. In the last period Irvinne broke thru the Bates' defense and ran forty yards for a touchdown. At no other time did New Hampshire threaten Bates' goal line. Davis was the star of the game for Bates.

TENNIS

The results of the semi-finals in the annual fall tennis tournament are as follows: In the singles Captain Purinton defeated Goff 6-3, 6-2; Mills defeated Marston 6-3, 6-2; and E. Purinton won from H. Stillamn 7-5, 6-3. In the doubles Captain Purinton and his brother Eddie Purinton have not been defeated, and consequently they may be called the champions.

In 1914 there were about 22,000,000 persons enrolled in educational institutions in the United States. Of this number 216,000 were in the Colleges and Universities. The teachers of this educational army numbered 700,000.

Two courses in public health are announced by the College of Medicine of Syracuse University. One course is offered by correspondence, the final week being required at Syracuse.

Two unique courses are offered at Harvard this year dealing with the subject "Play." The courses are Play and Recreation and Play in Education.

BATES LOSES TO MAINE

Hard fought battle ends in score 29-14. Bates men played the game well and did not let up in face of defeat. Work of Stonier, W. Neville, Merrill and Dewever particularly fine.

The first game of the Championship series ended sadly for Bates last Saturday at Orono. At 2.30 P.M. sharp we faced the heavy Maine team for one of the finest fights of the season. In spite of the heavy line Bates broke thru again and again to break up the plans of attack.

The Bates team could not get the forward passes working in good shape, failing in all except two attempts. Several splendid passes were made by the Maine men, the first resulting in a touchdown. The old shoestring trick on the sideline was a success in the same play.

The whistle blew and Maine kicked. Davis received and made 40 yards. During the first period the ball changed hands nine times. There was no score for either side. Both Davis and Ruffner were forced to punt several times. Maine was penalized 15 yards for holding. Both teams fumbled once during this period. A forward pass from Davis was intercepted by Green. The quarter ended with Maine holding the ball on Bates' 16 yard line.

The first touchdown was made by Bates. After receiving the ball on Maine's fumble, Connors crossed the line. Small kicked the goal. Immediately after Maine put the ball across twice in short order. Successful forward passes figured in both attacks. The first half ended with a score 14-7.

During the third period Maine made two more touchdowns and Drew scored a safety, thus saving Maine a third. One of the prettiest plays for the Bates men was when W. Neville broke thru the Maine line blocking a kick, then picking up the ball and scoring a touchdown. Davis kicked the goal. A splendid forward pass gave Maine her last score.

During the last quarter Maine tried the only drop kick of the game, the ball going wide by less than a yard. Bates tried six forward passes during this period, only two of which were successful. Maine was penalized four times, Bates twice. Bates men held the ball better during this period than any previous.

Jones, Hussey, and Green were the Maine stars. The Maine men were on their job all the time, intercepting the Bates passes and keeping a close watch on the ball. Superior weight aided greatly in throwing off the lighter tackles. Moulton and Connors did some excellent ground gaining for Bates. Davis and Ruffner punted well.

CAMPUS NOTES

\\

"The best yet" was the general verdict as to the Girls' Hare and Hound Chase, held Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23. Departing from the usual custom of having supper by the river, this year the Hounds found themselves led to No-Name Pond. The trip was made partly by car and partly on foot. At the end fires were built in an old cellar, and there bacon was toasted and everyone had a good time worthy of the name.

Rev. Arthur T. Stray of the Episcopal Church, Auburn, was the speaker at the usual vesper service in Rand Hall Sunday evening.

The Carnival aeroplane attracted some attention on the campus last Wednesday, faculty and students alike rushing out to see it.

In response to Coach Ryan's courteous invitation many of the girls of the College attended the Inter-class Track Meet and greatly enjoyed it.

Libbey Forum was given over to the Girls' Literary Societies last Friday night. Seniority held a successful meeting with the following program: Piano Solo, Miss Murphy; Original Poem, Miss Lawry; Violin Solo, Miss Girouard; Original Essay, Miss Emerson. The splendid work that Seniority did last year is well known and bids fair to be repeated during the coming year.

At U. A. C. C. the members enjoyed a vocal duet by Misses Hussey and Clough. Letters of much interest from girls of other colleges in regard to the literary societies there were read by Misses French, Gregg, Clark, and Junkins. A brief resume of the events of the preceding week was given by Miss Lewis. It will be remembered that the play, "The Bird's Christmas Carol" was delightfully given last year by the girls of the U. A. C. C. and it is hoped with the promising material that the society has, that one or two more dramas may be given this year. The literary societies certainly give a chance for almost any sort of ability that a girl has.

At Entre Nous election of officers took place with the following result: President, Miss Caroline Tarbell; Vice-President, Miss Gladys Logan; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Faith Fairfield; Entertainment Committee, Misses Dorothy Haskell, Gladys Skelton, and Doris Shapleigh. Following the election, an interesting program was furnished by three of the members, Misses Garcelon, Lewis, and Lawson.

The Y. W. C. A. Campaign for Bible Study is on. At the regular meeting of the Association last Wednesday, Miss Harlene Kane was the leader and Professor A. C. Baird gave an address. Special music was given by a girls' quartette. The Study Classes will hold their first meeting at Rand Hall next Sunday evening at 6.45. The Senior course will be led by Dr. Tubbs and the Junior course by Professor Harms. Miss King, '16, and Miss Harding, '16, will lead the Sophomores in the study of the text book, "Life at its Best," while the Freshmen will study "Student Standards in Action," under the leadership of Miss Sturgis, '17, and Miss Newman, '17. The courses this year are live courses with live leaders, and it will be well worth while for every girl to enlist. Come out, everybody, and make this the biggest year for Bible Study the Y. W. C. A. has ever had!

The Triangular Debates with Tufts and Clark will be continued. Each College will submit two questions this week from which the proposition will be selected. Preliminary trials for positions on the Varsity squad will be held in two weeks.

The Debating Council has been organized this year with the following members: Stillman, Johnson, Lane, Quimby, and Chayer, Secretary.

Prof. Baird will address the Maine Teachers' Association at Bangor on October 29th upon the subject: "Shall Secondary Schools Engage in Interscholastic Debating."

Prof. Baird has been appointed chairman of the Maine Intercollegiate Peace Association, an affiliated branch of the National Peace Society. The oratorical contest under direction of this organization will be held in March for a prize of $75.

Prof. Pomeroy and wife spent the weekend at Pleasant Pond.

Pres. Chase speaks in Bangor Thursday night, Maine College Night at the Teachers' Convention.

THE NEW PORTLAND CLUB

A Portland Club here at Bates! At last we really have one, and one composed of the following members from Portland and the immediate vicinity: Misses Googins, Bradbury, Hutchins, of '16; Misses Sturgis, Seeles, Macdonald, of '17; Misses Ingersoll, McCann, Fogg, and Jacobs, of '18, Misses Skelton, Hutchins, Logan, of '19.

Tuesday, October 17, this society met in Rand Hall to organize definitely, and to elect officers. The results of the election were as follows: President, Miss Mabel Googins, '16; Vice-President, Miss Eleanor Sceles, '17; Secrtary, Miss Marion Fogg, '18, and Freshman member of the executive board, Miss Hazel Hutchins, '19.

Many plans have already been made for the society for this year, and it is expected that once under way, it will do much not only in uniting the Portland girls socially here at Bates, but also in promoting the interests of Bates among Portland people.

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

At the meeting of the Jordan Scientific Society Monday night, Marston, '16, Snow, '16, and W. Allen, '17, were elected to membership. Also plans were made for a public lecture on "Colloids" to be given in January by a friend of Mr. Watson's at M. I. T.

THE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Have you a costume ready for the masquerade party Friday night? If you have, present yourself at 7.30 of that evening. If not, come just the same, and find out for yourselves what a splendid reality the following program may be made.

The first of the evening is to be spent in a series of promenades.

- 1. Welcome, lead by presidents of Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.
- 2. To the Faculty, lead by Mr. L. A. Harms
- 3. Coeds, lead by Miss Alice King
- 4. Sister Classes, lead by Mr. Henry Johnson5. To 1916, lead by Mr. Harold Buker
- 6. Goodnight, lead by Mr. Harry Rowe All members of the student body and faculty are cordially invited to attend, and are requested to masque, if possible.

During the evening, at booths arranged for that purpose, cider, ice cream cones, apples, and candy will be for sale.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

There will be a meeting of the Deutscher Verein at 7.30 P.M. next Monday, in the Library. Mr. Harms will speak on "The Verein in Minnesota."

HAMILTON HOLT

Hamilton Holt, Editor of the Independent, addressed the Chapel last Saturday morning and spoke on certain phases of the war. Briefly he said:

"War is a perfectly legal way of settling disputes. Self-sacrifice is the supreme virtue of war. We cannot stop war by making it more bloody and more terrible, but three arguments for stopping war have been advanced, these are: The Moral Argument based on the Command "Thou shalt not Kill", the Economic Argument showing the tremendous destruction of Wealth and the Biological Argument involving the great loss of Men.

As long as a movement is an anti-movement it can accomplish little. The trouble with our peace movement has been that up to fifteen years ago it was an anti-war movement. Now it is a pro-movement and can achieve results. A government is a great Peace Society. Peace is the outgrowth of justice. Justice is the outgrowth of law. Law is the outgrowth of Political organization. The world must be organized Politically.

After this war Democracy should be extended. There should be good-will and hospitality toward all and there should evolve an Internation! Machinery brought about by the joint action of the Nations.

It is the destiny of the United States to lead in the peace movement. Washington organized the states and made good the Declaration of Independence. Cannot Wilson organize the world and substantiate a Declaration of Interdependence?"

In the course of the address Mr. Holt emphasized particularly the excellent and valuable work done by women in the peace movement.

The following poem was sent to the Student by Frank L. Blanchard of New York, Bates 1882:

MOUNT DAVID

I climb, at sunset, this bare windswept

And watch the darkness fall from rainy skies;

Sick of myself, I seek the strength that lies In God's great upper realm, the strength of Beneath me many a window-pane is bright With home's glad beam, that shines for happy eyes,

Where love stands waiting-but not mine those ties

That bind so sweetly, and for me that light. The storm is mine, the darkness, and the

The Crowd of Rooters that went to Maine proves that the Bates Spirit is not on the wane. We were defeated but every man came home feeling proud that our team had more fight then theirs did, and that our Student Body had more spirit then theirs did. We play Bowdoin Saturday. Can we demonstrate the same thing to another of our sister Colleges?

The Observant Citizen has now visited each of the Maine Colleges. If any one of them is better situated than Bates he is mistaken, If they have more spirit he is deceived. If they enjoy themselves more he failed to see it. If they can show us anything what is it?

There will be no mass meeting before the Bowdoin Game. The Royal Rooters will at.

tend practise in a body instead.

The Freshmen are at last wearing their caps. The delay was probably caused by waiting for some Parisian designer to submit an idea, no other individual could have imagined them. They are certainly worth waiting for.

You will miss something if you don't attend the lectures of Dr. Exner.

The Freshmen are getting obstreperous. The Sophomores remonstrative.

Term bills have appeared, they must be paid before Nov. 15.

The Senior Class have elected a Committee to nominate the Editors and Managers of the Mirror.

The proposition to change the Mirror for a College Annual was rejected.

There are 180 men enrolled for Bible Study. If all these men attend it will put Bates at the top of the list for Colleges her

The superintendent of grounds and buildings desires to commend to absence of certain actions noticed in other years. 1. The leaves have not been burned, burning ruins the new sod especially around the Chapel. 2. Papers and fruit skins have not been thrown from the domitory windows. We are getting more civic pride. Would that as much could be said for the reception rooms.

Dr. Tubbs lectured at The Woman's Literary Union on Gentleman's Night. His subject being "Heavenly Bodies." This is the 41st time Dr. Tubbs has lectured upon this subject since coming to Maine. He announces a new lecture to be complete soon. "The Contents of a Cubic Inch of Empty Space."

Does the subject appeal to you?

Dr. Tubbs' second lecture on the European War will be delivered tonight at 6.45, Libbey Forum. Special emphasis will be laid on "The New Situation in the Balkans."

Coach Roger Green of the football department has fallen victim to the wiles of a co-ed. This would be all right provided there were women enough to go around-But suppose some classmate is envying from afar off.

The people of Lewiston hav'nt as yet seen our spirit at a Football game. Shall we ask them to rely on the word of some resident of Orono?

ATHI.FIR-Capt. 'Monte' Moore of last year's Football team is on hand to assist in the Coach-

TRACK MEET

The fall Interclass Track Meet which was held last Wednesday and Thursday was easily won by the Sophomores. A larger crowd of spectators than have been seen at such events for several years was in attendance, and everyone seemed satisfied that nothing lagged. The meet was run off in good shape, so that it was interesting to watch even though some of the men were not up to mid-season form.

On Wednesday there was a hard tussle for first place in the broad jump between Keaney and Fowler, our record-breaker just managing to nose out a victory over Fowler by a few inches. A cross-country run was substituted for the regular two-mile race and gave the spectators a chance to see what we had. Gregory, '19, covered the four miles and a half in 24 minutes and 9 seconds, the fastest time ever made over the course. Capt. Doe ran strongly and finished well up in second place. The other men also came in strongly so that the cross-country team looks better this season than it has for several years.

Thursday afternoon the feature race of the afternoon was again between Doe and Gregory in the one mile event. This time Doe came out on top, beating the favorite by about fifteen yards. Quimby again demonstrated his ability as an all-around man when he defeated Pinkham and won first place in the high jump.

COMMENTS ON THE GAME

We all fought hard and there should be no more question about Bates spirit. We won a victory even if the score didn't look that way, for we showed Maine something. When the game was over Maine knew she had been in a fight.

Coach Green in expressing his opinion of the game said, "They all fought hard with their bodies if not so hard with their brains."

Manager Boothby said, "It was the best support the college ever gave a team at any game."

Cheer-leader Cloutman to whom not too much praise can be given for his fine work in keeping up the enthusiasm, stated that he was more than satisfied with the way the men turned out and with the way they supported him after they got up there. He says, "If we had as many rooters as Maine had, Maine would have never known she had a cheering section on the field."

In speaking of next Saturday's game Coach says, "There is a chance to beat Bowdoin, but they will never give up. We have got to be in every play and follow every signal. In other words we have got to play football. It will be no easy game and if we win we will know we have been through some battle, and if they win they will know that they have been through a real fight. If we fight with everything we have got our chances are the best."

TRACK TALKS

Everybody out for the triangular meet between our freshmen and the two neighboring high schools, Edward Little and Lewiston, which is to be held on Garcelon field next Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 3. The freshmen are a part of us now, and everyone should be out to support them. It will also be a fine opportunity to find out what the new material in the College can do against outside competition, for, altho they should win the meet, they will have to fight, for their positions as there are a few star athletes in these high schools.

The cross-country team will meet the Maine long distance runners this week Saturday in a race over the course at Orono. The team is much stronger this year than last as practically all of the leading men on last year's team are able to run again and also there is a strong addition to the team from this year's entering class. Altho it is generally understood that Maine has an exceptionally well balanced team we expect our boys to make a good showing against them. Let us not forget that while we are struggling with Bowdoin on the gridiron. seven of our members are doing their best to bring home a cross-country victory from U. of M.

From the outcome of next Saturday's dual cross-country race with Maine we should be able to get a line on our chances for winning the State Championship which comes at Orono, Nov. 12th, and also for determining how we will stand in the New England Cross-Country Championships.

LAWRENCE C. WOODMAN

Friends of Lawrence C. Woodman, Bates 1914, will be much interested to know that an article by him on Gustavo Becquer, Spanish Romanticist, has recently appeared in the vacation number of "Poet Lore." Mr. Woodman gives a sketch of the life and personality of Becquer, and illustrates with some ten or twelve translations of short poems. Members of Spofford Club will remember that Mr. Woodman was especially interested in this Spanish poet while he was in College, and that at nearly every Spofford meeting he had prepared one or a number of rhythmic or poetic translations. At present Mr. Woodman is located in New York City, where he has a position as critical reader of manuscripts for the Henry Holt Company.

1919 CLASS OFFICERS

Last Thursday the class of 1919 held its election of class officers in Hawthorne Hall. The following members were elected to office: President, Mr. Southey; Vice-President, Miss Stevens; Secretary, Miss Garcelon; Treasurer, Mr. Fujimoto.

Thursday, October 21, Dean Buswell addressed the girls of the College at the regular conference hour. Her subject was her recent visit at Vassar at the inauguration of the new president. She emphasized the cordiality of the welcome extended to her, and outlined the most pleasing features of the exercises held there. She also gave in brief the principal ideas of several of the more prominent speakers.

BATES AGAIN DEFEATED IN MAINE SERIES

Bowdoin makes wining score during last period. Bates men fail to score but gave the Bowdoin men a hard fight.

Bates and Bowdoin again faced each other in contest last Saturday resulting in a score 7-0 for Bowdoin. A feature of the game was the true sportmanship of both teams.

During the first half Bates seemed to have an advantage and Bates rooters were earnestly hoping that a score would soon decide matters. But from the beginning of the second half, the Bowdoin men worked better and in the last period scored a touchdown.

Davis made several pretty end runs and also punted will. Merrill was continually breaking thru the line. Several fumbles were costly for the Bates men and several losses were made on open plays. Capt. Dewever played his usual fine game. Several Bowdoin men were injured and time was called for two or three of the Bates men. A field goal was attempted by both teams and each time failed, that of Bates being blocked Leadbetter was the star for the Bowdoin team, making a splendid gain of 40 yards which made possible the single score of the day. The way the Bowdoin men returned and overcame the apparent advantage the Bates men had during the first half is a credit to their team. The game was interesting from the start and both teams played real football.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Altho the Cross-Country team at Orono last Saturday were completly outclassed by the strong University of Maine team, they were not disgraced. Every member of the team fought for all that was in him and the team as a whole finished close behind the Maine stars. This showing is encouraging when we think of the chances to beat out Bowdoin and Colby in the State Championship run to be held at Orono next Friday. as it is the unanimous opinion of many experts that Maine has the strongest Cross-Country team in the country not even making the exception of Cornell, when the fact is taken into consideration that there were one sophomore and three freshmen who never took part in intercollegiate competition, it is thought that with Saturday's experience the team ought to make a fine showing Friday.

Everyone ought to take advantage of the fine weather we are having this fall. This is especially true for any men who are at all interested in track work. By doing something this fall it will make things far easier for all in the spring when the team has to be whipped into shape. At present there are 92 men out for track, but only threefourths of these are regular and faithful. Cross-Country work will be continued until the snow falls for this is the only way we can hope to develop first class men for the half, mile, and two mile events. A series of handicap races will be held and in this way the development of experienced men will be more rapid. Some of these meets will be held before the winter comes on so every man is expected to remain faithful and continue in the work in order that he may be in good condition when the relay season opens a little later. CAMPUS NOTES

Tuesday evening, October 26, a business meeting of the Spofford Club was held in Libbey Forum. Material submitted to the society was considered, and Mr. Wentworth, '16, was admitted to membership.

Last Tuesday, the executive board of the Girls' Athletic Association enjoyed a chicken supper at the home of Mrs. Kendrie.

Thursday evening, after a short business meeting, the members of Nowadays, adjourned to attend Dr. Tubbs' lecture on the European War.

Both the sublime and the ridiculous met last Friday evening at the Hallowe'en masquerade party, and each received a most cordial welcome and a right good time. The prizes for the best costumes were, however, reserved for Mr. Caverly, '17, Mr. Upham, '17, and Miss Smith, '16, who, in the opinion of all assembled, earned them most honorably.

The next frivolity for the girls will be in the form of the annual Children's Party to be given by the Y. W. C. A. in Rand Hall on this Saturday evening at 7.30 P.M.

Last Saturday evening, the peaceful quiet of Lewiston was somewhat disturbed by the not altogether unpleasant sounds of laughter, songs, and cheers as the girls of the Sophomore class drove through the streets in two great hayracks filled with straw. This ride was the prize awarded by Miss Bell to the class of 1918 for their success in the pay-up-dues contest held last year by the girls athletic association, and as such was doubly appreciated and enjoyed.

Don't forget the Literary Societies Friday night!

Miss Marjory Bradbury recently spent the day in Portland.

Miss Mary Cleaves and Miss Celia Smith spent last Sunday at Miss Smith's home in Hallowell.

Miss Mona Hodnett, president of the Bates Y. W. C. A., represented the Association and gave an address on "The Y. W. C. A. in the College" at the Semi-annual Convention of Congregational Churches held at Fryeburg October 27 and 28.

Misses Julia Farnsworth, Harlene Kane, Pauline Jameson, Gladys Logan and Annie Smith entertained guests here over last Sun-

Miss Buswell and Miss Cutts were at home to the faculty ladies for an hour on Monday afternoon, in order that they might meet Miss Cutts' guests, Mrs. and Miss Cutts and Mrs. and Miss Farnum.

Miss Genevieve Dunlap, '17, and Miss Ida Millay, '19, spent Sunday at their homes in Bowdoinham.

How about somebody giving our Cheerleader a little assistance in his feminine affairs so that we can have him with us when we march to the field?

Dr. Tubbs lectures in Augusta tomorrow afternoon.

The Senior class have elected officers for their annual, the Mirror, as follows: Editorin-chief, H. J. Cloutman; Business Manager, W. Webster McCann; Social editor, Miss Harlene Kane; Athletic editors, Raymond Stillman, Miss Alice King; Personal editors, Dana M. Russell, W. M. McConnell, K. A. Bright, Miss Googins, Miss Marion Hutchins, Miss Hazel Mitchell; Artists, William Boyd, W. M. Scott, C. S. Rankin, Erland Townsend, Miss Gladys Mower, Miss Elinor Knowles, Miss Marguerite Girouard, Miss Agnes Thompson, Miss Amy Hayden.

At the weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last evening, Rev. I. A. Bean of the Hammond street Methodist church addressed a large gathering of the boys.

After the Y. M. C. A. meeting last evening, the members of the Politics Club and the Military Science Club and some others of the students listened to a talk by Dr. Levermore, acting director, World Peace Foundation, on International Relations.

The Sophomores have begun the trials for their prize speaking division. The judges are Harold Buker, '16, Miss Agnes Bryant, '16, Miss Harriett Johnson, '16. There will be twelve selected from the class of about one hundred and twenty-five.

The Sophomore classroom debates begin in two weeks with three teams debating the question, Resolved, that the Federal Government should immediately provide for a more rapid annual increase in the navy. These in the first division are; affirmative, Miss Mansfield, Dyer, Quimby; negative, Miss Burr, Miss Drake, Spratt; second division; affirmative, Miss Tinker, Clifford, George; negative, Miss Leathers, Miss Phillips, Ken-niston; third division; affirmative, Miss Ingersoll, Roberts, Stinson; negative, Miss Junkins, Renwick, Stimpson.

Dr. O. O. Tracy, Bates '82, visited on the campus during the first of the week. He comes from New Hampton, N. H., and has been connected with the Literary Institute there.

Edwin C. Taylor of Derry, N. H., has been staying at Roger Williams hall for a few days.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting last Wednesday evening was led by Miss Harlene Kane and the subject for discussion was "Are You Triangular or Round?"

The Bible Classes for Voluntary Study held their first meetings Sunday night. One hundred and forty girls are enrolled in these classes and this is expected to be the best year for Bible Study that the Y. W. C. A. has had.

The Social Service Department of the Association reports that fifteen girls have regular Sunday School classes while many more are ready to be called on as substitutes at any time. Another phase of the Social Service work is being carried on at the Children's Home. The girls hope to send a large number of gifts there at Christmas time and every one is asked to contribute any thing in the line of clothes, food delicacies, or toys. Remember it, girls, when you go home Thanksgiving and come back prepared to play Santa Claus!

THE BATES ROUND TABLE

Wednesday evening, October 27, The Bates Round Table enjoyed a supper at the vestry of Main Street Free Baptist Church. Following the supper, a short business meeting was held, after which the members adjourned to the church parlors. There they were addressed by Professor Pomeroy and Professor Ramsdell, who told of their automobile trip across the continent last summer. Various stereoptican slides containing views of interest were also shown. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, Nov. 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Judkins, 340 College Street.

Colby Saturday! Now it isn't a hopeless case—far from it—and there is always a chance to surprise people. Have you compared the Colby-Maine and the Bates-Maine scores. What we want is lots of speed flavored with an abundance of "pep." We want a surprise just like the one that happened in Orono last Saturday. But that will come only if every man gets a big lot of fight and puts it all into the four quarters of that game. And then every rooter must come out with the idea that he is going to be right with Cheerleader Cloutman every time he says the word, even if it takes out of him the last yell he has. The man who comes away from the game with half a yell left should pay the price.

The time seems to have come in the history of our college paper that we should consider seriously making the BATES STUDENT a real newspaper. Under our present conditions space is very limited. It has been the policy of the present board to present the news rather than the literary element of the college, circumstances making it practically impossible to do justice to both. If the change is made the advertising space will be increased and likewise the space for news will be greater. At present we are using a larger type than necessary for the newspaper. There are many lectures given on the campus which deserve a more detailed and complete report than can now be given. Our college games cannot be fully reported. A complete report of one football game would require nearly all the space available for athletics. Such are some of our problems. Shall we have a real newspaper at Bates?

The following extracts from a letter from Nicholas Andronis, Bates, 1914, now a student in the Medical Department of the University of Texas, describing the great storm which swept over Galveston in August, will be of interest to readers of the Student.

Galveston, Texas, September 2, 1915 To write even the slightest account of the storm would be impossible. It would require volumes to describe the confusion, fear and misery it caused. The newspapers have served their purpose, namely to give a general account, but they have not touched upon the individual cases, which are not few. A man told me yesterday that a week before the storm he was offered $30,000 for his cattle, and after the storm he was penniless. His farm, one of the best down the island, is nothing but a pile of sand. Such cases are many. The loss of life, fortunately was nothing as compared to that of the 1900 storm. The reason for this was the different conditions existing in the city at the time. The storm was more severe than that of 1900. In 1900 the city was at a lower level than it is now, the people were unprepared, and the buildings were not so strong as they are now. The storm in 1900 lasted only four hours; this one lasted fourteen hours. I cannot say what the city would be to-day if it had not had that wonderful structure, the sea-wall. As it was, we had from four to twelve feet of water in the city. The loss of life was only about 400 along the coast. In Galveston proper there were only fourteen lives lost, except those on boats and dredges in or about Galveston.

About the thirteenth of August the people were told that a severe storm was coming about the fifteenth. On Sunday, the fifteenth, people talked about the impending storm. Some took it seriously, others jokingly. On Sunday night, people were leaving their homes to seek places more firm and substantial. In the post-office there were about 4,000 people that night. I chose a place, not safer, but nearer home, the depot.

Outside of a few signs of a storm, there was nothing serious that night or the next morning.

The next day, Monday, rumors of different natures spread about the city. Some said the storm was over, others said that the worst was to come; others took no chances, nor did they speculate about it, but took every available means of conveyance and went to Houston and other places of safety. In the meantime the beach was thronged with people watching the raging sea and the cloudy sky.

In the afternoon, the wind became stronger, rain came, and it was evident that the storm was coming. A general exodus started, not for Houston or other places, for now there was no communication possible, but for safer and firmer buildings.

About five o'clock, the streets were transformed into a lake, store signs were blown away, electric wires were breaking down, and a general pandemonium began. The real storm was on. About seven o'clock the lights went out, and the city was left in total darkness. About five o'clock I waded to the Tremont Hotel, where I passed the night. No one slept that night. The wind reached its highest velocity about two o'clock Tuesday morning (estimated about 115 miles an hour;) rain was falling fast and hard, and two fires were raging in the city. I shall never forget the time when the lights went out, about seven o'clock. At that time most of the people were on the ground floor, which just then began to receive the salt water from the bay. When the lights went out, silence prevailed, not one word was spoken, but everybody, men, women and children began to march as in a solemn procession, to the higher stories of the building.

The next morning about five o'clock, Tuesday, the storm was over, but the streets were streams. The next problems that confronted the city were those of food, water, light and means of communication. Food was scarce, the water pipes were destroyed, the electric wires were thrown down, and the causeway was broken. As yet there are no trains coming to or leaving the city. (This letter was written seventeen days after the storm.) They expect to have train service by to-day or to-morrow. For water, we depend on the water-wagons of the city. There is a little water running through the pipes in some places, but of course it is not fit for drinking purposes. Light came on about two days ago, and car service began at the same time.

I don't regret the fact that I went through the storm. It was a great experience.

The leaves have all been raked up from the campus. It looks fine. Now if we will all walk in the paths, it will be the best looking campus in Maine next spring.

Several Freshmen and one or two upper classmen have been noticed down in the city wearing sweaters. This practice is not a very good advertisement for Bates. There is quite a little comment along this line by the business men of the city.

Another big Mass Meeting to-night. It will be short and snappy. The idea is to keep that little spark of "fight" still burning, for the Colby game. We have been beaten twice, there probably are a good many excuses and alibies, but we are not interested in that. The Colby game is the one we are interested in now. There are men who have something to say about THIS game: George S. McCarty, Prof. MacDonald, Karl Bright, Fighting "Buck" Dewever, Coach Green, Coach Purinton.

Hallowe'en parties have been quite common the past week.

The Round Table at their next meeting will discuss Christianity and the present war. The speakers for the evening are; Prof. Baird, Dr. Britan, Prof. Carroll and Prof. Purinton.

The Student Council have been asked to consider with the faculty the matter of Sophomores Posters. It is to be hoped that a plan satisfactory to everybody can be devised whereby it will appear unnecessary to paper the walls of our reception rooms, the store windows downtown and especially over in Auburn with paste and poster.

Several students are anxiously awaiting the day when Prof. Perkins shall take his turn at conducting chapel exercises.

If some of these notices of meetings contained a day and date, it would be much easier for a student to know what and when his engagements are.

Do you know that it will probably be impossible to send our Football captain to the Yale-Harvard game because the Harvard A. A. issues to only those teams on their schedule?

What would you say to marching down to the station next Friday morning and giving Capt. "Buck" and his men a rousing send off on their last trip of the season?

Here is the All-Star team picked by "Ump" Ennis at the close of the last Baseball season:

Crowell, Brown, P.
Wanamaker, Dartmouth, C.
Volk, Tufts, 1st B.
Stafford, Tufts, 2nd B.
MacDonald, Bates, SS.
Babbington, Brown, 3rd B.
Kommers, Penn. State, L. F.
Toolan, Williams, C. F.
Murphy, Dartmouth, R. F.

The Football team are to be given one rousing big banquet at the close of the season. Do you want to have a share in it? Ask Pres. Stillman how.

Among the recent graduates attending the Bates-Bowdoin game were observed; Monte Moore, Percy Cobb, Ralph Cummings, Allan Mansfield, Carl Fuller, George Talbot and Thomas Blanchard.

NOTICE

The Registration Committee wish to announce that all those who have back work to make up should do so by November 24 in order to secure proper classification in the catalog.

COLBY 26, BATES 0

Bates was defeated by Colby, 26-0, last Saturday afternoon on Garcelon field in a game featured by the gameness of the Bates team and the individual work of Cawley, the Colby fullback. Only after a stiff battle against heavy odds, did our boys succumb to the superior weight and trick plays of the Waterville aggregation. In spite of the wet and muddy field the game was fast and particularly clean, contrary to the general expectation.

Three of Colby's touchdowns resulted from long runs by Cawley, the other one from a forward pass. Both teams tried the pass a number of times, Bates successfully completing three out of ten, for a total gain of twenty yards. Colby completed three out of eleven passes for a total of thirty yards. Bates made four first downs to Colby's eleven, and were penalized twice to Colby's once for offside play.

The Bates line was weakened by the absence, because of injuries, of Merrill and Southey. Shattuck, who took Merrill's place at center, handled the ball in perfect form and played his position in fine shape. Boyd, at end, got into the game for the first time in weeks, and showed a lot of his old time 'pep', in spite of a bad leg. Stonier and Adams were in the game every minute for all they were worth, the former blocking and recovering one of Stanwood's punts in the last quarter. Bill and John Neville played their usual game of hard and low charging, effective blocking and fine tackling. Davis got off some pretty punts, his spirals averaging thirty-five yards, altho one in the third period sailed forty-eight yards. He generalled his team in fine shape and was a large factor in what ground gaining was done. Twice he got away with his long end runs for first downs. Moulton and Harvey at halfback, each showed up especially strong in line plunging, tearing up the Colby line several times for substantial gains. Drew also made some pretty gains and tackled hard. Dewever, at full, backed up the line with everything he had, and his effective tackling and blocking broke up many of Colby's plays.

Bates had one opportunity to score. This came in the fourth period when Stonier broke thru and blocked Stanwood's punt and then recovered it himself on Colby's fifteenyard line. A forward pass, Harvey to Davis, placed the ball within seven yards of Colby's goal line. Harvey made two yards on the next play, then Bates lost the ball by attempting to make a forward pass over the

The substitute sent in by Coach Greene showed up well, Sampson taking a pass from Dewever for 12 yards. Big Russell at guard made a big hole for the backfield and incidentally won his well earned letter.

For Colby, Cawley, Coolidge, and Stanwood excelled. Cawley's broken field running won the game. Coolidge at tackle played a fast game and smashed up many of Bates' plays. Cawley had an excellently formed interference which helped him to get under way. Bates seemed to be unable to down him after he got started.

The band and two hundred "Royal Rooters" were on the Bates' bleachers, under the direction of Cheerleader Cloutman, every man played a big cheering game and all did their best to inspire confidence and courage in the team. On to Dartmouth.

STATE CROSS COUNTRY RUN

Maine as was expected easily won the Maine Intercollegiate Cross Country Race over the Stillwater course at Orono last Friday. The first four men to come in were Maine men. Capt. Bell winning in 32 minutes. The Bates team which followed a good second, finished the next three men in order. All of the five Bates men that counted finished in the first thirteen. The Bates men ran a heady race and stuck together well up to the finish, Lane coming infifth, Gregory sixth, Doe seventh. Lane, Gregory, and Doe were behind the fifth Maine man for more than half of the course, but later drew ahead and held their places easily. Smith who has never run before this fall improved greatly from his showing the week before, and came near winning his letter, being beaten out by Irving, the Bowdoin captain for tenth place. The men all finished in great shape, DeWolfe beating out two Bowdoin men at the tape by a fifth of a second for thirteenth place. This is the best showing that a Bates Cross Country team has ever made and reflects great credit upon the untiring efforts of Coach Ryan. Five out of the seven men on the Bates team are new men at the game, but they are improving every day.

1919 WINS TRIANGULAR MEET

The triangular meet which took place yesterday on Garcelon Field between Lewiston High, Edward Little High, and the Bates Freshmen was a great success. Everything went off with a bang so that the large crowd of enthusiastic rooters felt well repaid for the discomfort they experienced in facing the stiff autumn wind that swept across the field. The feature of the afternoon was the performing of Legendre, the Lewiston star, who won four firsts and one second. Legendre has marked athletic ability and should make a fine college star.

Altho the freshmen easily won the greatest number of points, many of the races were close and exciting. The quarter mile was an exciting race and kept the crowd on edge during the entire lap. The Summary:

TAKE NOTICE

A cross country team leaves for Boston tomorrow morning with the determination to make a fine showing in the New England race at Franklin Field, Saturday. From the ten colleges that will compete, Maine is again the favorite, although M. I. T. is expected to send a strong team.

From the fine showing that our boys made at Orono last Friday they gained experience and confidence which will be a great help to them in this race.

TRUTH

O Truth, thou art a prism bright, Where colors rich and fair reflect, And yet from man is barred the sight To see it in all beauty flecked.

A corner here, a side o'er there, Is seen, by one or other man, And seeing this, with utmost care, He figures out the whole Great Plan.

But dost not man know well, the Fool,
That he with sight so small, cannot
Of love of God, or man this tool,
Set forth the Truth, or change one jot?

In coming times the men will rise
To see Thee, Truth, still more and more,
And now while Ye their sight defies,
The struggle helps their souls to soar.

The last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was based upon the subject of missions. Miss Eleanor Newman was the leader of the meeting, introducing Mrs. George C. Chase as principal speaker. MERRILL & WEBBER CO., AUBURN, ME.

The State Series has closed and Bates has recorded no victories, yet we are not ashamed of the work we have done. Rather, we are proud of our team and every player has won a place in our hearts. Some have gained greater distinction than others which is necessarily natural, but all have given themselves unreservedly, sacrificing many pleasures, and frequently drawing upon energies needed for the daily duties of college life.

Perhaps one of the grandest sights of a college career, and surely the one which will remain longest with most of us, is that of eleven Bates men going out onto the Gridiron, and placing themselves in position to play the game. Then when the fight is on, the clash of man with man, the one concentrated purpose make every man on the team a hero.

Bates has played a clean game thruout. We have no record to regret. Sometimes in the moment of excess excitement things happen, and it is not surprising. A team with a clean playing record shows self-control; such a team is a credit to any coach.

What's the matter with Bates' band? Two hundred and fifty fellows and not a real band! For every game this fall we. have hired at least two assistants, and we had to take three to Maine with us. This is sad. Somebody missed a trip to Maine because he hadn't been out and made a place on the band.

Think of this proposition! Manager Wiggin says that next spring twenty men can go to Bowdoin as members of the band and it will be cheaper than hiring two men to make a respectable number of ten. The opportunity is open. Twelve men are needed. The time to start is right after the football season. There will be time to practice for the baseball season and for that big Bates Night which somebody has said is going to be the grandest thing of the college Coach Ryan's track meet between Bates Freshmen, Lewiston High, and Edward Little was a big success. The amount of spirit shown was an example which is worthy of consideration by all of us. Why, if our Coeds would show the "pep" in a cheering section as did the girls from Lewiston High, we would absolutely outclass every cheering bunch in Maine. The spirit aroused and manifest was worth all the effort expended in the whole meet. Keep up the good work, Coach; we are all with you.

THE BATES ROUND TABLE

The second meeting of the Round Table for this year was held November 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Judkins. The topic for the evening was "Does the War Diminish our Traditional Faith in Christianity?" Professor H. R. Purinton led the discussion, calling upon Dr. A. R. Whitehorne, Dr. A. W. Leonard, Dr. H. H. Britan, Professor A. C. Baird, and Dr. A. W. Anthony who continued it. Following the program, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

SOCIETY NOTES Spofford Club met Tuesday evening in Libbey Forum, and enjoyed the following program: "Essay on Solitude," Mr. Buker; a poem, "The Voice", Miss Hodnett; and a criticism of Ibsen's "A Doll's House", by Miss Capen. After the program there was a very interesting discussion.

Saturday evening at 7.30, the girls of the College, dressed as children met in Rand Hall gymnasium to enjoy their annual frolic. The first of the evening was given over to the playing of games such as Drop the Handkerchief, Farmer in the Dell, London Bridge, and Ruben and Rachael. Then, as refreshment after their strenuous exertions, candy was distributed among the "childern," who finally joined in the singing of all the good old College Songs.

Monday evening, November 8, the first meeting of the Deutsche Gesellschaft was held in Libbey Forum at 7.45. At a short business meeting, plans for an informal organization were proposed and voted upon. Dr. Leonard gave many helpful suggestions as to profitable work which might be carried on in the society for this year. He also introduced several question-and-answer games which were played by the members. With the singing of several German songs, the society adjourned. The next meeting will be a Thanksgiving meeting and will be held the evening of November 22.

The Literary Societies held their regular meetings last Friday evening. At Seniority the Dramatic Department had the meeting in charge. The program was as follows: Song, Miss Sturgis; "Lady Gregory," Miss Hood; "Rising of the Moon," Miss King; "Dr. Heidigger's Experiment" (dramatized version).

The Effect of the War on Literature was the general topic discussed at U. A. C. C. An essay on "War Literature" was read by Miss Farnsworth and a criticism of "Der Tag'' and "War Brides," written by Miss Capen, was read by Miss Findlen. Miss Payne gave a resume of the events of the preceding weeks, and special music was given, consisting of a piano solo by Miss Junkins and a vocal solo by Miss Berry.

At Entre Nous, the evening was given over to the discussion of the lives of some of the most prominent women of America.

A brief business meeting of the Press Club was held Monday evening, at which Robert Greene, '17, and Ruth Sturgis, '17, were elected respectively to the offices of President and Secretary upon the resignation of Mr. McCann, '16, and Miss Newman, '17.

The next few weeks have many events in store which will be of interest to Bates students. Worthy of note are: Nov. 11, a concert at City Hall by Evan Williams; Nov. 22, a lecture by Dr. E. K. Sprague, George Colby Chase Lecture Course, on, "Immigration and the Public Health"; Nov. 26, Fidelio Grand Opera Company, City Hall; Dec. 3, Louise Homer, Municipal Concert at City Hall.

The first meeting of the Prohibition Society was held last Friday evening in Roger Williams Chapel. In his remarks, Pres. Clifford said that he desired the society to become an aggressive institution in the College. In order to do this all must cooperate. Plans are now being prepared for monthly meetings and a membership canvass will be made among all the men.

PERSONALS

Miss Ruth Cummings, '19, spent Sunday at her home in Belgrade.

Miss Vida Stevens, '19, spent the week end at Bowdoinham.

Miss Marion Dunnells, '19, entertained her mother and sister here recently.

Enkuklios again this Saturday evening. All come!

Miss B. Burr, '18, and Miss D. Haskell, '18, entertained friends here recently.

Miss Harriet Johnson, '16, spent Sunday at her home in Bath.

Observant Citizen

Don't forget that the Football season isn't over yet. Dartmouth is paying this team good money to come up there. Evidently they take it for granted that we will be able to give them a good game.

The Freshmen had a little celebration after winning the track meet Tuesday. There certainly seems to be a whole lot of spirit in that class. They have proved themselves full of fight at the Football games, and whenever called upon to sacrifice a little have always been glad. The class is made up of good athletes and splendid students. Looks pretty bright for Bates in the future doesn't it?

The physical examinations of the Freshmen have been completed. Maxim has passed the highest strength test ever taken by a freshman.

The hockey rink is near completion and will soon be flooded. The dam has been repaired, the rink will be much larger than last year, and should be the scene of many exciting hockey games this winter.

Only 14 men received a Football "B" this year in contrast to 20 last year.

The men who were granted a Football "B" for the first time are; Drew, Russell, Southey, Adams, Shattuck, and Knight.

Attention is called to the various All Maine elevens picked by the different captains and coaches. Davis, Dewever, Adams, and W. Neville were all picked by one or more of the experts. Capt. Leadbetter of Bowdoin was the most favorable to Bates.

We have reason to feel complimented that the fighting spirit did not get the best of us Saturday. "If anybody wants to fit let'em fit, if anybody wants to don't let'em don't,

I guess we don't."

The Football season has been a success financially. At least we are better off than last year at this time.

Robert Greene has been elected president of the Press Club. It will be safe to look for Bates news in all the papers now.

A thot to take to bed with you every night this winter; "we'll get 'em in Baseball."

Lectures are so numerous that if they are faithfully attended it is necessary to miss a show at the Lewiston now and then.

The one man on our Campus who keeps plugging all the time is Coach Ryan, and at last the results have come. A second place in the Cross Country, and a win for his Freshmen over the Lewiston and Edward Little high schools in the triangular meet.

Have you got the date of the first snow storm in your diary?

Do you know that the faculty are contributing the money to give the Football team a banquet when they break training?

SONG

I must sing a song to you, Dear, ere the day is done;

A little song ere the day of my youth is past; As a valediction prayer is late begun, And the swan sings at the last.

A lark once sang to a wayside flower, And the song was sweet—so sweet, For the singer dreamed of a gay rose bower That he would reach by the sunset hour, And a red rose he would greet.

I must sing a song to you, Dear, ere the dream is done;

A little song ere the dream of my life goes by;

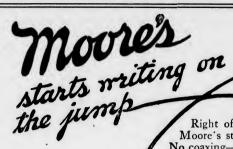

As the highest waves go out with the tides that run,

And the sweetest echoes die.

A prince once smiled on a beggar maid, And the smile was kind—so kind; For the fair prince dreamed of the twilight shade

In a palace garden where delayed A princess left behind.

McDonald will serve as judges; Miss Gregory, '16, and Miss Cleaves, '17, as time-keepers. The speakers on the affirmative will be Misses Lewis, '17, Hussey, and McCann, '18; those on the negative, Misses Bryant, '16, Hutchins, '16, Bradbury, '16. All memberes of both these societies and also those of Entre Nous are most cordially invited.

SPOFFORD

Tuesday evening, Spofford Club held its regular meeting in Libbey Forum. Mr. John Goba, '16, Miss Aura Emerson, '16, and Miss Alice Lawry, '17, furnished a most interesting program.

Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Wednesday evening, November 17, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. held a joint meeting in Hathorn Hall. Miss Amy Hayden, '16, lead the meeting, and Miss Marguerite Girouard and the Girls' Glee Club furnished special music. Professor A. F. McDonald gave a most interesting talk.

LIBRARY SOCIAL

The first Guest Night of Enkuklios last Saturday evening took the form of a Library Social. The girls came dressed to represent different books and many clever costumes were evolved. During the evening prizes for the best success in a guessing game were awarded Miss Kennan, '19, and Mr. Pendelon, '17, by Mr. Cloutman and Mr. Merrill. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served.

Y. W. C. A.

The Social Service Department reports that a class of Lithuanian girls has been organized and will be conducted weekly at the W. C. A. home. This is the first work of the kind attempted by the Bates Y. W. C. A. and it is hoped that an opening has been made for further work among the foreign girls of the city. The college girls are asked to remember their gifts for the children's Hone when they come back after Thanksgiving. Dolls are already being dressed for the children and toys, clothes, or candies will be very acceptable.

At the regular Conference hour Nov. 11, Mrs. Rand spoke to the girls. She took up the work of the Alumnae Association and presented its plans to the girls. She also spoke on the development a college girl should have. Mrs. Rand is a speaker whom Bates girls always welcome and whom they would be glad to hear oftener.

NEEDLE CLUB

Last Friday the Needle Club was entertained by Mrs. R. R. N. Gould and Mrs. H. H. Britan at the home of Mrs. Gould. A pleasant afternoon was spent, after which dainty refreshments were served.

At the next meeting on December 6th, a paper will be presented by Nichols, '16.

VESPER SERVICE

At Vespers last Sunday, Rev. W. A. Bartlett, pastor of Pine St. Congregational Church, addressed a large audience on "Friendship". He spoke from the text, "Iron sharpeneth iron, so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend" and said:

'There is no influence in the life of the student more powerful than friendship. Friendships of the right kind inspire those who are blessed by them. The selection of friends is important, for unless a friend has stronger qualities than ourselves the forming of that friendship may be fatal. With friendship comes responsibility. To fail in the office of friendship is one of the greatest of calamities. Breach of friendship undermines business and weakens the church. We live in an age of large understanding of one another. We are adjusting ourselves to peculiar characters and are finding, under the tutelage of Christianity that everyone has an important place to fill. The college is unique. Here are cemented those friendships that last.

He that will have friends must show himself friendly. Life is full of tradegies, but friendship can rescue us from them. The world can be comforted that the life of Jesus is ever permeating the old institutions of our land.

If you want to be listed with your class in the catalogue, your back work must be made up at once. The catalogue is almost ready for the press, but you still have time if you hurry.

Some members of the senior class have allied themselves with an insurance plan which if successful will make Bates the recipient of $100,000. at the end of twenty years.

Do you know that the 1915 Football team has been the most satisfactorily managed team that has represented Bates for a good many years? This is the testimony of Coach Purinton and he is in a position to know.

Coach Green's fractured "radius ulna" sustained in the last practice before the Dartmouth game is mending rapidly and it is hoped that the popular coach will not be laid up long on account of injuries.

Our Ponies played Dartmouth such a good game that the Dartmouth management wanted to sign them up immediately for next year. One of the players says that he got so much inspiration out of that one game that he considers the season a success.

Fighting "Buck" Dewever has been again elected Football captain. It certainly shows that the men appreciate the work and spirit of their captain when they elect him for a second year. "Buck" will have better success next year. We have been trailing in this league long enough. We have a whole year ahead of us—Let's find out what the trouble is and remedy it. A set of resolutions could very easily be presented to the advisory board.

Coach Ryan's handicap meets start Saturday. This sort of competition at intervals thruout the winter keeps the men interested and when the meets come along in the spring the men are right at concert pitch and they are not novices in competition either. If you want to see results keep your eye on Mike. He has 159 men at regular work and not satisfied yet.

So the young ladies request the men not to watch their hockey games? Then they wonder why men don't come to their Rand Hall parties. Beware of man; he is a vulture in human form.

Thanksgiving greetings to the folks at home from the STUDENT.

What do you tell them when they want to know what is the matter with your Football team?

The Bates college Christmas calendars will be on sale soon after Thanksgiving.

We'll get 'em in Baseball.

WORLD'S STUDENT CHRISTIAN FEDERATION

The following is an extract from a letter received from John R. Mott in which he tells of conditions now existing in the Student World in Europe.

New York, October 25th, 1915. As the second winter of the Great War draws near with its inevitable increase in the volume of suffering, there is a matter which should receive the urgent attention of the students and professors of the colleges, universities and schools of America. We have not realized as fully as we should have done the great demands which this struggle has made upon the students of the countries now at war. A recent report states that nearly seventy-five per cent of the men students of the colleges and universities of Great Britain have already entered the army. nearly 11,000 undergraduates and graduates of Cambridge University alone having gone to war. In Germany nearly, if not quite, 50,000 university students are in the army and an even larger number of the older school boys. When I was in Paris within a year, where I had been in the habit of finding in other years as many as 18,000 male students in the Latin Quarter, it was with difficulty that I assembled a small group of four. The proportions of university men of Austria, Hungary and Russia who are in the fighting lines or in military training are nearly as large. From nearly every Canadian university fully one half of the men have gone to join the army.

Your minds are endowed with a vast number of gifts of totally different uses—limbs of mind as it were, which, if you don't exercise, you cripple.

One ship sails East, another West, By the self same wind that blows: Tis the set of the sail and not the gale That determines the way it goes. Like the winds of the sea are the ways of fate.

As we voyage along through life;
'Tis the set of the soul which decides the goal,

And not the calm or the strife.

Among the events of importance during the past week is that of the formation of two Freshman literary societies. In spite of the fact that there seems already to be plenty of societies, we believe this is a good plan. Up to date there has been no society for the freshman men. The freshman girls organized one last year, which has proved most successful.

The purpose of these societies is to create an interest among the freshman men in literature and debate. Perhaps they will serve to fill, in a small way, the place of the old societies which have entirely lost their early characteristics. If one reads over the minutes of meetings held fifteen years ago in Eurosophia and Polymnia, one will notice that debating and orations held an important place. It was here that material for the varsity debating teams was prepared. This generation seems to have little time to prepare orations, or even to work up debates, outside those required for the class room. It is a big problem to find a night on which to hold a society meeting, so many are the engagements demanding attention. wonder if there was ever a time when it was more necessary for a college man or woman to evaluate and differentiate than it is today with the superabundance of activities.

A great many of the preparatory schools have very active societies. The newly formed societies will act as a connecting link between the preparatory work and that of the later college society work. We feel that there is a need for this. Men will not get out of the habit of giving societies some attention, and the down town call may not be quite as strong. Then again, these freshman societies will form a center toward which the junior and senior societies can look for future material.

With the increase of societies, we believe that soon there should be some definite understanding as to how many a man may belong. At the present time it is entirely possible for a person to belong to five or six, and we are not considering the musical organizations. If our societies are to become vitally active, they must receive the concentrated efforts of a certain body of men. Each society must present a definite phase of life. Membership in these societies should be an object much sought for by the students.

CROSS COUNTRY RACE Interesting Account by Lane

When we arrived in Boston last Friday night it was cold and rainy, and everything seemed to be going wrong for the Cross Country Race which was to take place the next day. Nevertheless, the fellows were all in good humor, and retired early determined to do their best and give a good account of themselves, no matter what the weather conditions might prove to be.

The following morning revealed a great change in the weather. The sky had cleared and the sun shone bright and warm. It was an ideal Indian summer day. Everything seemed to be in favor for the big race. We partook of a light breakfast, before leaving the hotel and got an early start for Franklin Park. As we left our dressing rooms at the Park and jogged up to the starting line, we felt in very high spirits as to the outcome of the race. Promptly at 11 o'clock the starter's gun sounded and fifty-five men representing the pick of the New England colleges started on their annual cross country run. In the first quarter mile, each team had a separate lane in which to run, thus avoiding all confusion and accidents which might attend the first few hundred yards of a race in which there were so many starters. As the leaders of the different teams came out of their respective lanes and on to the regular course the real race of the day commenced.

The course was well flagged and was followed without difficulty. The runners ran between red and white flags, keeping the red flags on the left. At first, Bell of Maine took the lead, but soon contented himself with a place further back. Brown of M. I. T. who won first honors was at this time running in sixth place, evidently saving his strength and speed for later in the race. This man demonstrated that he is among the country's best long distance runners. He is large and strong, and ran in a graceful manner.

The last half mile showed a real battle for first place among the leading men. Brown, Aiken, and Bell had the most strength left and it was for these three men to decide which one should cross the tape first. Brown proved himself equal to the occasion and with a wonderful burst of speed forced himself fully one hundred yards ahead. He was greeted with much applause by the 500 people present.

It was a good clean race, and Maine's victory was well-earned. The experience received by our team in this big race will be of great benefit in coming seasons.

How great the virtue and the art To live on little with a cheerful heart.

DARTMOUTH 29, BATES 0

Saturday, November 13th, Bates played Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H. Altho Bates put a crippled team on the field, Merrill and Southey being out of the line-up and Boyd, handicapped by a bad ankle, yet the big green team had to fight a hard game as the 29 to 0 score attests.

Dartmouth scored first on a safety following a blocked punt, and then by sheer weight proceeded to batter the Bates line, scoring three touchdowns in the first half. They had the ball inside the Bates 10-yard line at three other times but the garnet line held, and Dartmouth was forced to give up the ball. Davis punts out-distanced those of the Dartmouth kickers. Time after time they soared over the heads of the backs for long gains.

At the end of the first half, the score stood 23 to 0, and Dartmouth came back on to the field expecting to more than double it. Bates opened the second half by receiving, and Captain Dewever returned the ball to the 40 yard line. Then Bates opened up and for the entire third period the fighting was in Dartmouth's territory, with the green team on the defensive. Drew hurled a forward pass to Harvey who made a wonderful running catch, gaining 35 yards and making it firstdown. Davis then sent Dewever thru the line from a punt formation for 15 yards more. Then followed three short forward passes, all successful, which brought the ball to Dartmouth's 20 yard line, where Bates lost the ball on downs.

In the last period, after having held twice on the five yard line, Dartmouth put the ball over once more. The game ended with the ball in Bates' possession on her own 40 yard line.

The defensive playing of the Bates men was a revelation. The line, the outweighed thirty to fifty pounds to the man, showed a stonewall defense, during the last half, and even the redoubtable "Cutie" Spears met his match in "Hunka" Stonier. Harvey at both end and half-back was in every play.

Moulton broke thru the line several times for good gains. Shattuck at center was accurate in passing, and only a strong wind kept his drop kick from scoring, the ball striking the crossbar.

Without doubt it was the best defensive game the team has played this year.

Referee, McGrath, Boston College. Umpire, Burke, Worcester Poly. Head linesman, McCarthy, Georgetown. Time of periods, wto 15 and two 12.

Dartmouth scoring: Touchdowns, Ponder, Tyler, Worthington, Carolan. Goals from touchdowns, Spears, 3.

Substitutions:

For Dartmouth—Gerrish for Tyler, Tyler for Duhamel, Colby for Merrill, Trier for Cotton, McDonough for Emery; Holbrook for Worthington; Eastman for Dusossoit; Fishback for McAuliffe; Thielscher for Ponder; Pudrith for Eastman; Gile for Baxter: Saladine for Pudrith; Pudrith for McDonough; Merrill for Colby; Cotton for Trier; Carolan for Thielscher; Youngstrom for Gile.

For Bates—Maxim for Murray; Harvey for Kennedy; Moulton for Harvey; Harvey for Boyd; Murray for Maxim; Kennedy for Drew.

LANE A LEADER IN CROSS COUNTRY SATURDAY

A word ought to be said about the remarkable performance of Lane in the Cross Country race last Saturday. Lane took the lead about the end of the first half mile. He was running very strongly and drew right away from the other runners. He held this lead without any difficulty until one place at about the three and half mile mark. At this point the course crossed a road and Lane became a little perplexed and lost a few yards in finding the course again. Bell during these few seconds came up and took the lead but a moment later Lane was ahead of him again. In the last half mile of the race his appendix began to bother him and he was forced to let four men pass him altho at the finish only about 50 yards were between Lane and the winner.

BATES JUNIORS WIN FROM SENIORS ON GRIDIRON 12 TO 0

Yesterday afternoon Garcelon Field was the scene of as hard fought a foot ball battle as has been staged there for many a day. The class of 1916 and the class of 1917 at Bates had a battle royal from which the Juniors emerged victors by the score of 12 to 0. Only men from those classes were eligible to play who had not been out for varsity football at all this year, but there were many stars present notwithstanding.

The lineup and summary:

HOCKEY SERIES

Class spirit ran high this year over the hockey games and all classes turned out splendid teams for the preliminaries. The game between Juniors and Freshmen took place Tuesday afternoon and resulted in a victory for 1917 with a score of 3-0. The officials were as follows: Referee, Miss Bell; time-keeper, Miss King; linesmen, Misses Mower, A. Smith, Johnson, Burr and Drake. Wednesday afternoon the Sophomores and Seniors met for a game which ended with a score of 7-0 in favor of the Sophomores. The officials in this game were, Referee, Miss Bell; time-keeper, Miss Moody; linesmen; Misses Skinner, B. Dresser, Millay, I. Smith, Tarbell, Farnsworth, Hayes, Millspaugh. This is the first series of championship games that has been played on the new hockey field and it is certainly a great improvement over the old field back of Carnegie Hall. Much excitement is expected at the finals and the classes are to be out in full force to cheer on their teams. Hockey has grown rapidly in favor with the Bates girls and stronger teams are trained each year. The captains of the various teams are: 1916. Miss King; 1917, Miss Moody; 1918, Miss ALUMNI NOTES DeWolfe; 1919, Miss Millay.

1913—John McDaniel (1913) and Horace J. Davis (1915) were recent visitors here.

An interesting letter from Ruby M. Parsons (1910) was in the Lewiston Journal for Nov. 13. She is teaching in Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Mississippi. The college is under the auspices of the American Missionary Association, and the work is wholly with the colored people. There are thirty-two people on the faculty, three of them colored men and one a colored woman. "The campus", Miss Parsons says, "is, I believe, the most beautiful place I have ever seen. It is in the midst of an extensive stretch of an oak forest. The trees draped with heavy clusters of moss are a picturesque sight, especially in the early morning and by moonlight. Besides the oak trees the campus is adorned with shrubs and vines. Rose bushes abound, and some blossom every month in the year. One of the girls brought me a bunch of violets last Sunday. The trees are still green, and for the last two weeks the weather has been like a day in summer in New England." There are about five hundred pupils in the school. The rest of Miss Parsons' interesting letter describes the energy and ambition of the students and the college customs and activities.

The shortness of life is not, to any rational person conclusive reason for wasting the space of it which may be granted him.

SOCIETY NOTES

The short Thanksgiving recess held a series of festivities for those who remained at college over the holidays. After the dinners on Thursday, the girls of the college were entertained for the evening by Dr. and Mrs. Whitehorne. Music was enjoyed, as well as games and speeches. Dainty refreshments were served. This is not the first of the delightful evenings which Dr. and Mrs. Whitehorne has given at Thanksgiving time, and the girls are warm in their appreciation.

Friday night was celebrated by a banquet at the Commons, given under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. This custom was inaugurated last year and is certainly worthy of continuance. After the dinner, an entertainment was enjoyed. Secretary Rowe was chosen toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by Miss Buswell, Miss Bradbury, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Greene and Mr. Purinton. A piano solo was given by Miss Christiansen and Miss Shibles sang. Professor Robinson also contributed to the general merriment by a reading with pantomime.

On Saturday afternoon, Professor and Mrs. Coleman delightfully entertained the Freshman girls at their home, thus adding another to the list of Thanksgiving good times. The girls were also invited to the home of Misses Edith and Mary Kierstead for an informal gathering.

Sunday afternoon, a song service was held in Fiske Room at 3.30, to which all the students were invited. Special music was enjoyed. At the completion of the program, refreshments were served.

A number of guests were entertained at college over the holidays. Miss Clara L.

Buswell had as a guest a former college friend, Miss Blodgett. Miss Christiansen entertained her mother and sister. Miss Gregory also entertained her sister, Miss Annie Gregory. Several former Bates girls were back, including Misses Gwendoline Greene, Edith Rideout, and Frances True.

SENIOR CLASS PARTY

Saturday evening, November 20, the class of 1916 held a real class party in the Rand Hall Gymnasium. Beginning with an imaginary banquet, and continuing with lively toasts by the guests, the affair wound up with a real box social, full compensation for previous imaginary features. Cheers and songs led by Carl Bright, '16, completed a most successful evening.

THE BATES ROUND TABLE

Friday evening, November 19, Professor and Mrs. George Ramsdell entertained the Round Table at their home on Mountain Avenue. Professor George C. Chase was presiding officer. Mr. Warren Watson gave a most interesting talk on the "Dyestuff Situation," discussing its relation to the present War. After his paper, a general discussion of the topic followed. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

THE BATES NEEDLE CLUB

The last meeting of the Bates Needle Club was held Tuesday afternoon, November 23, at the home of Mrs. W. Risby Whitehorne. Mrs. Whitehorne and Mrs. R. A. T. MacDonald were the hostesses of the occasion. A most enjoyable afternoon was passed, and delicious refreshments were served.

ADELPHIAN

At the last meeting of Adelphian, one of the two Freshman literary societies recently organized, the following officers were elected for the semester:—

Pres., Guy S. Baker; V. Pres., Harry Potts; Sec., George S. Millward; Treas., Robert Jordan; Sergeant at Arms, Kilburn, Sherman; Membership Communittee, Roy J. Campbell, John J. Dean, Clifford R. Cobb; Executive Committee, A. F. Dolloff, R. Jordan, M. R. Gerrish.

COMMUNITY SERVICE DEPARTMENT

The Community Service Department of the Y. M. C. A. started the classes for foreigners Tuesday night. Thirty Lithuanians met in their hall on lower Lisbon St. and were divided into three classes under the instruction of Clifford, '16, Blaisdell, '16, and Gay, '17. A class of six Greeks also met on Lincoln St. with Fowler, '18, as teacher. English is the only subject taught. It is to be hoped that advanced steps may be taken each year in this practical form of social service.

GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUBS

Our musical clubs are gradually coming into shape for the series of cencerts to be given this year. Lane, '17, is proving a capable leader; he has taken all the trips since entering college and made the quartet his freshman year. The Glee Club is fortunate this year in having the services of Mr. E. F. Goss as director. Cummings, '16, is meeting with success as leader in developing a Mandolin Club, altho many of the men are new. There are to be sixteen in the Glee Club and fourteen in the Mandolin Club, five of whom are seniors, Keneston, Cummings, Benvie, Nichols and Keaney. Nichols will take the place of Blanchard, '15, in the quartet. Baeon, '17, will be the reader and Renwick, '18, the soloist; a mandolin quartet will be a new feature in the program. Twenty-four men, fourteen of whom are new members, will be taken on the Christmas trip which begins January 4th. The towns to be visited are Malden, Stoneham, Saugus, Topsfield, Danvers, Merrimac, Mass.; Durham, N. H., and Portland, Me., in succession. The itinerary of the trip during the Easter vacation has not been mapped out but will probably be made thru central New Hampshire.

THE BATES PRESS CLUB

A meeting of the Bates Press Club was held Tuesday evening, November 23, at Libbey Forum. The meeting was called by President Robert Greene, '17. He introduced as speakers for the evening Professor A. C. Baird and Dr. A. N. Leonard, who gave their views as to the conduct of the society and also valuable suggestions as to work which might well be undertaken by the society during the remainder of the year.

SPOFFORD CLUB

Tuesday evening the Spofford Club was most excellently entertained at the home of Mr. Coleman. The program was furnished by Miss Capen, Miss Lawry, Mr. Wentworth and Mr. Kennedy. After the program refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Coleman.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

A week ago Tuesday night the entire football squad were given a banquet at Mitchell's Cafe by the faculty. After partaking of a plenteous supply of roast turkey and all that went with it, the evening was taken up with toasts. Every man expressed in a few words sentiments for a winning team for next year.

THE BIG EIGHT AT BELGRADE

"Gus" Adams, '16, ably assisted by his two beloved room-mates, "Alkali Ike" Goff and "Hanky Panky" Boys, '16, entertained a party of College chums at his home in Belgrade, which had been recently vacated by his parents who are spending the winter in California.

"Alkali", "Bob", and "Gus" formed the advance guard, and got the Packard in readiness to meet the special which was to bring the blind baggage riders into the Union Station at 7-20-4. These latter were soon conducted to 101 ranch on the bleak plains of Abraham.

The time was enjoyably spent in hunting, eating and sleeping. The party were taken to a "hop" in the Belgrade Grange Hall by the host, and many romantic incidents could be told about that eventful night. Spud Drew, '16, acted in the capacity of Chef, ably assisted by "Gus" Adams and "Poggie'' Murray he concocted many alluring and delicate dishes, one of the most famous being the Johnnie Cake, Alias "Patten Shift." "Bob'' Lawrence, '16, and "Alkali' Goff, '16, acted in the capacity of Waitresses while Eddie Connors, '17, and Brit Coady, '17, were the famous pearl divers or dish washers.

One of the exciting incidents was the ride to Oakland in the successful attempt to catch the electrics for Lewiston. The chauffeur complained because the party lost their nerve in the rough slippery roads and pleaded for slower driving.

Capt. "Bill" Boyd was the famous hunter of the party and with his high powered automatic kept the table bountifully supplied with chickens and apple pies, and various other dainties which could be garnered in the refrigerator.

The members of the party were Capt. "Bill' Boyd, '16, Adams, '16, Goff, '16, Lawrence, '16, Connors, '17, Murray, '17, Drew, '16, and Coady, '17.

Last Monday evening the Deutche Gesellschaft held the second meeting of the year in Libbey Forum. The meeting was opened by the answering to the roll call with German riddles, proverbs, and quotations. Table practise in German and games occupied the remainder of a very pleasant evening.

A WONDERFUL WORLD!

"We see the world piece by piece, as the sun, the moon, the animal, the tree; but the whole, of which these are the shining parts, is the soul."—Emerson

World, O world, O wonderful world, Sky so blue and leaf so green, Revelation of the God unseen, As flesh is garment for the soul.

World, O world, O wonderful world,
Free from root to branch doth spring,
Sending forth the living Power within,
Manifest in symbol beautiful.

World, O world, O wonderful world,
Then cometh of man the soul,
Not a whit behind the Nature-soul,
Sending forth the self-same Power within.

World, O world, O wonderful world, Tree and flower, bird and man, Each for centuries in the Great Plan, Serve to show the Over-soul in all.

MERRILL & WEBBER CO., AUBURN, ME.

Now that football is over we can give our attention to debating. This is one of our major activities and deserves as much interest and enthusiasm as any of the physical competitions. Because the energy expended is mental, we often fail to give proper credit to those who take part in the work. The training in preparation for the varsity debates is as exacting as any required of the athlete. Those on the team must always give their best; there must be late hours with constant study. Two and three times a week the teams must meet in practice debates. And finally, the entire efforts of two or three months work and training be revealed in an hour. The contest is one of mind with mind; orator against orator. Fact meets fact, and in the clash we approach truth.

We are justly proud of the unsurpassed record we hold in debating, and we need two teams this year to continue the work. Tufts and Clark will have fine teams and they will make an heroic effort to carry the day. Every man who feels that he has even slight powers of argument should make a preliminary trial. The freshmen should begin this year in order to get the practice for next year; the sophomores and juniors will likewise profit. The seniors should feel it their duty to make the best men work for a position.

DEBATING TEAMS

Men of every class in college are willingly responding to the call for Intercollegiate Debaters. The rumor is abroad that positions on the Varsity Teams are to be vigorously contested. In the preliminaries, to be held Saturday P. M., December 4, each speaker will give a five minute speech on some phase of the question: Resovled, That Immigration into the United States should be further restricted by a literacy test. From those who enter these trials, twelve will be chosen, who will hold the semi-final debate on December As a result of this contest, eight men will be chosen for a final contest about December 18. Six of these men will represent Bates as speakers, and the other two as alternates, in the Bates-Tufts-Clark Triangular Debating League.

The incentive furnished by the eligibility of Varsity Debaters to the Delta Sigma Rho Debating Fraternity, as well as the presentation gift Drew Medal by Judge Drew of Lewiston to members of winning team, should be sufficient to bring out the most valuable material in college to make up the Squad.

COMMENTS

Willis L. Lane, the star distance runner of the college, is convalescing in the Maine General Hospital on Main St. after a successful operation for appendicitis. Lane will probably leave the hospital this week and be back on the campus in a short time. Many of the students and instructors have called on him and expressed their interest in his comfort and welfare.

At the New England Intercollegiate Cross Country run recently held in Boston over the Franklin Park course, the University of Maine not only was represented by a winning team but also by a cheering section composed of alumni and some of the students who accompanied the team from Orono. They created a lot of excitement and enthusiasm, and in their cheers did not forget Bates. They set up our team several times and at the finish they cheered our Lane to the echo and also gave a great deal of encouragement to our other men as they finished. This spirit on the part of Maine is very commendable and it is needless to say that our boys appreciated it very much.

TRACK

Track work started in earnest on December 1st, and everything is now going on in full swing. During the fall over one hundred men were out taking regular work and the improvement in some of them is very noticeable. There will be no other sport to interfere with the track work during the winter and it is expected that at least one hundred and seventy-five men will take the work regularly. From this number enough material ought to be found to represent Bates very creditably in the relay races, dual meets and championships that are scheduled.

Coach Ryan plans to make this track season the busiest and most interesting one in the history of the college, and he desires the hearty co-operation of every man and woman in the institution. He wants ALL the men out there trying to make a place on the different teams. At present there are altogether two many "Mexican athletes" who are content to sit in their rooms and criticise the work of the teams and the men that constitute them. If you haven't got sufficient spirit and courage to go out and try to make the teams "for the love of Mike" give the men that do go out your moral support and don't crab them. The women can also help by showing a keen interest in the endeavors of the struggling gladiators.

Handicap games will be held either weekly or semi-monthly, starting a week from Saturday. This system will give the boys the advantage of much needed competition, and their development will be far more rapid. In this way they will get a practical knowledge of their events right on the firing line. These meets will be run off snappy and will afford diversion and amusement on Saturday afternoons. It will be a grand opportunity for the Royal Rooters and the band to show their spirit and incidently get in some real good practice for the big games in the spring. The young ladies, faculty and friends of the institution are also earnestly requested to attend these meets to see just what the boys are doing and show them that you are vitally interested in their success.

The relay team this year ought to be one of the fastest that ever represented Bates College. With Lawrence, Boyd, Quimby, and Connors of last year's candidates and the development of several fast men last spring and this fall, we have a great nucleus with which to start, and the competition for places on the team ought to be keen. The college relay championship of the State of Maine is scheduled for February 5th at the Mechanics Hall, Boston, in connection with the Boston Athletic Club's games. We won second place last year but this year we won't be satisfied with anything below first place. If satisfactory arrangements can be made several other races will be added to the schedule this year. Coach Ryan has already had communications from New York and Hartford in reference to relay races in these places.

HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

The hockey championship was won only as a result of the hardest fought battle ever seen on a Bates hockey field. November 18, the Juniors and Sophomores met in the finals. Each team was determined to win, and at the end of the time given for the game, the score was a tie. Five minutes more were allowed; and in that period, the Juniors succeeded in making a goal, thus winning the championship by a score of 3-2. The teams were well supported, and the cheering sections did their share in winning the game. Both teams showed splendid training, and the star-players were numerous. Captain Moody and DeWolfe are certainly to be congratulated on the team-work of their girls.

The Junior girls celebrated their victory by a banquet in Rand Hall dining room Nov. 20. The tables were prettily arranged in the form of a rectangle, and decorated with Bates banners and garnet carnations. George Ross catered. Much credit is due the entertainment committee, consisting of Misses Newman, Cleaves, Campbell, and Sturgis, for the success of the affair. After the dinner, Miss Newman, the class cheerleader, acted as toast-mistress, and many and varied were the bright speeches given as the girls were called on. The hockey songs were sung, and these, together with cheering, were ample proof to all in Rand Hall that 1917 was celebrating. The girls were unanimous in their decision that this was one of the very best frolics in the history of the Junior class and in their determination to have many more good times of the same sort.

MAXIM '19 STRONG MAN

The physical examinations of the Freshmen have been completed by Director Purinton. The class average is the highest in years. H. C. Maxim of Pittsfield took the best test, making a record that is considered a wonderful performance for a freshman. The total units made by Maxim are the largest ever made by a Bates freshman. His record has been surpassed but once in the history of the college, and then by Guy P. Gove, '13, when he was a Senior.'

The strength and condition of the first ten strongest men are as follows:

	Strength	Condition
Maxim	1197	644.7
G. Doe	1065	502.7
Adam	1031.8	499.5
Sanderson	1021.3	469
Elwell	1017	464.9
Smith	998.4	446.1
Farrow	994.3	442
Swasey	973	420.7
Barton	957	405.7
Sampson	946.8	384.5

Observant Citizen

The Student passes into other hands on Jan. 1. Everybody is hoping that it will continue to be interesting to its readers and satisfactory to its editors.

Let us not forget that the men of the faculty were the means of giving the Football men their banquet.

Glee Club is scheduled to leave Jan. 4 for the Massachusetts trip.

Vacation begins three weeks from today. The vacation will last two whole weeks instead of 10 days as in previous years. This arrangement will allow you to remain at home for the "New Year's Ball."

"Ben" Houser has migrated to Bowdoin. Shall we allow him to coach another championship team? As he did at Colby? We have the greatest admiration for Coach Houser, and the utmost respect for Bowdoin Baseball, but we must register a "firm but gentle" protest if that Baseball Championship doesn't come our way. Let every man demand it!

Fall sports are over and the call has been issued for debators. We meet Clark and Tufts to debate the "Literacy Test for Immigrants". Every man in the institution is eligible to compete for a position on the teams. The first preliminaries are held Dec. 4.

What are you going to do about all these "papers" that all the Professors want before Christmas. It seems as though the spirit moves them all at the same time.

Don't forget to spread the Christmas Cheer.

Did this ever happen to you.

AN ODE TO THE BOY WHO MADE PROMISES

Expectancy with a capital E, All-week had borne me company. For a boy whom I hold very dear, Half promised to share by Thanksgiving cheer.

By writing a letter that never was sent—Or coming in person, intentions well meant. Each day, with eager heart I waited To receive a letter—anticipated.
At last Thanksgiving-Day arrived—But never a message—then hope died. Maine has, no doubt, more realization—Than N——, a girl, and expectation.
Put, disillusion was my portion—So I must exercise more caution In curbing a vivid imagination, And, therefore accept with resignation

The fact, which I had not forseen A poular captain—Bates, '16 Would be apt to possess more friends than

And forget the girl of the days gone bye. Hoping my Tommy will write when he can— Is the heartfelt wish of—

Mother Ann.

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

On Monday evening, Dec. 6th, the Deutscher Verein met in Roger Williams Hall. The possibility of a joint meeting with the Gesellschaft before Christmas was considered.

Nichols, '16, presented a paper on the "Nibelungenlied", with selections from the poem, after which the remainder of the evening was spent in German conversation.

THE BATES ROUND TABLE

Thursday evening, Dec. 2, the Bates Round Table was entertained at the home of Professor and Mrs. G. M. Chase. The program for the evening took the form of a discussion led by Dr. A. W. Anthony. The following members also participated in the discussion: Dr. A. T. Salley, Prof. H. R. Purinton, Mr. W. H. Judkins, Prof. R. N. Gould, Prof. R. A. F. MacDonald, Prof. F. A. Knapp, and Prof. G. M. Chase. The subject was "The War and the Downfall of Kings,—Will the war result in the abolition of the rule of kings?"

THE NEW MASSACHUSETTS CLUB

Last Wednesday, the Massachusetts Club of Bates was formed, This society is to include every Bates girl from that state, and is intended especially to promote social intercourse and friendship among its members.

The officers as elected are as follows: President, Amy Hayden, '16; vice-president, Ruth Chapman, '18; secretary-treasurer, Vida Stevens, '19. The following committee was appointed to draw up a constitution: Alma Gregory, '16, Gladys Mower, '16, Hilda De-Wolf, '18, Evelyn Hussey, '18, and Marion Lewis, '19.

Y. W. C. A.

At the last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. the girls enjoyed a splendid talk given by Dr. A. N. Leonard. Special music was also furnished, including a piano duet by Misses Hodgden and Logan, and a violin solo by Miss Marguerite Girouard. The response was given by the Girls' Quartet.

GIRLS' LITERARY SOCIETIES

Last Saturday night in Libbey Forum was held the joint debate between Seniority and U. A. C. C. The question was: "Resolved, that the next session of Congress should provide for a substantial increase in the army and navy. U. A. C. C. supported the affirmative side of the question; Seniority the negative. Miss Harriet Johnson, President of Seniority, presided, and Misses Gregory and Cleaves were timekeepers. The judges were Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Tubbs, and Mrs. MacDonald. The speakers for Seniority were Misses Bryant, Hutchins, and Bradbury, while those for U. A. C. C. were Misses McCann, E. Hussey and Lewis, with C. Smith alternate. The speeches were short, spicy, and to the point, clearly given by well matched teams. Miss Maud Murphy played a piano solo during the intermission. The decision was given unanimously in favor of U. A. C. C.

LOCAL ITEMS

The Girls Glee and Mandolin Clubs have been in great demand lately in the City to furnish entertainments. At Pine Street Congregational Church, December 2, the entertainment after the church supper was given entirely by college people. A mandolin quartette, consisting of Misses Hodnett, Chapman, Leathers, and King, played several selections. Miss Berry sang a solo, and Misses Thompson and Berry sang a duet. A reading was given by Miss Burr, and a piano duet by Misses Logan and Hodgdon. Mr. Nichols sang a solo.

At the Court Street Baptist Church, Auburn, on the evening of December 6, the Glee and Mandolin Clubs gave an entertainment. Friday afternoon, December 10, a mandolin quartette is to play at a reception at the W. C. A. Home, given under the auspices of the W. C. T. U.

The hockey season is over and now the practice for volley ball has begun. Contrary to the former custom of having the championship games in the spring it is now planned to have them before the Christmas vacation.

A large number of the Bates students enjoyed the privilège of hearing Mme. Louise Homer, the great contralto, in the concert given last week in the Lewiston Municipal Concert Course. All are warm in her praise, and appreciate fully the splendid opportunity of hearing her thus afforded. Two of her selections especially meeting with great favor were "Sheep and Lambs" written by her husband, Sidney Homer, and "Amour, viens aider" from Lamson and Delilah by Saint-Saens. Throughout, the concert compared most favorably with the recent splendid one in the same course in which Evan Williams was the great artist.

Tuesday evening, December 7, a most pleasing program for Spofford Club was furnished by Miss Hazel Mitchell, Miss Mona Hodnett, and Mr. Harold Buker.

Games, stunts, "eats," and sports of all kinds are rumored for the Junior class party which is to be held Friday evening at 8.00 P.M. What Junior can resist such an invitation?

Mr. Perkins, who was very sick during the Thanksgiving recess, returned to the college during the latter part of last week.

The department of Biology has been very fortunate in securing recently two young Giants. These are albino rabbits and are very valuable.

Enkuklios has issued invitations to the alumnae of the college to an informal affair to be held Saturday afternoon, December 11, at 3.30.

Mr. Mark R. Shaw, Eastern Field Secretary of Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, has been at Bates this week in the interest of the movement which he represents.

OUR NAVY AND ITS MEANING

Saturday evening, all the members of the college and faculty will have the privilege of listening to that which promises to be a very fine lecture by Dr. Edward Breek. This is to be held in the Assembly Room, Hathorn Hall, at 8.00 P.M. Dr. Breek's subject is "Our Navy and Its Meaning," and his talk will be amply illustrated with lantern slides showing our navy as it is today.

Y. M. C. A.

Recently in response to an appeal from the General Secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, the Students and Faculty of Bates College joined with other Colleges and Universities of the Country in making a Christmas gift for the Christian work of the Universities of Europe, particularly for those students who are now in the trenches and on the battle field.

The following letter from John R. Mott, General Secretary of World's Student Christian Federation and General Secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. of North America, will be of interest:

December 3, 1915

My dear Mr. Rowe:

I wish through you to convey to the students and Professors of Bates College the expression of my deepest appreciation of their generous cooperation in helping to meet the great needs and opportunities of the Christian Student Movement in Europe. Your gift of one hundred dollars is most timely and in my judgment will prove to be highly productive. If all the other Colleges and Universities of our Country would do as well as you have done, it would make an offering truly notable.

Very sincerely yours,

J. R. MOTT.

At the business meeting of the Y. M. C. A., held last Wednesday night, President Stillman presided and after the singing of songs, reports of the various departments were heard. A report of the special committee for the revision of the Constitution was also heard. This committee consists of A. L. Purinton, '17, and William F. Lawrence, '18.

Rev. H. P. Woodin of Auburn was elected a member of the Advisory Board to succeed Rev. C. H. Temple now of Togus.

The Deputation Quartet sang last Sunday at the Old Ladies Home.

Rev. Frank Otis Erb, Ph.D., pastor Free Street Baptist Church, Portland, addressed the men at Y. M. C. A. Meeting, Wednesday night, on the subject, "Religious Education and A New Opportunity for College Men."

DEBATING PRELIMINARIES

The preliminaries for the Intercollegiate Debates were held Saturday afternoon in Hathorn Hall. From the twenty-six candidates who spoke at this time, the following men were selected to compete in the semifinals to be held on Saturday afternoon, December 11: Cloutman, '16, Bacon, '17, Dyer, '17, Green, '17, Kennedy, '17, Purinton, '17, Stettbacher, '17, Wilson, '17, Coleman, '18, Renwick, '18, Stimpson, '18, Ames, '19 and Drury, '19. The following men of last year's teams are eligible to the semi-final contests: Chayer, '17, Johnson, '16, Quimby, '18, and Stillman, '16. It is quite probable that Chayer, 17, and Quimby, '18, will be the only experienced men to try for positions this year.

The arrangement of teams for the semifinals will be as follows:

Affirmative, Bacon, Chayer and Purinton vs Negative, Cloutman and Kennedy.

Affirmative, Renwick and Stimpson vs Negative, Drury and Green, R. A.

Affirmative, Dyer and Quimby vs Negative, Coleman, Stettbacher and Wilson.

In spite of the fact that two good debaters, Saxon, '15, and Carey, '15, were lost by graduation and that two other 'Varsity men, Johnson, '16, and Stillman, '16, feel it impossible to try for positions this year, the prospects are withal bright this year for further renown for Bates in debating.

THE ALUMNAE CLUB

The Alumnae Club of Bates College was organized at Bethel, Maine, in July, 1894, by the seven women members of the Class of 1890. Its objects, as set forth in the Constitution, are "to unite more closely the alumnae, to stimulate the work of the young women in college, and to promote in every way possible the welfare of our Alma Mater. At different times, the Club has assisted in various college enterprises. It supplied periodicals for the Cheney House readingroom, when Chenev House was the only dormitory for women, and the Library, then housed in Hathorn Hall, had no magazine room. The Club purchased the casts of the Della Robbia frieze in the upper corridor at Coram Library, and later the five Medici prints in the main corridor. It has contributed several times to larger undertakings. Its latest work was the appropriation of twenty-five dollars for the Girl's Athletic Association, and fifty dollars for an emergency fund for the girls of the college.

The Club plans an alumnae gathering in the Christmas holidays, and a reception in the spring for the girls of the graduating class. Every woman graduate of the college is eligible for membership in the Club.

The present officers are President, Mrs. Emma J. C. Rand; Vice-President, Miss Mabel V. Wood; Treasurer, Miss Affie D. Weymouth; Secretary, Miss Mabel E. Marr. In the absence of Mrs. Rand and Miss Wood for the greater part of the year, Mrs. Ethel Cummings Pierce is Acting President.

MESSAGE FROM COACH GREEN

Roger A. Greene, the football coach, wishes through the Bates Student to thank the squad and the management for the ready assistance given him. Particularly does he wish to thank the "scrubs", the men that did not make the "letter", as the 'varsity men were rewarded by the honor of representing Bates against other institutions. Too much credit can not be given to the men that day after day went onto the field with hardly any chance to make the team. Their presence however, was invaluable in building a team.

Particularly pleasant, he wants known, were his relations with Manager Boothby and assistants Greene and Elwell, and Prof. Gould. The associations with Director Purinton and the assistance of Trainer Ryan are appreciated.

Credo: I know that I am here, in a world where nothing is permanent but change.

BIOLOGICAL LIBRARY

Largely through the efforts of Mr. Perkins, the Bickford Biological Library, has been completely catalogued and rearranged under the Dewey system. The work has involved a great deal of time and labor, occupying nearly the whole fall up to this time. Books are now much more readily accessible and will be more frequently referred to in the courses in Biology.

Except for a few books bought by Prof. Pomeroy while at the Panama Exposition, there have been few accessions this year, but more will be made later on.

Beautiful engraved bronze tablets have been procured for marking the Stanton Ornithological Library and also the Stanton collection of birds, which are so valuable a possession of the college. The tablets are of the most permanent nature possible, it being intended that they shall last as long as the institution stands, even though that may run into the centuries. It is the wish of the biological department that all students and friends of Bates, will understand that they are welcome at all times to inspect and use for their own good these expressions of the nobility and generosity of Professor Stanton.

MILITARY SCIENCE SOCIETY

The Polymnian society, the membership of which is now restricted to men only, has evolved into a military science club. work of the society is the study of military principles; the character of the combat, the battle and whole campaign; the weapons of warfare and how they are used—everything that pertains to the science of war. The evolution of each phase is followed thru, beginning with the Napoleonic wars down to the present European war. The book that the society is now studying is entitled "France and the Next War." Each member is required to take his turn in reporting on assigned chapters in this book and also in preparing individual papers and reading them before the society. Dr. Tubbs is very interested in the work, lecturing at nearly all the meetings and leading in the general discussion of the topic under consideration. Every two meetings he gives a military book to the member whom the society votes has delivered the best paper that month. The membership of the society is limited to twenty-five. A member is dropped if he is absent three consecutive times. The officers of the society are: Pres., R. E. Merrill; Vice-Pres., C. R. Hatch; Sec.-Treas., D. L. Quackenbush; Chairman of Executive Com., F. W. Benvie.

THE CITY'S COBBLE-STONES Lawrence C. Woodman, 1914.

The city's cobble-stones Are shadows Under iron stamp Of myriad tugging horses.

The city's cobble-stones
Are shadows
Under iron skies
Clenching round like a mailéd fist, (Shadowy mailéd fist, Throttling the anaemic sunlight!)

The city's cobble-stones
Are shadows—
Under tinkling eaves
Of the houses of lecherous dollar-chasers.

The city's cobble-stones
Are shadows
Cast by myriad street spawn—
Building rickety bodies of dust and dangers,
Building what ought to be souls, with bonfires...
Old papers filched out of ash-cans
In the alley-ways....

The city's cobble-stones
Are shadows
Under sagging clothes-lines
Of a house near which whimpers an old, old woman,
Scooping up handfuls of precious spilt beer,
To the tunes of a fiddle and tear-drops.

BASEBALL

Now that football for this season is a thing of the past we should look ahead to baseball. Our prospects for producing a champion-ship team this year lie in the baseball realm. Thru graduation we lost a dependable pitcher and two good infielders. The outfield was broken up by the loss of Butler. To fill these positions we will have to rely much upon the men of the freshman class and upon those upper classmen who have not as yet made good.

Fowler, '18, and Davidson, '18, are veterans this year and with last year's experience they should be depended upon to do firstclass work in the box. Much is expected of Purvere and Harvey of the freshman class. Both have had considerable experience in summer baseball and have come to Bates with good reputations. First base is open with Moulton, '18, Langley, '19, and Harvey, '19 as candidates. The fight for third base bids fair to be very exciting with O'Connell, '16, Phelan, '18, Shattuck, '18, Elwell, '19, Logan, '19, and Sanderson, '19, contending for supremacy. Second base and short stop are represented by strong veterans, Duncan and MacDonald, but Murray, '17, Talbot, '19, Maxim, '19, and Hall, '19, are promising candidates and will at least make someone "go some" for these positions. The veteran outfielders are Davis, '17, Swicker, '16, Marston, '16, and Thurston, '18. The position behind the bat will be properly looked after by Captain Lord himself who is one of the best catchers that ever wore a Bates suit.

Already about thirty-five candidates have reported for baseball. The work which the fellows are doing now as prescribed by Coach Ryan consists mainly of limbering up exercises and throwing the medicine ball. Cage work under the supervision of Director Purinton and Capt. Lord will commence after the Christmas holidays at which time only the most promising candidates will be retained on the squad.

A champion baseball team will mean considerable to every Bates student and alumni and to the institution. The support of every man and woman is needed to make the coming season a success. Here is our opportunity to 'get back at 'em, and let's do it well.

INSIDE INFORMATION ON TRACK WORK

There are now thirty-nine men out training for the relay team. They are doing long easy work to tone them up for the hard trials and the speed work that is to come. They also throw the medicine ball and do other exercises to develop their arms, shoulders and backs. By doing this kind of work the men will gain a development that will be a great benefit to them later in the season (and in fact in after life) and their work will be far easier for them as the season goes on. The work is being carried on in front of Roger Williams Hall on the cinder paths and will be continued there until the weather makes it absolutely necessary to retire to the board track back of the Gymnasium. Each candidate will be in the best possible shape and the team will be picked after a series of trials which will determine the best men available. method ought to give every candidate a fair test to show his ability. The four best will be picked to represent the College.

From December 1st to early spring every student, with no exception, is required to do some kind of physical work as a part of his education. Therefore the physical department is doing business on full time. The Track department has over one hundred men preparing for the teams, and the baseball department has thirty-five men taking regular work under the direction of the track coach. All other male students are members of the various gymnasium classes. In all departments the work is being carried on in a manner best suited to the student's need and for the further development of his ability in the particular branch of athletics in which he takes part. By this system the physical standard of Bates students will be raised to a very high degree, and, if the students will co-operate with the department and take an active, enthusiastic interest in their work, the teams sent out to represent Bates College in the future are bound to acquit themselves with honor and gain for the College her due share of glory on the athletic field.

The track candidates are divided into several groups, each group under a leader and all under the supervision of the coach. The leader in each case is an experienced man. In this manner it is hoped to gain better results because the men in each group will all work together and the coach can give them more attention than if they came out separately and at different times.

The pole vaulters and high jumpers will start work in the gymnasium within a few days as it is now impossible to use the jumping pits out doors. Just now this class of athlete is being given a rest from his regular work.

Willis L. Lane, '18, the star distance runner of the college has left the Maine General Hospital where he underwent a very successful operation for appendicitis. He has gone home for a few days before returning to his studies. All of the track men will be glad to have "Hi" back with them again.

If Ross, '18, continues to improve with the weights he is bound to develop into the best weight man ever produced by Bates. He will justly deserve the honor as he is one of the most interested and conscientious workers on the track team. He is a shining example of what a man can do by sticking to it and making up his mind to succeed. His first attempt with the hammer was 66 feet when he started last spring.

Merrill, '16, has joined the whales and is out on Garcelon Field daily wrestling with the weights. If Merrill throws the weights as good as he played football this season he will be a help to the track team. "Kaiser" Adam, '19, is in the same school as Merrill. Gregory, Smith, White and Kneeland, all of cross country fame are trying to inject some speed into their sturdy legs for the fast work that is required in the track meets. Capt. Doe and DeWolfe have joined the relay squad and are showing good speed after the long work that they did all fall.

It is going to be quite a job to fill the shoes of Capt. Small and John Butler in the sprints, and of Allan Mansfield in the half mile. We may have to change some of our old standbys from their pet events if the freshmen now training cannot fill them.

Coach Ryan

Observant Citizen

Epicurean Club. A new club has been organized of four men of the senior class; Messers Russell, O'Connell, C. S. Rankin, and Cummings. This society is entirely new and original in its purpose. Its idea is to create a high taste for art and sculpture.

Every man in the senior class is invited to obtain a copy of "Mistakes of College Life" at the library desk.

Three freshmen were observed at the matinee Monday sitting right in the front row. It seems as though the boys had been here long enough now to be able to control their curiosity and sit with the grown ups. Remember when you fought for a seat in the front row back in the town hall?

There are two more meetings of the Bible study groups. If everybody attends these it will raise the average.

Something almost started on the campus, but it was soon squelched when the proper authorities were consulted. But it's slowly coming. We're building for a generation of the near future.

The present Student Board publishes one more issue. We are not prepared to state what the future policy of the paper will be. It depends on what you demand.

One of our debators informs a rookie that there is one issue upon which both sides will agree. Some Issue.

This petty thieving has begun again. It's a disgrace to have an item like that in the paper—but its the truth. WE may have to resort to the lynch law to stop it, but it can be done.

SYSTEM

The pupils of the North Chester Academy called their principal "Sys" Ellison. It was not that he was a sissy; quite the contrary, for he was a tall strongly-built young man with only one feature,—eyes of a detached impersonal brown—to distinguished him from the average college graduate of a few years' standing. "Sys" was an abbreviation for "System," and "System" was an appropriate name for Fredwith Ellison. "Let us get the business in order and systematize it," was his favorite expression. Extensive card catalogs were a hobby with him. His room was lined with neatly-indexed cabinets of drawers for the catalogs. Whether in school or out, whether in matters social, moral, or political, public, or personal, he tried to reduce everything to a system.

Even in his treatment of the fair sex Ellison was systematic. It was a standing joke among the young ladies of the town, who were probably rather piqued at his indifference to their efforts at friendliness, that he invariably escaped conversation by an unchangeable formula. If any bold damsel ventured a remark other than the conventionalities of "how do you do" and the weather, a slightly worried look would chase the impersonal expression from his eyes, he would look at his watch, fumble in his vestpocket, bring out a neat leather-bound note book, and murmur, as he bowed away, "Excuse me, please! I find I have a very pressing engagement.'

This was all Cicely Raymond knew of Fredwith Ellison when she was called in her professionl capacity to nurse the young man's mother.

After a week at the Ellison's, Cicely had gleaned a few more facts concerning the orderliness of the mental and material objects of the young principal. Every day he came to see his mother at 7.50, 12.10, 4.15, and 6.35. He bade her good-night at 7.50 P.M., and requested Miss Raymond to call him in case of need. He worked in his study till 10.30, then allowed till 10.45 for bath and retiring.

One afternoon as he entered the sick-room, Cicely was busy with pencil and paper. "How's mother today?" he asked.

'I'm just making out the chart," answered the nurse. "Now you can see for yourself." She pointed to the jagged lines of the chart. "Her temperature is lower, her pulse is better, you see, and she has taken more nourishment."

"Do you write it all down on the chart every day?" he asked with evident interest. "Yes, indeed. In the hospital we are obliged to learn this system, and it's very Cicely's eyes danced as she slightly emphasized the word "system," and Ellison, not seeing the mischief written there, began eagerly, "That's just it, Miss Raymond! A system is convenient You have all about a subject right at your finger's ends, and you don't have to hunt from Dan to Beersheba after it. Now I, ——'' He stopped.

"Yes?" she asked encouragingly.

Fredwith Ellison took out his watch and his notebook. "Excuse me, please," he murmured. "I find I have a very pressing engagement. But my time is not taken from seven to eight this evening. Shall we continue our conversation then?"

Cicely picked up a neat little notebook from the side table. "Very well," she said as he wrote in the book," from seven to seven-fifteen."

"In the living-room," he said as he went out.

The nurse smiled to herself as she looked at the writing, "7.00-7.15, F. Ellison." the hitherto blank book, and said demurely, "If he so admires method, it will be rather amusing to indulge His Systematic High-

As the clock struck seven, the two, coming from different directions, entered the living-

"You are prompt, Miss Raymond."

"And you also, Mr. Ellison."

"Yes, I'm always prompt. I believe in system. You may have noticed that since you have been here."

Cicely felt that the statement was an interrogation, so she replied, "Yes, I have noticed it, of course, but I knew it before. My cousin told me of the nickname you have gained by your orderly spirit.'' Ellison laughed a little. "It is rather amusing, isn't it? But I don't mind, since I know that it means a compliment. If "Sys" stood for "sissy," I should object, decid-Cicely spoke quietly. "No one who had ever seen you would think that "sissy" meant, Mr. Ellison.

"This reducing everything to a system may be a hobby," he began in defense of his methodical ways, "but as long as it's a good one, safe and sane, and is always a help, I don't intend to give it up. You haven't any idea how convenient,-Well, yes, you have some idea of it, of course. I remember that you had a chart of my mother's progress and a notebook for engagements. Do you have anything else of the sort?"

"Oh, at home I have a card catalog of recipes. It certainly is the best way. The cards keep clean, and the recipes are easy to find, and it holds any amount of recipes, you know."

"I have a good many card catalogs, too," he informed her. "I have one about my friends. It comes in very handy sometimes. Every new friend worth while goes in my catalog. By the way, would you be willing to fill out this card for me when you have leisure?

As Cicely took the printed slip, she felt that her self-control was going rapidly, and she turned away a moment to hide her smile. This was what she might have expected. Then she spoke rather gravely. "Your mother asked me to bring you to her," she said. "Will you come now?

In the quiet of her room, Cicely looked at the card which Mr. Ellison had handed to her. "In anyone else I should call it impertinent," she thought, "but 'Sys' Ellison never meant it to be." She smiled again as she read it, and filled it out carefully and conscientiously.

Name—Cicely Anne Raymond.

Occupation-Nurse.

Residence—Boston, Mass.

Place and Date of Birth-Unity, Maine, Aug. 10, 1892.

Religious Preference—Universalist.

Father's Name—Edward Sill Raymond (deceased).

Father's Occupation—Farmer.

Mother's Maiden Name-Cicely Stewart. Remarks-Written Aug. 4, 1914.

You ought to make out a card for me, too, she remarked laughingly, a few days after she ha dreturned hers. "It's hardly fair to have all the information on your side."

Gravely he took a card from his vestpocket. "I thought of it last night. Here is one I've written about myself." Without re-reading it, he handed his card to the nurse, who read, to her great astonishment:

August 10. 7.00-7.30 P.M.

Inquire about patient. I.

П. Offer birthday congratulations.

Thanks for care. III.

Propose.

V. Give ring.

VI. Embrace.

Her face flushed scarlet as she realized that this was the day, her birthday, and that it was nearly seven o'clock now. She looked for a chance to escape, but there was none. Fredwith Ellison's broad shoulders seemed to fill the single doorway. If only she could give some excuse! Her voice sounded strange to her, almost panicky.

"I must go now. Your mother will be wanting me.

"How does she seem, Miss Raymond?

Better every day?

'Yes, indeed, Mr. Ellison. Really I'm not needed any longer. In fact, I plan to go to my cousin's to-morrow,-you know Marion Raymond, here in town,—and back to Boston next week.'

"What a pleasant coincidence!" he said in mild surprise. "I have business there next week, too. We can go together." He did not notice the flush on Cicely's cheeks, but went on in a business-like tone, "This is your birthday, I saw by your card. Let me offer my congratulations and best wishes." He held out his big hand and clasped her strong 'Many happy returns of the slim fingers. day, my dear."

She spoke mechanically. "It has been a very pleasant day, thank you. Now I must go to your mother."

"Wait a moment," he urged rapidly. "I have something important to say.

She longed to escape, but no miraculous way opened for her, and he still held her hand in his strong grasp as he continued more slowly. "You've been very kind to mother, and I want you to know I'm grateful. I never saw a girl so careful and tender and systematic. I never before saw a girl I wanted to live with, or could live with comfortably."

She tried to draw away her hand, but he appeared to be unconscious of the fact, and went on, "I'm sure we could get along beautifully together, we agree so well. When we go to Boston, will you go with me to the house of a friend of mine, a minister, and let him marry us?"

He dropped her hand now, and felt for something in his pocket,—not his watch this time, Cicely knew. She remembered the next number on the schedule. He had it all prepared beforehand. So cocksure! She would show him that "the best-laid plans gang aft a-gley.

"Just wait a minute," she said decisively.
"You're working out your system now, aren't vou?"

"Wh-wh-what do you mean?"

"You had this all down in black and white, this business of a proposal. On a card. Roman numerals I, II, III, etc. Didn't you?'

"Y-yes. But how did you know?"

"You handed me the wrong card," she answered drily "So I know what to expect unless I interrupt. But I'm going to interrupt. No, don't talk please, Let me finish my part first.

'''You're asking me to marry you, but you don't offer or ask for the one thing most necessary. You don't say a word about love. It's all system, or mere convenience. We'd be compatible, because we each keep a notebook, forsooth!"

He was silent under the scorn in her voice and her eyes.

"You have no heart, I think, to put so sacred a yow as marriage on a basis so cold and calculating. I will not marry you. You don't know what love is!" She was at the door now, and turned back to face him a moment more. "But-if you had really loved me," she faltered, "I think-I could have learned-to care-for you." At the last words, with blazing cheeks, Cicely fled up the broad stairway to her quiet chamber.

For the rest of her stay, she avoided Ellison diligently, and succeeded in never being left alone with him, but from his dazed expression she judged that the shock had been great at the defection of his system.
"I hope it will do him good," she thought benevolently, when she was leaving North Chester. She did not hear a word from him, however, until her cousin, Marion, came from the little town to visit her.

"Cicely Anne Raymond," Marion asked with solemn earnestness, "whatever did you do to Sys Ellison? He hasn't been the same man since!"

"Why, what's the matter?" inquired

Cicely in vague but real alarm.

"Oh, well, nothing much," her cousin drawled sarcastically, "only he's taken a correspondence course in memory training, leaves all his notebooks at home, and he's become simply an incorrigible flirt!'

STORM

Swirling madly, fiercely white, Fighting, tearing, thru black night Sweeps the storm.

Inside before the cheering blaze I sit and watch the blurring haze Of Nature rampant.

The screaming voice without, sounds pitch; My spirit taut and white keeps tune As true and high as the last fine string Upon the violin.

White hate seethes thru the black despair; My thots uprear in fear, and tear Wheeling in fury impotent Against the cold hard glass Of Lost Hope.

The storm has passed. The sun slips up to view

The earth in bridal veil of white. Hope comes to woo.

The fury of last night were never guessed. Chill is the room, the ashes cold and gray That last night warmed me;

My body stiff and cramped from unaccustomed pose.

And yet my heart is glad and sings in tune As Nature gives the pitch and pipes the dance.

Hope comes again in old prophetic-rune: I read the cipher and accept the chance. -Kennedy

EDITORIAL

This is the valedictory issue of the present editorial board. The history of another year in the annals of the Bates Student is written. In retrospection there are some marks of success in the development of plans; there are many instances of unattained ideals. The year has passed rapidly and the end has come all too soon. We are glad to have contributed to the work of the college paper. The problem of determining the material that should fill our limited space is not easy. We have tried to give each week those things which seemed most essential in our life together. Our opinions may not have agreed with the ideas of all, nevertheless we have endeavored to faithfully discharge the obligations we have felt due to the supporters of the paper.

The policy this year has been based upon the demands for college news. Limited space has made impossible the proper presentation of literary articles of any length. A few years ago the activities and interests of the college students were much more confined and the scope of the college work more limited. At that time the monthly literary paper of the college fulfilled the requirements. It accomplished its purpose and responded most satisfactorily to the needs and sentiments of the students. Today it is necessary for the college paper to act as a medium connecting numerous varied fields of activity, and giving to the students at large the essentials of the entire college life. Were unlimited resources ours, we would most assuredly advocate certain additions, but considering existing conditions the demand of the college now, if we understand it correctly, is for a live newspaper. We hope that soon the Bates Student will become such.

There are a great many opportunities for utilizing the increased space made possible, by such a paper. We feel strongly the need of placing more emphasis on the work accomplished by many of our societies. The scientific societies often have papers presented that would be of great interest to many who are not fortunate enough to be enrolled as members. Frequently there are most excellent lectures given in connection with the college that should be recorded in detail. This becomes especially desirable when these lectures deal with subjects in any way affiliated with our debating work. Another very interesting department which we wish might be introduced is a correspondence column. Here the graduates who are meeting life's problems could pass on a message to those now in college. proper direction and solicitation nearly all the phases of graduate activities could be presented.

The retiring board wish to thank all those who have in any way contributed to the year's work. Several alumni have voluntarily assisted us. Very few alumni names, however, adorn the subscription list. Manager McCann deserves much commendation for his unceasing efforts in the discharge of his office. Successful management is by no means a small problem.

To those who are to continue the work of the Bates Student we extend our most hearty wishes for a successful year. In spite of the effort required and the hours spent in the work, there is that sense of gratification which comes with the knowledge that one is vitally connected with the institution that bears a weekly message to every student. Our word to the incoming board is well expressed in the thought of the father for his son.

"Be his more gentle where my feet too deeply trod, and where I faltered may his step be firm."

We notice from an announcement of the past week that Harvard has entered the movement for preparedness and that a course in military science is to be added to the curriculum. This will be supplemented by military drill, and twelve hundred students have already responded to a call for candidates for drill instruction.

In several previous issues of the STU-DENT the question of military science at Bates has been mentioned. With the developments of the past months in Europe, there has come to this country what might be termed a revival of thinking upon military subjects. The average college student has never before realized how closely this matter is related to the affairs of life. The demands of the citizen upon his country for protection, and the relation of each individual in providing that protection are being stated in terms of active life. When the college men vividly realize that the ideas holding sway today must vitally affect and perhaps determine the character and the policy of the nation which soon must be their charge, they should most emphatically demand, and rightly so, that no risks be taken, for which some day they may be called upon to pay dearly. On this basis college men should demand preparedness-that sort of preparedness which centers about the great American ideal of Freedom and Democracy.

It has been suggested that Bates men should not be passive in this matter but should come out into real action. If twelve hundred men are ready to come out for drill practice at Harvard, why not a hundred men at Bates? If this question is really worth while, if it means anything to the individual—to the nation, we are duty bound to consider it.

DR. BRECK

Dr. Edward Breek, field secretary of the Navy League of the United States, addressed the College Saturday night, in Hathorn Hall, on the subject "Our Navy and What it Means." The lecture was illustrated by a number of excellent views, designed to bring out past and present weaknesses in our navy, and to show the splendid progress which has been made.

The League which Dr. Breck represents is not a new organization, but has been in operation nearly 15 years. The ultimate purpose of the League is to secure peace, and in such efforts for peace as the last Hague Peace Conference, it has always taken an earnest and active part.

As means to this end, the League is now attempting to bring before the citizens of the country the importance of the army and navy, as the "best and cheapest insurance against war."

The League holds that there is an imperative need of improvement in our navy in order to raise it to the position of second in the world; and for the building of battle cruisers which we lack entirely. It also considers an American merchant marine necessary, for the saving of the millions paid to foreigners for transporting our merchandise.

In discussing our need of a strong navy, Dr. Breck spoke of our responsibility in connection with the Monroe Doctrine; our agreement in regard to the freedom and neutrality of the Panama Canal; our need for the continuation of the "open door in China"; and our difficulty in protecting our many thousand miles of coastline. He recalled Mr. Choate's suggestion of the probability that our policies along these lines may be put to the test after the war.

Christianity is not opposed to preparedness. On the contrary, it is gambling, of the lowest and most immoral kind, to take chances where the safety and welfare of the country are concerned.

Who knows how many hours till College closes? "Ask me", says the Freshman.

A Striking Fact in Life Insurance Annals

Ten years ago the Company announced to its members, as a part of its service to them, a remarkable feature of administration; viz., that it had returned to them, and to their beneficiaries, more than it had received in premiums. The Company still holds that unique record, which no other company has had in its own experience; and its value and interest cannot be neutralized by misleading, competitive statistics.

THESE ARE THE FIGURES OF THE SIXTY-NINE YEARS:

BEN GREET PLAYERS

Those who did not see the Ben Greet Players certainly missed a privilege and a great pleasure. It was a reminder of the time when "Much Ado About Nothing" was written, when scenery was poor and scanty, but dramatic art was far above its present average. After all, is not drama for the purpose of developing our imagination as well as amusing us and satisfying our taste? If this be true, the modern plays, augmented by elaborate scenery, may not be so vastly superior to Elizabethan drama, with its excellently trained actors.

DEBATING TEAMS FOR BATES-TUFTS-CLARK TRIANGULAR LEAGUE

A set of debates to determine those out of the number of students previously selected who should represent Bates in debating this year was held Saturday afternoon. The following men received letters Monday announcing their success: Mervin Ames, '19, Charles Chayer, '17, Julian Coleman, '18, Arthur Dyer, '17, Brooks Quimby, '18, Arthur Purinton, '17, Don Stimpson, '18, Kenneth Wilson, '17.

These men will debate next Saturday to determine the speakers and the alternates on the two teams that Bates will have this year in the Bates-Clark-Tufts Triangular Debating League. Probably these debates will be open to the students to attend, and if so, it will be well worth one's while to listen to the arguments. Announcement concerning this will be made later.

The arrangement of teams for these debates will be:

Affirmative, Ames and Quimby vs Chayer and Coleman.

Affirmative, Purinton and Stimpson vs

Dyer and Wilson.

The trial debates this year were well contested and prepared. That the standard of debating at Bates is growing more and more difficult of attainment is shown by the fact that not a single Senior was able to make the teams. The material is very promising this year and the fight for positions on the teams as speakers is sure to be close as only the speakers will be entitled to membership in the Delta Sigma Rho.

Although Chayer and Quimby are the only men who have represented Bates before, all the men have had experience, either in debating or in public speaking. Ames, who has brought great honor to his class by his work, is also an experienced man. He has debated several times for his preparatory school in the Bates Interscholastic League.

CHAPEL NOTES

Bates students, whether they realize it or not, have a real privilege in listening to the talks by Professors in Chapel. The thoughts which Dr. Tubbs presented one day last week seem especially helpful to college men as they strive to solve their problems. In brief, the thought was as follows:

Fifty years ago religious questions presented a far different aspect to the college student than they do to-day. In the first place, colleges at that time were nearly all sectarian, and the student went to that college which professed the sect to which he belonged. There was little or no real exchange of independent thought.

On the other hand, interchange of thought that is more or less conflicting is frequent among the thinking class of students today. In this class many sects are represented; Catholic and Protestant, Trinitarian and Unitarian all are invited to come together. Certain fundamental principles are found to be in common, and other things are found to differ widely.

Such intercourse encourages individual thinking and leads to independent conceptions of God and religion. We are told in the Bible to love God not only with our hearts and souls, but also with our minds, and to have reason for our faith. No thoughtful and honest person can accept a faith contrary to his reason, though our faith may extend far beyond our reason as long as it does not go in a direction not allowed by reason. Since reasoning in such matters must necessarily be a personal affair, the result is that having arrived at our convictions through our own efforts, no two of us worship the same God, any more than we can have exactly coincident conceptions of anything else. We have, then, no right to impose our religion on others, and certainly we should be careful that no one imposes their religion on us, depriving us of what is perhaps our most precious human heritage. On this broad unsectarian basis Bates stands, and may all understand and appreciate the significance of this fact. May we encourage and increase the interchange of personal religious thought, always keeping our temper in control, and practice together those fundamental things in which all can agree.

Y. W. C. A.

Last Wednesday evening, the Y. W. C. A. held their annual informal Christmas Meeting. Misses Harding, '16, and Farnsworth, '17, told the Xmas stories. Appropriate music was furnished by Miss Maud Murphy,

'16, and by the Girls' Glee Club.

Mention has previously been made of the many branches of work carried on by our girls in the Y. W. C. A., but nothing heretofore about the "town committee" which indeed, is a comparatively new department. This time, however, it is this very committee in co-operation with all the girls living outside the dormitories that is arousing much interest lately in a new enterprise. This is the remodeling and improvement of the socalled "Girls' Rest Room" in Hathorne Hall. Already, many repairs are underway, and others are to begin soon. The funds for this project have been raised thus far by the selling of "Uncle Johnny" bookmarks, which are now so commonly seen on our campus. A play is to be put on later to further this same purpose. Helpful assistance and support have already been given by faculty, students, and alumni of the college, and are much appreciated by those primarily interested in the enterprise.

Don't forget to talk up Silver Bay when you're at home Christmas. There's nothing like beginning early you know.

Invitations are out to the Faculty Ladies and college girls to attend a towel shower and Christmas tea for the Children's Home. Remember the date Friday, December 17; the place Fiske Hall; and your gift. The Social Service Committee want to see everyone there; will you come for an hour to help make some one else's Christmas a happy one?

THE FIREPLACE CLUB

Friends of the Fireplace Club will be pleased to know that this society has been reorganized this year under practically the same ideals and purposes as before; namely, the construction of a fireplace for Fiske Room, Rand Hall. The officers as elected for the remainder of the year are: president, Amy Hayden, '16; vice-president, Agnes Burnett, '17; secretary-treasurer, Ruth Dresser, '18, and senior member of the executive board, Agnes Thompson, '16. This society has already a good percentage of the funds necessary for carrying out their enterprise, and hopes by various means to earn enough to make its completion possible by the end of the year.

Friday evening, December 17, the Girls' Literary Societies will hold their regular meetings in Libbey Forum. Let each person remember that we need a good lot of enthusiasm to wind up the society work in the best of shape before vacation time.

Volley ball games Saturday afternoon. All out! Girls! and help your class win the banner.

Thursday evening, December 16, at 7.15, the "Deutscher Verein" and the "Deutsche Gesellschaft" will hold a joint meeting in Libbey Forum. It is to take the form of a Tannhauser musical evening, and will consist of several short talks on Tannhauser, and of appropriate music under the direction of Miss Marguerite Girouard. This is the last meeting of either society before the holidays, and is expected to be a most interesting one.

Last Thursday afternoon, Mrs. R. A. Mc-Donald delightfully entertained another group of Senior girls at her home on Nichols Street. The girls have thoroughly enjoyed these informal affairs, and appreciate her kindness in inviting them to her home.

PERSONALS

Prof. Robinson spent Friday in Portland.

Mr. Hinton, '17, has recently organized a Boy's Club at the Main Street Free Baptist Church.

Prof. Coleman preached at Hebron Academy last Sunday.

Professor Robinson announces that selections for the Freshmen Declamations must be chosen and approved by December 22.

Harry W. Rowe spent Friday at Princeton University. He was a guest of the Philadelphia Society during the last day of the Robins-Childs Campaign. On Saturday he was in attendance in New York at a meeting of Representatives of Eastern Institutions which are to have similar campaign after the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Robins and Mr. Childs will be at Bates

College April 11-13, 1916.

"A jolly good time" was the unanimous decision of the Juniors after their class party last Friday night. The gymnasium was cosily decorated with banners, couches, and screens, and 1917 was out in full force with Dr. and Mrs. McDonald as chaperones. Various games were enjoyed, one of the most popular being a series of forfeits, cleverly presided over by Mr. Lane. Much merriment was occasioned when the boys were obliged to make the fudge, but "they say" it was good. Refreshments of ice cream The crean served, and the evening with singing.

(Pheernant Max.) and cookies were served, and the evening

Last chance—Have got to make it a good one this time.

Chef Kiersted and the management of the Commons have been working for some time on a plan to better accommodate the patrons of the Commons especially the Seniors, whom they feel should be slightly favored in view of the fact that they have suffered for three years while the others have been victims for a shorter period. This plan ought to help out if it is taken advantage of by a sufficiently large number. The plan will go into effect immediately after Christmas. The dinning room will be open to accommodate Seniors from 11-45 to 12-30 with the exception of the time between 12-05 and 12-10 when it will be closed to everyone. Meals will be served the other classes at the regular hours.

The election of Football manager was attended this year by unusual interest due to the political activities of the supporters of the two candidates. The interest shown was certainly commendable, and the methods used equally as shameful. It seems too bad that the practises which are tending to destroy our nation can't be kept out of a school election. We were bound to have a good manager either way the election turned, the men should have been left to vote as they chose.

The skating pond will be ready for use as soon as there is some water on it and it has a chance to freeze. Mr. Andrews will have the fire department come up and flood it, if the Athletic association will keep the visitors off until it is ready for use. Here is an opportunity for the A. A. to exercise its Police Power.

The Juniors must have had a good party. To fill up that hungry crowd of men and then gather up the remnants to the extent of several baskets full was some stunt. You see some of the Senior men were remembered—one in particular—That explains how the fact that the women of 1917 are good confectioners happened to be observed.

Time was when the class of 1916 was honored and respected by the entire student body. Even when we were Freshmen we were to be reckoned with. Now-how marvelously changed. Two men made a Football "B" this fall; we lost the inter-class Football game; girls lost Hockey championship; no candidate on the debating squad; smallest number of men taking track work of any class. What's the trouble? Can't we finish strong? Or do we surrender the belt?

The Sunday Leader is being published again, and last Sunday it contained a whole column boosting Bates. This is so unusual for a Lewiston paper that it deserves mention. You remember that the Leader always pulled for Bates. If they continue this policy—why don't we do something about it? Let's all buy a Leader next Sunday, and hang it up on the hook that belongs to "Maine's greatest newspaper."

Observations

The Seniors act like kids in chapel.

The other classes act a little worse. Coach Art Smith of U. of M. is going 3.

4. Parker Hall has waited for its Mail Boxes ten weeks.

5. The telephone bells in Parker Hall have been out of order for two years.

6. 1917 has called for Hockey candidates.

7. Dr. Breck's lecture was well attended and much enjoyed.

8. Regular track work began on the boards Monday.

Good luck to the Student.

Dr. Tubbs has been appointed lecturer of the American Defense Society of New York. This society is the strongest of the kind in America outside the Navy League. Dr. Tubbs was recommended for the position by President Chase.

Dr. Britan has invited his Bible class to meet at his home for the last session next Monday evening. Now will anybody be sorry that they did not join a class? Mrs. Britan joins in the invitation and promises something more to be sought after than spiritual food.

ENKUKLIOS

A very pleasant occasion took place in Fiske Room last Saturday afternoon when Enkuklios gave an informal reception and tea in honor of the Lewiston and Auburn Alumnae of the College. In the receiving line were Dean Buswell, Miss Craighead, Miss Kane, president of Enkuklios, and Miss Googins, chairman of the executive committee. Music was furnished by Misses Murphy, Thompson, Shapleigh, and Chapman. Refreshments were served, Miss Hodnett presiding at the tea-table, assisted by Misses Bradbury, Cummings, Stevens, Reed, Tarbell, Place and others.

`~~~~

The Alumni Editor wishes to thank most heartily the alumni who have so kindly sent items for the column. Since the success of the Alumni Notes is dependent on the amount of material contributed, we hope that next year the support will be even more generous.

1868—President Chase addressed the recent State Dairyman's Association meeting at the Lewiston City Hall. His subject was "Old and New." On January 7 he is to speak on "The New Woman" before the Social Center Club of Glen Cove, Maine. President Aley of University of Maine, recently gave an address to the same society.

1882—On Wednesday, December 8, in St. Paul, Minn., occurred the sudden death of Benjamin G. Eaton, a loyal Bates graduate. For twenty-five years Mr. Eaton was principal of the St. Paul grade schools and for twenty-one years head of the Hendricks School. A conscientious, progressive man, he was instrumental in advancing the usefulness of his schools thru organized activities: the Boy Scouts, of whom he was Scout Master, athletics, gymnasium, school libraries, and school gardens. He was much interested in the Y. M. C. A. and other religious work. Bates loses a firm friend by the death of Mr. Eaton, and extends much sympathy to the family.

1887—At the meeting of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association, Frank W. Chase (Bates 1887) was honored by being re-elected president. Fred A. Plummer, Bates '91, was re-elected secretary of the association.

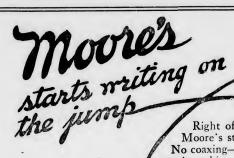

1888—Rev. S. H. Woodrow, D.D., pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church of St. Louis, a graduate of Bates in 1888, and President Faunce of Brown University are to be the two speakers at the New England Society of St. Louis, on Forefathers' Day. Dr. Woodrow's subject is "The Influence of the New England College in the Middle West."

1890—Dr. H. B. Davis is the head of the Pittsburgh, Pa., Training School. The 200 young women now attending this school are being prepared for work as teachers in the Pittsburgh schools.

1891—Wm. F. Ham, formerly a member of '91, is Vice-President and Comptroller of the Washington, D. C., Railway and Electric Company.

1893—The Bartlett Agricultural and Industrial School, at Dalton, Missouri, of which Nathaniel C. Bruce, Bates '93, is principal, was awarded by the Panama-Pacific International Exposition a medal, as the champion corn-grower of Missouri. This is the only "Country Life" school for Missouri and Western States for colored people. "It aims to teach by example the dignity of labor—the happiness of service and the true value of Moral and Physical Cleanliness."

1895—Dr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Bolster have a daughter, born three weeks ago.
